ON OUR COVER

Wrestling captured the spotlight on the Morningside College campus as Allee Gymnasium hosted the finals of the NAIA national tournament.

More than 400 wrestlers representing 100 NAIA colleges participated in the competition March 8, 9 and 10. The matches drew unusually large crowds to Allee Gym.

WHY MORNINGSIDE.....

Over 18 years ago, I rose and walked briskly up to and across the stage in tiny Klinger Forum, grasped the outstretched hand of President Roadman, and accepted with pride and excitement the congratulations from his smiling lips and the diploma from his hand! Another shared that moment of pride with me, as my Mother, who had taken time off from her job at the old T. S. Martin Company, witnessed the culmination of labor and love at that same moment.

Why Morningside? The circumstances which led to that event at that particular point in time are not really important now. What is important is that I have grown to have a better understanding for and a greater appreciation of this College because of the circumstances that followed. Such has not been the good fortune of most who are recipients of a Morningside degree.

Why Morningside? Except for a brief period of employment with Swift and Company, as a "standards checker", I have been privileged to be a part of the staff of the old school these past 18 years; as an admission counselor, associate director of admissions, director of admissions, and for the last four and one-half years in my current responsibility as director of alumni affairs.

Morningside College has been around for 78 years, several hundred professors and staff members, several thousand students, most of whom are now alumni. She has seen prosperity, depression, sadness, happiness, poor teaching conditions, great teaching conditions, good students, bad students, mediocrity, apathy, indifference, concern, aspirations, frustrations, accomplishment, defeat, dreams, hopes, involvement and awareness, and many other situations and conditions. She is greater today for all of it, and for all of us!

Why Morningside? Well, what is the point of all this? Simply, it is this: when we are really looking in our hearts, we are proud of our College and our related experiences, and I am certain I speak for most of you when I reflect in this way. When we are considering colleges for our off-spring, or to recommend to our friends and acquaintances, we are shortsighted if we don't ask them to investigate our Alma Mater! And when it becomes time to answer an appeal for support, we are selling ourselves short if we don't respond, to the best of our financial ability and by so doing, re-insure the value and validity of our own degree! Support has many dimensions: caring enough to be properly informed; referring students, her lifeblood; being constructively critical; and, of course, investing financially to insure her continuation. All in all, to incorporate a rather trite but appropriate expression of our times, in response to the question Why Morningside? . . . WHY NOT? (MORNINGSIDE)!

In Memoriam

...GEORGE W. DUNN

...JAMES A. COSS

...FRANK P. JOHNSON

Three close friends of Morningside College—George W. Dunn, James A. Coss and Frank P. Johnson—died during the first two months of 1973. They will be missed by the college community.

Dr. Dunn, a Morningside graduate and former member of the administrative staff, was stricken at the conclusion of a funeral at which he officiated in Sioux City Jan. 13, and died before the ambulance reached the hospital.

Dr. Coss, chairman of the Chemistry Department for more than 30 years, died Feb. 5 in a Sioux City nursing home. Members of the faculty, students and administration had honored him with a party on his 100th birthday last November.

Mr. Johnson, retired executive vice-president of Payless Cashways, Inc., was vice chairman of the Morningside Board of Directors at the time of his death, Feb. 24. He was to receive an honorary degree at the May 13 commencement exercises.

Born in England, Dr. Dunn came to Iowa in 1911, attended Morningside Academy and received a bachelor's degree from the college in 1921. While attending college he served as a student pastor, and following graduation was pastor at Methodist churches in Whiting, Ida Grove and Mapleton. In 1936, he became pastor of First Methodist Church in Sioux City, where he served for many years.

Dr. Dunn was superintendent of the Dubuque District of the church from 1952 until 1957 and joined the Morningside staff as assistant to the president in 1962. He was very active in civic affairs in Sioux City and also in Le Mars, where he and Mrs. Dunn had made their home since 1964.

