Singers Perform to Near Capacity Crowd

The Metropolitan Opera artists ensemble, comprised of Jarmila Novotna, soprano; Raoul Jobin, tenor; Herta Glaz, contralto, and Martial Singher, baritone, presented a program of varied sketches of operas to a near capacity crowd February 11 at the Orpheum.

Selections from "Carmen," Rossini's "Barber of Seville," Massenet's "Manon," Nicolai's "The Merry Wives of Windsor" and Flotows "Martha" were among those presented. The concluding number was the quartet, featuring the entire ensemble.

Top billing might have gone to Jan K. Behr, pianist-conductor. Sustaining the singers with a brilliant piano accompaniment, Mr. Behr the while co-ordinated score and stage business. He did a remarkable job of doubling for the magnificent orchestral background which is the accustomed setting for grand opera stardom.

Similarly did the singers maintain to a laudable degree the dramatic elements of their performance so that the audience heard and witnessed opera, rather than listened to concert music.

The next and final concert of the Sioux City Civic Music Association will feature Robert Weede, also of the Metropolitan Opera Association. Mr. Weede will be accompanied by the Sioux City Symphony Orchestra under the baton of Mr. Leo Kucinski.

Pianist Thrills Concert Goers

Leon Fleischer, 18-year-old concert pianist, was well received at the Orpheum February 3. The protege pupil of Dr. Arthur Schnabel, the young genius of the piano made his debut two years ago with the New York Philharmonic.

Mr. Fleischer was accompanied by the Sioux City Symphony, led by Leo Kucinski, in performance of Rachmaninoff's Concerto in C Minor, No. 2. After the intermission the artist presented a group of three piano selections.

Mr. Kucinski led the orchestra in five selections to round out an evening of the best in music.

CAMPUS ACTIVITIES

The first edition of "The Four Freedoms in the Making" by Dr. H. B. Hawthorn, sociologist at Morningside, made its initial appearance at the college last week. Published by Verstegen of Sioux City, the book has been distributed by the author to eminent sociologists at colleges and universities throughout the country and to several of his friends. Of the 500 copies printed, several are available at the college book store.

Prof. Reistrup Presents Series of Music Programs

James Reistrup, Sioux City composer, instructor and professional musician, gave the first of a series of musical history performance to an appreciative audience at his home on January 12. Mr. Reistrup varied his program of historic selections from Scarlatti to Liszt with an informal lecture on them and their relationship with allied arts in the same period.

It is Mr. Reistrup's purpose in this series to give a select group of interested laymen an appreciative understanding of the great music of the world.

The second recital on February 9, played before a large audience, was entitled "History as Seen in Music," and combined informal illustrative talks with the music itself. The concert included all-Beethoven compositions and from it Ludwig von Beethoven emerged from musical history as a foresighted gentleman of democratic tendencies as well as one of the world's great composers.

marriage of Foster M. Palmer, former Morningside librarian, to Doris Brown Wyman on February 8 in Cambridge, Mass. Mr. Palmer is reference librarian at Harvard University.

Mrs. James Reistrup delivered an interesting talk on interior decorating to the Y. W. C. A. at its opening meeting for the semester at the Barn. With many interesting historical sidelights she told the origins of period furniture, and its place in the art and architecture of today. Using several pieces of drapery material she demonstrated how an entire room could be built around the color scheme of one print or one picture.

Prof. and Mrs. John Magee are the parents of a son, Gregory Allan, born on January 29.

With many years' experience in Japanese missions as a background, Dr. Floyd Shacklock of Drew University School of Theology spoke in religious chapel Thursday, February 14, on "The Steps to Peace."

Miss Dimmitt Honored at Open House

An eightieth birthday! Surely homage should be paid to a teacher and friend who has come to the age of 80 with an alertness of mind and a richness of experience that make her a scholarly and an understanding teacher thoroughly appreciated by the faculty and the students on the campus of the college where she has worked for more than 50 years. Such was the thought of Miss Dimmitt's good friend, Mrs. J. A. Coss, and of three of her former students, Miss Ethel Murray, Miss Faith Woodford and Miss Mirah Mills. On Sunday, February 16, these four, together with Miss Murray's family, her sister, Mrs. Edith Murray Dakin, her niece, Mrs. Ruth Dakin Parden, and her nephew, Mr. George Parden, held open house in Miss Murray's home for all the friends of Miss Dimmitt. Over 200 took advantage of the opportunity to greet and congratulate their friend.

