Foreword

WE, the Junior Class, have assembled for your enjoyment a record of the events of this school year. Each season brings with it certain representative activities. These you will find portrayed here in their proper setting. May these remembrances be pleasing to you and may you accept this volume in the spirit in which it was compiled.

Dedication

WE, the Junior Class, are proud to have the honor of dedicating this, the thirty-second volume of the Sioux, to our new President, Robert E. O'Brian. Like the Sioux, he is staunch and fearless. Selfless, understanding, and modest in his associations with his students, he has already endeared himself to us. We appreciate the interest he takes in our problems and the enjoyment he derives from our activities. He is, indeed, one of us.

Coaching Staff

Coach J. M. Saunderson, head of athletics, devotes most of his time to the fine art of football, while E. C. Wenig develops a basketball team and spends the rest of his time teaching freshman physical training. Dr. G. W. Koch is always on the side lines during practice and regular games. He is responsible for the well being of our teams and we are confident in his ability to "doctor" the boys.

Athletic Committee

The Men's Athletic Committee is responsible for and directs the Morningside activities and intercollegiate athletic relationship. This year the Committee consists of five men: Professors J. J. Hayes, R. M. Van Horne, V. E. Stansbury, I. J. Gwinn and J. M. Saunderson.

1931 Track Season

Precluded from championship consideration because of numerical weakness, the Morningside College track and field history for 1931 is concerned with individual rather than team achievements.

At the apex of the Maroon track troop was Mercury-footed Fletcher Kettle, the brightest star of Coach J. M. Saunderson's constellation of athletes. Beginning with a victory in the special 100-yard dash event at the Dakota relays at Sioux Falls, Kettle sped to brilliant triumphs in the Morningside-University of South Dakota dual, the South Dakota State invitation meet, the Iowa Conference outdoor championships and the annual North Central Conference carnival.

Kettle brought himself and Morningside additional fame by winning firsts in the 220-yard dash event in the joust with the Coyotes, the invitation meet at Brookings and the North Central pageant, which for the first time was held at Grand Forks. As a climactic finish to a career studded with notable successes, he represented Morningside in the Pre-Olympic try-outs at Los Angeles against the world's fastest sprinters.

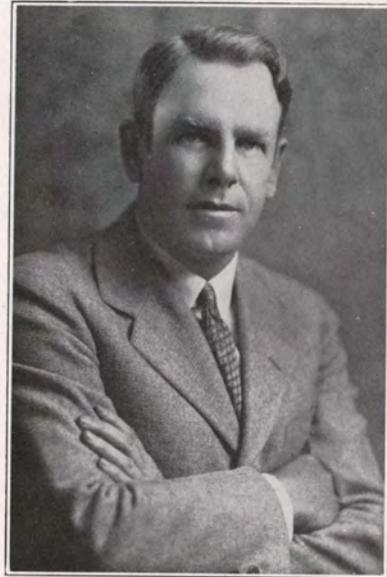

His best time of the year was :09.9, registered in the preliminaries of the Iowa Conference outdoor session at Cedar Falls, a mark which established a new record. Kettle also won points in the discus throw.

Second among the featured performers in the troop was Captain Herbert Gottlob, burly weight man who contributed liberally to the Methodist tally sheet in the discus and shot throwing events. He captured premier honors in the discus throw in the dual with South Dakota University, the South Dakota State invitation meet, and the North Central conference meet. A pulled muscle prevented him from defending his 1930 championship at the Iowa Conference tournament.

Eight dependable athletes in Sheldon Hutchinson, Keith Wilcox, Norman Barker, Arlo Koberg, Lawrence Smith, Herbert Bones, Ardell Garber, and Arthur Van Wyngarden constituted a strong supporting cast for Kettle and Gottlob in the Morningside track drama. Collectively they counted enough points to give the Maroons thirds in the Iowa and North Central Conference championships and second in the South Dakota State invitation affair. In the dual with the University of South Dakota Coyotes, North Central circuit title winners for 1931, the Maroons were defeated 80 to 50.

Hutchinson gave Gottlob a helping hand in the weight department. Smith was Saunderson's sole entrant in the javelin throwing field and proved to be a consistent point winner against any type of competition. Garber was the mainstay in the pole vault and in the high and broad jumping events. Commandeered by "Saundy" into the ranks of the track athletes as a broad jumper on the eve of the traditional dual with the Coyotes, Koberg placed second in this event at Vermillion. Van Wyngarden, Barker and Smith, a trio of hurdlers, jointly won three firsts, two seconds, six thirds and two fourths in four meets during the season. Over the longer distances, in the running events, Morningside had only two candidates who were sure winners. They were Bones, who ran the 440, and Keith Wilcox, who specialized in the half-mile and mile jogs.

MUSIC

PAUL MacCOLLIN

Professor MacCollin, Director of the Conservatory of Music, is one of the foremost promoters of musical enterprises in Sioux City. Through his efforts music lovers of Sioux City and of the surrounding territory have the opportunity, each year, to enjoy concerts given by some of the greatest artists. He also directs the Summer Music Camp at Okoboji. Besides these activities, Mr. MacCollin spends a great deal of time in teaching and in directing the Morningside College Methodist Choir.

Seated—Gramlich.

Men's Octette

The Men's Octette was organized this year to take the place of the Mens' Glee Club. These young men have made many short trips to several surrounding towns, giving concerts in the high schools. Several sacred programs have been presented in churches of the city. Conventions and various organizations have received them enthusiastically. The reader of the organization is Harold Crain, and Franklin Evans is trumpet soloist. For the summer vacation some chautauqua work is planned.

