WE HAVE A DREAM.

A complex, idealistic dream,
But a dream that is within
The reach of our generation.

We dream of a better world,
Because we're not satisfied
With the one we've got.
It's not a question of
Who's at fault—
Our question now is
"What can WE do about it?"
Because action is the only way to change.

We've seen the world
Torn apart by war.
We've seen friends and families
Lost in the futile battle.
Countless numbers of our peers
Have experienced the dread disease
And know it for what it is—
A deadly killer of men.
And women and children . . .

And we dream of peace:
Of a world in which
Bombs and mortars and tanks
Are antiquities—
Unused things of the past—
Weapons whose sounds are only
Echoes in the distance—
The past.

We've seen our country
Torn apart by racial disorders.
We've seen the hate,
The prejudice, the bitterness—
Throwbacks to the days
Of slavery and segregation.
Yet they remain today
To cause disunity
And internal strife.
There is no inequality—
Only injustice.

And we dream of freedom:
Not tokens or promises,
But true freedom for ALL men.
A time when angry cries have waned
And hands reach out
To touch hands.
They seek, they find, they join,
In understanding and brotherhood.

—Reproduced from TO BE SOMEBODY by Michael Bry, 1969. By permission of Pacific Coast Publishers, Menlo Park, California, copyright owner.

We've seen our neighbors
Living in poverty and want.
We've seen the ghetto conditions,
The starving
For food and for a better way of life.
The list of needs goes on and on
Not only for physical comforts,
But for emotional security as well.

And we dream of affluence:
Not the Beautiful People, Jet-Set whirl,
But a time when all people
Can have the necessities of life;
A time when empty bowls and empty bellies
No longer stare out of the pleading eyes
Of hungry children
And parents no longer need mourn
The plight of their families.

We've seen the environment
Abused by pollution and overpopulation.
We've seen and smelled and tasted and heard
And felt the effects of careless misuse
Of the wonders of nature around us—
The air pollution by dirt and smog and noise;
The water pollution by waste and chemicals;
The land pollution by erosion and trash and commercialization.
And we've begun to feel the pressure
Of too many people and not enough room,
Of too many people and not enough food,
Of too many people and not enough care.

And we dream of beauty:
The natural, unspoiled beauty
That once typified our country—
The beauty of room to move
And air to breathe and water to drink;
A time when overcrowding is no longer a problem,
When every child is a wanted child,
A cared-for child, a loved child.

—Reproduced from EARTH CARE MANUAL by R. Paul Firnhaber, 1971. By permission of Augsburg Publishing House, Minneapolis, Minnesota, copyright owner.

We've seen our land
Overrun with corruption, violence, and crime.
We've seen the guilty protected by the law;
Thieves, muggers, murderers set free
On a technicality;
Bombings and riots by dissatisfied agitators
Who cannot wait for peaceful means;
Increasing numbers of crimes;
Disrespect for those people
Who attempt to control them;
And the apathy of countless numbers
Who watch in detached curiosity and say,
"Something ought to be done."

And we dream of justice:
Of a time when laws protect the innocent
And these innocent are not afraid to walk alone.
A time when people stop fighting against the authorities
And start working with them
To improve the morale of the country
And to make it a safer place to live.

We've seen ourselves
Caught in the conformity trap.
We've seen our own reactions
Mirrored by the people around us:
Their opinions are our opinions;
Their likes are our likes;
Their prejudices are our prejudices.
Generalizations, suspicion, greed
Are our trademarks.

And we dream of individuality:
Of a time when every man
Forms his own opinions,
Does what he wants to do (within reason),
And says what he wants to say.
He doesn't try and do
What he thinks others will approve of;
He lives his life as it seems right
That he should—
He's not afraid to be himself.

“You may say I’m a dreamer,
But I’m not the only one.
Maybe someday you’ll join us,
And the world will live as one.”

—John Lennon

We Have a Dream

A dream begins with people. People who believe in a common cause. The faculty and administration of Morningside College have done much to provide an atmosphere in which dreams may grow.

They sponsored and took part in moratoriums and protests against an unjust war. They sponsored seminars on the American Indian to better acquaint others with the needs of this too-often neglected minority. They added courses on Indian history and literature of the minorities to enrich the curriculum of the school in important areas.

They took part in a fast to aid the starving refugees of East Pakistan. They have spoken out against pollution and violence. And they have provided a new academic freedom at Morningside—a chance for individuality within the educational framework of the school.

These people, whether they think of it as such or not, are helping make our dream come true.

People with a common cause. That also describes the students of Morningside College. They too have taken part in anti-war protests. They have worked for and maintained a Black Culture Center on campus to provide an opportunity for better inter-racial understanding.

They participated in the fast held on campus and the Homecoming service project to clean up Sioux City. They are the mainstays of two very important projects—Project Awareness to combat drug abuse and Hot Line to provide help for those who need it.

Once again a united effort is putting our dream closer to reality.

To make a dream come true requires more than just people. It takes action.

The organizations on campus provide an opportunity for people with the same interests to get together and further their cause. Most groups are primarily concerned with one particular area of campus life, but all are of service in one way or another. For example, the student government's main concern is in making rules governing student activities on campus. Yet they take time to organize a fast to raise money for hungry people, to set up a unit of ISPIRG at Morningside, and to provide voter registration for everyone.

Sociology club is primarily concerned with improving the sociology department, but they also sponsor Hot Line. There is no question of the value to the community of this service.

Circle K and Special K are service oriented. Their function is to perform projects that are of benefit to the campus and to the community.

RLC takes an active part in putting down commercialism during the Christmas season. They provide convocation speakers who deal with topics of concern—pollution, racial disorder, religion.

These are just examples of the actions taken by various groups. An increasing amount of time and effort is being put out for such causes. People ARE acting on our dream.

The Year Began With Registration . . .

Some were lucky and rushed right through; others spent a couple of hours waiting to get their bill. Do you have a car? What organizations have you been in? Are you taking convo? Do you want to pay now? The questions never end.

The freshmen got to know each other, the upperclassmen, and the faculty through orientation. This included seminars, picnics, concerts, and an evening with the Thompsons. One small group at a time went to visit President and Mrs. Thompson at their home. The evening included getting acquainted with everyone, including the family dog, and creating ice cream sundaes, with the imagination as the only limit.

...and Orientation.

Morningside's New Academic Freedom

Two new innovations in Morningside's academic program are the Student Initiated Experience and the Interdisciplinary Major. Each student under the new curriculum must design and carry out a project in the area of his major. The types of program have varied from taking a national poll and writing a paper on the results to conducting an intermural program to rebuilding an old organ, as Dave Dougherty is shown doing at left.

If Morningside does not offer the student a major to meet his specific needs, he may design his own under the interdisciplinary major. He must state the goal of his course of study and outline the courses he will take in order to reach it. For example, Dana Knepper wants to become a zoo manager. He therefore designed a program combining biology and management in order to prepare himself in all appropriate areas for his future career. He is shown above practicing with a live alligator.

