ON OUR COVER:

It was a great day for the students and members of the faculty and administration who gathered in the Randolph Room of the Commons. It also was a momentous occasion for Shirley and Bob Lincoln, who were there to join in the unveiling of plans for the Robert M. Lincoln Center for Business Administration-Economics and Continuing Education. For the full story of a grateful college and a couple who were obviously enjoying it all, please turn to page 4.

Editor—Dick Elgin Sports—Lonnie Rogers Alumni Director—Robert Miller

THE MORNINGSIDER is published quarterly by Morningside College, Sioux City, Iowa. Second class postage paid at Sioux City, Iowa. Address correspondence to the Editor, THE MORNINGSIDER, Morningside College, Sioux City, Iowa 51106.

From the Editor's Desk . . .

Just as this issue of The Morningsider was nearly complete, the college received word that a bequest of $500 has been received from the estate of Mrs. Fred W. (Nellie) Baurer of Geneva, lowa.

She was the sister of the Rev. Myron Brower, pastor of Morningside Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Baurer was not an alumna of Morningside, but she had viewed the campus on occasions while visiting Rev. and Mrs. Brower, whose son, Stephen, will be a junior at the college this fall. And although the Baurers' had no children of their own, she had demonstrated an interest in young people throughout her life. Consequently, the bequest has been designated to the scholarship fund.

In receiving the gift, President Thompson observed that Mrs. Baurer's bequest and the one from the estate of Albert Morehouse (see page 3) "provides the college community with a challenge to fulfill the confidence and expectations of those who have singled out Morningside for special mention in their estates."

Bequests are very important to the college and all are deeply appreciated.

Are you considering a gift to Morningside or to one of your favorite charities? If so, it's important to make certain your gift is carefully planned to achieve the most from every dollar.

"Thirteen Ways to Plan Your Charitable Gift," a booklet available from the Estate Planning Office, describes four types of gifts by will and nine ways to give during life. It includes a brief review of exactly what the tax laws say and provides four tables showing how much more a charitable annuity trust and a charitable uni-trust might mean to you or to you and your spouse.

If you believe this booklet on tax-saving methods of giving would be helpful now or at sometime in the future, simply drop a line to A. W. Buckingham, vice president of Estate Planning, 120 Lewis Hall, and he'll see you receive a copy promptly.

Morningside College welcomes your support, but we realize there may be others to protect and provide for. Only if your plans are sound can you be both wise and generous, and the Estate Planning Office is always available to help.

Pool Named in Honor of Morehouse . . .

The swimming pool in Allee Gymnasium at Morningside has been dedicated to the memory of a prominent Humboldt, Iowa citizen who demonstrated a deep interest in youth and the college during his lifetime.

The facility was named the Albert Morehouse Swimming Pool at a ceremony following the close of the April meeting of the college's Board of Directors.

Morehouse, a prominent seed corn dealer and civic leader, died Jan. 18, 1972, at the age of 77. He was a sales executive for DeKalb AgResearch Inc., and owned real estate in Humboldt County.

The value of his estate has been estimated in excess of $1 million and 20 per cent of its value, after specific bequests, was willed to Morningside.

At a luncheon preceding the ceremony and at the dedication, college officials, representatives of the United Methodist Church and close friends of Mr. Morehouse paid tribute to his civic endeavors and interest in youth.

The Rev. Dr. James S. Thomas, United Methodist bishop for Iowa, described him as "a deep and devoted Christian gentleman and a friend of Morningside College. He was always looking for ways to uplift people."

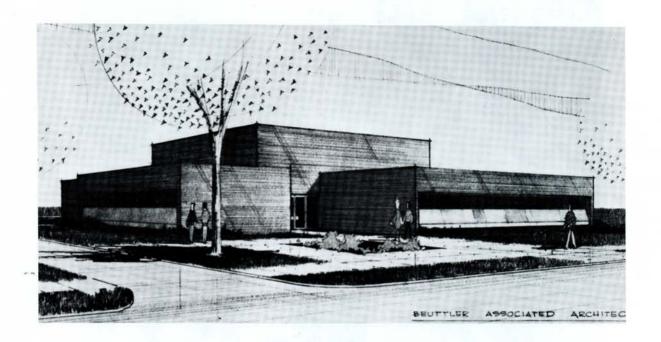

Melvin Baker, Humboldt lawyer and a personal friend of Mr. Morehouse, called the pool dedication fitting because "he was very much interested in youth and in what youth was doing, including athletics."

