THE MORNINGSIDER is published quarterly by Morningside College, Sioux City, Iowa. Second Class Postage paid at Sioux City, Iowa. Address correspondence to Alan Anderson, editor, THE MORNINGSIDER, Morningside College, Sioux City, Iowa 51106.

It is a distinct pleasure to announce the selection of Ed Van Veldhuizen, '48, as the Annual Alumni Fund Chairman for the 1970-71 fund year. He is currently associated with the Insurance Company of North America as Agency Consultant, having responsibility for a large part of Iowa. In addition, Mr. Van Veldhuizen is the Vice-President of Nusco Securities.

This year's Alumni Fund Chairman, his wife, the former Helen Witter, '50, and their four children, reside at 207 Irving, Storm Lake, Iowa 50588. Their eldest daughter, Carol, is a junior at Morningside.

Dr. Thompson Keynotes

The tempo of the 1970-71 academic year at Morningside was set by President Thompson in his first convocation address of the year on September 23. In relating the problems of the world to the special problems being encountered by higher education, Dr. Thompson emphasized the role of each individual in the solving of these dilemmas.

"The thinking of the individual and the responsibilities assumed by the individual are the keys to the making of changes in an ordered society," he said. "The opportunity for personal identity must be present on each campus. Each student must have an opportunity as an individual to support student-elected leaders, and be in a setting where choice is a personal thing."

In detailing ways in which a college can allow for individuality, Dr. Thompson said, "An institution of higher education, like the new car, should incorporate the latest know-how that is available and yet have a distinctiveness. Gadgetry and trick phrases are not enough. In order to arrive at a distinctiveness and an institution of quality, one must consider all those things that go into that institution—the faculty, the students, the governing body, the administrative team."

"I am a great believer in people meeting and talking to each other," he said. "I do not think it realistic to carry on a love affair by telephone. I don't think one can carry on communications completely by memoranda. I think we gain understanding eyeball to eyeball."

Touching on the study of curriculum currently being carried out at Morningside, Dr. Thompson read from a statement developed by the Central Planning Committee on Curriculum to act as a guideline for their study. The statement is this:

We believe Morningside College can cope with today's education dilemmas and remain a viable institution only if it develops distinctive and worthwhile programs which take seriously the college's stated but too often unrealized commitment to provide a personal dimension in education and cultural enrichment for our region.

Today, our rapidly changing world demands that we construct programs which are individually tailored to the capabilities and interests of the student and that we develop programs to meet the changing local and regional needs. We will achieve these ends by concentrating upon programs which will encourage autonomy in the behavior of those who encounter them.

Stressing that the maintenance of standards is important in the planning process of a college, Dr. Thompson said that Morningside shall make no distinction between students insofar as graduation requirements are concerned. "I think all students should complete the regular courses, passing them with acceptable academic performance to graduate," he said. "However, I believe certain remedial or skill-developing courses should be created and available for students who want and need such help. Potential ability must be searched out and recognized.

"Like all good schools, Morningside College encourages the enrollment of students of varied racial and ethnic backgrounds. We do not admit anyone out of charity or fear. Our college is a fine institution, and its student body is the greatest source of its pride."

The faith that our nation has, generally, in higher education has been shaken deeply by the recent wave of student unrest, Dr. Thompson related. He cited as an example a recent series of calls he made upon businessmen in behalf of the Iowa Private College Foundation. These calls brought many questions about the ability of college administrators to cope with their problems, he said.

It is in this setting of doubt, President Thompson said, that the commitment of the private liberal arts college becomes even more important. "I can think of nothing which our violent, cynical age needs more," he said, "than a recovery of commitment of those insights and goals which are implemented by liberal study."

Football is in the air again and the Morningside College Chiefs are right in the middle as they engage in a tough eight-game schedule. The Chiefs, beginning their 16th season under Coach Dewey Halford, opened the 1970 season with an impressive win over Missouri Western but fell to the University of Nebraska—Omaha on September 19 by a 30-16 count.

It was a host of records that greeted the Morningside Chiefs when they opened the 1970 football season in a stirring fashion with a 72-10 clubbing of Missouri Western.