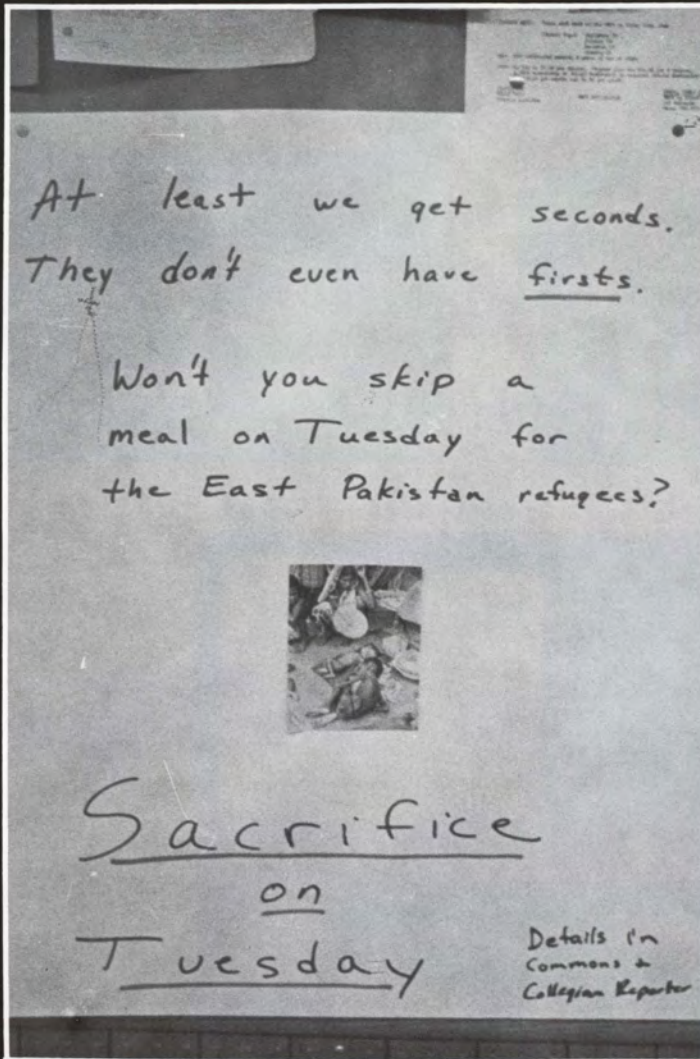

Free Pizza Draws a Crowd.

The college sponsored a Fun Night in the Wigwam and wound up with a full house. Free drinks and free Morning-side pizzas were served. Some shorter people found it hard to get their hands on one of those pizzas; they were literally "up for grabs." For entertainment Laurel and Hardy movies were shown with Road Runner cartoons in between.