Members of Miss Dimmitt's own family were there: her nephews, John and James Kolp with their wives, Marie Sebern Kolp and Lida Saunders Kolp; her niece, Frances Kolp Gingles, with her two sons; her grandnieces, Florence Kolp, and Kathryn Kolp Menke with her husband Les and two sons; her grandnephews, John Kolp with his wife and small son and daughter, and Berton Kolp with his wife Roberta Haitz Kolp. It was a great pleasure to have these relatives of Miss Dimmitt present. Since most of these nephews and nieces are former Morningsiders, or present ones, it must have been a great satisfaction to them to see their aunt with her host of friends, many of them their friends, too, doing honor to her.

Miss Murray's home was a beautiful setting for the occasion; it was especially festive bedecked with flowers, the gifts of relatives and friends. We wish that the many Morningsiders not in the city could have been there to see Miss Dimmitt, lovely as always, proud of her orchid corsage, the gift of a group of friends.

Many, many cards, letters, and telegrams, and other gifts have come to her in the past two weeks, and these together with the guest book presented to her by another group of friends will bring her much pleasure as she relives what she says is the first birthday party she ever had.

Conservatory Plans Promotion Tour in April

Music students of the Conservatory, under the direction of Mr. Paul MacCollin, are planning a student promotion tour the week of April 6. The tour, planned by Mr. Harry W. Hartman, will include all important towns of northwestern Iowa. Mr. MacCollin had very few details of the trip ready to reveal for publication. He said the program would be composed of three parts and would include vocal and instrumental numbers.

Mrs. James Reistrup, homemaker and interior decorator, is shown as she gaily adds festive touches to her home for the Christmas holidays.

Honored as Woman of Achievement

Reprinted here from the Sioux City Sunday Journal of December 1, 1946, is much of the feature story, written by Editha K. Webster, as one of her "Women of Achievement" series, about Jeanne Moss Reistrup (Mrs. James), only Iowan honored by membership in the American Institute of Decorators.

Every home is a portrait of the woman within it. The sentence is not original. It is the opinion of Mrs. James Reistrup, only Iowa member of the American Institute of Decorators.

It is a good sentence, however, from which to tell you about Mrs. Reistrup, herself. For when we write of her home, it is a story of odors, such as cookies in the oven or newly baked bread on the kitchen table, as well as of candle lighted rooms and a fire that is blue, gold and red under a beamed mantelpiece.

The light glows on a grand piano, dominating the more formal of three living rooms as does the life work of Mr. Reistrup, music, dominate the family life. It flickers strongly, however, across the hall where a desk and a chest hint of the professional life of the homemaker—fabrics and art to make other women's homes beautiful.

There is no dining room in the Reistrup home. You may have coffee and some of the homemade cinnamon rolls in front of the fireplace in the music room; it may be luncheon in summer around a gay yellow table on the front porch, or again, you may serve yourself from a buffet in the room to the west that overlooks the garden, a room lighted by a charming, rose-colored hanging lamp as well as candles. Sometimes a formal dinner table is centered in this room and your service is as orthodox as the Royal Copenhagen china from which you eat.

The Reistrups, it seems, hold family councils, and gay ones, over the query "Where shall we eat?" "What?" is a question with an answer involving the homemaker, a good cook, who delves deeply into the cookbooks of her husband's native Denmark—Mr. Reistrup being interpreter—for such delicacies as the Christmas lamb of coffee bread, baked to the image of the symbol of innocence and frosted duzzily with coconut.

There are a host of other family traditions concerning which Paul, the elder son, 14, and Jon, 10, will tell you in excited anticipation of the holidays. Christmas is very special in the Reistrup home.

Christmas must be very special in all American homes, Mrs. Reistrup maintains, if we "make yood" at setting a world example of successful democratic living.

"Every home must be a portrait of the woman who lives in the home * * * it is the decorator's problem to paint that portrait rather than her own. She must study the family and their needs and income and she must fit the background to both."

That the Sioux Cityan has done this well in her professional capacity as well as in her home, her membership in A. I. D. affirms.

The society, which has a comparatively small national membership of 500 men and women, is composed of established decorators with recognized qualifications in edu-education and experience, every one of whom has been recommended by fellow decorators. Mrs. Reistrup became affiliated in 1944. Educated at the University of Illinois, she included in her experience designing and decorating for several years in Chicago shops and a department store contract from 1928, when as Jeanne Moss she came to Sioux City, until 1931, when she went to Europe to study and returned the bride of the Sioux City pianist and composer.