Mr. Morehouse was one of the founders of Friendship Haven, a Methodist-sponsored retirement home at Ft. Dodge, Iowa, and also helped establish the new Humboldt County Memorial Hospital.

He served on the Humboldt City Council for four years, was a member of the city's planning and zoning commission, past president of the Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary Club. He was active in developing the Methodist and Rotary scholarship funds and the Rotary Foundation.

An active United Methodist churchman, Mr. Morehouse was Sunday school superintendent for more than 20 years and choir director for 13 years. He had served as lay delegate to the annual Iowa Conference of the church, as a member of the Bishop's Committee on Tax Study, and as a trustee of Hillcrest Baby Fold and Friendship Haven. He was honored as Citizen of the Year by the Humboldt Catholic Youth Organization in 1967.

Speakers at the luncheon in addition to Bishop Thomas and Mr. Baker included President Thompson, A. W. Buckingham, vice president for Estate Planning, and Dr. W. Morris Kildal, director of Friendship Haven and former pastor of the United Methodist Church at Humboldt. The dedication plaque was unveiled by Mr. Baker.

Unveil New Lincoln Center for Morningside Campus...

Plans for a new classroom-general purpose building for the Morningside campus were unveiled by the college at a news conference April 18 in the Student Commons.

The one-story, brick and concrete structure — named the Robert M. Lincoln Center for Business Administration-Economics and Continuing Education — will be erected on the parking lot east of the Commons.

According to bids submitted by contractors in mid-June, the project's cost will be $476,500. President Thompson has said that construction will start as soon as full-funding is completed.

The large group attending the news conference included college officials, students and the building's chief donor, Robert M. Lincoln, who is a 1950 graduate and a member of the college's board of directors.

Mr. Lincoln, president and chief executive officer of Payless Cashways Inc., has given Morningside $200,000 toward construction. He predicted the center, with its facilities for continuing education, will prove "a great asset to the Siouxland community."

Board Chairman Bruce Crary also revealed at the conference that the Kresge Foundation had pledged a $100,000 challenge grant requiring matching funds. As the Morningsider went to press, other large donations had been received from Younkers, Inc., the Sooland Chapter of Chartered Life Underwriters Association, Perkins Bros. Company of Sioux City, and from Payless Cashways in memory of Frank P. Johnson of Sioux City, an executive of the corporation and former Morningside board member who died last February.

In announcing the Perkins Bros. gift May 31, President Thompson revealed that the library in the new building will be named in honor of George D. Perkins, pioneer Sioux City journalist-statesman and founder of the company. Mr. Perkins served several terms in Congress and was editor and publisher of the Sioux City Journal from 1869 until his death in 1914.

The Lincoln Center will house the Business Administration and Economics departments which are now located in the basement of Lewis Hall. With 214 majors, Business Administration is the largest department on campus, and present facilities are inadequate and allow no room for growth. In recent years the department's enrollment has been increasing by 7 per cent per year, and plans for an expanded curriculum make new quarters essential.

The building will also serve the college's growing program of continuing education, offering special classes for many in the community who are not regular students. Examples, President Thompson said, are management development courses for business and industry, and seminars on local government affairs, youth problems and aging.

In addition to six classrooms designed to seat 30 students each and the Perkins Library, the facility will provide a large departmental assembly room for 154, a lecture classroom to accommodate 60, a seminar room, reception room and 10 individual offices for the teaching staff. It will be air-conditioned.

Mr. Lincoln told the news conference he hoped the center would provide young people with the same opportunities he enjoyed. His life was described recently by one publication as a "true Horatio Alger" story.

He was born in Sioux City Jan. 25, 1925 and attended local schools, but family financial problems following the death of his father forced him to drop out of Central High School. At 14 he joined a National Guard unit in Sioux City, and almost immediately, with the advent of World War II, the unit was mobilized and sent to the British Isles. He served in the North African campaign, was wounded and discharged at age 18.