Survivors, in addition to Mrs. Dunn, include his daughter, Ferne Dunn Obye, a 1944 Morningside graduate, the wife of Coach Chuck Obye. Dr. Dunn was preceded in death by his first wife, the former Mary Albert, who died in 1961. A son, Homer, lost his life while serving as a fighter pilot in WW II.

Because Dr. Dunn was a loyal friend of the college for many years and his life was exemplary for youth, the executive committee of the Board of Directors voted that the Religious Life Center in the Commons be named in his honor.

A memorial benefiting the college has been established in his name.

Dr. Coss served on the faculty from 1911 until his retirement in 1946, and later was awarded an honorary Doctor of Science degree by the college.

He was instrumental in the establishment of the Sioux Valley Chemistry Club, which later became the Sioux Valley Section of the American Chemistry Society.

The Coss children all graduated from Morningside—Catherine, '34; Margaret, '36; James, '37; and Florence, '43. In addition to the children, Dr. Coss is survived by Mrs. Coss, who lives at the Billy Sunday Retirement Home in Sioux City.

Dr. Coss has been remembered by a memorial and the college has placed a plaque in his honor in A. W. Jones Hall of Science.

Mr. Johnson had been a member of the Morningside Board of Directors since 1959 and held various offices. For the last several years he was vice chairman of the board and chairman of the board's executive committee.

The Honorary Degree Committee of the faculty voted unanimously to have an honorary doctorate conferred on Mr. Johnson May 13, 1973 in recognition of his success in the field of business and his leadership in behalf of the college.

Mr. Johnson was at his winter home in Scottsdale, Ariz., when he was fatally stricken.

Placement Bureau Finds

TEACHING JOBS FOR

by Dr. Sharon D. Ocker
Director, Teacher Placement
Head, Dept. of Education

For several years now, the national media have painted a dreary picture about employment opportunities for teachers. Many articles have appeared in newspapers and magazines, usually highlighting shocking statements like "400 applicants for 3 teaching positions at Midville."

Of course, there is some truth in these sensational reports, but there is evidence of mass hysteria as well. When teachers began to hear of the over-supply (and there certainly is an oversupply of some types of teachers in some areas), many of them sent applications to every school they could think of, thereby making things look worse than they really were.

Morningside College education graduates have enjoyed relatively good success in finding positions in recent years. The main reason for this is the high regard that school officials have for Morningside graduates in general. A number of schools have hired Morningsiders throughout the years and have found them to be of consistently high quality. Some administrators call the placement office directly and ask if we have students available — and add that they will look at our graduates before checking with other colleges in the area.

In 1971-72, Morningside graduated more students who could certify as teachers than ever before in history. One hundred fifty-one students were eligible, but only 134 joined the placement bureau and actively sought placement. Ninety-eight found full-time teaching positions. Many others found part-time jobs in education or other work which was related to their training, but the figures here show only those who secured full-time teaching positions in public or private schools. Of those who actively sought placement, 73 per cent were able to enter into a contract. (If one uses the number eligible — 151 — the percentage under contract becomes 65). Taking into consideration that some of those remaining were not able to move from their present home because of family ties, etc., this seems to be reasonably good success. The accompanying chart shows the results of the 1971-72 season by major areas. It is difficult to interpret the meaning of such figures, but they are published for the readers' information.

Other colleges also report on the placement picture from time to time. One northwest Iowa college recently reported that 87 per cent of its teacher graduates had found teaching positions. Later in the report, however, it was mentioned that the 87 per cent figure included other jobs, too, and that actually only 63 percent found full-time teaching positions. (They did not supply the 63 per cent figure, however—we had to compute that ourselves from their data.) One must conclude that placement figures should be taken with a "grain of salt," since reporting officials use a variety of methods in arriving at their totals.

It is interesting to look at total numbers of teachers placed over the past few years. Morningside records show the following totals of those who reported finding full-time positions:

- 1968—77
- 1969—85
- 1970—99
- 1971—74
- 1972—98.

Of course, there is a constant fluctuation in the demand for major areas of study. A few years ago, due to curriculum changes, a large number of women's physical education teachers were needed. The demand is not as great now, but Morningside women's physical education students still find jobs — though not as easily.