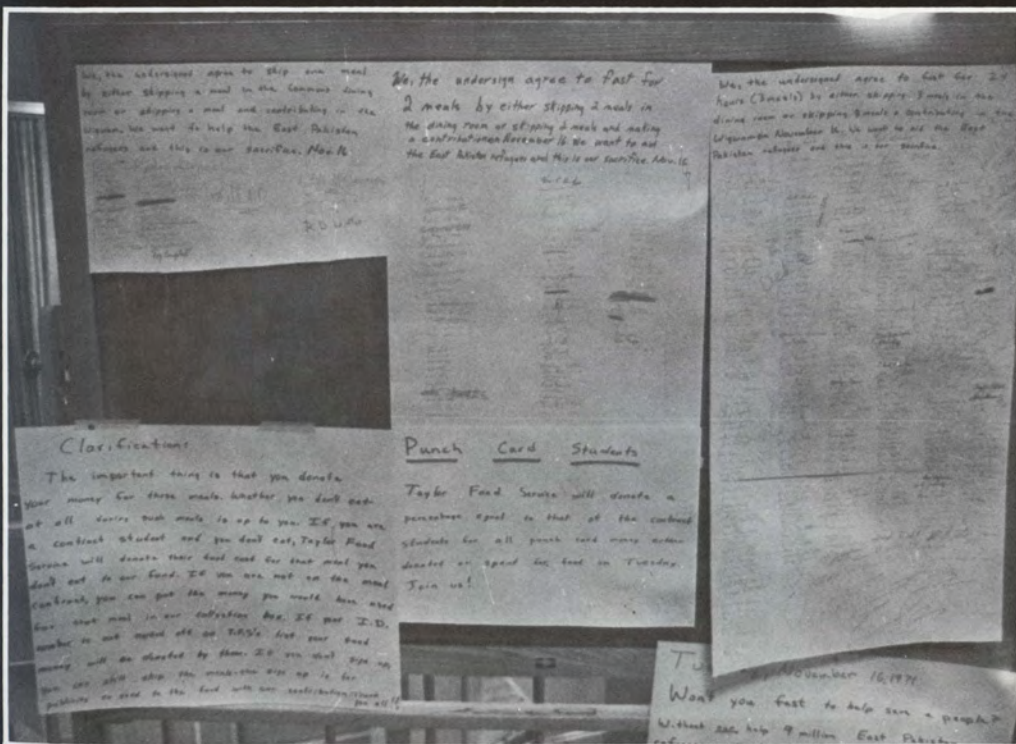

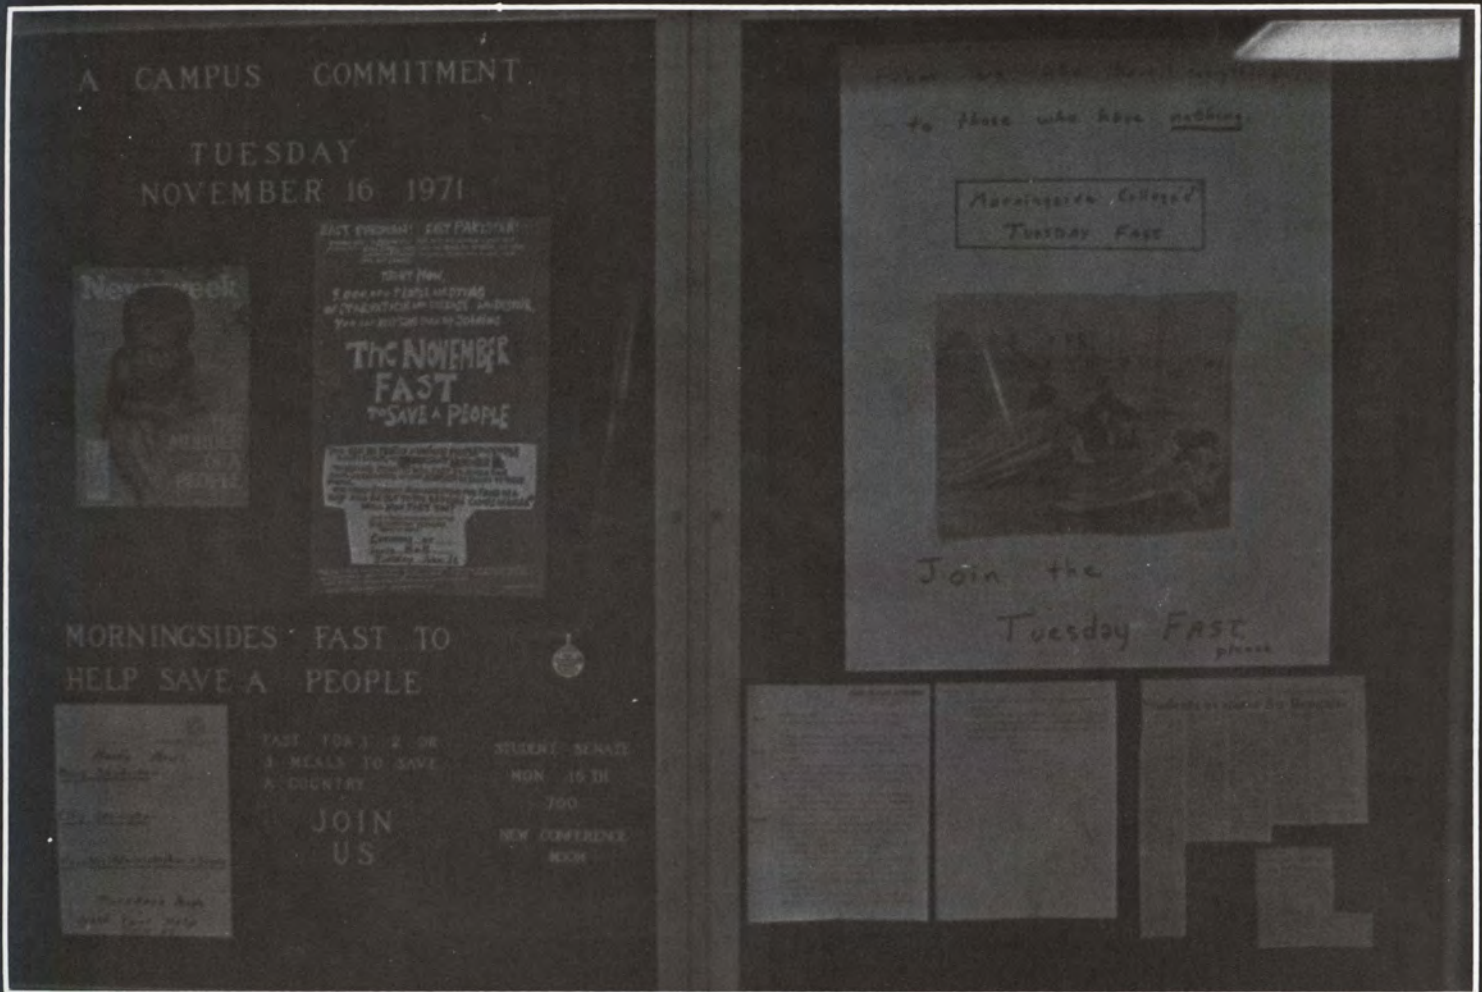

Morningside Fasts...

On November 16 the students of Morningside College were asked to fast in order to aid the starving people of East Pakistan, and hundreds responded. Morningside's participation was part of a nationwide effort supported by 24 U. S. Senators and Congressmen. Students signed up to skip one, two, or three meals; the money that would have been spent to prepare these meals was donated by Taylor Food Service to the Relief Fund. Donations were also taken from the faculty and administration. The money from each student's fast could keep three refugees alive for an entire month, supplying food, clothing, medicine, and shelter. Displays, posters, and buttons were used to publicize the event.

...to Save a People.

Agora Presents Today's Fashions for Every Day . . .

The women of Morningside College, known collectively as Agora, annually sponsor a fall fashion show and a wedding style show in the spring. They are also responsible for the Big-Little Sis program on campus, the annual Agora Carnival, and the Mother-Daughter Banquet, which is held on Parents' Week-end.

...and for Very Special Occasions.

PEMM Club and Intermurals

Student Government Increases Its Activities.

Morningside Student Government added many new projects to its list during the '71-'72 year. They staged a used book sale, provided draft counseling and voter registration to students, introduced I.S. P.I.R.G. on campus, adjusted the number of reserved parking spaces, conducted the faculty evaluation, set up a concert fee for students in order to provide more and better concerts on campus, sponsored a fast to aid the people in East Pakistan, revised the student government constitution, and increased student participation on the college executive council.

Members of the student governing body included: Ed Johnson (Pres.), Steve Parker (V.P.), Sue Westerman (Sec.), Bob Showers (Treas.), Bruce Hanson (S.C.), and Marilyn Knowles (Advocate). Morningside Protests the War.

On several occasions Morningside students, faculty, and friends expressed their concern over the re-escalation of the war in Viet Nam. On one occasion they gathered in front of Sioux City's Western Union Telegraph office and carried signs protesting the action taken by the President. They also sent telegrams to President Nixon and to the U.S. Senators expressing these feelings.

Another protest was held in front of the Sioux City Federal Building to display signs and distribute leaflets and in front of the auditorium to display posters and crosses. Both these anti-war protests were backed by the Clergy and Laymen Concerned about Vietnam.

A moratorium and peace walk was held on Morningside campus with several faculty members and students making speeches. Those in attendance were encouraged to make their feelings against the war known to government officials and the President.

Circle K. Special K Stand for Service.

Circle K is a men's service club sponsored by Kiwanis. It's purpose is to organize and carry out projects that are of benefit to the campus and the community. Special K is the corresponding women's organization, which was established just two years ago. On campus the two groups build the queen's float for the Homecoming parade, sponsor the College Bowl program, and provide such conveniences as hand-painted trashcans for the use of the students. In the community the two groups, either individually or collectively, have entertained at Sunrise Manor, staged holiday parties at the Riverside Community Center, helped with various fund drives, and taken part in other worthwhile community projects. Members are: Larry Davis, Bill Banwart, Dave Frevert, Dan Oakland, Terry McGowan, Tom Feldpausch, Jim Deck, Rod Stemme, Darrell Smith, Clay Miller, Dave Lieder, Denny Barrick; Mary Emsheimer, Cheryl Tevis, Larie Schwartz, Pat Otto, Julie Van Wyngarden, Barb Bash, Cindy Werner, Linda Birkley, Marcia Peterson, Jill Seinola, Kathy Hamlett, Deb Lowther, Jean Rystad, Linda Mayne, Darla Pedersen, Diane Davies, Kay Peeler, Terrie Van Metre, Sandy Lee, Ann Thomsen, Denise Wolke, Anita Reising, Nancy Mitchell, Marilyn Neuberger, Peggy Stuart, Kathy Tidd, Sharon Hawthorne, Janet Wolf, Jeanette Earnest, JoAnn Goettsch, Eliene Loetscher. Mrs. Malone is advisor for Special K.

Members of the winning College Bowl team were: Mary Mack, Sandy Popenhagen, Marilyn Kehoe, and Linda Davies.

Newly elect report

by Marty Steele

The student senate met for the first time Monday night, April 17, with a newly-elected executive council. The major business of the meeting was officers' reports and discussions on majority rights, Homecoming, and the yearbook.

The first order of business was consideration of a proposal that the student government support a teach-in on Indo-China to be held on Wednesday, April 19, at which an open mike would be available for faculty and students to express their views. This matter was passed unanimously.

Ed Johnson reported on the recent Board of Directors meeting. The Board postponed action on ISPIRG until the full Board of Directors meeting scheduled for October. The Board, Ed explained, wants time to get information on what the tax status of the college would be if ISPIRG were approved. A student from Morningside, Jerry Baker, is on the State ISPIRG Board. The Board of Regents recently approved ISPIRG at I.S.U. making the program a reality at last.

The committee on committees of the faculty will send a proposal on a restructuring of the petitions committee to the faculty for approval. According to the proposal, students will have nearly equal representation on the committee, the committee will have the power to change a professor's grade if there is a just cause, and the student affairs committee will have the highest authority in matters of social disciplinary action.

Ed also presented to the senate a document from the Student Affairs Committee that explains a project they are currently working on which involves revising the Student Statement of Rights and Freedoms and a possible restructuring of campus government.

Nixon is hurting blacks and poor

by Mary Lunderman

Hosea Williams, the featured speaker of Afro-American week, addressed the convocation audience on Wednesday. Williams pointed to America as a troubled society and revealed what he felt was wrong.

The American society is filled by school dropouts, and the movement to turn away from the. Williams also noted America is supposed to be the most powerful nation in the world, but we lost a war in Vietnam. The black movement for freedom and equality was begun in 1962, but now the movement is smothering by the heavy restrictions of the Nixon administration. The black is worse off today than he was ten years ago. The equal housing program has been lost, the blacks own less land than they did in 1962, and the education system is no better. Most American schools are integrated, but the blacks are bused to the white schools while the black schools get even worse.

Williams feels that the blacks need opportunity for equal jobs. In 1962, they were getting jobs, but now the industries have hired their token blacks and have no need for any more. The white society is like a stone wall that the blacks must fight against to achieve freedom.

The most effective presidential administration in creating the stone wall according to Williams has been the Nixon administration. Nixon has been most effective in opposing the efforts of blacks and the poor. The President has turned the federal court against equal rights. The usual answer to those seeking rights is that the means available have not been exhausted on the local level.

Williams feels that since Nixon has been in office, it has been open season on blacks and the poor. But he is convinced that America is the only place that he would like to stay because he feels it can be improved. The plan for improvement is for the educated and rich to unite with the uneducated and poor to work toward the betterment of the nation.

