Morningside Graduates Largest Class In History

Four Days of Commencement Activities

Includes Speeches, Dinners, Recitals

Commencement Week End, the traditional time for the return of alumni to the campus, opened Saturday, May 28th, and extended until Tuesday, May 31st.

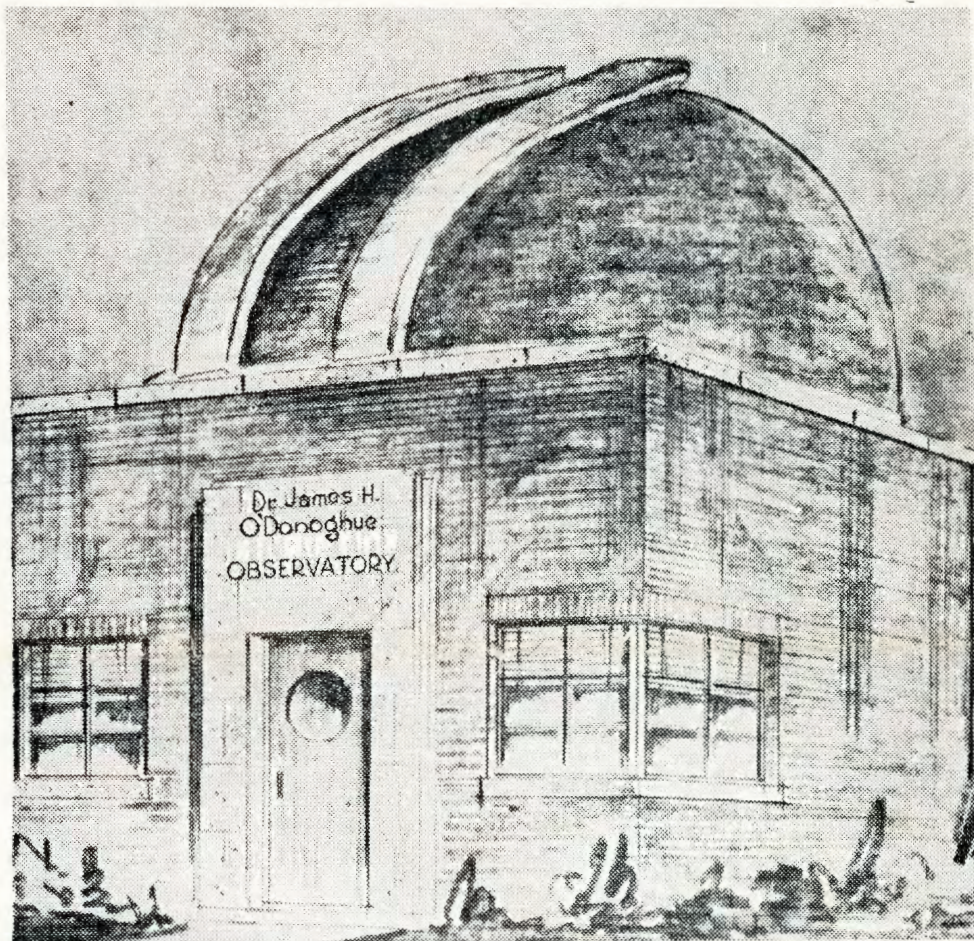

The four-day celebration opened Saturday evening with the traditional commencement concert presented by the Seniors of the College Conservatory of Music. The program included numbers by the seven members of the senior class and is the climax to the students' studies at the Conservatory.

Rev. B. R. Truscott

Baccalaureate Services for the June graduating class were held at 10:45 a. m. on Sunday, May 29th, at Grace Church. Rev. Basil R. Truscott, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Lomas de Zamora, Argentina, gave the address, his subject being, "You, the World, and God." Dr. Truscott cautioned the students to invest their talents wisely and well. He advised them to protect the talent of personality with good reading, good associations and clean living, and warned that licentiousness, carelessness and neglect are three deadly enemies of character. The speaker is a Morningside graduate of the class of 1920, and has done post-graduate work at

OBSERVATORY IS GIFT TO MORNINGSIDE COLLEGE

A unique Father's Day gift soon will make Sioux City the home of an observatory housing the largest telescope in Iowa.

