organizations

the collegian reporter, in its third year as a newsmagazine was piloted by nelson price, editor-in-chief, and bob phelps, managing editor. the magazine boasted an editorial staff, other than the top two, of hughes, peters, burtness, mc carthy, and eidsmoe. other men of importance, were photographer art barrett, artist evert johnson, and exchange editor, jim rose. the business staff was headed by jo sanford with larry pipkin acting as advertising manager and chuck everett as salesman. a host of reporters also slaved on the magazine. the collegian reporter published 22 editions throughout the year and made a wide-coverage of all campus activities. the superiority of the collegian reporter was also demonstrated in its being awarded a high rating by the associated collegiate press.

the pre-engineers club is an organization devoted to scientific pursuits and the promotion of good fellowship among those interested in science. it not only includes future engineers, but also those young people who are interested in physics, mathematics, biology and chemical science.

the ultimate aim of the club is to provide a greater background in their individual vocational fields. the club does this in its bi-monthly meeting, where part of the program is dedicated to reports and lectures by the members and outside speakers.

the primary function of the pre-engineers club is the sponsoring of "science night" on the morningside college campus.