The struggle will be hard and long to achieve the betterment of America. There will have to be marches and movements to achieve this goal. Hosea Williams feels that perhaps the powerful nations are doomed to end on the junk-piles of history but it is much better to light one candle and try to repair the state.

Parents' Weekend offers activities

Drama, music, baseball, banquets — these are some of the activities available to parents of Morningside College students visiting the campus during Parents' Weekend this Friday and Saturday.

Planned by a committee of students and officers of the parents' council, the annual event is designed to provide a variety of events of interest to both students and parents and to acquaint parents with the people and programs that are an everyday part of their children's lives.

A feature of Parents' Weekend will be the Saturday morning reception at 9:00 a.m. at the Commons in which parents will have the opportunity of talking with President and Mrs. Thomas S. Thompson and members of the college's faculty and administration.

The reception will be followed by a program titled E.F.P. (Especially for Parents) at 10:15 a.m. in the Randolph Room of the Commons. Remarks by President Thompson, student body president Ed Johnson and parents' council president Richard H. Johnson of Sioux City will be preceded by a musical program featuring student talent.

The annual Father-Son and Mother-Daughter banquets will also be a part of the weekend activities. The Commons will be the site of the Mother-Daughter gathering at 6:00 p.m. on Friday. Morningside vice-president A. W. Buckingham will present a program on his experiences at the Olympic Games in Japan at the Father-Son banquet at 6:00 p.m. on Saturday, also in the Commons.

Parents have also been invited to attend the play, "The Rhinoceros," at the Klinger-Neal Theatre both nights at a reduced rate.

Baseball games at 1:00 p.m. Friday and noon on Saturday, and the concert of the Edina, Minn., high school band at 3:00 p.m. Friday complete the roster of possible activities for the parent

Student co-chairmen for Parents' Weekend are Rick Weaver and Nina Hiatt. Coordinating the planning for the parents' council are Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Pictured above is a rendition of the peaceful rhinoceros which is symbolic of the current Morningside theatre production of "Rhinoceros." For a review of this play, refer to "The Review" on page 3.

SISEA Prepares Future Teachers.

The purpose of SISEA (Student Iowa State Education Association), in the words of the organization, "is to stimulate the growth of the highest ideals and appreciation of the principles of education, to foster active cooperation between the students of Morningside College, the faculty, organizations of education and other associations, and to inform the members about the parent organization, the IOWA STATE EDUCATION ASSOCIATION."

In the community SISEA took a survey of public school attitudes on education for the Sioux City Education Association and sponsored an FTA workshop for high school students of the area. On the state level, Morningside's Rhonda Wiese was elected as state SISEA vice-president. Her job will include much working and traveling for the organization.

The Pre-Law Association Aids Law Students

The Pre-Law Association, newly formed, aims to "(1) acquaint interested students with topics and materials necessary to prepare for admission to law school; (2) present programs of topical interest to those students interested in the legal profession and its many phases; (3) encourage the development of the curriculum of Morningside College in those areas that would be of primary interest to Pre-Law students; (4) aid and encourage the use of Student Initiated Activities in the new curriculum as they relate to Pre-Law students; and (5) provide guidance and counseling for those students contemplating a legal career."

Various speakers appeared throughout the year, including South Sioux City Attorney Rodney Smith and Mrs. Dorothy Nelson, Dean of the law college of the University of Southern California.

Members of Pre-Law Association are: Lucy Debonis, Dwight Dinkla, James Rogen, Richard Luther, Dan Oakland, Tom Polt, Mike Wilke, Don Klein, Bob Newell, Lorna Gilbert, Dan Milligan, J. C. Rough, Mark Packard, Mary Kae Jepsen, Kirk Seagren, Ike Garst, Mike Neu, Mike Ellwanger, Bill Gandy, Jon Koerselman, Paul Heath, Dave Hutchinson, Joe Sinclair, Daryl Hecht, and Merilynn Knowles.

Project Awareness Aims at Community Enlightenment on Drugs.

Project Awareness is a drug information program on Morningside campus. It has a complete slide and display program which is shown throughout Sioux City at schools, churches, scout meetings, and meetings of other community service organizations. This year the program received an $1800 grant from the Iowa Drug Abuse Authority. According to co-ordinator Dennis Gross, "Our purpose is to uncover facts about drug usage and to convey them in such a way that they give people a clear perception of the problems involved." Dr. Earl Moore is faculty advisor to the student-operated program.

Hot Line Helps People With Problems.

Hot Line is a service sponsored on campus by the Morningside Sociology Club. There are 70 active Hot Lines Associates who together maintain the hours of 6p.m. to 12p.m. on week-nights and 6p.m. to 2a.m. on weekends.

The project is funded by a government grant and is a recognized community agency. The purpose is to function as a telephone information and referral service within the Siouxland area and to provide callers with an empathetic listener for various problems.

Because of the nature of the work, those who take part wish to remain anonymous.

RLC and Readers Theater Provide Culture and Entertainment.

The Religious Life Council is involved in many areas of campus life. Many members are part of a singing group that entertains occasionally at convocation events, as they are on this page. These same people, along with several others, toured the nation's capitol over spring break. Highlights included talking with Iowa's legislators in Congress, sight-seeing, and attending Morningside's choir performance at Walter Reed Army Hospital on Easter Sunday.

Members of RLC make up the Reader's Theater, which puts on programs of its own throughout the year. This year one special program was held to raise money for a worthwhile cause. Donna Tack was in charge.

The Council is also involved in the community and concerned about its religious attitudes. They wrote a letter that received much publicity on Siouxland radio and from the papers. It read:

"The Religious Life Council of Morningside College feels the necessity to express our concern in regard to the preseasonal Christmas displays, merchandising and advertising of several Sioux City businesses. We believe that this action detracts from the celebration of the Christ event. In the spirit that God gave the gift of his son to the world we express our love for each other through the giving of gifts in the Christmas season. The exhibited commercialism changes the focus from the spirit of giving to the gift itself.

"We urge Sioux City merchants to re-evaluate their Christmas promotions and shoppers to review their attitudes regarding the Christmas season. We also want to encourage concerned individuals who share our views to express them to the news media and to the merchants who advance Christmas promotions before October 1 and the Thanksgiving holiday. Allen Ricks, President."

The Religious Life Council is responsible for the chapel-convocation series on campus. The guest speakers range from the controversial Donald Kaul to Robert Short, who speaks about "The Gospel according to Peanuts," to Jack Smith, who is greatly concerned with our pollution problem, to Dean Nelson and President Thompson. There is always a wide variety in the program.

After providing both culture and entertainment to the student body, the members of RLC take a little time out to have a retreat of their own. Shown on this page are several members enjoying a little plain, old fun.

The Afro-American Society Aims at Improving Inter-Racial Understanding.

The purpose of the Afro-American Society is to improve inter-racial relations on campus and to provide a place where everyone can go and become acquainted with the culture of the Afro-American. This place is known as the Black Cultural Center and is open to everyone at all times. Posters, books, and records are on display.

Each year the Society sponsors an Afro-American Week. This year the week began with gospel music, a part of the black man's musical heritage. On Tuesday the movie "Angry Black Voices of Whites" was shown, followed by a rap session. An open house was held, focusing on "Minorities in Siouxland." On Wednesday Hosea Williams, an instrumental person in the Black Rights movement, gave the convocation address. He spoke about America's troubled society and what he felt to be wrong. He put Nixon down as smothering the civil rights efforts, but his message is hope.

Thursday night was the talent show put on by a group from the inner-city who danced, sang, recited poetry, and performed one-act plays. Friday night was the soul food banquet.

The purpose of the week is to point out the differences between the black culture and the white culture and to promote understanding between the two races.

...and by Faculty.