Two fields that are often cited as having tremendous surpluses are English and Social Studies. This may be true, but when 18 of 25 new English teachers from Morningside were placed (and when some of the remaining graduates did not actively seek a position), the reports lose some of their impact. And, in social studies, there was little difficulty experienced by those candidates who had the historically proven combination of social studies with physical education and/or coaching.

In an effort to respond to the placement pressures of today, the Morningside Teacher Placement Bureau has tried to keep pace by improving its services. Starting with the 1971 season, the bureau has produced a placement bulletin once a week during the peak season. To speed up the process of establishing credentials, candidates now make out only one copy of the information, with the rest being photocopied from the original. (Alumni will remember making eleven copies of each page themselves in the good old days!) But the real success comes from the hard work on the part of the candidates themselves—those who really try to find a job usually do.

Some other statistics from the 1972 placement season are rather interesting. They show that the average number of applications made by our students was 10; the average number of personal interviews was three; and the average number of jobs offered but turned down was one.

What this all means is that jobs are not easy to find — that candidates must work hard to find the jobs — but that jobs are available in most subject fields for good candidates.

The Placement Bureau is available for alumni placement, too, as in the past. Quite a few alumni used the services last year and most of them found placement. Those who join (the fee is $10.00) will receive the Placement Bulletin and can have up to 15 sets of credentials sent without additional charges. For further information, write or call the Teacher Placement Bureau.

THE MASTERS PROGRAM:

A class of 20 graduated in August with the Master of Arts in Teaching degree from Morningside. Total graduates in the four majors offered now number 74 since the program began in 1967, as follows:

Elementary Education	62
English (Secondary)	3
Math (Secondary)	3
History (Secondary)	6

August also marked the end of the MAT Intern program, a federally funded project which allowed college graduates to prepare for certification in Elementary Education at the Intermediate grades level. There were 22 students who successfully completed this training during the two years that the program was in operation. The original purpose was to help alleviate the shortage of teachers at that level, and when the shortage ended the funding was withdrawn.

Most of the graduate classes in the program are held during the two summer sessions each year, but a few are offered in the Evening Division each semester. A recent questionnaire to MAT graduates showed that the program is a strong one and that students are quite satisfied with it.

Anyone desiring additional information regarding the Master of Arts in Teaching degree at Morningside, should contact Dr. Ocker, head of the Graduate Division.

Potpourri A Summary of Campus Events

FUEL CRISIS DELAYS SEMESTER'S OPENING

The nation's fuel oil shortage, aggravated by sub-zero temperatures in Siouland, forced the college to close down for several days in January and to postpone the opening of the second semester for one week.

Under normal conditions the college is heated with natural gas, but because of supply and demand elsewhere the service is interruptible whenever severe cold strikes. Then the college switches to fuel oil.

During the first week of January, however, the college's regular oil source found it could no longer supply its larger customers. Unable to find sufficient quantities immediately, the college was forced to turn back the thermostats toward the freezing point and notify students that registration would be delayed one week.

A frantic search for oil was finally successful and moderating temperatures enabled Morningside to adhere to the revised schedule. The buildings were warm again when students returned to campus.

The fuel shortage has pointed out to the college, as well as the rest of the nation, the danger of inadequate storage facilities. Therefore the college is now renting off-campus tanks, and this summer will probably install several large ones on campus. The tanks, it is believed, will soon pay for themselves by allowing the college to buy large quantities at off-season prices.

Meanwhile, until the heating season ends Morningside will continue to conserve fuel.

MUSICIANS HOLD JAZZ FESTIVAL

Band Director Gary Slechta and his music students staged "The First Annual Tri-State Jazz Festival and Clinic" on the campus Feb. 10. Thirteen high school stage bands competed for trophies, and members of Woody Herman's "Thundering New Herd" conducted clinics and presented concerts.

The Morningside Band, through several projects, is attempting to raise money to help finance a tour of several European countries this summer.