After four years in various jobs, Lincoln returned to Sioux City in order to enroll at Morningside. With all As to show Central High officials at the end of the first semester, he was granted a high-school equivalency diploma, and within two years was graduated from Morningside magna cum laude.

While attending Morningside, he was recruited by Mr. Johnson to work part-time as a bookkeeper for the local Payless store. Soon he was doing similar work for other stores in the system. He joined a local accounting firm after graduation and took the Payless accounts with him; then five years later he went to work for Payless and began the climb through the ranks.

When the company's stock went public in 1969, Mr. Lincoln was named president and chief executive officer, and he immediately launched a vigorous expansion program. The company's sales, under his leadership, have soared from $18 million in 1969 to $47.5 million in 1972. There were 16 stores when he became president; this summer the system will open its 40th store.

Mr. Lincoln is married to Shirley Hunt, a Sioux City girl he met in fourth grade. The family lives at Iowa Falls, Iowa.

The newsmen, students and faculty gave him a standing ovation at the news conference.

The Lincoln Center will be the 15th building on Morningside's 27-acre campus. It will be the first addition to the campus since the Jacobsen Computer Center was completed in 1969.

While President Thompson and Mr. Crary look on, Miss Elizabeth Sammons (left) and Mrs. Louise Freese display a portrait of their grandfather, George D. Perkins, pioneer Sioux City journalist and statesman for whom the library in the Lincoln Center is to be named. Miss Sammons is president and Mrs. Freese secretary of Perkins Bros. Company of Sioux City.

College During

Although there was a last minute change in sites, the crowded commencement weekend May 11-13 was nearly flawless. The college awarded 219 bachelor's and four honorary degrees, presented the Order of Morningside award to an old friend, honored six distinguished alumni and hosted 10 class reunions.

The commencement program itself had been scheduled at Grandview Park, but the condition of roads within the park made it necessary in the middle of the week to change the location to Allee Gymnasium.

A near-capacity crowd was there to hear Mrs. Mary Grefe, Iowa state president of the American Association of University Women, tell the members of the graduating class that "one individual can still change the world, or at least make a dent in a vital part of it."

Honors Graduates, Alumni Commencement Weekend

In addition to presenting the commencement address, Mrs. Grefe, a 1943 Morningside graduate, received one of the honorary degrees presented during the program. The college also honored George Allen, the Washington Redskins coach who began his head coaching career with the Morningside Chiefs, and Harold Winter, Cincinnati, Ohio, surance executive who served 27 years on the college's Board of Directors. An honorary degree was awarded posthumously to Frank P. Johnson, former board member and an executive of Payless Cashway Inc., who died last February.

The Order of Morningside Award was given to Cyril B. Upham, '15, for distinguished service to the college. Dr. Upham, a director emeritus of the Morningside board, returned to the campus in 1969 as Alumnus and Lecturer in Residence. Last fall he served as adjunct professor of finance.

As he stepped forward to receive the medallion, the members of the graduating class gave him a standing ovation.

The Alumni Luncheon in the Randolph Room of the Commons Saturday noon was attended by 126 graduates of the classes of 1913, 1918, 1923 (50-year class), 1928, 1933, 1938, 1943, 1948 and 1953. Esther Waterhouse Parsons, '23, was the luncheon speaker.

At the annual alumni-senior banquet, attended by 341, distinguished alumni awards were presented to Miss Minetta Miller, '40, William B. Danforth, '30, Keene A. Roadman, '39, and Charles A. Wert, '41. An additional award was presented jointly to Charles, '46, and Ferne Dunn Obye, '44.

ver business executive who has been active in service to the church and community. She was chosen Ad Woman of the Year last year by the Advertising Club of Denver. Mr. Danforth, assistant dean and professor of law at William Mitchell College of Law in St. Paul, is a leader in revising bail laws and criminal procedures in Minnesota.

Keene Roadman has carried on the spirit of concern and support for Morningside established by his father, President Earl Roadman. He has served on the college's Board of Directors since 1970. Mr. Roadman was the main speaker at the banquet.

