of Concern...

The 1969-70 academic year is over, the class of 1970 has departed, and those of us who are affiliated with Morningside College reflect upon what has been one of the most interesting years in the College's history.

We have inaugurated a new president, celebrated the 75th anniversary, dedicated a computer center, and weathered the nationwide storm of student protest over Indo-China.

Much of the action has taken place since the last Morningsider was published. We have tried to recap all of it for you in this edition, and to do the job, we have called upon two students to write about events that students organized and operated.

Miss Dar Berkenpas, who was editor of the Collegian Reporter during the school year, writes about the reaction of Morningside students to President Nixon's move into Cambodia and the deaths of the students at Kent State University during a student protest. I think you will find Miss Berkenpas' story interesting and reflective of the concern our students are showing over the great issues.

Miss Marty Steele was in charge of publicity for the Drug Seminar—a most successful student venture. Her story tells of the happenings and the results.

Of course, the real highlight of the year was the inauguration of Dr. Thompson, an event carried out with style and dignity under the direction of Dr. Raymond Nelson, professor of English and chairman of the inaugural committee. This issue also carries an account of that exciting weekend.

The year was capped by the graduation of one of the finest groups of scholars ever to attend Morningside. The class of '70 is unusually gifted with qualities of scholarship and leadership. Its members will make some significant contributions in their chosen fields.

In mentioning high points of the 1970-71 year, we cannot overlook the reunion of the class of '20. They are an energetic and enthusiastic group. Their participation in the Alumni Days and commencement week activities was another feature of the 75th year of Morningside.

It's been a good year, and we hope you enjoy reading about it in these pages.

Commencement '70

The Class of 1970, described by Dean Glen Rasmussen as "perhaps the finest group of scholars ever to graduate from Morningside College," received diplomas during commencement exercises held in Sioux City's Grandview Park on the afternoon of May 24. Nearly twenty-five per cent of the class of 218 members received their degrees with honors.

Four honorary degrees were conferred by President Thompson. They were awarded to Major General George Irving Back of St. Petersburg, Fla.; Reverend J. Roland Crandall of Ottumwa, Ia.; Henry H. Hudson of Titusville, Fla., and Dr. James Avery Joyce of New York City and London.

General Back is a 1921 graduate of Morningside who retired from the United States Army in 1955 after a distinguished 38-year career as an electronics specialist in the military. During his service career, General Back was chief signal officer for the Army and served as vice president of the Armed Forces Communications Electronics Association. From 1955 to 1968, General Back was associated with the International Resistance Company as assistant to the president and later as a member of the board of directors.

Rev. Crandall's career encompasses both the pastoral ministry and public school teaching. A graduate of Simpson College, Rev. Crandall taught music in Iowa schools from 1938 to 1944 prior to entering Garrett Theological Seminary where he received his B. D. degree. He later served Methodist churches in Des Moines, Shenandoah, Fairfield and

The Inaugural Weekend

Saturday, April 25, was a historic day in the life of Morningside College—the day when Dr. Thomas S. Thompson was inaugurated as Morningside's ninth president.

Balmy weather greeted the many delegates of colleges, universities and learned societies from across the country as they began the colorful procession from the Jacobsen Computer Center. The line of march took them to Garretson Street and then into Eppley Auditorium where the inaugural program was held.

Dr. Thompson was invested in the office of the presidency by Leon Hickman, chairman of Morningside's Board of Directors.

In his inaugural address Dr. Thompson called for Morningside and all of higher education to be innovative leaders in the formation of needed changes. "Educated man can and should be the vanguard in the formulation of inevitable change through orderly process," he said. "Educated man with all the knowledge and know-how at his command needs not be a victim of change by revolutionary means. He should share in the molding of solutions before confrontations are necessary."

Most needed in our efforts to institute change, the new president said, is compassion for the needs and aspirations of people of other nations, other creeds, and other ethnic backgrounds. "The seventies will certainly reveal that caring deeply for others is now as necessary as food, air and water," he said. "A deeply compassionate person, tuned to mankind's common wave length, can't hurt other people, poison the planet, destroy what is beautiful."

Dr. Thompson called for a close working relationship between the College and the business community. "Business and education should weld a partnership which serves to advance mutual service to each other," he said. "Let each of us open our doors, let us have dialogues and visits, and let us exchange ideas and examine goals."

Relating his belief in a more personalized education, Dr. Thompson said: "We, faculty and administration, must be ever mindful that we can do our work best when we talk with students and when we listen and understand their needs and aspirations. There is no substitute for honest, open, person-to-person talk."

In stating Morningside's continued interest in developing the complete person, Dr. Thompson said, "I believe that values must be taught, and our educational programs to be complete must give concern to man's spiritual development. Strengthening and guidance of man's faith is an accepted objective of this church-related college."

Dr. Thompson's first official act after receiving the charge of his office was the conferring of an honorary Doctor of Canon Law degree upon Dr. Donald Harvey Tippet of Berkeley, Calif. Dr. Tippet is the retired bishop of the California-Nevada Area of the United Methodist Church and longtime personal friend of Dr. Thompson.