CAMPUS OBSERVES VIETNAM PEACE

"A Celebration of the Peace", in observance of the signing of the Vietnam treaty, was held in Eppley Auditorium Jan. 29. Sponsored by the Religious Life Council and Student Personnel Services, the program was designed to express thanks for peace and to commemorate those who gave their lives in Vietnam.

MORNINGSIDE INITIATES LONG-RANGE PLANNING

Morningside's Long-Range Planning Committee is now complete and is rapidly implementing its study of the college's present operations, President Thompson reports.

The goal of the 23-member committee is to draw up short, intermediate and long-range plans which will assure the college's continuing excellence as an academic institution.

Serving as chairman of the group is Dr. Harvey Potthoff, a 1932 graduate, who is a faculty member at Iliff School of Theology. In addition, six divisions have been established to examine community relations, structure and process, finance, academic, enrollment and student life, and facilities and physical plant.

Other committee members are Bruce Crary, chairman of the Board of Directors; President Thompson; Dr. Raymond Nelson, vice president for academic affairs; Mrs. Doris Lohry, a member of the board; Harold Poppen, general agent of Fidelity Union Life Insurance; Norman Sloan, president of First Federal Savings and Loan; Bruce Kolbe, vice president of Security National Bank; Dr. Roger Russell, superintendent of the Des Moines District of the United Methodist Church; the Rev. John Moore, superintendent of the church's Sioux City district.

Howard Weiner of Iowa Public Service Co.; Harlan Davis of Grandy-Pratt Co.; Dr. Margaret Hutchison of the Education Department; Dr. Donald Poppen, dean of students; Tom Trevathan and Dr. Elsie Muller of the Mathematics Department; Dwight Packard, Business Administration; Harlan Buss, Music; Mrs. Ruth Green, government grants coordinator; and James Walker, admissions. Walker is serving as staff coordinator.

GOLDSTEIN ENDOWMENT AIDS RELIGIOUS STUDIES

An endowment in memory of Bernice Galinsky Goldstein will enable Morningside College to continue two courses in Judaism which have been offered by the Religious Studies Department.

President Thompson announced the gift to the college in late December.

The primary purpose of the endowment is to provide for the continuation of "A History of Judaism," which surveys Jewish history, beliefs and practices, and "The Prophets," providing an in-depth analysis of selected passages from Amos, Hosea, Isaiah, Micah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel and Deutero-Isaiah.

It is hoped that it will also aid in sponsoring the appearance of visiting lecturers, research courses and other endeavors relating to the study of Judaism at Morningside.

Mrs. Goldstein, a native of Odebolt, Iowa, was active in community and religious activities. She served as drama coach at the Mary Treglia Community Center, play director at the Community Theater and was a member of the boards of Sunrise Manor, Mount Sinai Temple and Mount Sinai Sisterhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Goldstein established the Bernice and Harold Goldstein Scholarships at Morningside in 1965 and the Annual Youth Leadership Award for Jewish Community activity in Sioux City. Mrs. Goldstein died March 19, 1972.

The endowment was established by Mr. Goldstein, chairman of the board of Sioux City Foundry.

SPORTS: A CHANGE OF SEASONS

Chuck Obye Resigns Basketball Position

C. H. "Chuck" Obye, head basketball coach at Morningside College for the past 16 years, announced his resignation in February, prior to the end of current cage season, and announced that he will be leaving the college at the end of the academic year.

Obye, whose term as basketball coach is the longest in Morningside history, compiled the second best record through the years and developed 13 all-North Central Conference athletes.

He was NCAA District 5 Coach of the Year in 1970 after he guided his team to the finals of the North Central Conference Holiday Basketball Tournament and narrowly missed a trip to the NAIA National Basketball Tournament.

His 1959 basketball team advanced to that same national tournament after winning the Iowa NAIA championship. Prior to joining the Morningside College staff in 1957, Obye was the head basketball coach at Wayne State College in Nebraska.

Obye expressed his thanks to the college community for its help and support over the years. His future plans were not announced.