The observatory will be erected on the campus of Morningside College under terms of a trust fund established by Dr. Arch F. O'Donoghue of Sioux City in honor of his father, Dr. James H. O'Donoghue of Storm Lake.

A 12-inch reflecting telescope will be mounted in a revolving turret in the ultra-modern observatory. Special photographic and darkroom equipment will be used to record pictorially the story of the stars.

There are only two other telescopes of size in Iowa. The largest, which boasts an 11-inch lens, is in use at the University of Iowa, Iowa City, Iowa. The other, at Drake University in Des Moines, measures only 8 1/4 inches.

Construction of the observatory will mark "an epoch of expansion in science for Morningside College," Dr. Myron E. Graber, head of the department of physics, declared. The observatory and telescope, with equipment now possessed by the college, will make it possible to offer courses in astronomy, comparable to any in the state. We have, at present, two 4-inch reflecting telescope sextants and other optical equipment.

Dr. Earl A. Roadman said the observatory will stand as a "living memorial" to Dr. O'Donoghue's father. It is evidence, he continued, "of the expanding program which aid and bequests are providing" for the college.

ALUMNUS OF THE MONTH

Dr. Clarence Tucker Craig, '15, of the Yale University Divinity School has been elected dean of Drew Theological Seminary at a meeting of the Drew University board of trustees in New York City. He will also serve as professor of New Testament, the same chair which he holds at Yale. The appointment is effective September 1.

The deanship of the 82-year-old Methodist seminary has been open since last July when Dr. Fred G. Holloway moved from that post to the Drew presidency. In the chair of New Testament, Dr. Craig will succeed Dr. J. Newton Davies who is retiring next month after 30 years on the faculty.

Dr. Craig was appointed to the Yale position in 1946 after serving for 18 years as professor of New Testament language and literature at the Oberlin Graduate School of Theology in Oberlin, Ohio.

He is a member of the American Standard Bible Translation Committee. In 1946 he was educational representative in introducing the New Standard Version. He served as chairman of the committee editing Gospel Parallels, a synopsis based on this version. In the field of New Testament studies he has written several books and numerous articles.

In preparation for the first assembly of the World Council of Churches in Amsterdam last summer, he served as chairman of the American Advisory Committee and vice-chairman of the General Commission dealing with The Universal Church in God's Design. He contributed a chapter on New Testament doctrine to this volume. He is chairman of the American Theological Committee of the Faith and Order Commission.

A native of Benton Harbor, Mich., Clarence was awarded his A. B. degree at Morningside College in 1915, the S. T. B. and Ph. D. degrees by Boston University. He has served these Methodist pastorates: Walpole, Mass., 1918-19; Clifton, Cincinnati, Ohio, 1922-26; Simpson, Brooklyn, N. Y., 1926-28.

OBYE TO WAYNE

Sioux City friends of "Chuck" Obye, '46, former Central High and Morningside College athlete and later an assistant coach at Morningside, will be interested to know that he has signed as head basketball coach at Wayne State Teachers' College.

Obye quit his job at Morningside a year ago to enroll at Iowa University to work for his master's degree, which he will have earned by the end of the summer term.

With his affiliation at Wayne, "Chuck" will be on the other side of the fence now when Wayne and Morningside renew their rivalry. The Wildcats and Maroons annually meet in a home-and-home basketball series.

SUMMER SCHOOL ENROLLMENT

The registrar's office reported that 474 students are now actively enrolled and attending classes for the first five weeks' term summer session. These 474 men and women include 239 veterans and 65 new students and transfers.