Dr. Wert, head of the Department of Metallurgy and Mining Engineering at the University of Illinois, has been honored on two occasions for excellence in teaching. Ferne and Chuck Obye have devoted much time and energy to Morningside and to the community and church. Coach Obye resigned his position as head basketball coach earlier this year, after 16 seasons in that post.

Members of the 50 year class who attended weekend activities included Elma Bunn Africa, Iowa City; Hortense Mercure Baumgardner, Portland, Ore.; Lola Grant Brown, Albuquerque, N.M.; Helen Graef Cobb, Jacksonville, Ill.; Roy H. Cox, Fort Dodge, Iowa; L. Lowell Fowler, Rockwell City, Iowa; Vera Hatfield Gerkin, Sioux City; Clara Back Graning, Sioux City; Cyrus S. Griewe, Grinnell, Iowa; Cornelia Lueder Johnson, Sioux City; Vesta Taylor Ketels, Sioux City. Margaret Kidder, Springfield, Mo.

Esther Splittgerber Knack, Varina, Iowa; Eleanor Laing Leazer and George Leazer of Detroit Lakes, Minn.; Frances Carter McKnight, Sioux City; Glenn Nixon, Omaha, Neb.; Lorraine O'Hern, Sioux City; Esther Waterhouse Parsons, Rye, N.H.; Cornelia Brunelle Penn, Mt. Vernon, Iowa; Ernest Raun, Sioux City; Fred B. Smith, Fairmont, Minn.; Violetta Barrett Southworth, Tulsa, Okla.; Clarence Tompkins, Fort Dodge, Iowa; Lucile F. Vickers, Sioux City, and Gladys Steele Westerfield, Houston, Tex.

TEAM EFFORT BOOSTS BASEBALL FORTUNES

After logging a lackluster 5-13 record during the first half of the season, Coach Don Protexter's baseball club found the formula for winning in May and went knocking at the door of the NAIA national championship.

The Chiefs didn't quite make it to the finals in Phoenix, but they did establish themselves as one of the finest Morningside teams in the last five years.

In their recovery effort, the Chiefs ran off two five-game winning streaks and captured 10 of their last 11 games on their way to the District 15 championship. They wrapped up the district title with a 4-3 win over Northwestern, a 5-3 victory over Loras, and 3-2 and 6-4 defeats of Upper Iowa in a best-of-three series.

That gave the team a berth in the Area 4 regional championship at Waverly, Iowa, and the momentum continued with a 4-0 win over Wisconsin State of Oshkosh in the opening round. Scott Burgason and Mike Snyders socked home runs and Steve Andros pitched a six-hitter against a team that entered the game with a .352 batting average.

Then the Chiefs' fortunes suddenly ran out. Winona State administered a 10-0 defeat in the double-elimination tourney and Oshkosh took revenge with an 8-5 triumph.

As Coach Protexter and Assistant Coach Dick Weikert reviewed one of the most successful campaigns in recent years, they discovered the team had just reached the .500 mark, balancing 16 losses against 16 defeats. But the Chiefs had shown they knew how to win when it counted the most.

Snyders was named to the all-North Central Conference first team. Honorable mention went to Mike Pomerenke, Jim Westergaard and Steve Zediker.

EX-HAWK STAR ROGERS JOINS ATHLETIC STAFF

Lonnie Rogers, a well-known high school coach who made headlines as a running back for the University of Iowa Hawkeyes in the early '60s, has joined the staff at Morningside College.

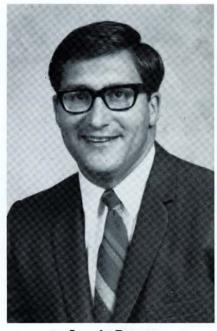

Rogers, 31, an assistant coach at Sioux City's East High since 1967, will teach physical education, assist head coach Dewey Halford with the football team and serve as co-ordinator of sports information.

His addition to the staff, Halford announced, will mean no increase in the size of the department since the post of sports information director was eliminated this summer.

Rogers will concentrate his coaching talents on the Chiefs' defensive performance this fall. "His background and ability to work with young men will strengthen both the athletic and physical education programs," Halford said.