Morningside College Band

Morningside College is proud of her band. Through the efforts of some of our faculty members the band has become an established organization. Music may soothe the soul, but it also puts pep into our football and basketball games. The climax of the season's work was the concert presented by the band in the college chapel, March 9, 1932. Robert Mueller, who directs the band, deserves a great deal of credit for making the band a success.

Vesper Choir

The Vesper Choir is one of the younger music organizations on the Morningside College campus. Directed by Lester McCoy, the choir has gained much popularity. Besides the assistance given in the chapel services, the choir plans a trip each year, giving concerts in the towns and cities in surrounding states.

Louise Smith, Margaret Propp, Ardyth Walker.

String Trio

The College String Trio, composed of Louise Smith, violinist, Ardyth Walker, cellist, and Margaret Propp, pianist, was organized this year and has been much in demand in Sioux City. These young women have given programs in several churches of the city, have played for the Little Theater and College Dramatic Club productions, and have presented selections for various programs and banquets.

Evelyn Miller, Joyce Woodford, Ardyth Walker, Louise Smith.

String Quartette

The String Quartette of Morningside College, composed of young women of the Conservatory of Music, has had a busy, successful year. The members are Evelyn Miller, first violinist, Joyce Woodford, second violinist, Louise Smith, violist, and Ardyth Walker, cellist. Concerts in Sioux City and in surrounding towns were part of their schedule.

Morningside College String Quartette

The Morningside String Quartette was organized this year under the supervision of Eugene Adams. The members are: Eugene Adams, first violinist, Robert Mueller, second violinist, Charles Chase, violist, and Wanda Castle, cellist.

Morningside May Music Festival, 1931

The Morningside College Music Festival was presented May 15 and 16 in the East High School auditorium. On Friday evening the choir, under the direction of Professor Paul MacCollin, presented a very fine concert. The program was the same as the one given in Chicago, for which the choir received much recognition. Mrs. Paul MacCollin was the soloist with the choir. This was the only appearance of the choir in Sioux City.