Each year LASS and Blue Key together announce the Professor of the Year. This year there were two winners, Dr. John Lawrence and Professor John Lewis. Dr. Lawrence is associate professor of philosophy and has been a member of the Morningside faculty since 1966. He was one of the leaders in the formulation of the college's new curriculum and is also a recognized photographer. Professor Lewis is in his second year with Morningside and is planning on completing work on his Ph.D. He is assistant professor of biology and has had two papers published in scholarly journals.

The Honors Convo address was given by Mr. Dwight Packard, pictured here in two different moods. President Thompson was present to install new officers of the student council. Dean Nelson announced the individual awards.

Dean Boothby presented the sorority scholastic award to Alpha Delta Pi. Accepting for them is their president, Becky Schivley. The Devil's Disciple

The year 1777 is the one in which the passions roused by the breaking-off of the American colonies from England, more by their own weight than by their own will, boiled up to shooting point, the shooting being idealized to the English mind as suppression of rebellion and maintenance of British dominion, and to the American as defence of liberty, resistance to tyranny and self-sacrifice on the altar of the Rights of Man. Into the merits of these idealizations it is not here necessary to inquire: suffice it to say, without prejudice, that they have convinced both Americans and English that the most highminded course for them to pursue is to kill as many of one another as possible, and that military operations to that end are in full swing, morally supported by confident requests from the clergy of both sides for the blessing of God on their arms.

The Menaechmi

Titus Marcus Plautus, Born in 251 B.C., was the first professional playwright in the history of the theatre. Plautus might also be called the father of the musical comedy for his plays abound in song and dance. Plautus made his living by writing plays and since his next meal depended on the success of his plays, he wrote to please his audiences. He used bawdy dialogue, puns, songs, improbable situations, and comic exaggeration to evoke the laughter of his audience.

In THE MENAECHMI, Plautus takes a case of mistaken identity and stretches it to its limits. Menaechmus II of Syracuse comes to Epidamnus in search of his "long lost twin brother." The action and situations stem from his being mistaken for Menaechmus I. This farce is full of puns, distortions, and improbabilities. Plautus did not intend this play to appeal to the intellect. Nor did he seek to present his audience with a deep philosophical theme. He only wanted his audience to forget their troubles and sit back and enjoy themselves.

Lute Song

In keeping with our policy of bringing to you outstanding examples of the major theatrical styles, periods and genres, we offer you tonight a gem from the East—from the Imperial Court Theatre of fifteenth century Peking. LUTE SONG is a faithful adaptation of Kao-Tong-Kia's PI-PA-KI, a piece as popular to the Chinese as HAMLET is to English-speaking peoples. Like all Chinese plays (or operas—for the Chinese plays were accompanied by rhythm instruments and arias were sung by the principal characters) LUTE SONG is a curious mixture of happiness and sorrow; and as is the tradition of Chinese drama it ends happily.

Simplicity has been the keynote of our production. In the setting, in the costuming, in the acting we have aimed for honesty and clarity. Since it would take an audience of Chinese theatre-goers to appreciate the many and varied conventions of the Chinese theatre—the weeping sleeve, the arms at rest, the seven basic hand movements, the twenty different pointing gestures, the twelve special leg movements and on and on—we have selected those elements which are most highly representative of the Chinese theatre to focus on the basic strength of the classic script.

The original text stressed filial piety, which has been evenly tempered with marital fidelity in the Howard-Irwin 1946 adaptation. Today the concepts of filial piety and marital fidelity may not appeal as strongly as they once have, but the play deals with yet a broader concept.

Through the play there is a repeated strain, a strain that chants of doing what must be done, of conforming to what must be and through it all the Oriental Man works to accept these things, works to live in harmony with what is.

May we all enjoy harmony and prosperity.

Rhinoceros

“I have been very much struck by what one might call the current of opinion, by its rapid evolution, its power of contagion, which is that of a real epidemic. People allow themselves suddenly to be invaded by a new religion, a doctrine, a fanaticism . . . at such moments we witness a veritable mental mutation. I don't know if you have noticed it, but when people no longer share your opinions, when you can no longer make yourself understood by them, one has the impression of being confronted with monsters—rhinos, for example. They have that mixture of candour and ferocity. They would kill you with the best of consciences. And history has shown us during the last quarter of a century that people thus transformed not only resemble rhinos, but really become rhinoceroses.”

And the sign said, "Long-haired, freaky people need not apply."
So I shoved my hair up under my hat, and I went in to ask him why.
He said, "You look like a fine, upstanding young man: I think you'll do."
So I took off my hat and said, "Imagine that. Me working for you."

Sign, sign, everywhere a sign,
Blocking out the scenery, breaking my mind.
Do this, don't do that, Can't you read the sign?

And the sign said anyone caught trespassing would be shot on sight;
So I jumped off the fence, and I yelled at the house, "Hey! What gives you the right
To put up a fence to keep me out or to keep mother nature in?
If God was here he'd tell you to your face, Man, you're some kind of sinner.

Sign, sign, everywhere a sign,
Blocking out the scenery, breaking my mind.
Do this, don't do that, can't you read the sign?