Brief congratulatory remarks were also made at the ceremonies by Dr. Samuel L. Meyer, president of Ohio Northern University; Dr. Roger E. Russell, Superintendent of the Des Moines District of the United Methodist Church; Paul A. Berger, mayor of Sioux City; Charles Ellison of Sioux City, president of the Morningside Alumni Association; Dr. Russell M. Eidsmoe, Chairman of Morningside's division of social sciences, and James Walker, Morningside student body president for the 1969-70 school year.

The formal ceremonies were followed by a reception for the new president under the auspices of the Alumni Association. Citations declaring the best wishes of colleges and universities from across the nation were on display at the reception.

Also included in the full schedule of activities for the inaugural weekend were a music and fine arts festival dedicated to President Thompson, a luncheon for the delegates and representatives and a special student dinner in honor of the new president.

The eighth president of Morningside, Dr. J. Richard Palmer, attended the festivities and was given special recognition during the inaugural ceremonies. Dr. Robert O'Brien, president of Morningside from 1931 to 1936, had planned to attend but was unable to appear because of other commitments.

The co-ordination of activities during the inaugural weekend was accomplished by a committee comprised of students, faculty members, administrators of the College, members of the board of directors, alumni, and the community. The general chairman of the committee was Dr. Raymond Nelson, chairman of Morningside's Division of Humanities.

Sports Recap

by George Ellis,
Sports Information Director

Morningside athletes completed a successful spring sports season with a North Central Conference track championship and a closing string of victories in an otherwise wet baseball season.

TRACK

High jumper Bill Kirchwehm was the big name in Morningside track during the 1970 outdoor season. "Leaping Willie" as he has been named, captured the North Central crown in a pressure-packed dual with Mankato State's Mike Hazelhoff, the 1970 Indoor Champion.

Bill Kirchwehm

Kirchwehm shared the NCC indoor record with Hazelhoff this winter, with each going 6-8 but the Mankato star gaining the gold medal on fewer misses. It was a different story in the outdoor event as Kirchwehm soared to 6-9 to win. One week later, Bill won the NCAA regional high jump and will compete in the NAIA national meet in Billings, Montana, and the NCAA College Division meet in Minneapolis, Minnesota, in June.

Freshman Mickey Everett established a new school record in the 440-yard dash with a 49.0 clocking. Everett, Kirchwehm, sprinter Dick Keith, and the 440-yard relay team of Mike Junck, Keith, Everett, and Greg Stauffer all qualified for the NCAA national meet and will compete.

Morningside finished 6th in the NCC meet with 18 points as Keith finished 3rd in the 100, Steve Jones 3rd in the pole vault, and Scott Harding third in the high jump.

BASEBALL

The 1970 Morningside College baseball Chiefs closed their 15th season under head coach Don Protexter with an 8-10 season chart and a 5-9 North Central Conference record.

The Chiefs started the season with a pair of 5-4 victories over Kansas State Teachers at Emporia, a team that later moved on to win its NAIA District Championship and then moved to the regionals. Following a loss to Oral Roberts University, the Chiefs saw their next five games of a southern swing into Kansas and Oklahoma rained out.

The Chiefs returned home to see a 3-game NCC series with the University of North Dakota washed out for a series of eight consecutive rained-out games.

Morningside opened its NCC slate with a losing series against defending Co-Champions, North Dakota State Bison. A 4-hitter by Ron Brenner was to no avail in the opener as the Chiefs gave the Bison two unearned runs and a 2-1 victory.

Brenner was tabbed as a hard-luck pitcher against Mankato as he blanked the undefeated Indians on five hits for 10 innings before bowing out. The Chiefs lost 2-0 in 13 innings. Two games of the set were rained out.

Morningside won a 7-3 victory over Northern Iowa behind the strong pitching of freshman Dave Andros. UNI won the last two games of the series. Andros came back several days later to hit a 9th inning home run with two men on to give the Chiefs a 7-4 win over Westmar.

After a double-header loss to Augustana, the Chiefs finally started to put their game together, winning four of their last five contests with timely hitting and overpowering pitching. The Chiefs took two games from defending NCC co-champions South Dakota State and swept a double header from the University of South Dakota. In that stretch, Brenner fired a four-hitter at the Jacks and shut out the Coyotes on a beautiful one-hit performance.

In the end, the Chiefs lost 12 scheduled contests to the rain.

The season was climaxed by the naming of Brenner and second baseman Greg Gill to the All-North Central Conference baseball team.

FOOTBALL

For the Chiefs, the 16th season under Coach Dewey Halford could be a good one.

Most of the key personnel from the explosive 1969 offensive unit return headed by Little All-American candidate Mike Junck. Junck smashed all the Morningside total offense records last season and was ranked 5th in the nation in total offense. The sophomore sensation was named to the honorable mention All-American team.