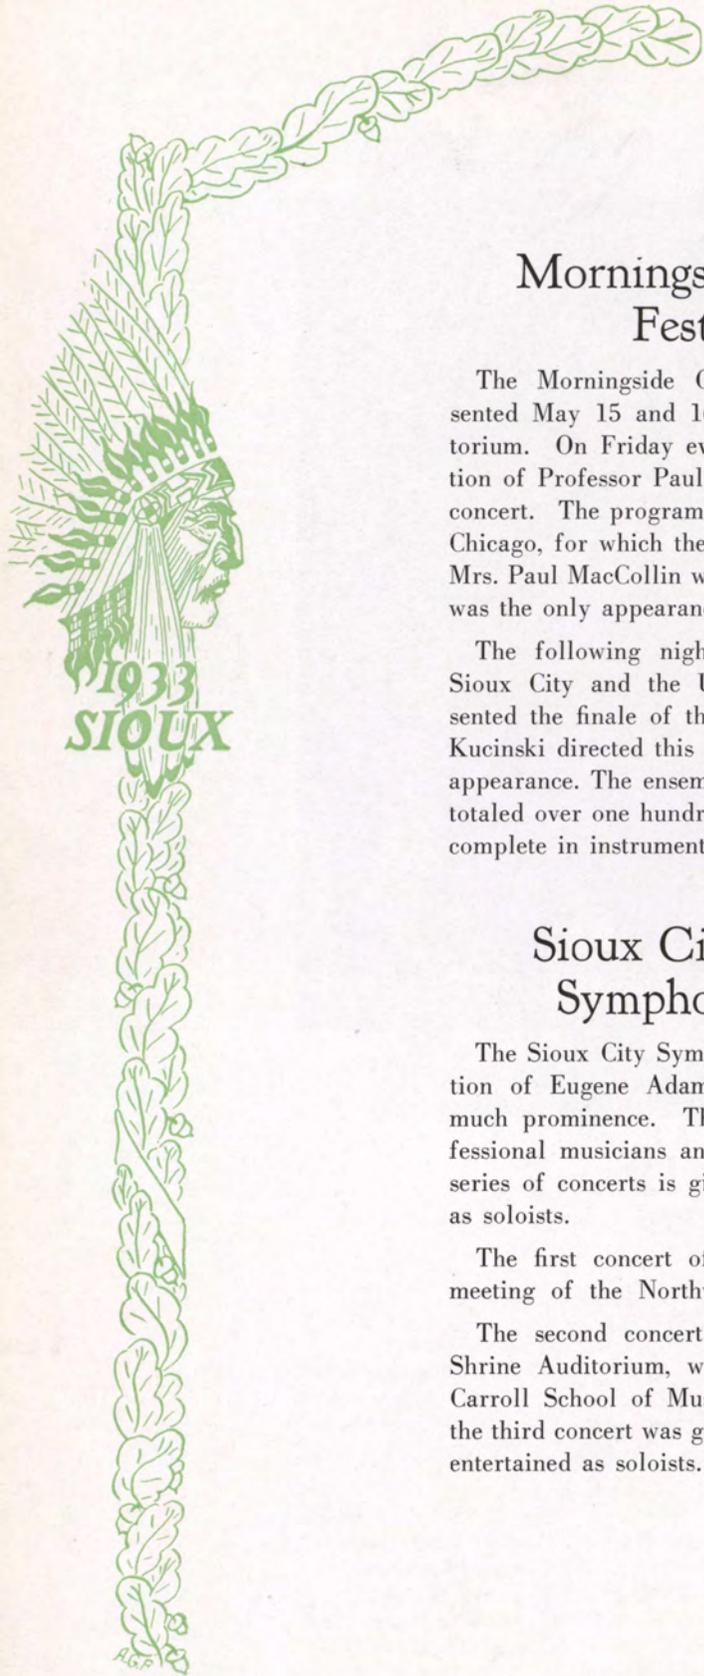

The following night, the combined symphonies of Sioux City and the University of South Dakota presented the finale of the Music Festival. Professor Leo Kucinski directed this organization in their sixth annual appearance. The ensemble formed by the two orchestras totaled over one hundred players, the combination being complete in instrumentation.

Sioux City Community Symphony Orchestra

The Sioux City Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Eugene Adams, is a musical organization of much prominence. The orchestra is composed of professional musicians and college students. Each year a series of concerts is given, with noted artists appearing as soloists.

The first concert of the year was presented at the meeting of the Northwest Iowa Teachers' Association.

The second concert was given February 21 in the Shrine Auditorium, with the Ballet Dancers from the Carroll School of Music as the soloists. On April 17 the third concert was given, and again the Ballet Dancers entertained as soloists.

Agora

Agora is an organization composed of all the girls of Morning-side College. It was organized primarily for the purpose of developing and coordinating the social and intellectual life of the women of the school. The Agora Board which directs all activities of the organization, is made up of three representatives from each of the classes, the Agora officers, and the Presidents of the W. S. G. A., Y. W. C. A., and W. A. A. The Dean of Women is also a member of this board.

This past year Agora has been very active, and not without results. It is the policy of the club always to have some project to further. Among its past projects are listed the Agora Bulletin Board, and the Women's Athletic Field. The present project of the organization is the organ fund which will pay for the pipe organ installed in the Conservatory last year. Agora has also successfully conducted the Big and Little Sister Movement, the Christmas Bazaar, and the Women's Banquet. The Art Club and Reader's Club are subsidiary organizations of Agora.

The Young Women's Christian Association on the campus is a group of girls adventuring with God in play, in loveliness, in friendships, in life full and creative. This year it has been our endeavor, through the activity of the various departments, through the Tuesday morning chapels, through social events, and educational projects, to give to every girl opportunity for development of the highest and finest life. We have tried to provide contact with inspiring speakers, with lovely music, with poetry, with each other, contact with our best selves and with God. In the words of our national purpose: "We unite in a desire to realize full and creative life through a growing knowledge of God. We determine to have a part in making this life possible for all people. In this task we seek to understand Jesus and follow Him."

The activities of the Y. M. C. A. began when we introduced the Freshmen to ourselves and to each other through the medium of a "mixer" and theatre party.

The weekly devotional meetings have been regularly attended, and constitute our most influential department. These meetings have furnished a series of contacts with some of the leading men of the city.

The Gospel Team has been busy as usual. We have even assumed the position of discussion group leaders when occasion demanded. Though our year has had its disappointments, we look to the future, hold tenaciously to our present standard, and urge our followers to gather our stumbling blocks into stepping stones to further development of Christian lives among men.

Through the cooperation of every dormitory girl the Women's Self-Governing Association is striving to build character and to uphold the morale of womanhood. This organization gives girls opportunity to express themselves and to know and make many friends.

The social director and social chairman plan the social life so that the dormitory will seem more than a place to "hang one's hat" or "snatch a bite to eat." Ask any girl who lives or has lived at the dormitory about the events that center around the beautiful hearth, the open house, the teas, formal dinners, and receptions, informal parties and masquerades, to say nothing of the kitchen raids and pop corn parties. We sincerely believe that through moral, religious, and social contacts we have united into a broader understanding of one another.

Marian Niehaus

The progress which has been made in the Women's Athletic Department during the last two years is largely due to the faithful efforts of Miss Niehaus, director of physical education. Under her excellent leadership, W. A. A. has grown rapidly and is now recognized as one of the outstanding organizations on the campus. We have all found in Miss Niehaus an efficient teacher, a true friend, and a perfect example of good sportsmanship.

Women's Athletic Association

Through its diversified program, W. A. A. offers innumerable opportunities to every girl in school to enjoy some sort of athletic activity.

It has been the aim of W. A. A. to avoid individual glory and to encourage mass participation in all games; to promote a friendly feeling among the girls; to interest all girls in some sport or sports; and to build up high ideals of true sportsmanship, loyalty, fairness, cooperation, and a true play spirit to carry over into after-college life.

Hiking

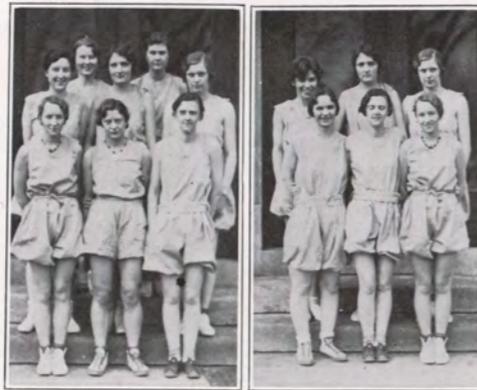

We have had many interesting hikes this year in W. A. A., and all the girls who have gone have made more friends, had a lot of fun, and have become much better acquainted with the woods, roads, creeks, and fences about Sioux City, both at night and in the day time. Our first hike was to Stone Park, and our new freshman girls were guests. Since then we have had five-mile hikes, ten-mile hikes, 6 a. m. hikes, 7 p. m. hikes, and overnight hikes.