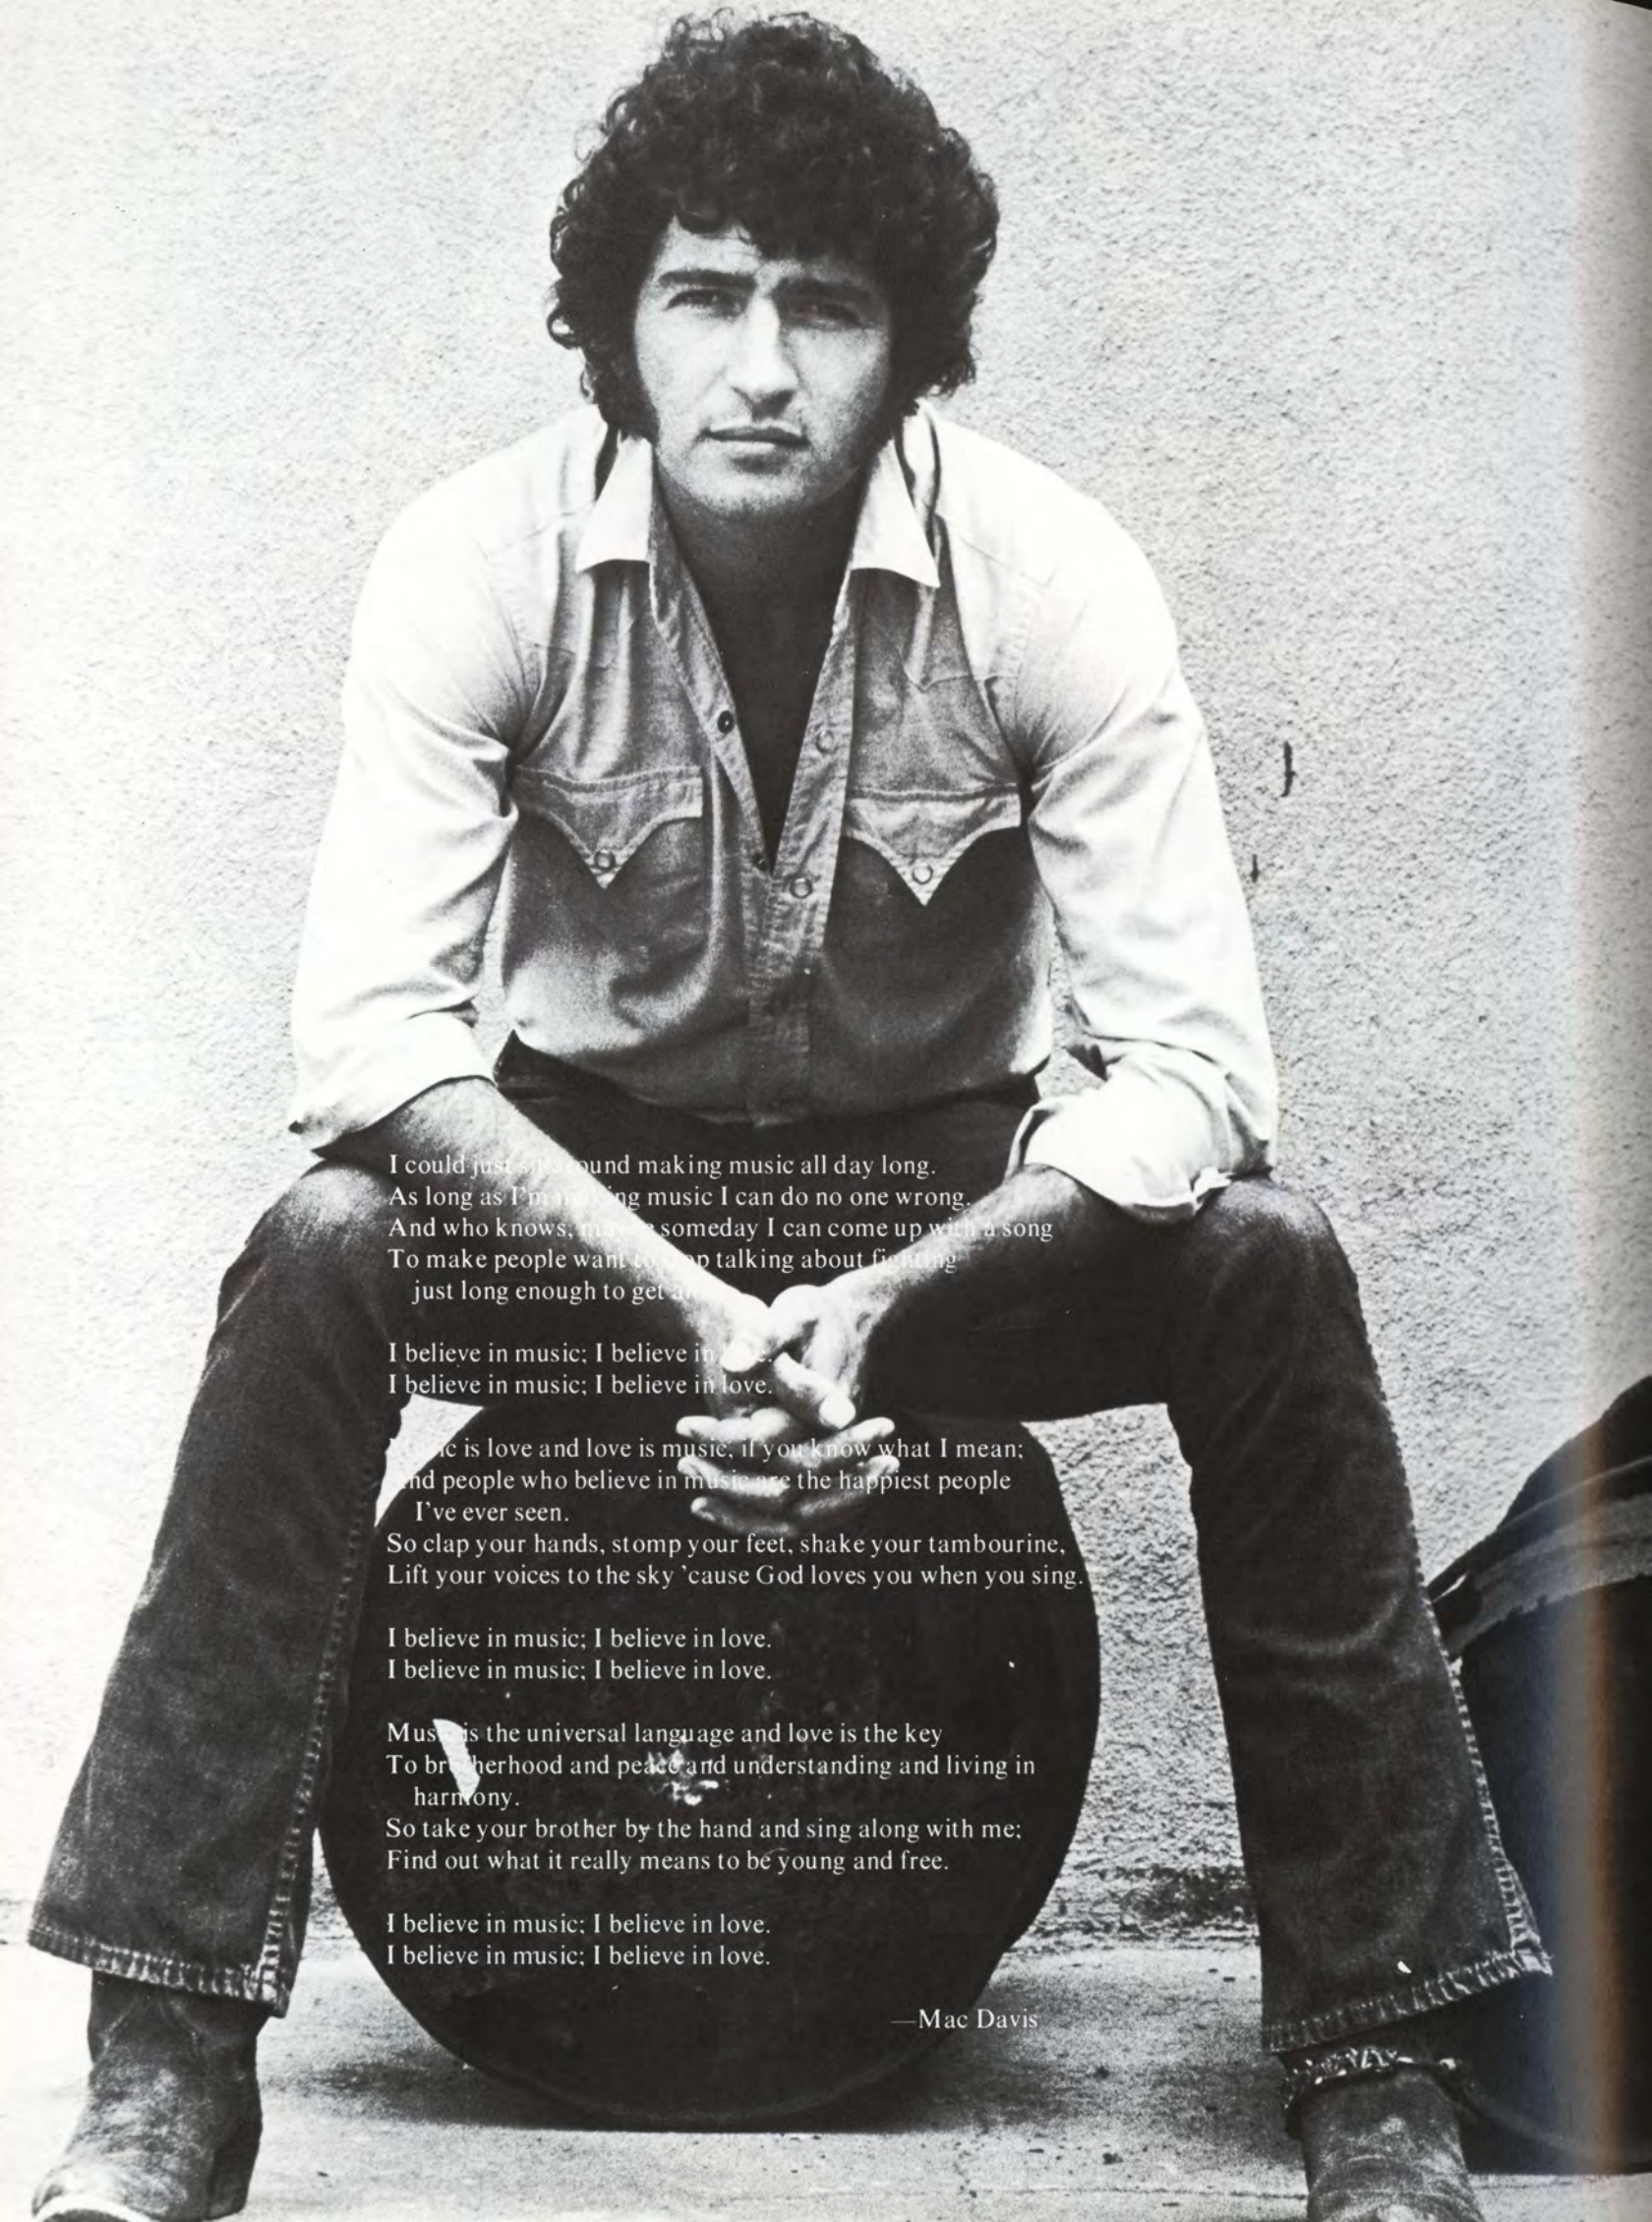

Now hey you, Mister, can't you read? You got to have a shirt and tie to get a seat.
You can't even watch; no, you can't eat. You ain't supposed to be here.
Sign said, "You got to have a membership card to get inside."

And the sign said, "Everybody welcome. Come in, kneel down, and pray."
But when they passed around the plate at the end of it all, I didn't have a penny to pay.
So I got me a pen and paper, and IMADE UP MY OWN LITTLE SIGN.
I said, "Thank you, Lord, for thinking 'bout me. I'm alive and doing fine."

Sign, sign, everywhere a sign,
Blocking out the scenery, breaking my mind.
Do this, don't do that, can't you read the sign?

I could just sit around making music all day long.
As long as I'm making music I can do no one wrong.
And who knows, maybe someday I can come up with a song
To make people want to stop talking about fighting just long enough to get a

I believe in music; I believe in love.
I believe in music; I believe in love.

Music is love and love is music, if you know what I mean;
And people who believe in music are the happiest people
I've ever seen.

So clap your hands, stomp your feet, shake your tambourine,
Lift your voices to the sky 'cause God loves you when you sing.

I believe in music; I believe in love.
I believe in music; I believe in love.

Music is the universal language and love is the key
To brotherhood and peace and understanding and living in harmony.

So take your brother by the hand and sing along with me;
Find out what it really means to be young and free.

I believe in music; I believe in love.
I believe in music; I believe in love.

I am the eagle, I live in high country
In rocky cathedrals that reach to the sky
I am the hawk and there's blood on my feathers
But time is still turning they soon will be dry
And all those who see me and all who believe in me
Share in the freedom I feel when I fly

Come dance with the west wind and touch on the mountain tops
Sail o'er the canyons and up to the stars
And reach for the heavens and hope for the future
And all that we can be and not what we are.

Homecoming is a tradition. It's a time when alumni return to see what's new and students take time out to have a little fun.

This year's theme was "There's a new day coming." It was an optimistic theme based on a popular song. The song fits well with the mood of this book:

"There's a new world coming
and it's just around the bend,
There's a new world coming,
this one's coming to an end.
There's a new voice calling,
you can hear it if you try,
And it's growing stronger with each day that passes by.

There's a brand new morning
rising clear and sweet and free
There's a new day dawning that belongs to you and me
Yes, a new world's coming the one we've had visions of Coming in peace,
coming in joy,
coming in love."

“There’s a New Day Coming”

Homecoming 1971

The theme of Homecoming 1971 was “There’s a New Day Coming.” The activities began on Sunday, October 10, with the traditional Kick-in sponsored by Alpha Omicron Pi.

This year’s service project was a massive clean-up of Sioux City. The object was to see which group on campus could fill the most trash bags with junk collected around town. The award of the new trash can went to Roadman Acres Country Club. The special theme given to the service project was “There’s a Clean Day Coming”

Nancy Monter was head of Homecoming and was responsible for organizing the events.

Window murals were painted on the windows of the Commons on Wednesday. Each participating organization was allowed one section. Some Roadman Hall residents came up with their own method of showing their spirit.

Wednesday morning was the time for the Homecoming Convocation. Miss Beatrice Tift was crowned Honorary Miss Morningside by Student Body President Ed Johnson. Donette Adam and Nancy Monter were crowned Sophomore Attendant and Junior Attendant, respectively. Freshman Queen Candidates were introduced, as were candidates for Miss Morningside and Football King. Coach Dewey Halford gave a short pep talk and introduced the Men of the M. The award for the best performance during the service project was given to Roadman Acres, and the kazoo band entertained with Harry Arthur as guest soloist.