As a Hawkeye, Rogers played under Forrest Evashevski and Jerry Burns from 1961-63, and in his senior year participated in the 1963 Blue-Gray Classic at Montgomery, Ala. The following season he was with the Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the Canadian League.

His coaching career includes a stint at Upper Iowa University, then as head football and track coach at Sibley, Iowa. At Sioux City East, he has assisted in football and basketball. He was awarded a master's degree from the University of South Dakota in 1972.

Lonnie Rogers

Other staff changes include the appointment of Lowell (Bud) Brockman as chairman of the physical education department, succeeding Chuck Obye, and the appointment of Dan Callahan as basketball coach.

George Ellis, '71, who has served so capably as the Chiefs' sports information director and sports editor of the Morningsider, had not announced his future plans at press time.

Dan McClannahan, '72, who also has assisted with the football team, has been named assistant coach for football and basketball at Cherokee (Iowa) High School.

CALLAHAN'S NEW RECRUITS BOLSTER CAGE PROSPECTS

Morningside's new head basketball coach, Dan Callahan, is busy adding the final touches to his plans for the Chief's coming cage season.

Callahan, 38, who served three years as coach at Valley High of West Des Moines, succeeds Chuck Obye, who had announced in January that he was resigning at the end of his 16th season.

Although Callahan officially took over June 1, he has been active since the announcement of his appointment in March, recruiting some top-flight prospects to give added punch to those Chiefs returning from last season's squad.

His first addition was a standout from his own Valley High team, 6-2 guard Bill Lindgren, who was first team All-Metropolitan Conference and All-State honorable mention. In shooting 57 per cent from the field, Lindgren compiled 399 points and averaged 16.6 points per game during his senior year.

Two forwards, both with impressive credentials, have also been added by Callahan to the Chief's roster. They are Doug Marx, 6-5, from United Township High in East Moline, Ill., who was voted most valuable player in tough Quad Cities competition, and Dan Kanengiter, 6-6, of Little Rock (Iowa) High School.

Marx at 195 and Kanengiter at 200 will give the Chiefs some muchneeded size in the front line, says Callahan.

Coach Callahan: Fresh troops to bolster Chiefs' cage attack

Both men are also outstanding in track. Marx has thrown the discus 162-3 and has captured two conference titles and Kanengiter holds school records in the shot put and high and low hurdles.

Callahan and Baseball Coach Don Protexter collaborated in signing Bruce Lubach, an outstanding allaround athlete at Sioux Center (Iowa) High School to a North Central letter of intent.

Lubach was injured during most of his senior cage season, but averaged 17 points while earning allconference honors as a guard in his junior year.

The 6-3 and 170 pound Lubach was a four-year letterman in baseball and batted .418 while playing short-stop last year, when he won all-conference honors. He added a 5-0 pitching mark and compiled a 1.99 earned-run average while playing on three championship teams.

His coach at Sioux Center was Dave Mulder, who was an All-North Central Conference player on two occasions while starring at Morningside during the early 1960s. Coach Callahan describes himself as primarily a defensive coach who likes fast breaks and prefers a multiple offense. He is a veteran of 14 years of high school and college coaching, and his Valley High teams compiled an over-all 42-23 record. Last year's squad scored 20 victories against only four defeats, then was eliminated in the sub-state round of tournament play.

His own college career as a player began under Coach Maury John, when John was turning out excellent teams at Moberly (Mo.) Junior College. Callahan, a J.C. All- American at Moberly, moved on to Drake University, where he played his final two years under John Bennington.

After seven years of high school coaching, Callahan was named by John as an assistant at Drake, and for the next four seasons he established a highly successful recruiting program, handled all the scouting and coached the freshman team. In 1970 he joined the Valley High staff in order to return to head coaching.

POTPOURRI — A Summary of

MORNINGSIDE HOSTS NATIONAL MEETINGS

Morningside's campus served as the site this spring for the national conventions of two organizations — Kappa Mu Epsilon and CUETUG.