Mrs. Reistrup, a very loyal and fine friend of Morningside, has given her valuable time and skills to the college in many ways. Probably her greatest contribution has been the work she has done in the Women's Residence Halls. In co-operation with Miss Alva Tolf, Dean of Women, she has made this a home for Morningside College girls not only beautiful but warm and friendly in color combinations and room arrangements. In addition, Mrs. Reistrup has planned the decorating of Main Hall and the Student Union, now known as the Barn. It may be recalled that Mrs. Reistrup was also responsible for the planning and redecorating of the Student Union when it was located in Main Hall. Morningside College is indeed grateful to Mrs. Reistrup for her talents.

RECEIVE ALUMNI SCHOLARSHIPS

Leeds: Jerry Rattenne East: Ralph Weaver Central: Laura May Bunten Central: Eugene Goldberg Leeds: Canice Calhoun

Three mid-year graduates of the Sioux City high schools were awarded Alumni scholarships at Commencement exercises in January in accordance with the plan inaugurated two years ago by the Alumni of presenting a four-year scholarship at Morningside to an outstanding student in each graduating class of the three Sioux City high schools.

In addition, two students from the 1946

June graduating classes of Central and Leeds high schools were chosen as alternates to continue the scholarships which Jay Davenport and Eugene Bradstreet were forced to drop.

Dr. and Mrs. Roadman Attend Alumni Meetings in East

Dr. and Mrs. Earl Roadman returned home January 28 after a three-week trip to the eastern states attending alumni meetings. Accounts of the Syracuse, Boston, and Washington, D. C., meetings were published in the January Morningsider.

Attending the reunion in Pittsburgh on January 22 were: Mr. and Mrs. Silas Braley (Sarah Whitehouse), both '13; Mr. ('22) and Mrs. Leon Hickman (Mayme Hoyt, '24); Mrs. Dale Woodward (Marian Leslie, '25); Mr. and Mrs. Carsten Ahrens (Dorothy Anderson, '31); Mr. ('11) and Mrs. George Barrett (Ethel McCracken, ex '13); and Dr. (ex '16) and Mrs. Horace DeWalt.

The reunion in Cleveland on January 23 was attended by Miss Blanche Watts, '08; Mr. ('29) and Mrs. Webb Fowler; Mr. Ross Miller, ex '34; Mr. Maurice Van Metre; and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Eerkes (Margaret Haradon), both '24.

The largest meeting on the trip was held in Chicago. Among those present were Dr. and Mrs. E. M. Dr. Kirkpatrick Heads Iowa Commission

Dr. J. E. Kirkpatrick, head of the Education Department at Morningside, has just been re-elected for a three-year term as chairman of the Iowa Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards. The Commission at the present time consists of 32 Iowa educators, 10 of whom constitute the executive committee. Dr. Kirkpatrick was also re-elected as a member of this executive committee. Just off the press is a pamphlet, "A Guide for Teacher Salary Committees," published by the Iowa Commission. The purpose of this Commission, created early in 1946, as stated in the foreword of the new booklet is: "To study problems related to teachers in Iowa Elementary and Secondary Schools, . . . such studies to include among others: teacher selection, recruitment, education, certification, evaluation, placement, employment, salary schedules, etc. . . to publish the results of its studies and make declarations and pronouncements arising from its work."

M. T. Nodland, Superintendent of Schools, and E. E. Briggs, Principal of the Woodrow Wilson Junior High School, are Sioux City members of the Commission. "BUCK" HAS REASON TO SMILE

Coach Buckingham, Rosemary and Susan

The youngest and perhaps the peppiest of Maroon basketball boosters, are Susan, almost 4 years, and Rosemary, 9 months old, daughters of Coach and Mrs. Albert Buckingham (Marian Miller, ex '43). Blue-eyed Susan likes nothing better than an opportunity to watch her "daddy's boys" practice basketball in the gym, unless it is to take off her shoes and socks at most inopportune moments, a trick she learned in Florida, where toes are not so easily frost-bitten as here. Rosemary, who resembles her daddy even more than Susan, senses his excitement when he remarks, as he tosses her in the air, "I believe 'the boys' are going to win that conference championship."

HOOP NEWS

The Maroons met the Bison of North Dakota State January 24th on their home court. It was Morningside all the way as they shot and passed to a 58-47 victory and their fourth conference win. The Sioux City Collegians netted 12 quick points before their opponents were able to find the basket. Throughout the remainder of the game the Maroons maintained their advantage, never once being threatened. Bob Held of the Morningside quintet led the scoring with 13 points.