Morningside rolled to margins of 14-0 after the first quarter, 28-3 at the half, and then pushed across 22 points in each of the final two periods to account for the victory margin. It was an awesome display, and Head Coach Dewey Halford used 61 players in the fray with mostly reserves playing the second half of the game.

Junior tailback Dave Bigler of Dumont, Iowa, the North Central Conference's second leading rusher in 1969, took up where he left off last season by setting a school record in rushing. The 6-0, 190 lb. athlete carried the ball 18 times for 186 yards. That's better than 10 yards per carry!

One sour note came out of the victory. Quarterback Mike Junck, the Chiefs' All-American candidate, suffered a slight fracture of his right collarbone on the fourth offensive play of the contest for the Chiefs and was sidelined for at least two weeks. Senior Pat Murphy of Sioux City (East) did not let the team forget who runs the club as he completed 13 of 19 passes for 207 yards and four touchdowns.

Murphy is a very capable quarterback and Halford called the ball team "in good hands with Murphy."

The Chiefs rolled to 679 yards in total offense, another school record, and rushed for 411 yards—the largest rushing total since the Chiefs gained 422 yards against Central Oklahoma State in 1965 (the school record).

The Chiefs also charted 41 first downs against the Missouri school to account for still another record. Steve Schroeder caught three TD passes in the fray for a single game record.

Football '70

Coach Halford with 1970 co-captains Mark Renfro (65) and Tim Jackes (88).

Morningside listed 25 lettermen on the squad with 19 letterwinners in the starting lineup on opening day. Two junior college transfers and one unlettered sophomore rounded out the lineup. The offense is as powerful as the one that scored 25.8 points per game last season and the defense has a definite look of improvement. It is the general feeling that if the Chiefs can get a good defensive performance out of that veteran group, then Morningside could be in the thick of the fight for the North Central Conference crown.

CHIEF SMOKE SIGNALS

Sports Information Director George A. Ellis presented the best football program in recent history when the Chiefs opened the season at home against Missouri Western. The 32-page magazine listed individual pictures of the players, feature stories on the College and on past athletic glories, plus many current stories and information. The program sells for 50 cents. Eleven pages change each issue thus presenting a new program for each home game. It will carry on through the basketball season.

"The Dewey Halford Show" made its first appearance on television Thursday night, September 17, on KTIV Channel 4. Coach Halford and Channel 4 sports director Roger Mansfield present a full one-half hour color show in prime television time each week. The show is on from 8:30 to 9:00 p.m. each Thursday night during the football season and viewers watch color films of the Chiefs in action and hear commentary by Coach Halford.

Radio station KMNS in Sioux City is carrying five of the Morningside football games. With Gene Sherman doing the play-by-play, the station has covered the Missouri Western game and the U. of Nebraska at Omaha contest. It will broadcast the Augustana game, the North Dakota State contest, and the North Dakota battle.

MORNINGSIDE'S NEW FACULTY

Editor's note . . . Morningside College welcomed thirteen new full-time faculty members for the 1970-71 academic year. This year's new faculty bring a variety of talents to the campus, and, as a group, have demonstrated a high degree of understanding and concern for the role of the private liberal arts college. We have written brief biographical sketches to acquaint you with the new professors.

Alan Anderson, editor

FRANCIS E. BRENEISEN, ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF ART Mr. Breneisen recently completed his Master of Fine Arts degree at the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee, and will specialize in the teaching of ceramics at Morningside. He also holds an M.S. degree from the University of Wisconsin where he was a teaching assistant. His ceramics have been exhibited in shows and galleries in Wisconsin, Ohio and Minnesota.

GEORGE M. BOWLES, ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF PHILOSOPHY Mr. Bowles has been a teaching assistant at Stanford University while working on his Ph.D. He replaces Dr. John Lawrence who is temporarily vacating his teaching duties to co-ordinate the work of the Central Curriculum Planning Committee. Mr. Bowles taught at Morningside during the summer of 1969.

LAWRENCE DEWITT, ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF MUSIC AND CHAIRMAN OF THE DEPARTMENT Mr. DeWitt has headed the music department at Hiram College, Hiram, Ohio, for the past eight years. Replacing Dr. Charles McClain, he will specialize in the teaching of organ and will also direct the Sioux City Choral Union. As an organ recitalist, he has performed at the Washington Cathedral and Trinity Cathedral in New York City. Mr. DeWitt holds a Master of Arts degree from the University of Michigan and is completing work for a doctorate from Indiana University.