JONES NOMINATED
CONSUL GENERAL

J. Wesley Jones, ex-'28, has been nominated by President Truman as a consul general of the United States. At present he is counselor to the United States embassy at Nanking, China. Wesley was at the United States consulate building in Nanking when the communists made their early morning "raid" in December, 1948, detaining all members of the consulate. After the fall of Nanking, the state department sent a message to Mr. Jones' mother in Sioux City, stating that members of the Nanking embassy were uninjured and that no harm was expected.

After receiving a bachelor of arts degree from George Washington University in 1920, Wesley entered the state department service in January, 1931, serving as vice-consul in Saltillo, Mexico, for a year, as vice-consul at Calcutta for three years and later became vice-consul in Rome, Italy. In Nanking he has been foreign service officer and secretary in the diplomatic service. Approval of his nomination as consul general is expected to be a formality on the senate floor.

Mr. Jones' wife and three children now are in Rome with Mrs. Jones' parents. She is the former Katherine del Valle, daughter of Lt. Gen. del Valle, commanding officer of the First marine division in the Pacific during the war. The three children, Peter, 9; Valentine, 6; and Frances, 4, are attending school in Rome.

MORNINGSIDE GRADS WIN HONORS

Adding not only to personal accomplishment but to Morningside's laurels are the assistantships granted to three June graduates from Morningside this spring. Two of the Sioux Cityans who have been granted assistantships at Pennsylvania State College, State College, Penn., are Kenneth Aalseth and William Yockey. The third, Leonard Foster, has been granted an assistantship at the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, Nebr.

Mr. Aalseth will do research work in the field of vitamins while Mr. Yockey, who will also work in the general field of biochemistry, will specialize in nutrition for fowls. Mr. Foster, the recipient of several graduation honors, will do graduate work in history.

All three, receivers of Bachelor of Science degrees, have been chosen for the assistantships because of their outstanding work at Morningside.

Donald Kelsey of Hornick and Allen Brown of Council Bluffs, June graduates, have been appointed resident fellows at Syracuse University, Syracuse, N. Y.

Mr. Kelsey's graduate studies will be in history and Mr. Brown's in magazine journalism and advertising. Both will be advisers to freshman men at the university.

Mr. Kelsey, a member of the Tau Delta social fraternity, has been particularly active in musical affairs at Morningside. He has been student business manager for the college choir and has conducted a talent show at a theater here and a radio program.

Richard and Jimmy Pickering, 18 months and 2½ year old sons of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Pickering (Winnifred Osbey, ex-'44), who live in Lima, Peru.

ON THE CAMPUS

Miss Lynn Holland, Sioux City freshman, was chosen Sioux Queen at Morningside this spring. She was crowned at the senior farewell dance and presented with the first copy of the Sioux, college annual, by editor Ann Barrett. Vaughn Monroe, famous singer and orchestra leader, chose the queen from photographs of coeds submitted to him.

Dean Thomas E. Tweito was one of the speakers at the annual convention of the Iowa district of the Evangelical Lutheran Church which was held at Forest City. His topic was The Witness of the Church in Family Life.

Robert Eldredge, senior and member of Alpha Tau Delta Fraternity, was elected president of the Morningside College Student Council. The Council is the student governing body of the school and is responsible for many activities during the year.

OBSERVATORY

The senior O'Donoghue, who is still a practicing physician, will observe his 82nd birthday on July 8. He served as professor of chemistry at Morningside from 1889 to 1893, when it was known as the University of the Northwest. For many years he was a member of the board of trustees.

In 1942, he received the honorary degree of doctor of science from the college. Two years later, his sons, Dr. Arch O'Donoghue and Dr. Donald O'Donoghue of Oklahoma City, received similar honorary degrees from Dr. Roadman.

Plans call for the observatory to be constructed of brick with a stone facing around the entrance above which will be the inscription: "Dr. James H. O'Donoghue Observatory."