Traveling to Cedar Falls the Maroons clashed with the Iowa State Teachers College quintet January 31st. Morningside jumped into an 8 to 1 lead in the first 2½ minutes but the Panthers bounced back to go ahead 15 to 14 after 12 minutes of play. The lead see-sawed until the Tutors went out in front 23 to 22 and never were headed. The final score showed Morningside four points short of victory. It was the Maroons' first loss in five conference starts. Mathers of the Morningside quintet led the evening's scoring with 9 points.

Morningside, bouncing back from a four-point defeat at the hands of Iowa State Teachers the previous night, pulled away in the last eight minutes of play to take a 68 to 55 victory from Wartburg College. The game was close during the first half, as the lead exchanged hands several times. Gale Stevens was high point man with 26 points. Morningsides' record thus far this season stands 11 victories against 3 defeats.

The Morningside gymnasium was the setting for the battle between the Maroons and the Coyotes of South Dakota University for the No. 1 position in the North Central Conference race. It was an exciting game from start to finish. Morningside opened the scoring only to relinquish the lead a few minutes later as the Coyote attack began to function. The Maroon quint trailed 11 to 7 at the end of the first quarter. In the second period the Morningsiders collected themselves and walked off the floor at the intermission with a 25 to 23 lead. The last two periods showed the Maroons widening their advantage and going on to win by a 53-48 count. Stevens was high point man in the game with 14 markers. Jack Larson played an outstanding game both offensively and defensively for the Maroons.

On the night of February 6th the Morningside Maroons entertained the much-traveled Golden Hurricanes of Tulsa. The Oklahoma quintet dominated the play throughout the first half in using a very effective set offense. The Maroons came to life in the third quarter to cut Tulsa's lead to two points. As the fourth quarter opened Gale Stevens knotted the score at 36-all. Bob Held then added another field goal to put the Maroons ahead. The remainder of the game was fast and hard fought with first one team scoring and then the other. At the final horn it was Morningside 49 and Tulsa 44. Stevens, collecting 15 points, was high point man for Morningside.

Morningside's conference champion hopes suffered a set-back February 11th at Brookings when they went down in defeat to the Jackrabbits of South Dakota State. Morningside led all the way until the last five minutes when the Bunnies tied the count at 48-all. The South Dakota quintet then went on to win 59-53. The loss placed Morningside in a tie with South Dakota State for the No. 1 spot in the conference race.

In what proved to be the most exciting game of the current season, Morningside came from behind to edge the Coyotes of South Dakota University by a 59-58 count. The Coyotes, playing on their own floor, started out with a sizzling performance which brought a 22-11 first quarter and a 40 to 28 halftime lead. The third quarter started the same way, with South Dakota dominating the play and moving into a 48 to 32 lead late in that period. The Maroon offense then began to function, with Bob Held and Gale Stevens consistently hitting the hoop. With half of the fourth quarter gone, the score was tied at 50-all. The Coyotes then took over again, but only briefly, as they moved to a 55-50 and then 57-53 lead. Held then looped in a long one and Stevens followed with a tip-in to knot the score at 57-all. Capitalizing on a free throw the Coyotes took the lead once again, 58-57. Then, with less than a minute remaining in the game, Bristow's hook shot from the foul circle put Morningside ahead. The last few seconds dwindled away and left the Maroon squad with a 1-point advantage. Stevens led the Maroon scoring with 22 points.

Richard Hatt Is Named First Citizen

Richard ("Dick") Hatt, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in Longview, Wash., and husband of Grace Gordon, '32, was the man of the year on January 17 in Longview, Wash. Named as Longview's Junior First Citizen for 1946 before nearly 200 members and guests of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at its annual banquet at the Hotel Monticella, the executive director of the Community Y. M. C. A. was picked for the honor for his "unselfish devotion to civic and community interests" by an anonymous committee of five of his elders.

Mr. Hatt is a member of the Jaycees, is active in the Longview Kelso Community Chest activities, and had been a sparkplug in establishing social welfare agencies on a sound basis in the community. He has been instrumental in aiding the Red Cross locally, as well as other youth welfare organizations. The outstanding job he has done thus far will be remembered for a long time.

In presenting a bouquet to Mrs. Hatt the chairman paid tribute to her when he quoted: "A man's a man for all that, but what is he without a woman behind him?"
