MORNINGSIDE COLLEGE IN THE WAR EFFORT

The College is at war! Its weapons are not those of the armed services, yet, without its help, the efficient operation of our armed forces would not be possible. To relate in brief outline the nature of Morningside College's contribution will give some idea of the magnitude of her war effort.

Man-Power. Probably the greatest contribution any college can make to the war effort is through the scores of young men and women who have received their training in the college and are now using it to benefit their country. Morningside is no exception. The commander of a gunboat in the Mediterranean, a missing flyer on Bataan, a battalion commander in North Africa—these and scores of others are Morningside men in action. In the airplane factories, the laboratories of chemical warfare, the women's service divisions and hundreds of other positions of service Morningsiders are playing their part.

Obstacle-Training. To overcome physical obstacles through strength and endurance is the objective of wartime physical training. The obstacle course on Bass Field is the testing ground for an intensified conditioning program modelled along military lines.

Reserve Enlistments. Responding to the

New Plan Changes Election Procedures

A special committee appointed by the Alumni Executive Committee is at work on plans whereby every Morningsider will participate in the alumni planning. Opportunity will be afforded for nominations at large for the several alumni offices. These nominations will be placed in the hands of the Executive Committee following the alumni meeting at Commencement. Ballots will be prepared and mailed to each Morningsider in time for the annual election. The newly elected officers will be inaugurated at the annual Homecoming.

CHRISTMAS, 1942

Jaunty "Merry Christmas" expressions like many other things are out for the "duration." By contrast, however, prayers and hopes for "Good will among men" are more deeply entrenched than ever in daily experience. Morningside College therefore sends Christmas greetings to her far flung alumni in the name of man's eternal dream for increasing "glory to God and good will among men."

government's plea for a reservoir of young men trained in college to become officer candidates, two-thirds of the men students of Morningside have enlisted in the reserves of the Army, Army Air Corps, Navy, and Marines. One hundred sixty-five boys have enlisted or are in the process of enlistment. The College has received repeated expressions of satisfaction from the armed services for its unusual promotion of these reserve enlistments.

National Drives. Full cooperation in nation-wide drives to promote the war effort has been given by the College. The most spectacular of these efforts came at Homecoming time when the college faculty and students collected forty-five tons of scrap and paraded it down the streets of Sioux City in a "Scrap the Parade for a Parade of Scrap" home-coming celebration.

Information Service. The War Information Center in the College library has collected hundreds of bulletins, books, clippings, and charts dealing with the war and post war problems. Sponsored by the W. P. A. and the College this service is free to the public. Special displays of material have been synchronized with the weekly College Forum radio program, every Wednesday night on K. S. C. J.

New Courses. To meet war needs, technical courses in radio and electronics, ordnance and gunnery, aviation, industrial safety, as well as special courses in current international relations, the far east, the world crisis, and the like, have been added to the College curriculum.

New York Notes By Dr. and Mrs. Walton

On October 17th the New York Morningsiders had a luncheon at the Woodstock Hotel. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pierce, Rev. and Mrs. Robert Dooliver, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ott, Dr. and Mrs. Seaver and their daughter, and the Waltons.

Frank Leamer, of the personnel department of Bell Telephone Laboratories, has moved to a new plant established by the Laboratories in New Jersey.

Mrs. Eleanor McCurdy is working in the administrative office at Syracuse University. I believe she is assistant to the dean, has charge of the Student Loan Fund and has something to do with chapel arrangements. Her son is a freshman at Syracuse University and her daughter is in high school there.

Last Sunday we had a delightful surprise in a visit by Dr. Harry Bigglestone, class of 1914, who is studying dermatology at Postgraduate Hospital in New York. We spent part of the afternoon talking about old Morningside friends. He married Ruth Rieke, also a Morningside graduate. They have three fine children.

ENROLLMENT TRENDS

Anticipating a sharp reduction in enrollment for the fall semester, College officials found their predictions in error when registration time rolled around. Instead of a drop, the enrollment at Morningside took a substantial rise. Two hundred four freshmen, 136 sophomores, 90 juniors, and 51 seniors, for a total of 481 full time students, plus 136 part time college students, brought the total to 617 college students. However, only in the senior class does the number of girls in any class exceed the number of boys. Among the freshmen there are two boys for each girl. With two-thirds of the men in the reserves and a good many others in deferred classification for special war training, the male enrollment promises to remain fairly stable for the current year. What the next year holds, no one knows. But as one contemplates the sharp drops in enrollment in state institutions, running to 25 per cent average loss in teachers colleges, the situation in our liberal arts college is most encouraging.