A classroom and a darkroom will be on the first floor. A circular staircase will lead to the observatory turret. Reflectors may be used to throw the image of the stars on a screen for study.

The importance of such study was stressed by Dr. Arch O'Donoghue. "The recent development in nuclear physics makes astronomy even more important to the graduate and undergraduate in understanding the physical structure of the universe," he asserted. "It is a great privilege and pleasure to present this telescope and observatory to Morningside College," he continued, adding that his father, "still retains great interest in the college and in watching it grow to its present enviable state."

Drew Seminary at Madison, New Jersey, and at Yale Divinity School, New Haven, Connecticut. He has spent the greater part of the last 30 years as a missionary to Argentina and currently is on leave.

Other activities Sunday were an afternoon musicale, presented by faculty members of the Morningside Conservatory of Music in Grace Church auditorium, and a lawn reception at the home of President and Mrs. Earl A. Roadman. Soloists for the musical program were Faith Foster Woodford, organist; Elizabeth MacCollin, soprano; Marian Van Der Maten, violinist, and Emery Stewart, baritone.

Students, faculty, alumni and friends of Morningside College gathered at Grace Church at 10:30 a. m. on Tuesday, May 31st, for the 55th Commencement exercises when 94 seniors, the largest graduating class in the history of the college received diplomas, bringing to 146 the total number of graduates in 1949.

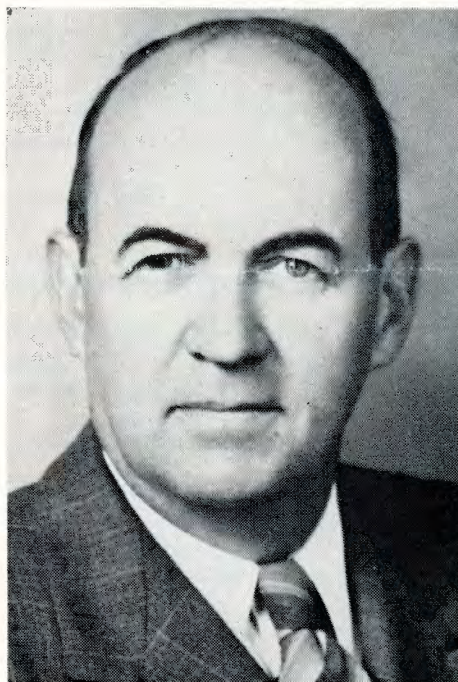

Preceding the service, members of the graduating class and faculty assembled at Main Hall and marched in academic robes across the campus to the church. Dr. Daniel Starch of New York City delivered the address, which is printed in this issue of the Morningsider.

The services included a prayer by Rev. James T. Snyder of Storm Lake, a clarinet solo by Robert Lowry, professor of music in the conservatory, and a scripture reading by Rev. Arthur Rasmussen of Quimby, Ia. After the address the class of 1949 was presented by Dean T. E. Tweito to Dr. Roadman, who conferred the degrees. Dr. Roadman also announced special prizes and honors won by the class and conferred the honorary degrees.

ALUMNI HEAR CONGRESSMAN
DOLLIVER

"Seniors about to be graduated from Morningside College are better equipped to work out the answers to urgent present day problems than seniors of other days,"

Congressman James I. Dolliver

Representative James I. Dolliver, '15, of Fort Dodge, Ia., said Monday evening, May 30th, at the Morningsider dinner to the 300 guests attending. Jim reminisced on campus days, touched on current politics and world problems and mixed serious subjects with humorous ones, as only a Dolliver can do.

The colorful initiation of the seniors into the Tribe of the Sioux was directed by members in costume led by Prof. Paul MacCollin. A. R. Toothaker was high priest; Ira J. Gwinn, chief of the Sioux; Prof. Russell Eidsmoe, senior adviser, chief of the records, and Neal Bridenbaugh, president of the graduating class, young brave. Edgar McCracken gave an Indian war dance, and the new members received their headbands, each with a maroon feather.