THOMAS E. GILBERT, ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF PHILOSOPHY Mr. Gilbert is completing his work toward a Ph.D. at the University of Massachusetts where he earned his master's degree and served as a teaching assistant during the 1969-70 academic year. He taught at Sioux Falls Lincoln High School in 1965-66. Mr. Gilbert is a native of Maquoketa, Iowa.

RICHARD C. HEINZ, ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF SOCIOLOGY Mr. Heinz will direct the Educational Development Center in addition to his teaching duties. His master's degree was earned at Northern Illinois University where he is currently working on a Ph.D. He was a teaching assistant for two years at Northern Illinois and was an instructor in sociology at College of DuPage in Glen Ellyn, Ill.

DR. MICHAEL B. HUSBAND, ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF HISTORY AND POLITICAL SCIENCE A recent recipient of the Ph.D. from the University of New Mexico, Dr. Husband replaces Dr. Clifford Bowman who retired. Dr. Husband was a teaching assistant at the University of Nebraska at Omaha where he earned his master's degree, and was also an instructor at Drake University and the University of New Mexico. He served as a research assistant for the American Indian historical research project at New Mexico U. He has specialized in the history of the American Indian.

MRS. ORPHA M. JERMAN, INSTRUCTOR IN LIBRARY SCIENCE Mrs. Jerman is a graduate of Morningside and took additional work beyond her B.A. degree in library science. She was a member of the Sioux City Public Library staff for 13 years and prior to that had been employed by the Woodbury County Library and the Anthon, Iowa, public school.

JON C. LEWIS, ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF BIOLOGY A native of Bridgeport, Conn., Mr. Lewis received both his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Houston and is working on a Ph.D. in biochemistry from the University of Kansas. He has been a teaching assistant at both universities and was employed by the Eli Lilly Company as a research scientist during the summer. His research in plant science has led to the publication of papers in two professional journals.

VERNON MARTIN, ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR AND DIRECTOR OF LIBRARY SERVICES As much a musician as a librarian, Mr. Martin comes to Morningside from North Texas State University where he was music librarian and an instructor in the department of library science. He holds two master's degrees from Columbia University and has taken coursework toward a Ph.D. He has done special work in the study of electronic music composition and performance.

A Look Back

Birth of a Symphony

Leo Kucinski, Conductor of the Sioux City Symphony Orchestra

Like many famous organizations, the Sioux City Symphony Orchestra, now known far and wide for its superb performances, had humble beginnings—in fact it can be said that the symphony was born in a “barn” at Morningside College. Or at least its roots were put down there.

This was a special kind of Barn, deserving of a capital “B.” It was a converted World War I barracks, one of two such structures that for years served a multiplicity of purposes on the Morningside campus. It was here that the orchestra’s present maestro, Leo Kucinski, began conducting rehearsals in 1925, although there had been earlier Morningside orchestras dating back to 1920.

The Barn was a mighty chilly place in the winters of the early 20’s, and the musicians’ fingers might have been numb with cold if it hadn’t been for the late Hans Raun, who was custodian of buildings and grounds at that time and who stoked the fires energetically so that rehearsals could be held. Hans Raun was the father of E. M. Raun, who retired recently as chairman of the board of Iowa Public Service Co. and who, like his father, was and still is a staunch supporter of the orchestra. Hans died in 1950.

At first the orchestra was composed largely of Morningside College music students. The group has had several names—the Morningside College Symphony Orchestra, the Sioux City Community Orchestra, and, with its incorporation in 1946, the Sioux City Symphony Orchestra, its present name.

The student group soon was augmented by members of the Morningside College music faculty and music teachers of the Sioux City public schools. Later, faculty members from the University of South Dakota contributed their talents to the orchestra. The symphony now includes top musicians from the general Siouxland region.

Early concerts were presented at East Junior High School, Central High School, in churches, at the Masonic Temple and at the Orpheum Theater. The symphony now plays at the Municipal Auditorium and at Eppley Auditorium.