BASKETBALL

It has not been a good year for Morningside basketball. The Chiefs, with one of their most difficult schedules in recent years, finished a 0-24 season.

On top of that was the resignation of head coach C. H. "Chuck" Obye after 16 years at the helm. Obye announced several weeks prior to the end of the season of his intention to leave the school at the end of the academic year.

The Chiefs lost several close games including one-point losses to Nebraska Wesleyan and the University of Missouri at Kansas City but the Chiefs could not find the consistency to win.

Bruce Jenkins, the lone senior on the squad, was a leader for the Chiefs all season. Jenkins led the league in scoring for the first month of the season and moved into the career scoring list. He finished sixth on the list with 885 points—417 points this season.

Other strong players for the Chiefs this season have been rugged rebounder, 6-6 junior Scott Burgason, 6-4 guard and J. C. transfer Ulysses Glenn, 6-3 forward Freeman Berry, and 6-0 guard Tom Polt, all who return next year. Burgason was one of the top league rebounders while Glenn was among the top 15 N.C.C. scorers. Berry was hampered by a broken foot which caused him to miss five games at mid-season and cut down his effectiveness.

With everyone but Jenkins back next year, plus the addition of several players from the freshman squad, including 6-2 guard Marv Munden, the Chiefs are looking for good years ahead.

BASEBALL

With the beginning of the season less than a month away at press time, the Morningside College baseball Chiefs are preparing for a 36-game schedule, the biggest in the school's history.

The Chiefs start out the campaign with a rugged 12-game southern swing which includes the March 23 opener with the University of Arkansas and games with Southwest Missouri State, William Jewell, plus series newcomers Missouri Southern and John Brown University.

Coach Don Protexter is optimistic about the young Chiefs' chances and hopes to come back with a good record against these perennially strong schools. Returning home the Chiefs will have their usual 20-game North Central Conference schedule plus four non-conference tilts. On their home diamond the Chiefs will face N.C.C. foes North Dakota State, in the home opener April 6, South Dakota State, Augustana, and the University of Northern Iowa for three games each, and will host the University of South Dakota in a doubleheader. Rounding out the 12-game home slate is a non-league doubleheader with nearby rival Westmar.

In the other two non-conference games the Chiefs will travel to Omaha for an April 10th twin bill against Creighton University.

Protexter and assistant coach Dick Weikert welcome back 12 letterman from last year's squad, headed by All-N.C.C. outfielder Mike Pomeranke. One of the Chiefs' strengths will be on the mound where three of the top E.R.A. pitchers in the league return. Leading the way are senior hurlers Rex Johnsrud, Dave Andros, and Lee Westergaard, all who had less than a 2.26 E.R.A. in N.C.C. play. Also ready for mound duty are junior lettermen Don Ritland and Tom Polt plus transfers Al McNiven and Steve Zediker.

Returning in the infield are the N.C.C.'s co-home run leader, Rod Nordstrom (.275), third baseman Jim Westergaard (.273), sophomore shortstop Jim Miller (.194), and first baseman Bob Thompson (.277).

Joining Pomeranke (.295) in the outfield will be the squad's leading hitter last season Mike Snyders (.314). Pomeranke was one of four Chiefs to hit over .300 in league play along with Nordstrom, Snyders, and Lee Westergaard as the Chiefs carved out a 2-8-1 N.C.C. record.

The Chiefs are confident of improving on their 5-17-1 record of last year. It was a season in which many young players gained valuable experience and also one in which the Chiefs were unable to play 12 games due to the weather. But they are looking forward to a good southern swing and strong N.C.C. performance.

WRESTLING

It is a good year for wrestling at Morningside for Coach Arnie Brandt. His squad finished up a most successful dual season with 10-3 mark and did well in several large tournaments.

In their latest outing the mat Chiefs finished a very respectable fifth in the North Central Conference, with all four teams ahead of them rated in the top 10 in the N.C.A.A.-College Division poll. Senior stalwarts Frank Thompson (167 lbs.) and Steve Newhard (177 lbs.) again lead the way with second place finishes. Thompson dropped a narrow 9-7 decision while Newhard lost 5-3 in overtime. Also placing for the Chiefs was 126-lb. Randy Thomas as he took fourth place.