G. Earl Barks, treasurer of Living Endowment, alumni project for providing support to their Alma Mater, gave the yearly report. Dr. Roadman introduced college trustees and their wives, faculty members and visitors who were to be given honorary degrees. William Danforth, president of the alumni association, presided. Vera Hays Campbell, '38, was chairman of the dinner, assisted by Mildred Wikert Wallman, Genevieve Whittington Sloan, Mariellen Rifenbark Johnson, and Clara Bergmann Nelson.

HONORARY DEGREES TO FOUR MORNINGSIDE ALUMNI

Four Morningside Alumni were awarded honorary degrees during Morningsides' 55th Commencement exercises.

Dr. Daniel Starch, a graduate of Charles City College in 1903 and therefore of Morningside, who delivered the Commencement address, received a doctor of science degree, presented by J. F. Zimmerman, '11, of Charles City. Dr. Starch is known internationally as a psychologist and has been rated among the 100 starred scientists in American Men of Science. He has been recognized as one of the first to apply scientific methods to business problems. A noted author, Dr. Starch has written 12 books. Since 1927 he has been a regular contributor to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

The Reverend Basil R. Truscott, '20, who gave the Baccalaureate address, was presented to Dr. Roadman for a doctor of divinity degree by Dr. Nelson A. Price, vice president of Morningside College. Rev. Mr. Truscott is pastor of the First Methodist Church in Lomas de Zamora. He also is president of the community school system there, which he was instrumental in organizing. He has distinguished himself in the fields of religion and education.

Hobart F. Mossman, '31, president of Hockaday Junior College for Women at Dallas, Tex., received the doctor of laws degree for his service in the field of education. He was presented by Mark McLarnan, a classmate at Morningside.

The Honorable James I. Dolliver, '15, was presented for a doctor of laws degree by The Reverend James J. Davies. Congressman Dolliver of Fort Dodge, represents the Sixth Iowa District.

SENIORS RECEIVE SCHOLARSHIPS

The Wm. A. McCurdy scholarships, given to outstanding seniors in the graduating classes of the three Sioux City high schools, have been awarded to Ruth Ann Thatcher and James Hamilton of Leeds, jointly, Robert Phelps of East, and Emogene Van Nort of Central.

REUNION LUNCHEON AT STUDENT UNION

Morningside Alumni held their traditional class reunion luncheon in the Student Union on Monday noon, May 30. C. Lee Barks of Orange City, class of 1914, presided. Retired faculty members and alumni who were to receive honorary degrees were special guests.

Those attending were members of the classes of 1909, 1914, 1919, 1924, 1929, 1934, 1939 and 1944. Special meetings were those of the class of 1909, celebrating their 40th anniversary, and the class of 1924, celebrating their 25th anniversary.

Chairmen for the various class reunions were Miss Ethel Murray, 1909; Helen Giehm Barrett, 1914; Helen Meeks Hindman, 1919; Mr. and Mrs. Les Davis, 1924; Hazel Surber Croston, 1929; Adeline Hall Anderl, 1934; Miss Virginia Thomas and Dorothy Nelson Skalisky, 1939 and Lyla Hansen Springer, 1944.

Zeta Sigma, Morningside's honorary scholastic fraternity, held formal initiation ceremonies at 4 p. m. Monday for graduating seniors eligible for the honor. The

M. Bartlett), who will celebrate her fiftieth anniversary next June, may return at that time.

CLASS REUNIONS

Class of '19

Attending the 30th reunion of the class of 1919 were Mrs. C. Lee Barks (Leone Lange) of Orange City, Ia.; Mrs. R. W. Griffith (Ruth Reid) of Avon, S. D.; and Mrs. C. A. Hindman (Helen Meeks) of Sioux City, who served as chairman. Elsie Savonell Forbes (Mrs. C. E.) wrote from Rockford, Ill., that she had been ill since Easter and still was unable to do housework. She lives on a small farm, has five children (a son, Bill, who graduated from high school in June) and four grandchildren.