Swimming

Swimming is a year-round sport and has been enjoyed by many of the girls the past year. The girls have taken swimming lessons at the Y. W. C. A. pool during the winter and many have become "Red Cross Life Savers"

Hockey

Fate, in the form of rain, ruled that both Sophomores and Upper Classmen should claim the honor of holding this year's hockey championship. As it stands, they are both fully convinced that they won the tournament.

There is nothing like a good game of hockey on a chilly October afternoon, and hockey is fast becoming one of the most popular sports offered by W. A. A.

Unorganized Sports

Unorganized sports include archery, badminton, deck tennis, horseback riding, hiking, sliding, skiing, and any of the more individual sports that do not occupy a long season of the year. These sports have been very successfully organized this year and every girl has had a chance to enjoy her favorites.

M. C. Sweater Winners

There were eight "M" sweater winners this year, one sophomore, five juniors, and two seniors, which fact shows a much increased interest and participation in athletic activities. To win a sweater, one thousand points must be earned in athletic activity. It is a very great honor to receive a sweater and a very rare honor to receive one at the end of the sophomore year.

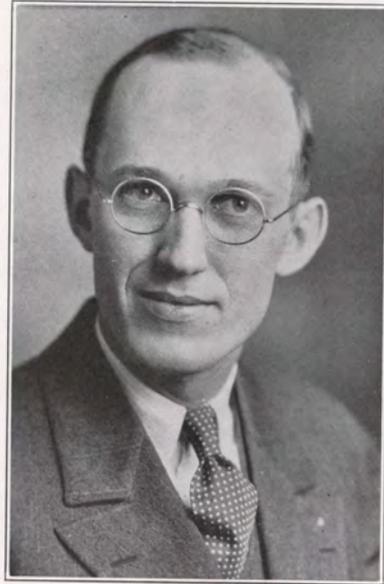

Volley Ball

From the time when the girls bid farewell to the basketball season to the time when the lure of the spring weather takes them to the baseball diamond, they keep active by playing volley ball. The interest in volley ball seems to be growing every year, and the girls all eagerly look forward to the tournament.

Baseball

What is more fun than for a group of girls to get together on the baseball diamond on a warm spring day and have a good old baseball game? Baseball is a very popular sport, and both intra-mural and inter-class tournaments are played.

SPEECH

JOHN W. PARLETTE

Professor John W. Parlette is the head of the combined departments of speech and dramatics. His department had charge of the production of four major plays and a number of one-act plays during the course of the year. He personally directed the efforts of fifteen debaters in a schedule of more than fifty debates. The major part of his scheduled debates were non-decision debates. Despite this fact, however, his teams made a very creditable showing at the state and national conventions, placing in both debate and extemporaneous speaking contests.

Intersociety Debates

Each year the three societies of Morningside cooperate in conducting a series of two debates on the Oxford plan of having one representative from each society on each team as a regular part of the tryouts for the intercollegiate debate squad. This year the same topic as that used by the fraternities was used in the intersociety series: Resolved: That restrictions prohibiting professional athletics in colleges and universities should be abolished.

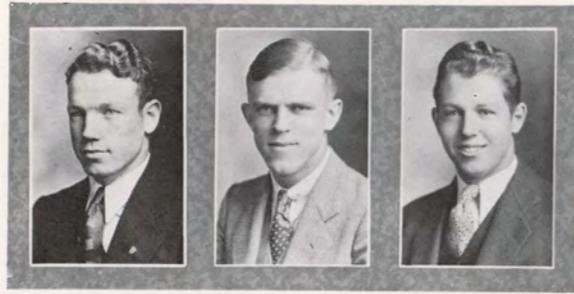

The order of debates was:

November 9. Affirmative (Juanita Winter, Muriel Batho, Eleanor McCaffree); defeated by negative (Eleanor Quinn, Gleva Binger, Roene Brooks).

November 9. Affirmative (Harriet Smith, Katherine Vincent, Grace Edwards); won from negative (Jane Smith, Mary Melson, Helen Anderson).

Anderson, Binger, Brooks, Melson, Quinn, J. Smith.

Larson, Skrable, VanWyngarden.

Interfraternity Debates

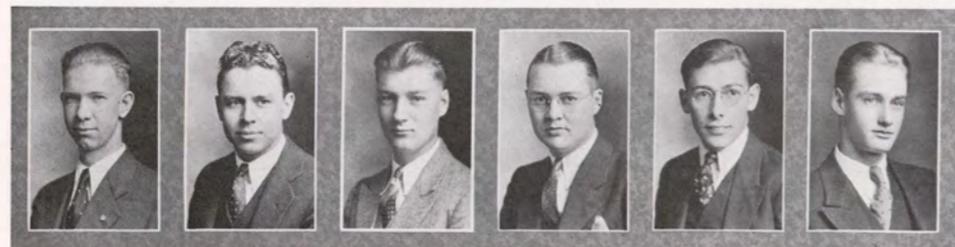

Each year an important part of the tryouts for the men's inter-collegiate debate squad is the interfraternity debate tournament. To the winner is awarded a silver cup. This the Alpha Tau Delta fraternity won on the proposition: Resolved: That the restrictions prohibiting professional athletics in colleges and universities should be abolished.