In their next action the Chiefs will be traveling to Waverly, Iowa to defend their N.A.I.A. District Championships. All wrestlers placing in the top three in the districts will advance to the N.A.I.A. National Championships, which are scheduled March 8-10 at Allee Gym on Morningside's campus.

Good bets for the Chiefs include Thompson, who will wrestle at 158. Thompson has 21 victories for the season, only two away from the school season record. Newhard has to be considered a favorite at 177 where he is 19-5 for the campaign.

Other Chief contenders are seniors Rick Nuss and Dave Roder plus freshman Kelly Greene. Nuss is currently tied with Denny Christensen on the all-time career victory list with 62 victories. He is 18-6 this year at 134 lbs. Roder (118 lbs.) is 10-9 overall while Greene (190 lbs.) stands at 13-9.

The Chiefs, who were ranked 15th in the nation in the N.A.I.A., finished 21st in the nationals last year but have hopes of finishing higher this year when the nationals come to Morningside College.

Alumni Profile

ISAACSON BRINGS MORNINGSIDE TO DENVER

A little bit of Morningside College is becoming a permanent part of the Rocky Mountain empire, thanks to a sentimental alumnus whose prominence in the construction industry has led him to the presidency of one of Colorado's more upcoming companies.

Maurice D. Isaacson, 49, president of the Fulenwider Construction Company, didn't have to think long or hard when a name was needed for a swank, 440 condominium apartment complex which his firm is building in Denver. Its name became Morningside.

Morningside in Denver, when completed, will have a total of 10 buildings—eight four-story and two six-story structures, all with under building parking for tenants. In addition, there will be a club house for use of all apartment owners.

Isaacson makes no bones about naming his company's most prestigious project after his old Alma Mater:

"In all of our advance planning of this community, we designed and are building into it features which give the community a warm, friendly and restful atmosphere, but one charged with an awareness of life . . . an awareness which makes you want to reach out and touch life to be sure you remain part of it.

"This was the same feeling I had during my years at Morningside College. So, when it came time to give our new community a name there was no problem, it was Morningside Condominiums," Isaacson explains.

Maurice D. Isaacson

Isaacson was born in Nebraska. His family moved to Sioux City where he attended North Junior High School, and in 1942 he was graduated from Central High School.

Following a stint in the Army from 1943 until 1946, Isaacson returned to Sioux City and Morningside College where he earned his Bachelor of Science degree in January, 1949. He was awarded a Master of Arts degree from the University of Denver in 1950.

A recognized expert in luxury condominium developments, Isaacson, prior to assuming the presidency of Fulenwider Construction, was involved in planning and building four other major condominium developments in Colorado and Arizona totaling more than 10,000 luxury apartments.

CHANCELLOR NAMED TO BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Dr. James C. Olson, chancellor of the University of Missouri at Kansas City, has been named to the Morningside Board of Directors.

Dr. Olson, a 1938 graduate of Morningside, became chancellor of the Kansas City campus in 1968. Prior to that he was vice chancellor for graduate studies and research at the University of Nebraska.

In addition to a Bachelor of Arts degree from Morningside, he holds a Master of Arts and a Ph.D. from the University of Nebraska and was awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws degree at Morningside's spring commencement in 1968.

Mrs. Olson, the former Vera Farrington, also attended Morningside.

WEEKEND ACTIVITIES ATTRACT PARENTS

Parents Weekend on the Morningside campus March 2 and 3 brought several hundred visitors. More than 200 attended a father-son banquet, and there was a similar turnout for its mother-daughter counterpart.

The entertainment included buffets and a brunch, speakers, a concert, two conference basketball games and visiting with President and Mrs. Thompson, and members of the faculty and administration.

JEWETT TO PARIS FOR SABBATICAL

Dr. Robert Jewett, professor of religious studies, is serving as theologian in residence at the American Church in Paris during a one-semester sabbatical leave from Morningside.