HOMEcoming --- WAR STYLE

We wondered if we could have a Homecoming. We tried it and it turned out to be a great occasion. A brief sketch of the events outlining the event will recall it to Alumni who were present and describe it to the others.

Homecoming Coronation

The coronation took place Friday evening, October 9, at 8:30 in the College auditorium. When the curtains were drawn, on a beautifully staged throne, Miss Morningside of 1941, Ruth Kingsbury, awaited the coming of Miss Morningside of 1942.

The coronation march was played by the Conservatory string quartet. The Homecoming Queen, Miss Mariellen Rifenbark of Sioux City, was escorted to the stage by Sterling Logue, President of the M Club. Her attendants, Gwen Downey and Vera Smith, were escorted by M Club members. Miss Kingsbury gave the crown to President Roadman who then placed it on the head of Miss Morningside of 1942.

Following the program the annual Homecoming dance was held in the gymnasium.

Scrap the Parade for a Parade of Scrap

The Homecoming parade on Saturday morning was just that. Borrowed trucks and vehicles of all kinds were loaded down with nearly 50 tons of scrap metal which, after being paraded down town, was deposited at the city scrap heap by the Milwaukee depot. Faculty and students helped gather and there was great competition for biggest loads and most humorous floats. Airplanes from our flying school circled over the city during the parade.

Open House for Alumni

The social halls at Main Hall and the Dormitory were open for Alumni and friends to visit or rest Saturday afternoon before the final evening events. This seemed a welcome time for relaxation and visiting.

The Banquet Was a Barbeque

Instead of the customary Alumni banquet at the Dormitory, Alumni and students enjoyed a fine barbeque supper on Bass Field Saturday evening at 6 o'clock. A delightful evening and good food helped to make this informal lunch real fun. It was felt that because fewer Alumni than usual could come a barbeque could be easier planned and managed than a formal dinner. Our judgment was that everyone liked the idea.

South Dakota State Again

The Homecoming game was an evenly fought battle with the Jackrabbits of South Dakota State. They managed to make one field goal which ended the game with a 3 to 0 score against us. It was a good game to watch and Coach Cassell's squad with so many inexperienced players gave us all a good show.

Alumni Reception

Immediately after the game the Alumni enjoyed a reception and last visit together at the Dormitory. A short business meeting was conducted. Officers for the year were elected with Parnell Mahoney elected as President. Being on the Campus again this year with war conditions disrupting so much of normal life was a real privilege to all who could come.

NEW FACULTY

War calls are a new factor bringing about several changes in faculty positions this year. Called to the Army in late summer, Glen "Honie" Rogers, has been succeeded in the physical education department by Don Snyder, '39. Mr. Snyder came from a similar position at Baker University and has taken charge of the intra-mural program, in addition to work as assistant coach and physical education instructor. He is assistant to Stafford Cassell, whose appointment as Director of Physical Education and Athletics was announced last spring. Miss Marie Liba, a graduate of Wittenberg College and the American College of Physical Education, is the new instructor in women's physical education.

In the conservatory, Leo Kucinski's sudden call to the Army left an important place to fill. Mr. Henri Pensis, a native of Luxemburg, a musician of unusual experience and talent, has been named head of the Violin department. In addition he will direct the Sioux City and Lincoln symphonies and the Monahan Post Band. Miss Mable Fritz, '37, has been named instructor in wind instruments and director of the college band to succeed Everett Timm, who resigned to accept a position at Louisiana State University. Miss Lois Grammer, a graduate of the University of Nebraska and Northwestern University, has been named head of the School Music Department.

Miss Dorothy Brown, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, has been named acting dean of women and social director of the women's residence halls, to succeed Miss Pearson. Miss Brown comes with a fine background of experience in young people's work. Mrs. W. H. Seubert, of Sioux City, has been named part time instructor in English. The courses in secretarial work are being taught this year by Miss Ruth Whitlock, '34, Miss Marie Liba, and Mrs. W. G. Johnson, of Sioux City.

Mr. O. B. Kramer of Ida Grove, Iowa, Mr. Lee Scott of Portland, Oregon, and Mr. Glen Bierman of Sioux City have been appointed as instructors in the ground school of the C. P. T. flight training school at Rickenbacker Field.

time Civilian Pilot Training for Army and Navy pilots, sponsored jointly by the College and the Graham Flight Service, now is training 76 pilots. Operated on a regular military basis at the Rickenbacker Field, this center has been rated the finest in this section of the country by the area coordinators.