“As membership and ability of the symphony grew, more difficult compositions were played and more concert artists were invited as soloists,” Kucinski said. “Now we can attract soloists of international renown. It has been a thrilling experience, and it’s now fully realized that a fine symphony orchestra gives ‘tone’ to the community.”

Kucinski has completed his 45th year as conductor of the famed symphony. His early musical training started in Warsaw, Poland, where he was born. He came to the United States in 1914 and went to Lorain, Ohio, where he attended high school. He received his advanced training at Oberlin College and at the Cleveland Institute of Music in Ohio. He came to Sioux City and Morningside College in 1923, where he was a colleague of the late Paul MacCollin, a legendary figure who headed the Morningside Conservatory of Music from 1916 until his death in November of 1957. Mr. MacCollin’s inspiration was one of the factors in the founding of the symphony.

In 1931-32 Mr. Kucinski, who now directs the Sioux Falls Symphony Orchestra and the Sioux City Municipal Band in addition to the Sioux City Symphony, took a recess for graduate work at the Juilliard School of Music in New York. He said “the quest for perfection never can let up.” He received an honorary doctor of music degree from Morningside in 1958.

Kucinski served with the Army from 1942 to 1946, and in the spring of 1946 the orchestra became of age when it was incorporated as the Sioux City Symphony, fully sponsored by the Sioux City Symphony Orchestra Association.

Kucinski directs with a youthful zeal that never ceases to amaze his admirers. He “keeps up” with contemporary music because he said “we must constantly adjust to new trends in music and art,” but he added that “you can’t ever get away from Bach, Beethoven and Brahms—and Tchaikovsky—and who’d want to?”

Of the current “rock” music that dings the ears, Kucinski said it was his belief that this music “is not sufficiently profound to have lasting value.” But he said “young people today are great—they will do a fine job when they take over because of better training and greater opportunities.”

The maestro commended a new movement to establish an endowment fund for the symphony, an effort given impetus by a $2,500 gift from the Missouri Valley Steel Co. E. F. Owen of Omaha presented the check to Dr. William Ziebell, president of the symphony association, and said he was hopeful that the firm’s gift would “encourage others to do likewise so that the local symphony might end up with an endowment fund in the nature of $100,000.”

There’s a group of symphony players who have been with the orchestra 25 or more years. Topping the list is Paul Grayson Sloan, French horn player, whose contribution is 38 years. Sloan started as a trumpet player but switched to the French horn in 1938. He’s a 1941 graduate of Morningside College.

Other veterans in the present orchestra are Charles Littlejohn, violinist and Morningside graduate, 31 years; Philip Pitts, viola player who is entering his 30th year with the group; Robert L. Brooks, trombonist, and his wife Louretta, both Morningside graduates, who have played with the symphony for 28 years (Mrs. Brooks plays stringed bass), and Jayne Marie Barnes, concertmistress, 26 years (she started as a junior high school student and was graduated from Morningside in 1950).

Fred Eppstein, flute and piccolo player, held the “record”—41 years as an active player—when he retired recently.

The late professor Paul MacCollin, head of the Morningside College Conservatory of Music for over 40 years, is shown with his portrait, painted by William Zimmerman, former art department chairman. The beloved Mr. MacCollin was instrumental in the founding of the Sioux City Symphony.

Summer Commencement '70

Rabbi Bernard Rosenberg receives the congratulations of Morningside president Dr. Thomas S. Thompson following the awarding of an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree to the rabbi. The summer commencement address was also given by Rabbi Rosenberg who is a longtime personal friend of Dr. Thompson.

Morningside's two-term Summer Semester was climaxed by the presentation of 62 undergraduate and 15 graduate degrees at commencement exercises held in the Eppley Auditorium on August 21. The commencement program was held just ten days prior to registration for the fall term.

Speaker for the program was Rabbi Bernard Rosenberg, rabbi of Temple Israel of Stockton, Calif., and a longtime personal friend of President Thompson. The rabbi, a leader in bringing closer ties between the Christian and Jewish communities in his area, was presented the honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree.

Rabbi Rosenberg and Dr. Thompson met while both were on the staff of the University of the Pacific in Stockton. Dr. Thompson served as vice president for development at the California school while Rabbi Rosenberg was a lecturer in Bible.