Class of '24-'25 Reunion

Although only a small number of the class of '24 were able to attend, a very enjoyable reunion was held on Alumni Day, May 30. There were sixteen present. Several interesting letters from members of the class were read. Those who sent greetings were:

Paul Moody, now Professor of Zoology at the University of Vermont.

Clark Scott, Ass't. Treas. and Secretary of Manning, Maxwell and Moore, Inc. in New York.

Boh Dolliver, Pastor Bushwick Avenue Methodist Church in Brooklyn, New York.

Dr. Paul McMaster, Orthopedic Surgeon in Los Angeles, Calif.

Miss Ruth Miller, Librarian in St. Louis, Missouri.

Mrs. Hillis Lory (Sarah Drury), Fairfax Station, Virginia.

Mrs. Samuel Stouffer (Ruth McBurney). Mr. Stouffer is a professor at Harvard University.

A cash donation of $150 from several members of the class was presented to the college to be used for the fieldhouse fund.

The sixteen present at the reunion were: Mr. and Mrs. George Stevens (Mildred Hickman), Sioux City; Mr. and Mrs. Don Peters, Sioux City; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Henderson (Grace Wickens), Sioux City; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Burns (Blanche Strom), Hornick, Ia.; Mrs. George Colvig (Maude Wagner), Lake City, Ia.; Mrs. Harvey Miller (Myrtle Swanson) and Mr. Miller, Marcus, Ia.; Herschel Harris, New York City, N. Y.; Mrs. Leroy H. Rowse (Muriel DeWitt), Sioux City; Mrs. Gilbert Turkelson (Neva Coates), Sioux City; and Mr. and Mrs. Les Davis (Leota Bergeson), Sioux City.

Les and Leota Bergeson Davis, chairmen

Eleven were present at the 1929 reunion luncheon table, six of them members of the 1929 class. Present with their wives were Henry Kitchen of Galva, Ia.; George Neir of Remsen, Ia.; Everett Dodge of Hartley, Ia. All are busy farmers. Philip Thorton, a merchant at Storm Lake, Ia. and his wife, Ruth Miller, '30; Margaret DeWitt Smith of Rapid City S. D., and her husband, Earl Smith, a student at Morningside College. Margaret is a secretary in the Pennington County Health Clinic at Rapid City, and Hazel Surber Croston of Sioux City and her husband, Louis H. Croston, '30.

Several who could not be present wrote letters telling of themselves and their families. Hugh D. Halley who teaches in Weirton, W. Virginia high school sent regrets. His wife is Hylma Prine, ex'32. Velda Rowlands Nanninga, Bigelow, Minn., sent a fine letter. We are sorry to learn that she was stricken with an illness ten years ago which left her a bedfast invalid. Her husband is pastor of the Methodist Church there.

Anne Aalfs Schaff of Elmira, N. Y., whose husband is pastor of the First Methodist Church, wrote an interesting account of herself and family.

Lois Hickman Adams sent a friendly greeting from Madison, Wisc., where her husband is the Actuary for the National Guardian Life Ins. Co.

It was an enjoyable get together and we hope that all of these and many more may be present at the next reunion.

Hazel Surber Croston, chairman

Class of '34

Class reunions have always intrigued me just about as much as a week-old bus transfer, but then I've never been to one. Until May 30—that is. What a delightful readjustment was mine to make! (That hissing noise you hear is Florence Kingsbury saying, "I told you so." She had to brow beat me into going.)

And what fun! We met in the barn and the class of '34 appropriated the soft chairs at the south end. (Since we graduated in the depression we seem to crave good upholstery). Myrtle Peterson, one of the new teachers at Riverview School in Sioux City; Adeline Hall Anderl, charming wife and mother of three little boys, and also chairman of our reunion; Fern Beck Kolling, mother of several little blondes, and I were the reception committee (the first ones there.)