Service to Soldiers and Sailors. Cooperating fully with local U. S. O. officials, the College is helping to entertain and instruct soldiers and sailors on leave and those stationed at the Air Base south of the city. Musical and dramatic productions at the Base, provision of hostesses for U. S. O. functions, participation in church-sponsored activities, and many other services are being rendered.

International Planning. What of the post-war world? This question is being given special attention through series of chapel programs, the faculty religious seminar, the International Relations Club, the Cosmopolitan Club, and the course program. These efforts, while not dramatic in nature, are building for a sure basis of international peace after the war.

Devotion to the Liberal Tradition. To help preserve the great heritage of independent thought, rigorous study, and self-discipline is one of the College's most important contributions to its country in these times. There is no relaxing of requirements, even though the speed of preparation has been increased. The need for self-discipline as the only sure basis for freedom was never greater and the College was never more sure of its devotion to the fulfillment of this need.

Enduring Faith. Morningside is a Christian college. It is building for a world based upon the brotherhood of man and the Fatherhood of God. The religious program of the College has been considerably vitalized by a new "Area-of-emphasis" approach. Each month is devoted to a concerted effort to emphasize a particular area of religious living. Race relations, religion and the war, the war and the family, etc., are areas of emphasis receiving attention.

"MORNINGSIDE" thus spells service to our country and to her future. The colleges know that only through victory can their tradition of freedom be preserved, for they would be the first enslaved in a totalitarian world. The colleges also know that freedom can be lost even though the war is won, that selfishness, ignorance, greed, and worldliness can lose the peace. So the College is engaged in a two-front war: One front is on the battlefield, the other front is in the hearts and minds of men.

Dr. M. E. Graber Receives Recognition as Aeronautics Authority

National recognition for outstanding work in the field of aeronautics has been accorded to Dr. Myron E. Graber, Dean of Men and head of the Physics and Engineering Departments at Morningside College. Dr. Graber is one of few men in this part of the country to be listed in Who's Who in Aviation. He has been called in for consultation by nationally known aviation authorities.

Dr. Graber first became interested in aviation while he was an instructor in the Mathematics and Physics Departments of the University of Chicago in 1917 and 1918.

"Actually, I had nothing to do with the course of aerodynamics which was offered at the University during the first world war," he says, "but I was closely associated with the professor in charge and took a great interest in the problems involved."

College Wins Approval

That interest has never been allowed to lag. Dr. Graber came to Morningside College in 1919 as instructor of physics and mathematics. Interest in aviation in the late 1920's led to the organization of a class in aeronautics and ground training for prospective pilots.

In 1939, officers of the National Aeronautical society conducted a survey of 1,700 schools and colleges, which offered aeronautics as a part of the course of study and Morningside was among the 63 selected for approval.

Under Dr. Graber's supervision, Morningside College was among the first in the country to offer the civilian pilot training course. The school was conducted in cooperation with E. L. Graham's flying service. Dr. Graber conducted the ground and pre-flight schools while actual flight training was under the supervision of Graham pilots.

Dr. Graber's work has been so outstanding that he is listed in Who's Who in Aviation, a compilation of names of men active in the development of aviation, though not necessarily fliers. Engineers, teachers, designers and laboratory men are listed.

He also has been called in for consultation by Kenneth Ebel, chief engineer for the Mairtin Aircraft Corporation, and he accompanied Mr. Ebel on a tour of inspection of the Martin plant at Omaha. New developments in plane design were discussed during the trip.

Dr. Graber was born July 5, 1880, at Mount Eaton, Ohio, and was graduated from Heidelberg University in 1901. He was appointed to the teaching staff immediately as professor of physics and mathematics. Mr. Ebel attended one of his classes at Heidelberg.

Classes under his supervision at Morningside include radio technology, ordnance, gunnery, navigation and astronomy (particularly as applied to celestial navigation) in addition to the usual courses of physics and mathematics. Ground school classes are conducted both at the college and at Rickenbacker airport.

Dr. Graber is married, but has no children. He is a member of the American Mathematical Society, the American Physical Society, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Illuminating Society, and the American Professional Men. He has lectured at Iowa and Chicago Universities in addition to his other work.

FACULTY ACTIVITIES

After several weeks of dividing his time between his College work and instruction at the C. P. T. school, Prof. Ira Gwinn is now devoting his full time to his work in the Physics Department and as Administrative Secretary of the College.

Two hundred ninety-four pairs of twins, ranging in ages from a few months to 76 years assembled at Morningside College for the recent Midwest Twin Convention sponsored by the Psychology Department. Primary purpose of the convention was to gather data on studies of the social development of twins being conducted by Dr. Earle E. Emme, head of the department.