Commencement exercises marked the completion of the third year of Morningside's Master of Arts in Teaching graduate program which affords Sioux City area elementary and secondary teachers the opportunity to earn their graduate degrees by taking summer school and evening division classes.

Summer school enrollment neared 650 students for the first session as students were given the opportunity of choosing among course offerings in every academic department. Special features of the Summer Semester were a drama program in which a repertory company presented two plays in the Klinger-Neal Theatre and music camps for both junior high school and senior high school students from the Siouxland area.

DR. HOWARD D. REITZ, ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF MUSIC A violinist, Dr. Reitz replaces Isaac Ostrow, will teach violin and perform in Morningside's faculty trio and the Sioux City Symphony Orchestra. His doctorate was received from the University of Colorado after he completed studies at the Oberlin Conservatory of Music, the New School of Music in Philadelphia and Catholic University where he received his Master of Music degree. He was assistant professor and director of strings for two years at Minot State College in North Dakota.

MRS. ELINOR SHAPIRO, INSTRUCTOR IN ENGLISH Mrs. Shapiro moves to a full-time position after teaching part-time in the English department last year. A graduate of Morningside, she completed her master's degree at the University of South Dakota this past summer. Mrs. Shapiro is a specialist in the field of creative writing.

DONALD H. STEFANSON, ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF ENGLISH A specialist in 18th century literature, Mr. Stefanson is working on his doctoral dissertation at the University of Iowa. He received his master's degree from the University of Nebraska. Mr. Stefanson was an instructor in English at Central Missouri State College from 1963-65 and was employed by the U.S. Embassy in Manila in 1957 and 1958. He has also lived in Iran and Lebanon.

ALBERT G. WYNNE, ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF ART AND CHAIRMAN OF THE DEPARTMENT A painter of national reputation, Mr. Wynne has headed his own school, The Wynne Studio of Black Forest, Colo., for the past seven years. He taught in high schools from 1948-56 and since then has taught at Anchorage Community College in Alaska, Iowa Wesleyan College, Colorado College and the University of Colorado where he was Honorary Teacher in Art from 1964-69. Mr. Wynne's paintings and sculptures have appeared in major art exhibitions across the United States.

Potpourri / A Summary of Campus News . . .

ENROLLMENT ON A PAR WITH LAST YEAR . . .

Preliminary registration figures indicated that enrollment at Morningside will be at about the same level as last year, according to registrar Walter vonKlein.

The count taken at the close of the two days of registration showed 1253 full-time students, compared to a final count of 1272 last year. The preliminary count did not, however, include late registrants who were still being processed at press time.

The number of new students is up over last year, according to vonKlein. This year's freshmen class stood at exactly 400 students, an increase of nine over last year. The total of new students, including transfers in the upper classes, is 437 compared to 435 last year.

The figures quoted above do not take into account part-time students and those in the evening division and graduate program. When final first semester registration figures are known, the total number of students taking course work at Morningside should near 1700.

The new registrar, Mr. vonKlein, replaces D. Jack Pommrehn who has taken a similar position with Denver University. Mr. vonKlein was co-ordinator of academic advising for the past three years at State University of New York College at New Paltz, N.Y., where he also was an assistant professor of speech.

GRADUATE PROGRAM RECEIVES STATE ACCREDITATION . . .

Another example of the growing stature of Morningside's Master of Arts in Teaching graduate program is the recent accreditation of the program by the Iowa Department of Public Instruction.

The action granting the accreditation was taken by the State Board of Education upon recommendation of an evaluation team which studied the program in detail.

The accreditation, according to director of graduate study Dr. Willard Top, means that graduates in the MAT program will be eligible for permanent professional teaching certificates from the state of Iowa.

LOUIS CROSTON REJOINS STAFF . . .

A former longtime staff member at Morningside, Louis Croston, has rejoined the administrative team of the college—as director of student financial affairs. Late in the summer, Mr. Croston took over the post vacated by his son, Craig, who has moved to the directorship of the College's admissions department.

Mr. Croston, a 1930 graduate of Morningside, will be responsible for administering the College's program of scholarships, grants, loans, and institutional employment. He formerly served as director of alumni relations, associate director of the wills and estates program and as an admissions counselor.