The Freshman-Varsity Talent Show was held Wednesday evening in Eppley with a wide variety of talent being displayed.

Thursday night brought the pep rally. "Gene Sherman" was on hand to give a play-by-play account of the happenings. An all-female football team played the game while an all-male roster of faculty cheerleaders provided enthusiasm. The crowning of Maureen Kolar as Freshman Queen was followed by a spirit ride around the area.

One of the week's highlights was Friday night's concert by Mac Davis, who impressed the audience with an impromptu song about a new day at Morningside. During intermission Linda Bones was crowned Miss Morningside and Dan McClannahan was named Football King.

Saturday's parade was one of the biggest ever. President and Mrs. Thompson were present. The Delta Sigs and the cheerleaders were doing their part during the parade route, and all five members of the Homecoming Royalty were seen.

No parade is complete without bands, and Morning-side was represented twice. The marching band and the kazoo band both performed along the route. The TEKE's famous bell was a unit, as were the Delta Sig Dollies. Several clowns accompanied the parade.

One of the big parts of the parade was the floats, which were judged. Alpha Delta Pi constructed the first-place float entitled "Victory Dawns on the Chiefs." Delta Zeta won second with their suggestion of "Start Your Day with Chiefs." The TEKE's took third with a float suggesting that "Chiefs' Victory Comet Brings New Day." The float by Alpha Omicron Pi brought the advent of the "Dewey Halford watch." A space theme by the Sig Eps and a computerized victory by the music fraternity kept with the theme of a new day.

With a victory on Saturday, all classes on Monday would have been cancelled. But the Panthers of UNI proved to be too much for the Chiefs and handed them a loss. During half-time trophies were awarded to the winners of the float competition. Homecoming Week ended with a dance featuring the Young Raiders.

To relate athletics to life and the world of today, we went right to the athletes of Morningside College. The question was "In what way do you feel that sports are relevant in today's world?" Some of the answers we got were:

"Everyone has an interest and concern for sports simply because our own society is made up of competition."

"Sports, I feel, are very relevant in our world. They provide for a healthier world and at the same time provide a means of entertainment."

"It gives you the experience of competition that evolves in everyday life."

"I think sports are great for disciplining mind and body."

"Sports is just one of the many ways man has as an outlet for his emotions, aggressiveness, and energy. Sports provide certain types of people with a release from everyday drudgery ... In this day and age, more than any other, people need this release from the hectic, race-horse life we lead."

The general opinion seems to be that athletics provide an opportunity for development of the mind and the body, teach self-discipline, and provide an escape from a life full of pressure and competition. Does it need any other justification?

Morningside College has been picked to host the 1973 NAIA National Tournament, which will be held March 8-10 in Sioux City.

Our information on the 1972 baseball season is inconclusive. As of May 4th, the Chiefs had a record of 4 wins and 14 losses overall and a conference record of 1 win and 5 losses; there were eight days of the conference race left.

Bad weather plagued the Chiefs all season, with eight games being rained out. The six losses that came after the trip south were all close contests; the six were lost by a total of only eleven points.

Dave Andros led the conference in pitching with a 0.00 earned run average. Rex Johnsrud was fourth in the league with an ERA of 0.81. Lee Westergaard ranked fifth with an ERA of 1.40.