Morningside's religious and social program has recently received wide attention through articles appearing in national publications and written by Dean George E. Hill. "A College Chapel that 'Passes'" appeared in the June number of Christian Education while "Helping College Students Develop Social Sensitivity" appears in the November issue of Educational Outlook.

Dr. J. E. Kirkpatrick, head of the Department of Education, is this semester teaching two sections of college Algebra, in addition to his regular Education courses. Heavy enrollments in Mathematics and the combination of sections in Education has made this possible.

T. N. McClure, for several years business manager of the College, has relinquished that post for the time being to become Coordinator of the flight training program sponsored jointly by the College and the Graham Flight Service. Mr. McClure's place has been filled by Mr. Roy J. Sweet, field agent of the College.

Miss Marcia McNee, Instructor in Education, is this semester devoting a portion of her time to the revision of alumni files.

The local chapter of the A. A. U. P. is this year sponsoring a series of faculty luncheon discussions devoted to current war problems as they relate to the college. Under the leadership of Dr. T. C. Stephens, president, and Miss Laura Fischer, secretary, the group have heard discussions led by Dean Hill, Dean Graber, President Roadman, and Librarian Clinton Burris.

Morningside is one of the colleges recently selected by the Methodist Church to participate in a study of the social backgrounds of students and alumni. Questionnaires are being distributed by Dr. E. E. Emme.

After over twenty years as Registrar, Miss Ethel Murray has this fall relinquished that position and returned to full-time teaching in the History Department. The work of the Registrar's office has been combined with that of the office of the Dean of the College.

Thursday and Friday, December 11 and 12 are the dates for the presentation of Paul Osborne's fantasy, "On Borrowed Time". Prof. John Felton's cast has been engaging in intensive work for the past two weeks in preparation.

One of the three candidates for the office of President of the Iowa State Teachers Association this fall was Dr. J. E. Kirkpatrick, Professor of Education at the College. While the election finally went to Dean Paul Packer of S. U. I., the substantial and enthusiastic backing given Dr. Kirkpatrick was a fine tribute to his leadership in educational circles throughout the state.

PRESIDENT ROADMAN REVIEWS PROGRESS

The alumni of Morningside College will be happy to know the facts and figures concerning the College finances.

1. Full one hundred percent faculty payments have been resumed.
2. For the year 1941-1942, the current income exceeded the current expense by slightly over $10,000.
3. $45,000 of indebtedness was retired during the year 1941-1942.
4. A total of $240,000 of indebtedness has been retired over the past six-year period.
5. The present overall indebtedness is approximately $125,000, of which $112,000 is against the dormitory.
6. The program of advance which has as its goal more than a million and a half of added financial strength in the next ten-year period. It anticipates retirement of all indebtedness by June, 1944, which will be the 50th anniversary of the organization of Morningside College. Five years previous the University of the Northwest began the operations which merged into Morningside College in 1894. Every educational institution which enters the post-war period free of debt and with an increasing number of friends is assured of increasing strength, stability, and growth.

"Where Are The All-Morningsiders?"

In the summer of 1939 Dr. and Mrs. Roadman and Miss Dimmitt took a western tour to visit alumni and former students of the college. The term, "All-Morningsiders", to include the entire group of alumni and former students, was an outgrowth of this trip. The term is now used to include any person who has spent at least two semesters here at Morningside College, partly to keep the very real enthusiasm of former students who have heard nothing directly from the campus for years and partly to draw them into closer contact in larger numbers. To do this a concerted effort to learn the addresses was necessary.

No one had been able to give very comprehensive attention to the work, however, until the summer of 1942 when Miss Marcia McNee of the college faculty was hired for a month's intensive effort on the project. She is continuing this work in addition to her other work this semester, and is assisted by two student-workers, one the secretary in the Office of Admissions.

The work is too incomplete as yet for statistical reports, but an approximate four thousand former students have been added to our files from the permanent record cards. The addresses of graduates were found and corrected to improve the general state of that file. Addresses for perhaps sixty per-cent of the former-student group have been located by means of much local telephoning and use of postal-cards to the last-known address of individuals. The work will continue to be pushed forward. Later some of you will be contacted for possible clues for individuals whom we fail to locate by these foregoing means. We appeal to you to send in the present addresses and other information concerning any former students you discover who are not now receiving our materials. Numbers of the alumni send in changes of address without special requests from us. We do appreciate this help very much. Consistent and persistent effort is necessary to keep alumni files up-to-date, and your help is gratefully received. Mistakes are inevitable, especially when clerical help does not know individuals personally. YOU can help us greatly. Thank you.