Before his appointment by President Thompson to his new position, Mr. Croston served for one year as a vice president for Sioux Empire College of Hawarden, Iowa.

FALL TERM STARTS EARLY, ENDS BEFORE CHRISTMAS . . .

In the earliest beginning ever at Morningside, students began fall term classes on September 2 and will finish the first term prior to the Christmas holiday. The change in the academic calendar was approved by the faculty last year, and means that students will no longer be required to finish first semester classwork and take finals after the long holiday recess.

The second semester will begin January 13. Spring recess will be held from March 25 to April 5 with commencement scheduled for May 15.

BUCKINGHAM HEADS U.S. DELEGATION TO WORLD GAMES

Morningside's vice president for estate planning, A. W. Buckingham, '39, was Chief of the Mission for the United States' delegation to the World University Games held August 26-September 6 in Turin, Italy.

Long active in athletics on a national and international scale, Mr. Buckingham was overall co-ordinator of the delegation of athletes, coaches and officials. The U.S. participation was sponsored by the United States Collegiate Sports Council.

Competition in several sports was conducted at the University Games with athletes, both male and female, from 64 countries participating.

The Americans received a warm reception from the Italians, according to Buckingham, and many acts of international goodwill were seen at the games. One of the most touching, he said, took place at one of the final dinners of the American delegation before they returned to the United States. At the dinner a U.S. athlete, Larry James of Villanova, presented one of the two gold medals he had won in track to an Italian bus driver who had driven for the American delegation.

One of the aims of the World University Games is to develop athletes for the Olympic Games, another venture in which Mr. Buckingham has been an important figure. He will be in charge of housing arrangements for the U.S. Olympic teams in both the summer and winter games in 1972.

APARTMENTS BUILT IN ROADMAN HALL . . .

Roadman Hall, for many years the men's residence hall at Morningside, had a new look when students returned for the fall semester. During the summer, construction was completed on ten new apartments, each with two rooms, kitchenette and bath. Designed for rental to married students, the apartments were built in a ground floor wing of the dormitory and occupy space that previously contained 20 residence rooms.

The board of directors of Morningside ordered the remodeling so that more on-campus housing would be provided for married students. Ten other apartments are located in Dimmitt Hall and are rented to faculty members and married students.

NEW VICE PRESIDENT . . .

John L. "Jack" McCormick began his duties as vice president for institutional advancement in mid-July. Mr. McCormick came to Morningside from Muskingum College of New Concord, Ohio, where he was director of development for the annual fund.

The new Morningsider had directed the annual giving program at Muskingum College, his alma mater, since 1965 when he organized the annual fund. During the last fiscal year, gifts to Muskingum through the annual fund totaled $365,000. He was also instrumental in the recent completion of a challenge drive to raise $2.2 million for capital improvements and endowment.

In his new position at Morningside, Mr. McCormick will direct the college's efforts in gaining support from alumni, businesses, corporations and friends. He will work in conjunction with A. W. Buckingham, vice president for estate planning, and Robert Miller, director of alumni relations.

Mr. McCormick is 32 and a native of Sewickley, Penn. He is married and the father of two sons.

YOUNGSTERS AND OLDSTERS SEE SUMMER THEATRE . . .

Members of the audiences for the summer repertory theatre's presentation of the classic "Charley's Aunt" ranged from the playground set to Sioux City's elder citizens. The play's director, Prof. Lyle Fisher, made arrangements with the Sioux City Parks and Recreation Department to have some 200 children in the summer playground program transported to the Klinger-Neal Theatre for a special matinee performance.

To prove the wide appeal of the play, director Fisher also extended invitations to residents of several Sioux City retirement homes. The oldsters were offered free admission. Many of them attended and responded glowingly to the timeless humor of the Brandon Thomas play.

FORMER FACULTY MEMBERS INVOLVED IN UNUSUAL VENTURE . . .

Dr. and Mrs. Paul B. Means, members of Morningside's faculty during the 1964-65 academic year, visited the campus during the summer and told of an unusual teaching venture in Malaya where they have converted the previously unwritten Sengoi language into written form.