Mike Pommerenke led the hitting attack with a batting average of .350, making him 10th in the conference.

Chiefs Win at Drake, Set Relays Record.

The year began with indoor track. Mark Bigler won the NCC indoor title for the 60-yard dash with a time of 6.3 seconds, which set a school record and missed the conference mark by one-tenth of a second. He also set a long jump record with a leap of 22 feet, 11 ½ inches and tied the 50-yard dash record of 5.5 seconds.

Mickey Everett set a record in the 440-yard dash and one in the 60-yard intermediate hurdles with a time of 7.3 seconds.

Dan Walth tied a record for the 60-yard high hurdles with a 7.8 clocking. Pat Riddle had a time of 2:02.0, which was a record, in the 880-yard run; Delbert Christensen set a new high in the mile run with a time of 4:31.2.

For the second year in a row, Morningside won both the 440 and mile relays in the Iowa College division of the Drake Relays. In the 440 Bigler, Everett, Berry, and Asprey took the honors with a time of 42 seconds. In the mile Stauffer, Berry, Tucker, and Everett had a time of 3:17.7, which was a new school record and a Drake Relays record.

Morningside was picked for a special award at the relays; the honor is for long years of attendance and contributions and was presented at a banquet.

Morningside will be represented in the national competition this summer.

The Greek system is a special system based on friendship. Its purpose is to provide lasting relationships. But each sorority and fraternity carries out various service projects throughout the year.

They help collect money for the Heart Fund and the United Way; take part in a Big Sister program for retarded children in Sioux City; sponsor Easter egg hunts for underprivileged children; sponsor special projects to raise money for the Sioux City Boys' Club; kidnap the mayor of Sioux City in order to raise funds for an area coach who needs brain surgery; and sponsor marchers in the Miles for Millions walk of the March of Dimes.

In addition, the entire Greek system sponsored a tree-planting service project for Greek Week.

These are only examples of the many ways in which the Greeks, individually and collectively, are taking part in our dream.

Greek Week Got It All Together.

Greek Week officially began on Saturday, April 22, with a service project. Representatives from each house planted trees for the city.

Monday night the three sororities put on a joint Panhellenic serenade for the fraternities.

The Greek Week Olympics followed an all-school picnic on Tuesday. Events included the chariot race, the three-legged relay, the wheel barrow relay, the tug-of-war, the pyramid-building contest, and the egg-throwing contest. Expressions on the faces of the participants tell the story, as may be seen from the pictures on the following pages. Note especially the expressions during the egg toss.

The traditional talent show was staged Wednesday night with a wide variety of talents being displayed.

The Greek Week Banquet was held Thursday with Dr. James Miller as guest speaker. Randy Hansen was named Greek Man of the Year. The Greek Woman of the Year award was presented to Sue Westerman.

Friday's road rally and party was postponed due to rain. An attempt was made on Saturday to hold the events, the result being that many were stuck—literally—at Hidden Valley. The award for Outstanding Greek Week Participation was presented to Delta Zeta Sorority.

Graduation marks the end of an important part of a person's life and represents his final release into the world of competition. Each person is on his own, is responsible for his actions. We hope that each individual who leaves Morningside will remember what we said here and will do his part in making our dream a reality. We hope each one will continue to fight against war, racism, pollution, violence, poverty, and conformity.

Commencement speaker Supreme Court Justice Blackmun expressed his confidence in today's generation. He finds them to be much more concerned and devoted to causes than ever before. We hope he's right.

On May 14th It Was All Over for the Largest Graduating Class in History

On May 14, 1972, the largest graduating class in the history of Morningside College received diplomas at Allee Gymnasium. Degrees were presented to 280 graduates of the fall and spring semesters.

Three honorary degrees were also presented: Supreme Court Justice Harry A. Blackmun received a Doctor of Science of Law degree; Ernest M. Raun, past president of Iowa Public Service Company of Sioux City, was awarded an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree (he also served on the Morningside College board of directors for 29 years); and John W. Swanson, director of the division of natural materials and systems for the Institute of Paper Chemistry of Appleton, Wisconsin, received a Doctor of Science degree.

Justice Harry Blackmun gave the commencement address in front of 4000 people, speaking of the present as "both the best times and the worst times" for the United States. He praised the general awareness of today's college students to the issues of the day—pollution, racism, welfare reform, capital punishment, abortion. He said, "There has never been a time when so many people have been so concerned with injustice or more devoted to peace." He then asked the graduating students to "be content with the steady pull, avoid the cult of cynicism, think more and emote less, learn to accept disappointment and interim defeat, seek times of aloneness ('this is when we mature'), ever seek wisdom."

Earlier in the day, Dr. Arnold Herbst, senior minister of St. Paul's United Methodist Church of Cedar Rapids, gave the address at the baccalaureate services held in Eppley Auditorium. He spoke of a trend toward "quality rather than quantity in life."

Once in a while it becomes necessary to forget the problems of the day and let go. It's important to occasionally take time out to do whatever "grabs ya." It's evident from the following pages that Morningside students know what it's all about.

A lot of you will look at this book and say, "There's no color or anything neat like that." You will be right, because we couldn't afford it. It's not easy to put out a yearbook on a small college budget; we had to get by on what we could get done free. The cover and the introduction are different, but they cost money. That's all we could afford to do. Rather than concentrate on what we DIDN'T do, I hope you will think about our theme. It isn't meant to be a sermon; rather it is the expression of hope, the longing for a beautiful dream.

Some of you may find that your name has been misspelled or even left out. That too is unavoidable. We got lists from many different sources, and there just wasn't time to check every name on every list. We had to go by the information we were given, and I apologize for any mistakes.

There are many people who deserve credit for this book. First on the list is Roger Carlson. It isn't easy to be the only photographer, and Roger did a great job. However, there were times when he just couldn't make an assignment, and Tom Crabb often filled in for him. Tom's help was greatly appreciated. Thanks also go to Phil Bondi for contributing pictures of RLC and graduation.

Thanks to Tom Gilbert, who served as our advisor and always seemed to have confidence in what we were doing; to Don Stefanson, who was a big help during the time we were without an advisor; and to Alan Anderson, who always seemed to know what to do when we had a problem.

There are four other people who were really big help when it came time to clean up the mess from last year—Jacquie Walker, Bonita Reising, Jeanie Jones, and Lee Schipull.

Special thanks go to Augsburg Publishing House, Pacific Coast Publishers, and Time Inc. for permission to use the pictures appearing in our introduction and to Time Inc. for the use of the picture on our cover. (For those who haven't figured out what the picture is, it's the surface of the human brain.)

One person we absolutely could not have done without is Vic Eaton from the American Yearbook Company. He's a fantastic guy, and we can't thank him enough. Thanks also to Eldon Bryant, Steve Maxwell, and everyone at both the Topeka and Visalia plants for their help, hospitality, and patience. I know we weren't the ideal clients, but we tried.

Our thanks go to all these people and to anyone else who in any way is helping make our not-so-impossible dream come true.

They paved paradise
And put up a parking lot,
With a pink hotel,
A boutique and a swinging hot spot.

Don't it always seem to go
That you don't know what you've got till it's gone?
They paved paradise
And put up a parking lot.

They took all the trees
And put them in a tree museum,
And they charged all the people
A dollar and a half just to see 'em.

Don't it always seem to go
That you don't know what you've got till it's gone?
They paved paradise
And put up a parking lot.

Hey, farmer, farmer,
Put away that D.D.T. now,
Give me spots on my apples
But leave me the birds and the bees. Please!

Don't it always seem to go
That you don't know what you've got till it's gone?
They paved paradise
And put up a parking lot.

Late last night
I heard the screen door slam,
And a big yellow taxi
Took away my old man.

Don't it always seem to go
That you don't know what you've got till it's gone?
They paved paradise
And put up a parking lot.