Running back Dave Bigler is back after a brilliant sophomore season and will be joined by Fort Dodge JC transfer Jim Harmsen. Harmsen was the starting fullback on the powerful Iowa team that won the Wool Bowl.

Slotback Steve Schroeder returns and the line boasts four starters including two ends, one tackle, and one guard. Letterman Ron O'Neal, a former Iowa All-State center, has been shifted from defense to the center position. Lettermen are in the bidding for the other guard and tackle spot.

Ten full-time or part-time starters are available on defense. End Tim Jackes (6-6, 230) and linebacker Ron Elder (215) appear to be the key men. Tackle Rusty Johns (265), linebackers Dave Sears and Mark Thiessen, backs Bill Mathers, Dick Keith, Joe Schmickle, and Mark Brosamle, and end Jerry Johnson are all veterans.

If the defensive unit combines into a solid unit, then the 1970 Chiefs will be the team to watch in the NCC. Morningside could be the team to unseat six-time defending NCC champion and national king, North Dakota State University.

Offensive guard Mark Renfro and Jackes were selected to co-captain the Morningside team.

Drug Seminar

by Marty Steele, '72

Editor's note . . .

The drug seminar, detailed in Miss Steele's story, was generally regarded as the finest student-operated event in Morningside's recent history. The author, a native of Wellman, Iowa, has just completed her sophomore year at Morningside. She is active in the drama department and was in charge of publicity for the 1969-70 play schedule.

Recognizing the growing emphasis on drugs in our culture (from sleeping pills to heroin), a group of Morningside students, faculty, and administrators began work last fall on a two-day Drug Seminar directed toward providing honest information about drugs to the college and to the Sioux City community. The seminar took place April 8 and 9 and featured Dr. Allan Cohen, associate professor of psychology at John F. Kennedy University and consulting psychologist at Berkeley, California, Dr. Phillip Levine of Drake University, and two youths from New York City's Encounter, Inc., the "Alcoholics Anonymous of drug users."

Donald Poppen, Dean of Students, termed the session "a total learning experience". He and the rest of the co-ordinating group headed by Jim Pease of Huron, South Dakota, and Jerry Oakland of Canton, South Dakota, did not approach the drug question from a moralistic or law enforcement angle. "In planning the seminar, we were not concerned with taking a stand on the drug issue," Poppen stated, "but were concerned instead with presenting the latest facts about drug usage."

Dr. Cohen presented the keynote address at a convocation on April 8 before an audience of college students and faculty. In this dynamic opening speech, Cohen stated that "drugs are not the real problem in our society, but rather, a symptom of the problem." He pointed out that our drug culture exists because Americans, especially students, are asking basic questions concerning the social value system in our country. "We are challenging the whole materialistic ethic . . . and are seeking 'better living through chemistry'."

Cohen continued by emphasizing the need for education in the area of drugs, especially concerning the psychedelic drugs—marijuana, hashish, LSD, amphetamines. In conclusion, Cohen observed that the youthful avant-garde are turning away from drugs and the current trend involves "turning on" to life through enhancement of consciousness.

Cohen, an expert in the field of both chemical and nonchemical mind expansion, studied at Harvard in the early 1960's under Dr. Timothy Leary and Dr. Richard Alpert. For three years Cohen was involved in psychedelic drug research with the two men, and he took LSD and other psychedelic drugs some twenty or thirty times. Cohen became disenchanted with the drug cult, however, and turned instead to the mysticism of the Indian spiritual master Meher Baba.

Dr. Phillip Levine of the College of Pharmacy at Drake University and consultant on drug abuse to Iowa Governor Robert Ray served as medical resource person for the seminar and moderator of a panel presentation by Dr. Cohen and Encounter, Inc.

The panel was presented on the evening of April 8 to Morningsiders, Sioux City high school students, and community groups. Dr. Cohen, along with "Jim" and "Pete," representatives of Encounter, Inc., told of their personal experiences with drugs and answered a number of questions from the audience. Drug information packets, including various pamphlets on drugs, were distributed that evening.

The second day's activities included a speech by a 20-year-old case worker who works with drug users and informal discussions between Morningsiders and the experts.

During the two-day seminar, books and pamphlets dealing with drugs were on display at the Commons and during the afternoons, a variety of drug films were shown continuously.

The planning committee was gratified by the overwhelming response to the seminar by both the students and the community. One student commented, "For two days, we in Sioux City were involved in a mind-blowing experience. By listening to and talking with Cohen, Levine and the Encounter representatives we got straight information on drugs and we got turned on to what drugs, life, and communication are all about. Now I feel as though I can make a responsible, informed decision on drug use." As a result of the Drug Seminar, a Youth Drug Project is being established in the Sioux City area by several Morningside students and community leaders.

*In the darkness with a great bundle of grief
the people march.
In the night, and overhead a shovel of stars for keeps, the people march;
"Where to? what next?"*

(Carl Sandburg, 1936 From, Yes.)

Where to? Cambodia. President Nixon's April 30th announcement to invade Cambodia in order to clean out the Viet Cong sanctuaries provoked a variety of reactions.