We received with open arms our Miss Morningside, Gleva Binger Hansen and her husband, Grant. Grant is librarian at Gustavus Adolphus College and seemed to know everyone. He's tall and blond—they're a striking couple.

Peg and Harold Decker strode in looking no older than in 1934. Harold is director of choral music at Wichita University. They had news of lots of people we had not heard from so we were very busy during lunch. Peg was lovely in a little green bonnet, and at our fifteenth class reunion discourses proudly of a fourteen year old program was under the direction of Rev. Victor Schuldt of Sioux City, who is acting president of the group. Following the initiation the group heard an address by Hobart F. Mossman of Dallas, Tex.

No one of the four living members of the class of 1899 was able to return to the campus to celebrate the 50th anniversary of his graduation from Morningside. W. Bruce Empey of Junction City, Ore., who is now retired after nearly 48 years in the Methodist ministry, sent his regrets at being unable to return for such a delightful experience. However, he expressed the hope that he and Mrs. Empey (Hattie son!

Next time I hope some bachelors come!
Verl Crow, chairman

Class of '39

The class of '39 was well represented at our ten year reunion luncheon with nineteen members, four by marriage, and it was an additional pleasure to have genial "Senator" Elwood Olsen, '38, Morningside's Business Manager, at our table. The group included Clifford and Clara Louise (McBurney) Swanson; Marjorie Pritchard Houghton; Birdie Slothower; Henry Schunck; Agnes Carlin; Leonard and Dorothy (Nelson) Skalsky; Miriam (Hawthorn) Baker; Mary Stankiewicz; Al and Marian Buckingham; H. G. and Kitty Morrison; Helen (Pearson) McCracken; George and Marjorie (Primmer) Iseminger; Dave Brinkman; and Virginia Thomas.

Agnes Carlin, with the Red Cross in disaster duty in Northwest Iowa, assisted in blizzard relief work in Nebraska last winter, and is now stationed in the Red Oak area, including Essex, Ia., where a tornado damaged farm places the day following the luncheon. We hope the Swansons suffered no damage to their home or property. Marjorie Houghton has been a music instructor in the high school and colleges at Sioux Falls, S. D. for the past five years. Helen McCracken and George Iseminger are contributing greatly to Sioux City's musical life; Helen is director of the Mothersingers, P. T. A. choral group which received "rave" notices on its final concert for the year; George is an instructor in music at East High School and directs the school's choir and that of Trinity Lutheran Church. Mary has been teaching in the high school at Orange City, Ia., and Birdie at Rapid City, S. D. One of Birdie's students this year was awarded an honorable mention for a book review by Scholastic Magazine and was one of the top 17 in the Atlantic Monthly high school short story contest. Birdie will combine academic work and vacation at Boulder, Colo., this summer. Recently transferred back to Sioux City from Omaha, Henry Schunck is with the Cudahy Packing Co. Dorothy Skalsky teaches at Washington school near her home here. We wish all foster children could live in as fine a home as Miram and Carl Baker at Merville are providing for their small son.

Dave Brinkman visits Sioux City frequently. He is feeding cattle at Rolfe, Ia., and working with his father and a brother. Were very pleasantly surprised to have H. G. and Kitty drop in from Peterson, Ia., where they have been with the Morrison family and bring us news of Keene Roadman, Dale Rogers, and "Fritz" Hoffman. Another of the '39 athletes, "Buck", now director of athletics at Morningside, spoke briefly to the general luncheon group regarding the current campaign for funds for the new field house, the site of which we '39 women remember as the scene of our hockey and soccer sessions. Virginia Thomas is secretary to the general manager of Hart-Bartlett-Sturtevert Grain Co. in Sioux City, and is looking forward to a good summer for gladiolus and baseball. Greetings were sent to the reunion by Bill and Ruth (Thatcher) Clemens from Denver, Dorothy (Behrens) Brooks from Portland, Ore.; Kellogg Wells from Okinawa; and Ellabel Johnson, ex-'39, from Spirit Lake, Ia. On the following day notes were received also from Miriam (Corkhill) Miller from Detroit and James Y. Vandersall from Pontiac, Mich., where he has been an Instrumental Supervisor and Instructor in the public schools for the past six years.