Some 250 delegates representing nearly 100 chapters of KME, mathematics honor society, heard reports and conducted the society's business April 5-7. Dr. Elsie Muller, chairman of the Morningside Mathematics Department, was re-elected national historian.

CUETUG (College and University Eleven-Thirty Users Group) attracted more than 100 educators and administrators from campuses throughout the country for its national meeting, June 11-15. The members, representing colleges and universities which (like Morningside) use the IBM 1130 computer, exchanged information and viewed new equipment. James McDonald, director of the Jacobsen Computer Center at Morningside, has served as CUETUG's president for the past year.

Other large groups using campus facilities during spring-summer months included youth groups from the Iowa District West of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, which held a "Youth Migration" for 200 June 8 and 9, and the Des Moines Stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormon), which hosted young people from adjoining stakes in Iowa and nearby states July 26-29.

The college will serve as a cosponsor with the Iowa High School Press Association of a one-day journalism workshop in October.

STUDENTS NAME OAKLAND TO HEAD GOVERNMENT

Dan Oakland, junior from Canton, S.D., was elected president of the student body in campus balloting this spring. Oakland, a political science major, was chairman of the Fall Festival-Homecoming Committee last fall. As head of the student government, he is serving on the Administrative and Executive Councils and is an ex-officio member of the Board of Directors.

RELIGIOUS LIFE GROUP TOURS ATLANTA AREA

Twenty-five members of the Religious Life Council participated in a seminar tour to Atlanta, Ga., March 21 through April 1. The students, under the direction of the Rev. Ralph Brink, campus minister, combined sightseeing and study with a work project at Trinity Methodist Church in Atlanta.

BOARD NAMES MEMBERS, WEIGHS LIQUOR PLAN

A prominent Sioux City businessman and a leader in the United Methodist Church of Iowa have joined the board of directors of the college. The new members, elected at the April meeting of the board, are Charles A. Cannon III of Sioux City and the Rev. Dr. J. Ellis Webb, of Spencer, Iowa.

Mr. Cannon, active in the community life of Sioux City, is owner of the 12,000-acre Cannon Ranch in Sully County, S.D. The Rev. Dr. Webb, who was awarded an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree by the college last August, has been superintendent of the Spencer district of the church since 1970.

Retiring from the board are Harold E. Jacobsen of Sioux City, a member since 1968, and Dr. Roger Russell of Des Moines, who joined the board in 1967.

During the meeting the board considered a student-sponsored proposal which would permit residents of dormitories to vote whether to allow alcoholic beverages in the dorms. No liquor or beer would be allowed outside the rooms and "dry" floors would be established for those students who would prefer such areas.

The board tabled the proposal, but agreed to consider the matter again at a special meeting scheduled for July 30.

GEORGE DAY RETURNS, TELLS OF POW ORDEAL

Col. George E. (Bud) Day, a prisoner of the North Vietnamese for 68 months, arrived on campus for a visit shortly after his release and return to the United States.

Col. Day was welcomed by President Thompson, Alumni Director Bob Miller and faculty members who were at Morningside at the time of his graduation in 1950. Earlier he had received a gold key to the city of Sioux City presented by Mayor Paul Berger and a resolution of commendation voted by the college's Board of Directors.

Col. Day was mistreated on a daily basis from the time of his capture in 1967 until late in the fall of 1969, when it appeared to the North Vietnamese that a peace settlement was near and the POWs would have to be returned.

"I was beaten, tortured extensively, hung by my arms, by my feet." He reported he has about 150 scars on his buttocks from beatings with a rubber fan belt and scars on his knees that "go directly to the bone" from forced kneeling over long periods during torture sessions.

Col. Day, injured when his plane was shot down, escaped shortly after his capture and made his way across the demilitarized zone and into South Vietnam before being shot and recaptured by North Vietnamese regulars.

Although his plane was shot down on Aug. 26, 1967 and he was reported parachuting to the ground, it was not until February 1968 that Mrs. Day received word that her husband was alive and a prisoner. That word came from an Air Force POW who had just been released. Even then the North Vietnamese refused to acknowledge his capture.

Col. and Mrs. Day are presently living at Glendale, Ariz. He plans to continue in the Air Force for the immediate future and is planning to write a book about his ordeal.