On many college campuses buildings were burned, bottles were hurled, marches were staged, shots were fired and the educational institutions were closed. In Congress, five senators drafted an amendment to cut off funds for the Southeast Asia war.

Thursday, May 7, at Morningside College marked a monumental day, as individual students and faculty members expressed their personal opinions about the Southeast Asia war during a 4-hour speak-in.

The student executive council, headed by President Ed Jacobson, called for a strike of classes May 7 in order to allow students to study and think about United States' involvement in the Indo-China war. However, it was estimated that only about 10 to 18 percent of the student body did not attend classes.

A teach-in was held that Thursday afternoon near Charles City Hall. History professor Gary Koerselman presented the history of the United States' entry and involvement in Vietnam. Dr. Robert Jewett, religion, discussed both the administration views and the anti-war people's ideas. Speaking in support of Nixon was Professor Vernon Thielmann, chemistry.

It was individuals participating... individuals who expressed their personal views in relation to the Indo-China war. Some speeches were emotional, some rational, some eloquent and most showed a concern for the United States. At times nearly 200 individuals stopped and listened.

A memorial service for the four Kent State students who were killed during anti-war demonstrations silenced nearly 130 individuals that evening. The bell tolled 20 times for each Kent student killed. As the folk song, "Where Have All the Flowers

Dialogue on Indo-China

by Dar Berkenpas, '71

Gone" ended with "Where have all the soldiers gone, gone to graveyards everyone," the bells of Grace Church rang as if to echo the grief felt for the Kent State Students.

May 7 was an enlightening, educational, self-asserting, peaceful day in the history of Morningside College. Individuals dared to learn about and object to United States' foreign policy.

On Friday, May 8, a march to the Federal Building in downtown Sioux City began at Morningside's campus. Students from Dordt, Westmar, the University of South Dakota, Briar Cliff, South Dakota State University, Yankton and Morningside participated. Approximately 75 individuals from Morningside College made the decision and walked in the peaceful, orderly march of nearly 400 persons.

All the objection to the Indo-China War did not occur this openly. Nearly 600 persons signed a petition in support of Amendment 609, which Iowa Senator Harold Hughes drafted along with four other senators.

The amendment would require withdrawal of all U. S. troops and aid from Cambodia within 30 days after passage of the law; a cutoff of all funds and operations in Laos by the end of the year as well as a cutoff of all funds for Vietnam except to facilitate the withdrawal of U. S. troops and exchange of prisoners and to provide asylum for refugees.

Dr. J. M. Miller, professor of history, spearheaded the effort to obtain signatures. The petitions were sent to Iowa senators Hughes, Jack Miller and 6th District Congressman Wiley Mayne.

Dr. Miller said that around 600 signatures were obtained while only about 70 percent of the student body was given a chance to sign the petitions.

A convocation May 14th featured a speaker who addressed himself to the Vietnam Conflict. David Schoenbrun, a noted journalist, writer and political analyst, came to Morningside College a day after he had appeared before the Fullbright committee in Washington, D. C.

Schoenbrun, who personally knew Ho Chi Minh, traced the history of American involvement in Southeast Asia since 1945, and told the students present not to strike classes. He said that students must stay in college and learn all they can to be able to solve the problems the world faces. He also stated, "The young people must become the conscience of America. You must force a change in policy, but do it non-violently... backed by the record and by truth."

He finished his presentation with a 60-second speech, which he felt President Nixon should deliver:

"My fellow Americans, five years ago this country took a commitment in Vietnam. The nature of that commitment should be well understood. It was to assist them to organize themselves to resist a Communist take-over. It was not to defend them permanently by the use of American men.

In fulfillment of that commitment we have sacrificed some 50,000 of our sons who died there, 275,000 more who were wounded and maimed, many for life, and we have expended 150 billion dollars of our treasury so badly needed at home.

We have at the same time raised, trained, and equipped an army of one million South Vietnamese. Our commitment has now been fulfilled. Our mission is accomplished. We hope that they will negotiate peace among themselves or settle their affairs however they choose. As for us, mission accomplished. Good luck."

Some individual Morningside College students took a long, concentrated look at international affairs in May. In the spirit of the free-speaking and thinking democracy, individuals expressed their opinions, signed petitions in relation to the U. S. involvement in Indo-China knowing well where the U. S. had extended itself, but not knowing what next.

Alumni Days...

The commencement weekend at Morningside was a busy one for the many alumni of the College who returned for the annual Alumni Days. Nearly 500 persons attended the alumni dinner May 23 to witness the initiation of this year's graduating class into the "Tribe of the Sioux" and to honor four distinguished graduates who were presented with alumni awards.

Recipients of the coveted awards were: Rex McWilliams, '58; Dr. Alvin Maberry, '36; Nathan Goldberg, '30, and Mabel Hoyt, '26.