The American Church in Paris serves as a center for the English-speaking community in the French capital. The post of theologian in residence is presented to outstanding American theologians on sabbatical leave, and the church provides the theologian and his family with a residence in the church building.

Dr. Jewett, who began his duties Jan. 7, will teach adult religion classes and work on several books he has been writing. The family will return to Sioux City in mid-July.

MORNINGSIDERS KEEP PUBLISHERS BUSY

Two Morningside graduates, Ronald Stone, '60, and Cora Frear Hawkins, '07, have had works published recently. Stone is the author of "Reinhold Niebuhr, Prophet to Politicians", published by Abingdon Press. The book received a lengthy, laudatory review in the New Yorker.

Dr. Stone is associate professor of social ethics at Pittsburgh Theological Seminary and edits Social Action, a magazine published by the United Church of Christ.

"Buggies, Blizzards and Babies" by Mrs. Hawkins was recently chosen as Christian Herald Family Bookshelf selection. It is the story of her father, a pioneer doctor who practiced in the Sioux City area for many years. Mrs. Hawkins now lives in Eugene, Ore.

Robert Cromie, associate editor of Book World, recently devoted part of a column to Era Bell Thompson, '33 (honorary degree in 1965) a noted author and international editor of Ebony Magazine.

Cromie reports:

"Among the things that have pleased me recently in this sometimes unpleasant world is the homecoming given Era Bell Thompson . . . by the town of Driscoll, N.D., where Miss Thompson spent most of her childhood. Driscoll itself is a tiny hamlet, but some 1,500 persons—perhaps 10 times the total of the town's population—showed up for the celebration of Era Bell Thompson Days."

In addition to the usual celebration fare, the community presented a pageant built around Miss Thompson's book, "American Daughter," in which scenes from her life were portrayed.

"My only regret," Cromie wrote, "is that no one sent me an invitation."

RELEASE TIME NEARS FOR POW 'BUD' DAY

As the Morningsider went to press, Air Force Col. George E. (Bud) Day, a 1950 Morningside graduate, was still a prisoner of war in North Vietnam. However, his release is expected soon.

On campus recently for a visit and convocation address, Bishop James S. Thomas of Des Moines (center) visited with President Thompson and the Rev. John K. Moore, (right), superintendent of the Sioux City district of the United Methodist Church.

Col. Day, who is reported "very much alive and in good spirits" by his wife, was originally listed as missing in action after his plane was shot down in August 1967. She received one letter from her husband in 1968, four letters in 1970, six in 1971, five in 1972 and two this year.

According to the timetable of past releases, Col. Day should return to the states in March.

TUITION, ROOM RATES RAISE $110 A YEAR

Morningside has announced increases totalling $110 in tuition and room rates for the 1973 academic year.

The increases represent a $100 raise in tuition and $10 in room and board, establishing Morningside's tuition, room and board at $2,744, as compared to the present figure of $2,634.

Bruce Crary, chairman of the Board of Directors, noted that other colleges and universities in the area already have announced increases and others will undoubtedly follow suit. With the raise, Morningside's total costs will continue to compare very favorably to those of other private colleges in Iowa, he said.

SEMINAR ON AGING PROVES POPULAR

What is the truth about aging? Are those approaching retirement age doomed to feebleness and senility? Will their declining years be spent in shabby rooms with no money to provide an adequate diet or pay for medical attention?

A Morningside seminar, led by Dr. William Fraser of Psychology, is attempting to answer those questions by bringing together biologists, sociologists, economists, psychologists, those who work with the aged and senior citizens themselves.

One of two new seminars on campus, "The Psychology of Aging" is part of the Evening Division curriculum. It has attracted a large enrollment from the college and the community.

Soon to be unveiled is a "Youth Seminar" under the direction of Dr. Gary Koerselman of the History and Political Science Department. Campus and community leaders will be enlisted to examine the problems facing Sioux City's youth and will search for solutions.