BAND TOURS EUROPE ON CONCERT SWING

The Morningside College Band left June 30 on a four-week concert tour that will take them to Athens, Rome, Florence, Innsbruck, Paris and London. Music, sightseeing and study were arranged to provide a busy schedule for the 32 musicians and four chaperones making the trip.

There were two days of strenuous rehearsals on campus before departure. The program the band will present in its five formal concerts represents a sampling of modern American music, ranging from the earliest works of George Gershwin through compositions of contemporary artists like Ron Nelson.

The schedule called for the group to spend five days in Athens, followed by a 24-hour cruise on the Mediterranean. A visit to Rome July 7-12 includes side-trips to such historical sites as Pompeii and Naples and an evening at the opera. The band will be in Florence July 12-14; Innsbruck; July 15-18, Paris, July 19-22; and London, July 23-27. The return flight leaves London July 28.

Leading the tour were Director Gary Slechta, Assistant Director Edward Lanning, Jay Wicker, associate professor of Music, and Mrs. Wicker.

The band staged a jazz festival and several promotions during the winter and spring to help defray the costs.

SUMMER SESSION CLASS SPENDS JULY IN PARIS

Ten members of a special summer "Tour France" class and their instructor were spending the month of July in Paris, studying the French language, history and culture. They were to be housed, if possible, in French households.

The group, led by Dr. John Doohen, French instructor at the college, was eligible for special courses arranged by the University of Paris, including lectures on art, economics and politics, and conducted tours through the city. Their return to the United States was scheduled for Aug. 2.

FORMER BOARD MEMBER CARROL SMITH DIES

Carol N. Smith, 73, Sioux City businessman and former member of the college's Board of Directors, died in Sioux City June 2 following a short illness.

Mr. Smith received the Order of Morningside Award in 1971 for his many years of service to the college. He was a member of the board for more than 32 years, serving during that period as chairman of the financial committee and as a member of the athletic committee of the board.

At the time of his death he was chairman of the board of Weatherwax, Inc.

Survivors include Mrs. Smith and two sons, Edward of Bloomington, Ind., and Pierce of Minneapolis. Another son, Richard, died earlier this year. A memorial was established in his name at the college.

Class Notes . . .

W. C. WOLLE, '20, and Mrs. Wolle (VIVIAN DOWN, '18) celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary recently with an open house at First United Methodist Church in Sioux City. They were married June 26, 1923 at Odebolt, Iowa and have lived in Sioux City since that time. The Wolles have two daughters, Mrs. Carolyn Cox of Akron, Ohio and Mrs. Janice Nielsen of New Orleans; two sons, William D. of Amman, Jordan and Charles of Sioux City; and 14 grandchildren. The couple's address is 3331 Jennings, Sioux City.

1925

Dr. MURIEL JOY HUGHES, '25, former professor of English at the University of Vermont, was awarded an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree by the university at May commencement ceremonies. After receiving her Bachelor of Arts degree from Morningside, Dr. Hughes was awarded Master of Arts and Ph.D. degrees from Columbia University and taught English at the University of Vermont for 26 years. She has served as director and president of New England College English Association and the College English Association. Following retirement from the university, she was professor at Perce College in Athens, Greece, and Tsuda College in Tokyo.

The Rev. EARL E. JOSTEN, '26, minister of United Methodist churches at Northwood and Kensett, lowa, retired June 15 following 30 years in the ministry. His new address is 507 Fourth St., North Klemme, lowa 50449.

The latest book of Dr. Margaret Crary (MARGARET COLEMAN, '26, honorary, '65) was released this spring by Hawthorne. The book, "Susette La Flesche, Voice of the Omaha Indians," is a biographical account of an Indian woman who crusaded for citizenship for her people a century ago. Its setting is the Walthill-Macy area southwest of Sioux City in Nebraska, where the Omaha reservation is presently located. Two of Mrs. Crary's juvenile books, "Calico Ball" and "Pocketful of Raisins", were winners of the Literary Guild Award. Mrs. Crary and her husband, Bruce, live at 3213 Viking Drive, Sioux City 51104.