Mr. McWilliams is chairman of the board of National Computer Analysts, Inc., of Princeton, N. J. He is an expert in the field of computer languages and has served the Department of Defense as a member of a task force to establish and define a Common Business-Oriented Language, known as COBOL. He is also a member of the Central New Jersey Committee for Industrial Pollution Control and is active in youth work in his community of Willingboro, N. J.

Dr. Maberry is District Superintendent for the United Methodist Church in the Council Bluffs, Iowa district. He was District Superintendent at Ottumwa, Iowa, from 1951 to 1955 after serving pastorates in Buffalo Center, Shenandoah, Oskaloosa and Mount Pleasant, Iowa. Dr. Maberry is a trustee of Iowa Wesleyan, Simpson and Rust Colleges.

Mr. Goldberg is acting manager of the Sioux Paper Company of Sioux City and longtime secretary-treasurer of the Morningside Alumni M Club. He is past president of Jack Greenberg Lodge 598 of B'nai B'rith and past commander of the Iowa-Nebraska Department of the Jewish War Veterans of the U. S. A. His duties with the M Club date to 1952.

Miss Hoyt, of Sioux City, retired in 1967 after 40 years of service as a teacher, dean and principal in the public schools. She is president of the board of the Sanford Center, treasurer of Mary J. Treglia Community House, where many foreign-born persons have attended her citizenship preparation classes, is on the Sioux City Board of Community Services, and has served on the Mayor's Urban Renewal Committee. She has received the Freedoms Foundation Award and the Morningside College Agora Club Woman of the Year Award.

Dr. Ira Gwinn ('22) and Amos Hartman ('20) are shown at the dedication of a hackberry tree planted by Dr. T. C. Stephens who taught at Morningside from 1906 to 1947. The plaque dedicating the tree to Dr. Stephens' memory was placed by the Class of 1920.

The members of the class of '20 were feted at a special dinner in the Hickman Dining Room of the Commons and at a breakfast at President Thompson's home.

Featured speaker at the alumni dinner was Miss Mary Dolliver, dean of women emeritus at Oberlin College of Ohio, and a member of the 50-year class which was specially honored during the weekend activities.

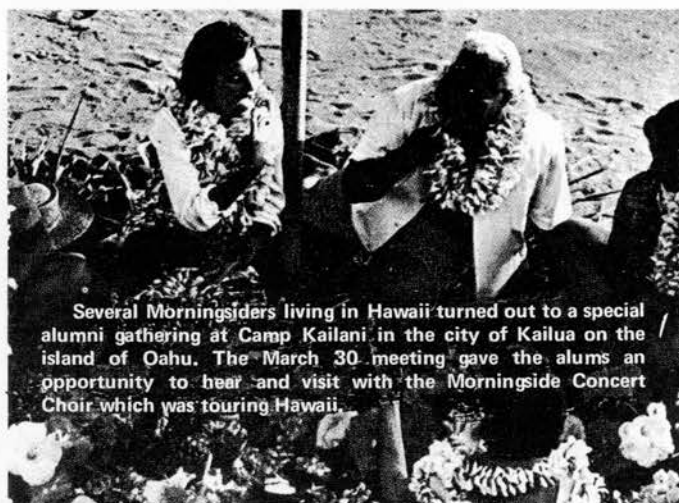

In her address, Miss Dolliver recalled her experiences as a student at Morningside from 1916 to 1920, and spoke of her acquaintance with the late Miss Lillian Dimmitt who was a teacher and dean of women for many years.

To help Miss Dolliver in her remembrances of the early days of Morningside, a shower of beans was directed at the speaker's podium from a light fixture shortly after her address began. The bean shower, which left Miss Dolliver unruffled, was for years the traditional method of upsetting chapel speakers, and was engineered in various ways during the early history of the College when chapel was an everyday occurrence.

Class reunions were held during a noon luncheon on May 23. The 50-year class of 1920 and the 25-year class of 1945 were honored along with the graduates of '10, '15, '25, '30, '35, '40, '50, '55, '60, and '65.

Mr. Hudson is a 1911 graduate of Morningside and was a high school teacher following his graduation. He joined the Scripps-Howard newspaper chain in 1914 and worked on the staff of newspapers in Des Moines and Cleveland until 1925 when he became owner and publisher of a weekly newspaper in Titusville, Fla. He later sold his interest in the paper but remained a publisher. Mr. Hudson is past president of the Florida Press Association.

Dr. Joyce is an internationally-acclaimed lawyer, author and lecturer who served as lecturer in residence at Morningside during the 1968-69 academic year. He has taught at many universities and colleges in the field of political science and international law.

Regarded as one of the world's authorities on the operations of the United Nations, the native Britisher conducted his Morningside students on a tour of the United Nations building including an audience with secretary-general U Thant. Dr. Joyce is the author of many books, the most recent being "End of an Illusion," a critical assessment of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The speaker for the commencement program was Dr. Miles Tommerraasen, director of business and finance for the Lincoln campus and outstate activities for the University of Nebraska.