We hope that before the next official reunion we can get together informally, perhaps at a picnic. Dorothy Skalsky has offered us her hospitality for such a gathering and we will depend on members of the class to set a date.

Virginia Thomas, chairman

Class of '44

Last but not least is the class of '44 who held their first five year reunion. "Hap" Hansen Springer of Battle Creek, Ia., still as peppy and vivacious as ever, rounded up several of her classmates for the luncheon, including Jane Garretson Tweden, housewife and mother, of Sioux Falls, S. D.; Gertrude L. Curtis, teaching in Sioux City; Mrs. Gene Scott (Joyce Roadman), mother of three adorable curly-headed boys who lives at the Sioux City Airbase, and Evelyn Madsen, Dr. Roadman's charming and efficient secretary. Hap's husband, Walter, who was a student at Morningside College in the days of the Army Air Corp's visitation, took time off from his clothing and cleaning business in Battle Creek to attend the reunion and renew acquaintances.

SIoux CITY COEDS ENJOY LIFE AT DORM

Like thousands of other young women, the four coeds pictured above are going away to college—but these clever girls manage to stay "home" at the same time. All residents of Sioux City, they are attending Morningside College and living at Lillian E. Dimmitt dormitory for women. Thus they enjoy the pleasures of dormitory life and still remain within a few miles of their parental homes, which they visit frequently. The students are, left to right, Miss Mae Kiessig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert J. Kiessig, 3930 Monroe Street; Miss Virginia Harper, daughter of Mr. ('11) and Mrs. H. Clifford Harper, (Helen McDonald, '12), 1901 George Street; Miss Gayle Jean Hofstad, (Sioux City Sue), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Meyer S. Hofstad, 1316 Sixth Street; and Miss Jane Spielman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Spielman, 2711 Jones Street.

PRESENT RECITAL AT ART CENTER

An unusual program of piano duets was presented, May 25, at the Sioux City Art Center by Miss Lois Grammer and Hans Lampl, faculty members of the Morningside Conservatory of Music.

The program was unique in that it consisted entirely of compositions originally written to be played by two performers at one piano. The Sonata in B Flat Major which Mozart wrote for one of his many appearances with his sister was the opening selection. Also programmed were two Schubert compositions, contemporary works by Hindemith and Poulenc, and the Mother Goose Suite by Ravel, which has been popularized by orchestral transcription.

GEORGE BARRETT

Funeral services for George W. Barrett, ex'12, nationally known for directing fund campaigns, were held June 1, in Pittsburgh. He died at his home on Rochester Road, Sewickley, on May 30 after a year's illness.

During his 19 years with Ketchum and Co., Mr. Barrett directed 80 campaigns for hospitals, colleges, political and civic groups which raised many millions of dollars. He attended school in Epworth and later at Morningside College for three years where he edited the Collegian Reporter. He later returned to Sioux City to assist with a fund raising campaign. He married Miss Ethel McCracken, ex'13, of Sioux City.

Survivors include his wife, two sons, Jack and Richard, and a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Braden, all of Pittsburgh; five grandchildren, a brother, Walter W. (Red), ex-'14, of Sioux City, and two half-brothers, and a sister, Eunice.

Harry A. Chipman, ex'13, of Spring Valley, Minn., a former roommate of Mr. Barrett in college, paid tribute to him as a newspaperman, debater, and true friend at the Alumni reunion luncheon on Monday, May 30.