The order of the debates was:

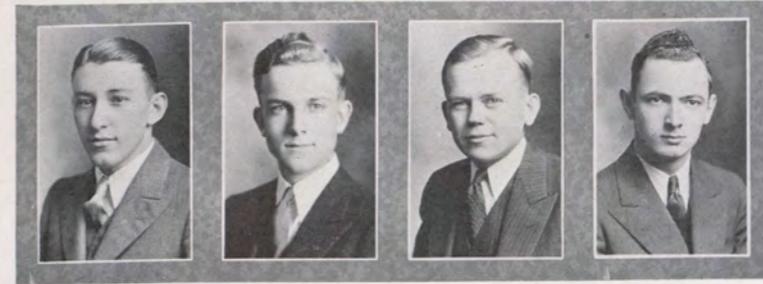

November 5

Afternoon. Affirmative, Delta Theta Pi (Potthoff, Munson, Davies); negative, Alpha Tau Delta (Skrable, Larson, VanWyngarden). Decision: Negative.

Afternoon. Affirmative, Phi Sigma (Riseling, McLarnan, Rixman); negative, Sigma Theta Rho (Howe, Williams, Nelson). Decision: Affirmative.

Howe, Nelson, Reeder, Robson, Thornton, Williams.

Davies, Evans, Munson, Potthoff.

Evening. Affirmative, Sigma Theta Rho (Robson, Reeder, Thornton); negative, Delta Theta Pi (Miller, Doty, Evans). Decision: Affirmative.

Evening. Affirmative, Alpha Tau Delta (Matson, Steinbrenner, Hoffmann); negative, Phi Sigma (Pickersgill, Bottom, Rixman). Decision: Affirmative.

November 6

Afternoon. Affirmative, Sigma Theta Rho (Robson, Nelson, Thornton); negative, Alpha Tau Delta (Skrable, Larson, Matson). Decision: Affirmative.

Afternoon. Affirmative, Sigma Theta Rho (Robson, Nelson, Thornton); negative, Phi Sigma (Pickersgill, Bottom, Rixman). Decision: Affirmative.

Evening. Affirmative, Sigma Theta Rho (Robson, Nelson, Thornton); negative, Alpha Tau Delta (Skrable, Hoffmann, Matson). Decision: Negative.

Professor Dickey, of the University of South Dakota, gave critic judge decisions after each of the debates.

State and National Conventions

For the first time in the history of the speech department at Morningside the college was represented both at a state and a national convention during the same year. Roene Brooks, Alice Hickman, Milton Rixman and Allan Thornton represented the college in both tournaments.

The Iowa State Forensic League Convention was held at Cedar Falls, March 9-11. Morningside participated in the men's and women's debate contests and men's and women's extempore. The women won all but one of their debates and in total number of points Morningside received first place in the women's division. The Morningside men ranked fifth among the twelve schools competing in the men's debate section. In extempore, Alice Hickman won first place on a "Discussion of prohibition as a national issue." Allan Thornton placed fifth on "Issues of the coming presidential election."

The Pi Kappa Delta National Convention was held at Tulsa, Oklahoma, from March 28 to April 1. The regular Pi Kappa Delta debate question, Resolved: That Congress should enact legislation providing for the centralized control of industry, was used. Competing with sixty schools, the women's debate team tied for fourth place. Hastings College, University of California at Los Angeles, and Ada College ranked above Morningside in this division. The men's debate team was eliminated in the fifth round.

Miss Hickman again distinguished herself in extempore by winning second place in the final contest. A representative of Redlands University, California, won first place. Milton Rixman, representing Morningside in men's extempore, failed to place.

SPEECH

JANE LEWIS SMITH

Mrs. Smith has an interesting combination of professions—that of mother, dramatic coach, and actress. Her directing of "What Every Woman Knows," by J. M. Barrie, and her acting in "Ile" deserve special credit. She is a graduate of Cornell, and was a student of Leland Powers School, and of Theodore Irwin. She received her master's degree from the University of Iowa.

M. Robert.....	Burdette Kindig
Valere.....	Garret De Groot
Lucas	Morton Pickersgill
Jacqueline	Maxine Steele
Lucinde	Cepha Pasek
Gerante	Allen Richardson
Leandre	John Bottom

In seventeenth century costumes "Prof. Hayes" greeted his audience in an act of wife beating. Janice Hagy was his victim, but she gave him a trouncing he did not soon forget by making him a doctor. "Red" Pickersgill was clever in his part as a half-wit.

Morningside Dramatic Club Presents Two One-Acts

The Valiant

By Holworthy Hall and Robert Middlemass

CHARACTERS

Warden Holt.....	Victor Bovee
Father Daly.....	George Poppenheimer
James Dyke.....	Albert Horlings
Josephine Paris.....	Helene Crenshaw
Dan.....	Carleton Van Peurse

"The Valiant" stars Albert Horlings as the prisoner who is about to be executed and who keeps his identity from his younger sister played by Helene Crenshaw.

The purpose of Art Club is to promote art appreciation. The membership is limited to twenty-five. English Art was the subject chosen for this year's program, with now and then a little current art interspersed. Though the club members provided most of the programs, we were fortunate in procuring two very interesting speakers from artistic circles. At our first meeting Mrs. Fields, of Sioux City, gave an enlightening talk on current art, and at a later meeting Rollin Beard, of Merville, spoke to us on "The Technique of Painting," illustrating his talk with two or three representative pictures of his own painting.