Dr. Tommerraasen, a professor and administrator at Morningside from 1950 to 1964, was assistant dean of the College of Business Administration at the University of Nebraska before being named to his new post recently. A graduate of Morningside, he served the college as professor, dean of men, executive vice president and head of the department of economics prior to his move to the university.

In discussing "Freedom and the Restrainers," Dr. Tommerraasen charged the graduates with the duty of exercising the restraint that is necessary to "assure the continuance of the freedoms we enjoy."

Mr. H. A. Jacobsen of Sioux City (at the left) receives the handshake of Morningside board chairman Leon Hickman at the dedication of the Jacobsen Computer Center, named in honor of Mr. Jacobsen's generous financial support of the project. Longtime board member and master of ceremonies for the event, Harold Winter, is at the podium with President Thompson. Dedication of the computer center was held following the spring meeting of the board in early April.

"In the exercise of restrainers we say that freedom must be protected," Dr. Tommerraasen said. "It has rightly been observed that we must protect the freedom of others or we stand a good chance of losing our own. You are privileged to exercise your freedom until it infringes on the freedom of others."

The commencement speaker called for "perspective" in viewing the problems our country is facing. To gain this perspective, he said, we need to compare our freedoms with the freedoms available to other great societies, both past and present. "We are the product of a democratic form of government and a free enterprise system. This gives us a somewhat unique perspective and we tend to forget that our freedoms have not been the normal state of man."

Dr. Tommerraasen said this should be the reply to those who complain about the things that are wrong with our way of life—"compared to what?"

The commencement exercises were preceded by baccalaureate services in the morning at Eppley Auditorium. The speaker for the baccalaureate program was Dr. Harvey H. Potthoff, professor of Christian theology at Iliff School of Theology and a 1932 graduate of Morningside.

Sports Recap from p. 6

CHIEFS' SMOKE SIGNALS . . . It appears to have been a good year for the Chiefs in recruiting. Morningside Basketball coach Chuck Obye has signed six excellent cagers for the 1970-71 campaign. They include 6-7 Scott Burgason of the Iowa Tournament team, Ames High; 6-6 Rick Soligo, a second-team All-City pick from Kansas City; 6-5 Jim Carlson of Willingboro, New Jersey; 6-3 Freeman Berry, an outstanding jumper and rebounder, from Selma, Alabama; 6-3 Scott Otis, an All-Northwest Iowa athlete, from West Sioux; and 6-2 Mark Knudtson, a 3rd team All-Stater, from Northwood-Kensett . . . Football Coach Dewey Halford has also picked up some gridiron help. Signing a letter of intent was 1st team All-State center Bruce Schenck from Clarinda, quarterback Pat Martone of Oceanside, New York, guard Dick Evens of Spencer, tackles Bob Nelson of Sioux City Heelan (6th team All-State) and Mark Johnson of Fort Dodge, and end Stan Hamann of Anthon . . . And not to be outdone, wrestling coach Arnold Brandt has garnered some top talent including former Iowa State Champion Larry Bolanos of Muscatine JC.

HICKMAN ANNOUNCES NEW DIRECTORS

Five new members of the Morningside College board of directors will be attending their first board meetings in the fall. Announced by board chairman Leon Hickman, they are: Mrs. L. William Lohry, Loren H. Mahoney, Edgar W. McCracken, and Lowry Smith, all of Sioux City; and Keene Roadman of Margaretville, N.Y.

Retiring members of the board are Ray Burke of Sioux City, Art Van Wyngarden of Indianapolis, Ind., Mrs. Park Moorhead of Moorhead, Ia., and Harold Winter of Cincinnati, Ohio. Mr. Winter ended a term of 26 years on the board.

Mrs. Lohry, the former Doris Raun, attended Morningside, but graduated from Iowa State University where she was married to Mr. Lohry while both were students. Mrs. Lohry has been active in civic affairs in Sioux City, is a sustaining member of Junior League and president of North Junior High School PTA.

Her husband and his brothers own and operate Nutra-Flo Chemical Company and Kay-Dee Feed Co. of Sioux City.

Mr. McCracken was born in Manilla, Iowa, and was a 1938 graduate of Morningside. He is Sioux City branch manager for the Union Central Life Insurance Co., a position he had held since 1957. In 1961, he was awarded charter life underwriter designation.

An active member of the Methodist Church, Mr. McCracken has served on most of its commissions, is now an associate lay leader and delegate of his local church to the Iowa Annual Conference, and was a member of the Uniting General Conference in Dallas.

He is also a member of the board of education in Sioux City and has served the Sioux City Chamber of Commerce, Siouxland Opportunity Center and various civic, fraternal and business associations.

Mr. Mahoney, vice president of Sioux City Brick and Tile Company, was born and reared in Sioux City, and served with the United States Navy during World War II. After the war he attended DePauw University and Stanford University.

Mr. Mahoney is a member of the board of directors of First United Methodist Church of Sioux City. He also has served on the board of directors for the Sioux City Construction League and the board of directors for the Mariners Parent Club.