Morningside Athletics

FOOTBALL

The Maroons were tutored by Staff Cassell, new director of athletics who comes from American University of Washington, D. C. He was assisted by Don Snyder, former Morningside great who coached at Baker University last season, and Bernie Feikema, captain of last year's Maroon eleven.

Staff Cassell, director of athletics and head grid mentor, graduated from American University in 1936 and has coached there since. Before coming to American University, Staff attended Dickinson Seminary, of Williamsport, Pennsylvania, where he won 21 letters, a record that is unchallenged today. He also has B. S. and M. S. degrees from Penn State College.

A second member of the Maroon coaching staff is Don Snyder, a former Morningside athlete, who coached at Baker University last year. Coach Snyder attended the University of Illinois two years after winning all-conference recognition in basket ball at Morningside in 1937 and 1938. Bernie Feikema, who was chosen all-conference end in 1940 and 1941 while playing with the Maroons, also assisted with the coaching duties.

The Maroons lacked experienced and seasoning. Only six lettermen reported from the team of a year ago. Among the monogram winners returning were: Chuck Dirr, Orin Goodrich, Lowell Buchmiller, and Sterling Logue, all backs, Orlan Ott and Jim Strait in the forward wall. The squad was bolstered however by 30 candidates of no mean ability. In one tilt eight freshmen started in the lineup.

The Maroons opened the season in grand style by trouncing Southern Normal 59 to 6 on the new city athletic field. Seven different gridders crossed the goal-line in the onslaught. The following week-end the Morningside eleven ran into much tougher competition at Grand Forks, North Dakota, as they lost their initial North Central loop tilt, 7 to 6, to North Dakota University after outplaying the Nodaks all the way. Gene Asprey scored the Maroon touchdown on a beautiful screen pass thrown by Chuck Obye off the V formation.

South Dakota State whipped the Morningsiders 3 to 0 in the next game duplicating the score and play of 1941. Don Healy kicked a field goal for the Rabbits in the final quarter after the Maroons had thrown away two earlier scoring opportunities. The next week-end the Coyotes of South Dakota took the Cassell-coached team, 26 to 6, at Vermillion in a game much closer than the score indicates. Iowa Teachers, co-sharers of the league crown, stopped the Maroon gridders cold the following week-end at Cedar Falls by the same score 26 to 6. Morningside outplayed the Panthers the last half but to no avail.

Returning to the home turf once more, the Maroons swamped Omaha University, 49 to 13, in their one league victory. The determined Morningside team scored almost at will against the Indians with several frosh leading the attack. North Dakota State came to Sioux City the following week and barely edged out the spirited Maroons, 13 to 7, in a hard fought game.

Morningside closed the season Armistice Day at Sioux Falls against Augustana, that was one of the few unbeaten teams of the nation this year. Previous to the contest the Vikings were unscored upon in conference competition but the Maroons soon erased this record by crossing the goal-line twice in the first half to take a 27 to 13 decision.

Proof of the Maroons spirit and strength was shown at the league coaches meeting when the North Central mentors chose three of the Morningside gridmen for the all-loop team. George Urbanis, frosh star, Larry Freeman, sophomore end, and Chuck Obye, junior back, received the high honor. Gene Asprey received honorable mention and lead the Maroon scorers with 36 tallies. The Maroons also outpointed their opponents this year running up one of the best offensive averages of recent years, nearly a 20 point per game average.

BASKET BALL

Coach Staff Cassell faced a tough assignment to build a basket ball quintet on par with last year's Maroon five which won runner-up honors in the North Central conference. Only three lettermen were on hand when the first hardcourt artists reported.

Leading the group was Bob Held, all-conference forward of last season, and a versatile junior cager. Other monogram winners returning were Loren Clark, sharp-shooting junior and Chuck Obye, a junior guard and one of the best athletes at Morningside this year.

In addition to the three lettermen were Dusty Rhoades, rugged sophomore guard and Johnny Helm, 6 ft. 4-in. center from Hinton, completing the first Maroon five. Other outstanding candidates include freshmen Bill Briggs from Central and Tommy Green from East.

Western Union opened the 17 game schedule of the Morningside quint on the local floor and lost to the high scoring Maroons, 59 to 37. Freshman Bill Briggs led the Morningside attack with 18 counters while Bob Held fired in 13 and played an outstanding floor game. Two days later the Maroons swamped Yankton, 44 to 26 on the Alumni court. Held dumped in 15 points to aid the Maroon cause. In the third game within one week the Morningside team went on a wild second half scoring spree to top the Sioux City Air Base, 57 to 34.

Morningside will play 11 North Central tilts this season and have 10 home contests on the slate.