The Christian Service Club has been reorganized to take over the activities of the Oxford Fellowship, Student Volunteers and former Christian Service Club. The purposes of the club, as stated in the newly adopted constitution, are to foster a vital interest in religious work, to promote a Christian atmosphere about the campus, and to create a bond of fellowship among those entering some form of Christian work. All persons interested in full or part time Christian service are eligible. Its program includes sponsoring discussion groups and gospel teams, bringing in special speakers, and assisting in social activities. The club was represented at the May Convention at Grinnell to which delegates from Christian organizations on Iowa campuses were gathered.

The Morningside chapter of the National Association of Cosmopolitan Clubs was organized in 1925 with a membership of twenty-three. This year the club's membership is forty, the size of the club being indicated by the number of foreign-born students on our campus.

The club has two specific purposes: To educate its members regarding the different countries of the world by social relationship with students from various countries, and to train its members to think and to act internationally.

Didaska, the organization of two-year normal students, has been very active this past year. The society, under the efficient and capable advisership of Miss McCluskey, has to a large extent fulfilled its social and educational aims. Programs giving "do's and dont's" for prospective teachers are varied with outside speakers and observation of class instruction.

Since for some years Didaska has been unusually successful in athletics, the surrender of the Intra-Mural Plaque this year was difficult. The pin worn by the club members represents the Lamp of Knowledge.

This year marked the beginning of the Dramatic Club as a permanent organization. At the monthly meetings, members of the dramatic art classes presented one-act plays. Two of the plays were "Purple Passion" and "The Mayor and the Manicure." Tryouts are held early in the school year, and Dramatic Club members are selected on the basis of their acting ability, their suitability for various types of parts, their appearance and their voice.

Allan Thornton

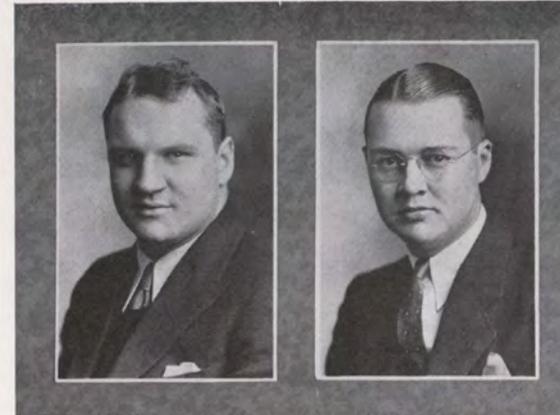

The International Relations Club is a group of college students interested in economic and political events occurring in various parts of the world which are of international importance. In addition to the regular bi-weekly discussions of the group, there have been special reports given about the education and work of communists in Russia and the background and events of the Sino-Japanese argument in Manchuria. Much of the interest in the club is due to the work of Professor Hoffmann in assisting in the planning and carrying out of the programs. A meeting of the International Relations Clubs of this part of the Middle West was held at Vermillion in April, at which Morningside was represented.

JUNIORS

IRENE BENTLEY

Because, not content with being musical and (to a limited degree) studious, she added to the world's blessings by being pretty. And because of John Griffin. She's a Zet.

HELEN BOTTOM

Because she is a Zet and a perpetual committee chairman. Because she will be president of the Y. W. C. A. next year. Because Johnny is her brother.

CLARA BERGMANN

Because she is a Zet and one of the nicest girls in school. Because of Harvey Nelson. Because she is a musician.

ROENE BROOKS

Because to list her activities would bankrupt this annual for the paper it would use. Because she debates. Because she is an athlete and an Atheneum.

MERRY BETH BLACK

Because she has red hair. Because she can act, and proved it in "Children of the Moon." Because, when her red hair, her rolling eyes and her laughing voice get into action, the boys come toddling after.

MARGARET BROWER

Because when she plays the piano the boys and girls stop yodeling and listen. Because she wields a mean pen and promises to be an English teacher of great strictness.

KATHRYN BLAZER

Because she is tall and good looking. Because she is an Ath. Because she is a scholar and a member of Eta Sigma Phi.

THELMA BURGESS

Because she has dark curly hair. Because she is a Zet. Because her smile always brings more in return.

JUNIORS

WILLIAM DROMMER

Because he dragged his 225 pounds of Willy all the way from Pomeroy to go to school here. Because he entertains well in Tau Delta bull sessions. Because he is the world's largest and most agile yell leader.

MAUDE BURNS

Because she is a Pi. Because she has returned to her Alma Mater after a prolonged spree of school teaching.

ESTHER CONNER

Because she could be a society girl but won't. Because she is a blonde, but none the less, a scholar.

LECLAIRE ENGELKEN

Because she is causing a young man from Kingsley to lose an excess of sleep. Because she sings and is a Zet. Because she is a permanent inhabitant of the tennis courts.

DOROTHY CROSS

Because she is a Zet and a music student. Because her voice has contributed to the fame of Methodist a Capella.

MYRNA FRITTS

Because after being here one short semester, she has snagged herself two (2) (II) bona fide men. Because she is an Ath. Because she is Merrill's sister.

JANICE HAGY

Because when she acts, people laugh when she wants them to, and cry when she wants them to. Because she is a Northsider and a Pi.

CRYSTALLE DASHER

Because she is a Zet and because she is a foremost proponent of women's rights in athletics. Because her tomboyishness makes her a very charming girl.