The process involved writing the language in phonetics and then devising spellings for the various words. Dr. and Mrs. Means then developed a primer to be used in teaching the 25,000 Sengoi tribesmen in the mountainous regions of Malaya to read their own language.

Their 18 months of work in Malaya was partially funded by the United States Bible Societies.

CHOIR RECORDING

A recording of the concert program of the Morningside College Concert Choir is now available through the college's music department. Included in the 12-inch long-playing record are several of the selections included in the repertoire of the 45-voice choir that toured Hawaii in the spring of this year.

The recording was manufactured by a custom recording service and is of exceptionally good quality. Several of the tracks are recorded in stereo.

The recorded selections range from the difficult "Jesus and the Traders" by Kodaly to folk songs and a sea chantey by a men's chorus.

Those persons wishing to order one of the albums are asked to send a check or money order in the amount of five dollars payable to "The Morningside Choir."

Ricardo Trimillos, assistant professor in ethnomusicology at the University of Hawaii, explains to students the intricacies of the koto, an instrument on which he presented a recital as part of the East Asian Institute held on Morningside's campus on September 14-18. Sponsored by a grant from the Association of Colleges and Universities for International-Intercultural Studies, the institute brought to the campus lecturers who are experts in various phases of Asian culture and government.

HOME COMING/70

Homecoming plans are still being firmed up as The Morningsider goes to press, but most details of the big weekend (Oct. 10 and 11) are settled.

The feature will be the football game against arch-rival University of South Dakota, set for a 2 p.m. kickoff Saturday at Roberts Stadium. The game had been planned as a night contest, but the re-scheduling of a high school game forced the moving of the homecoming game to an afternoon time slot.

Special events for alumni include the annual Alumni Dinner following the game at the Commons. The dinner will be served at 5:30, followed by a program and the installation of new Alumni Association officers. The alums are also invited to the homecoming dance at 8:30 p.m. in the Commons.

Members of the M Club are invited to attend the annual M Club Luncheon to be held at 11:30 a.m. in the Commons.

All fraternities, sororities and residence halls will be open for visitation following the game.

Alums returning to the campus are being asked to register in the Commons lobby between the hours of 4 and 6 p.m. on Friday or between 9 a.m. and noon on Saturday.

A student committee, headed by Beverly Senft, '71, is planning several events for the homecoming week under the general theme "Maroon Magic." A major student-sponsored event is the homecoming parade through downtown Sioux City on Saturday morning at 9:30. The parade will be televised by KCAU-TV on videotape at 12:30 p.m.

CLASS NOTES

EMIL WESSEL is the oldest member of the Larchwood (Iowa) Optimist Club, but he's the most active member of the civic organization, a fact that always amazes his friends and colleagues. He recently spearheaded a drive to name the town streets after pioneers of the community, erecting street signs bearing those names. Considerable research was done by Mr. Wessel to select the street names.

RALPH BASTIAN of Fort Dodge, Iowa, has been named president of the Iowa State Bar Association. He succeeds Don W. Burlington of Mason City. Mr. Bastian has served on the Bar Association's board of governors since 1965 and has been vice president of the board for the past year.

ELMER HANSEN has retired as a track and football coach at Washington High School at Sioux Falls, S.D., after 34 years of service, and a record of 12 state track titles. Hansen took over the track program at Washington High after the death of Howard Wood in 1949. From 1953 to 1961 the Warriors rolled up an unprecedented nine straight state track championships.

DR. WILLIAM PLUM, physics instructor at Ventura College in Ventura, Cal., has been elected to the board of directors of the Scientific Research Society of America. Dr. Plum joined the Ventura staff in February of this year. He holds M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Missouri. The society encourages research in 90 industrial and governmental laboratories and has 2,500 members-at-large.

DR. JOHN B. GRAMLICH, a surgeon at Cheyenne, Wyo., has been appointed to the rank of clinical professor of surgery at the University of Colorado School of Medicine. Dr. Gramlich has been a member of the Medical faculty since 1947. A native of Omaha, he received his M.D. from the Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York City. The doctor is chief of staff at Memorial Hospital in Cheyenne and is chief of surgery at both Memorial and DePaul Hospitals. Dr. and Mrs. Gramlich make their home at 400 W. Fourth Avenue in Cheyenne.