Mr. Smith, president of Bekins Van and Storage Co., was born in St. Paul, Minn., and is a graduate of the University of Colorado.

This year Mr. Smith is general campaign chairman for the United Fund of Sioux City. He is a board member and past president of the Sergeant Floyd Council of the Boy Scouts of America and a member of the Industrial Development Council of Sioux City. Mr. Smith is also a director of the Security National Bank.

Mr. Roadman was born in Fayette, Iowa, and was graduated from Morningside where his late father, Dr. Earl A. Roadman, served as president from 1936 to 1956. After graduation, Mr. Roadman attended graduate school at American University and Syracuse University.

After serving with the U. S. Department of Labor, he was an official with McCormick and Co. of Baltimore from 1950 to 1963 when he became general manager of the telephone company in Margaretville, N. Y.

Mr. Roadman is vice president of the Margaretville Memorial Hospital board of directors and chairman of the building committee for a new hospital building. He is also a member of the board of directors for the Margaretville National Bank and Trust.

High school students from Northwest Iowa watch computer print-out of programs they have written.

The special computer science course for high school seniors was held in the Jacobsen Computer Center during the school year and was directed by Prof. James McDonald.

ALUMNI PROFILE . . .

Almost three-quarters of a century of combined teaching years in northwest Iowa schools by a revered husband and wife education team were climaxed when the two, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Heacock of Kingsley, Iowa, were honored at an open house in observance of their retirement from teaching.

In his 45 years of teaching and public school administration, Mr. Heacock has been superintendent of schools in three systems—Danbury, Pierson and Westwood Community School which includes the Sloan, Salix, Smithland, Holly Springs and Hornick areas.

When he tried to retire from Westwood four years ago, Mr. Heacock was persuaded to extend his service another four years—again at Pierson. He retired this spring from his “retirement” position—that of junior high school principal in the Kingsley-Pierson school system.

Mrs. Heacock, who retired in 1927 after several years of teaching to become a housewife and mother, was called back to teaching in Pierson in 1941 when that school’s coach was called into the armed forces. She has taught continuously since then until last fall when she was forced to retire because of ill health. She, also, had tried to retire with her husband four years ago but was persuaded to join the Kingsley-Pierson system as a high school mathematics teacher.

Mr. Heacock was born and reared in the Kingsley community where his parents ran a grinding mill. He graduated from Kingsley High School in 1921 and from Morningside College, where he majored in mathematics and science, in 1925.

He began his teaching career in the Danbury Public Schools in 1925 as a math and science teacher, and basketball and baseball coach.

Mrs. Heacock, the former Edna Woods, is a native of Sloan and a graduate of Sloan High School. She completed a two-year teaching course at Morningside, and began teaching at Meriden, Iowa. She completed her work at Morningside in summer school and received the B. A. degree with majors in math, Latin and education.

The Heacocks were married during Mr. Heacock’s second year of teaching at Danbury where she taught in the elementary grades for a year.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Heacock are members of the Kingsley United Methodist Church and the Order of Eastern Star at Pierson. He is a past master of the Rutland Lodge AF & AM, past worthy patron of Eastern Star, and a member of the Sioux City Consistory.

He is a former president of the Woodbury County Education Council, the Woodbury Schoolmasters Club and the Maple Valley Athletic Conference.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Heacock are members of the National and Iowa State Education Associations. Mr. Heacock is also a member of Alpha Delta Kappa and the Iowa Retired Teachers Association.

The Heacocks will continue to live in Kingsley. Their son, Dr. James Heacock, lives in Circleville, Ohio, and their daughter, Mrs. Patricia Hobbs, resides in Sioux City.

Berkstressers Honored

A Sioux City couple who have served Morningside College and the community for 49 years were honored at a reception in March at the College. They are Dr. and Mrs. Charles Berkstresser, who for nearly five decades have contributed to the civic, professional, cultural and educational life of Sioux City.

The occasion marked the retirement of Dr. Berkstresser from the position of college physician, a post he had held since 1936. The doctor will be 79 in November of this year.

Dr. Berkstresser for many years was a familiar figure on the football field, administering to injured players.

A native of Mendota, Ill., Dr. Berkstresser earned his medical degree from the University of Iowa in 1921. He served in the medical corps in World War I and was a member of the draft board in World War II. He is a member of the county and state medical societies and the American Medical Association.

The doctor has served on the Sioux City board of education and has been active in Grace United Methodist Church, the Morningside Masonic Lodge, and the American Legion.

Mrs. Berkstresser also has been prominent in church, civic, educational and cultural activities. A graduate of the University of Iowa, she taught school at Linn Grove and Toledo, Iowa, and was an instructor in English for a cadet training detachment of the Air Force which was headquartered at Morningside. Mrs. Berkstresser also served for 10 years on the board of the former Boys and Girls Home in Sioux City.

Members of the committee which planned the reception for the Berkstressers were Mrs. Donald Protexter, Mrs. Robert Green, Mrs. Elwood Olsen and Mrs. A. W. Buckingham.