JUNIORS

LU AIDA HALL

Because her good looks bring the boys' looks but she leaves them flat. Because her brunette features add efficiency to the library. Because she is a Pi.

MARJORIE HUNTER

Because she is very much like a certain lovable character John Held Jr. once created. Because she is editor of this book and a Pi.

EDITH HAYNES

Because she is nurse to some eighty girls who consistently get wet feet and stomach aches. Because an athlete who was given up by the rest of the coeds as a woman hater proved easy pickings for her.

DAN JORDAN

Because he has curly hair, a sunshiny smile and a voice. Because he is an eminent Pre-Engineer as well as a Sigma Theta.

VERNE HOSHAL

Because he is a married man. Because his saxophone is an essential to any orchestra.

GERALD KNIGHT

Because he is a red-headed Delta Theta. And was in the Grand Public. Because he is, of course, a punster.

RUTH HULSE

Because she is the daughter of a preacher and the fiance of a preacher. Because she is a Zet.

ELMA KOHL

Because, already a musician, she has made a promising beginning in dramatics. Because she is an Ath. Because she is a brunette, the kind men marry.

JUNIORS

ROB ROY LEINBACH

Because he makes music come out of a saw. Because he is a Delta Theta and has a Ford. Because he spends his spare hours in the Physics lab.

CLAUDIUS MEHRENS

Because he's a party man and one of those Phi Sigs. Because he is business manager of the Annual.

MARGARET LING

Because she's a very well liked Ath and another of these Dorm girls.

DOROTHY MUELLER

Because she is short and cute and dark. Because she is a Zet and sings. Because of a curly-haired ex-East High football star.

LEOTA McCOY

Because she is an expert letter writer. Because she has subdued a red-head. Because she is a Zet and a member of the chapel choir.

LAWRENCE OSGOOD

Because he's another of those Sheldon boys. Because he's making pretty good speed with one of the Pi's.

LOUISE McCracken

Because, though a very little girl, she has detoured a fair-sized Delta Theta. Because she is a Pi and a songster who works in the Con.

MARGARET PROPP

Because this Pi has received more boxes of candy than any other girl in school in school for her services as an accompanist. Because she is another brunette of the variety men marry.

JUNIORS

ELENORE QUINN

Because her southern accent keeps tall dark men running after her. Because she is a Pi whose pert literary style has invaded many a campus publication.

CYNTHIA ROUWENHORST

Because she came from a school in Minnesota. Because she's a part of the charm of the chapel choir.

ALLEN RICHARDSON

Because he is famous for his dramatic interpretations of the robust villain. Because he wears his fraternity pin on a coed's jacket.

BEATRICE SCHRANK

Because she is an Athenaeum and an athlete and because she has a profound liking for little red apples.

ELIZABETH RIGGS

Because she's the most brilliant girl in the Junior class. Because the Collegian has seen a good many of her articles.