Half a million Methodists are using two books written by a Morningside College graduate, Dr. Harvey H. Potthoff of the class of 1932.

CURRICULUM PLANNING COMMITTEE FORMED . . .

A Curriculum Planning Committee, formulated along guidelines suggested by Danforth Foundation consultants, has begun its work of researching and studying methods of curriculum organization. The Committee, headed by philosophy professor Dr. John Lawrence, will develop a revised curriculum for Morningside which can be implemented in the 1971-72 school year.

"The purpose of the committee," according to President Thompson, "is to provide the means for intensive study of Morningside's academic program and investigation of alternatives so that revision reflecting the best thinking of the college community can be undertaken."

Dr. Lawrence will be on leave of absence from his teaching position to devote full time to the task of co-ordinating the committee's work.

Dr. Thompson and Dean Glen Rasmussen will serve as ex-officio committee members. Voting members will be members of the faculty representing five major curriculum areas along with two students.

Broad participation by all members of the college community will be encouraged. Open meetings of the committee will be held throughout the academic year, and a by-weekly bulletin will be distributed to keep all faculty, administrators and students aware of committee action.

A special meeting room for the committee has been provided adjacent to President Thompson's office.

ADMINISTRATIVE CHANGES INVOLVE MORNINGSIDERS . . .

Craig Croston, '61, a member of Morningside's administrative staff for eight years, has been named director of admissions. President Thompson made the announcement of Mr. Croston's appointment to replace D. Jack Pommrehn, '56, who has accepted a position as registrar at Denver University, Denver, Colo.

Mr. Croston was a member of Morningside's admissions staff as a counselor for five years before being named director of financial aid and placement in the summer of 1967. In this position, he has been responsible for the distribution of scholarship, grant and loan funds and the on-campus employment of students.

Mr. Pommrehn has been associated with Morningside for 12 years. He also served as an admissions counselor, and later was named registrar, a position he has held since 1966. During the academic year just ended, Mr. Pommrehn served both as registrar and director of admissions.

PROFESSOR OF THE YEAR . . .

Dr. Charles McClain, professor of music, was revealed as Morningside's "Professor of the Year" at the annual Honors Day convocation in May. The selection was made by members of LASS and Blue Key, scholastic honorary societies.

Dr. McClain, chairman of the College's music department, was cited for excellence in teaching; administrative ability, and participation in college and community activities. He has specialized in the teaching of organ and music theory, and has performed many recitals on the Sanford organ in Eppley Auditorium.

Prof. McClain, who has been a member of Morningside's faculty since 1965, has accepted the position of chairman of the music department at Muhlenberg College of Allentown, Pa., effective in August of this year.

DEAN POPPEN ON SABBATICAL, DR. PHELPS ACTING DEAN . . .

Morningside's Dean of Students since 1964, Donald E. Poppen ('57), will be on sabbatical leave during the 1970-71 school year to continue work toward his Ph.D. at Colorado State College, Greeley, Colo.

The acting Dean of Students for the upcoming academic year will be Dr. Fred Phelps, chairman of the department of speech and drama and faculty representative on the College's board of directors. Dr. Phelps holds the rank of full professor and has been a member of the faculty since 1965.

LIBRARY DIRECTOR TO NEW POSITION . . .

The director of library services at Morningside for the past eleven years, Virgil J. Wynne, has accepted the position of director of the department of acquisitions at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, Ala., effective September 1 of this year.

In addition to directing the operations of Morningside's library, Mr. Wynne has headed the department of library science which offers coursework in librarianship.

In his new post, Mr. Wynne will be in charge of purchases for all libraries in the University of Alabama system.

CHOIR IS POPULAR IN HAWAII . . .

The Morningside Concert Choir, directed by Dr. James Wood, was enthusiastically received on its tour of the Hawaiian islands in late March and early April.

A highlight of the choir's six days on the island of Oahu was their participation in the famous Easter morning service at the National Cemetery of the Pacific. Several thousand persons attended the moving ceremonies held under the auspices of the Hawaii Council of Churches.

Nine other concerts were presented on Oahu before the 45-voice choir moved on to Maui and the largest island, Hawaii, for more singing and relaxation.

A special honor accorded the choir was a luncheon at Fort Shafter on Oahu at which they were the guests of General Ralph E. Haines, Jr., commander of all United States military forces in the Pacific area.

STUDENTS ARE POLICEMEN AT NIGHT . . .

A student-operated night patrol was begun this spring at Morningside—utilizing eight married students as patrolmen. Dean of Students Donald Poppen worked out the plans for the surveillance system, and placed Lester Padget, a 250 pound football tackle, in charge of the operation.

Padget and his crew have at their disposal a jeep, two-way radio and clock check-in stations as they make rounds of the campus each night. Students were given a telephone number to be used in contacting the night patrol if they saw any unusual activity.

The student patrolmen are paid through the work-study system whereby the federal government picks up the bill for 85 per cent of their salaries.