VERA SCHEUTZ

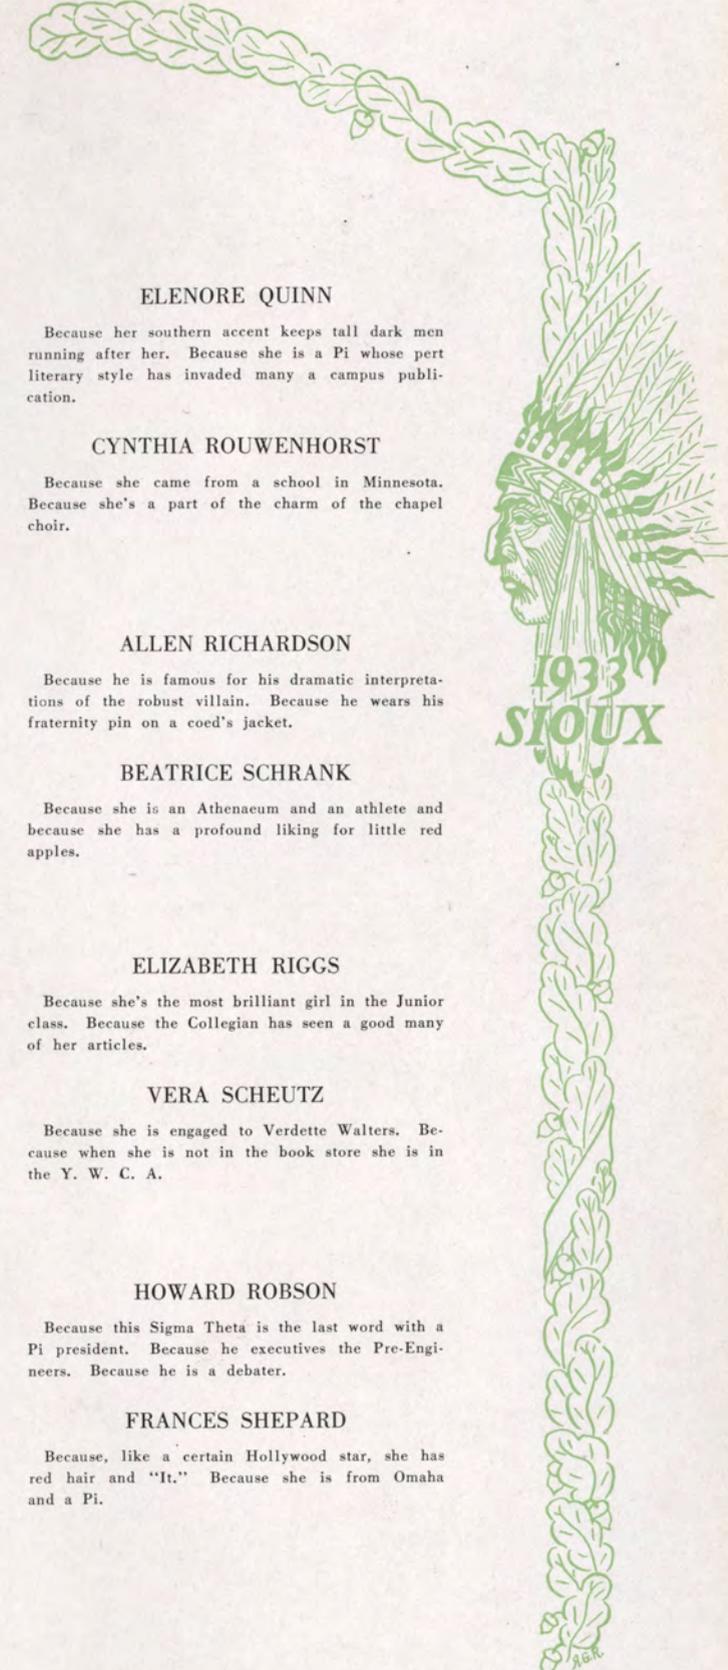

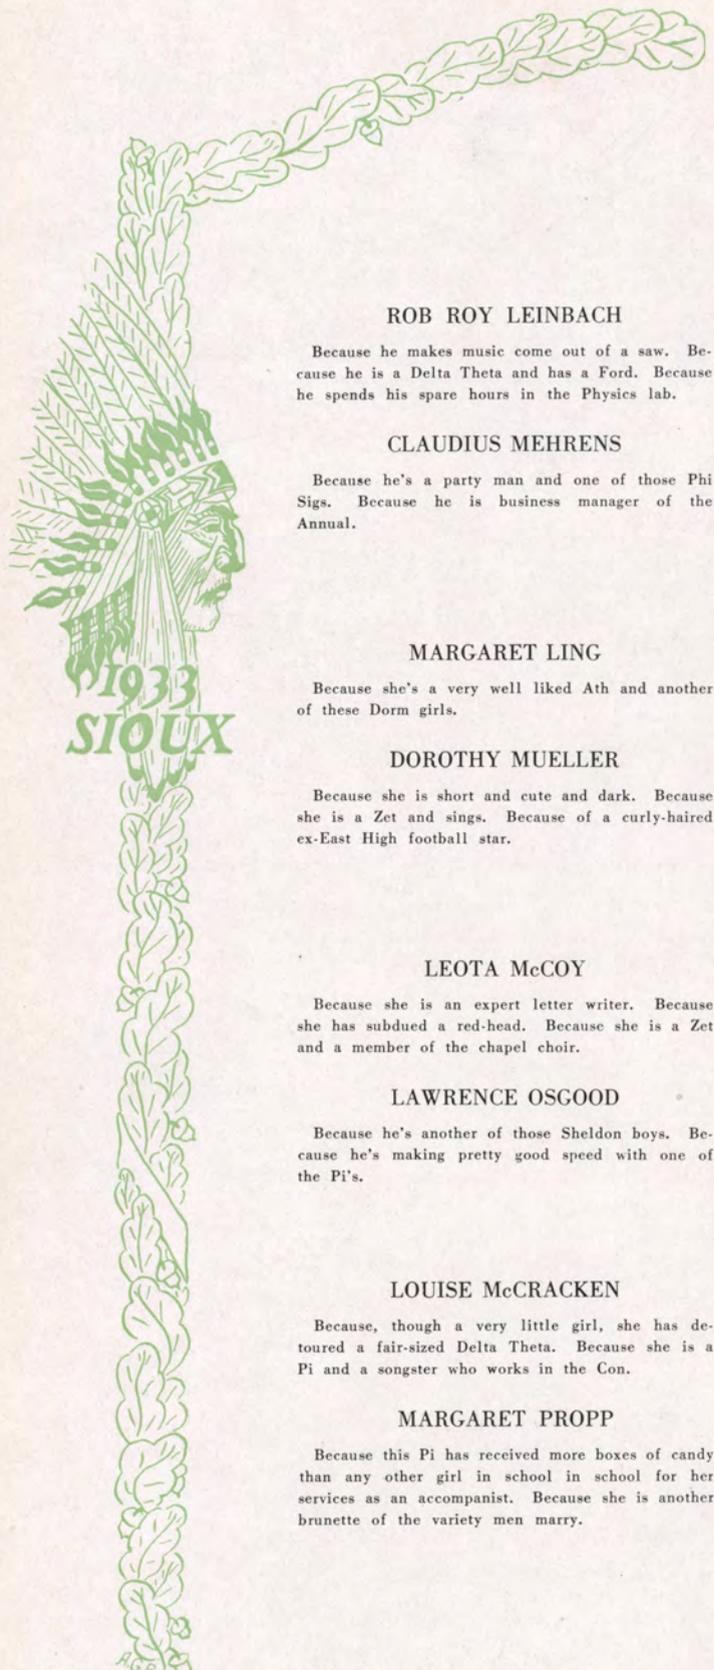

Because she is engaged to Verdetta Walters. Because when she is not in the book store she is in the Y. W. C. A.

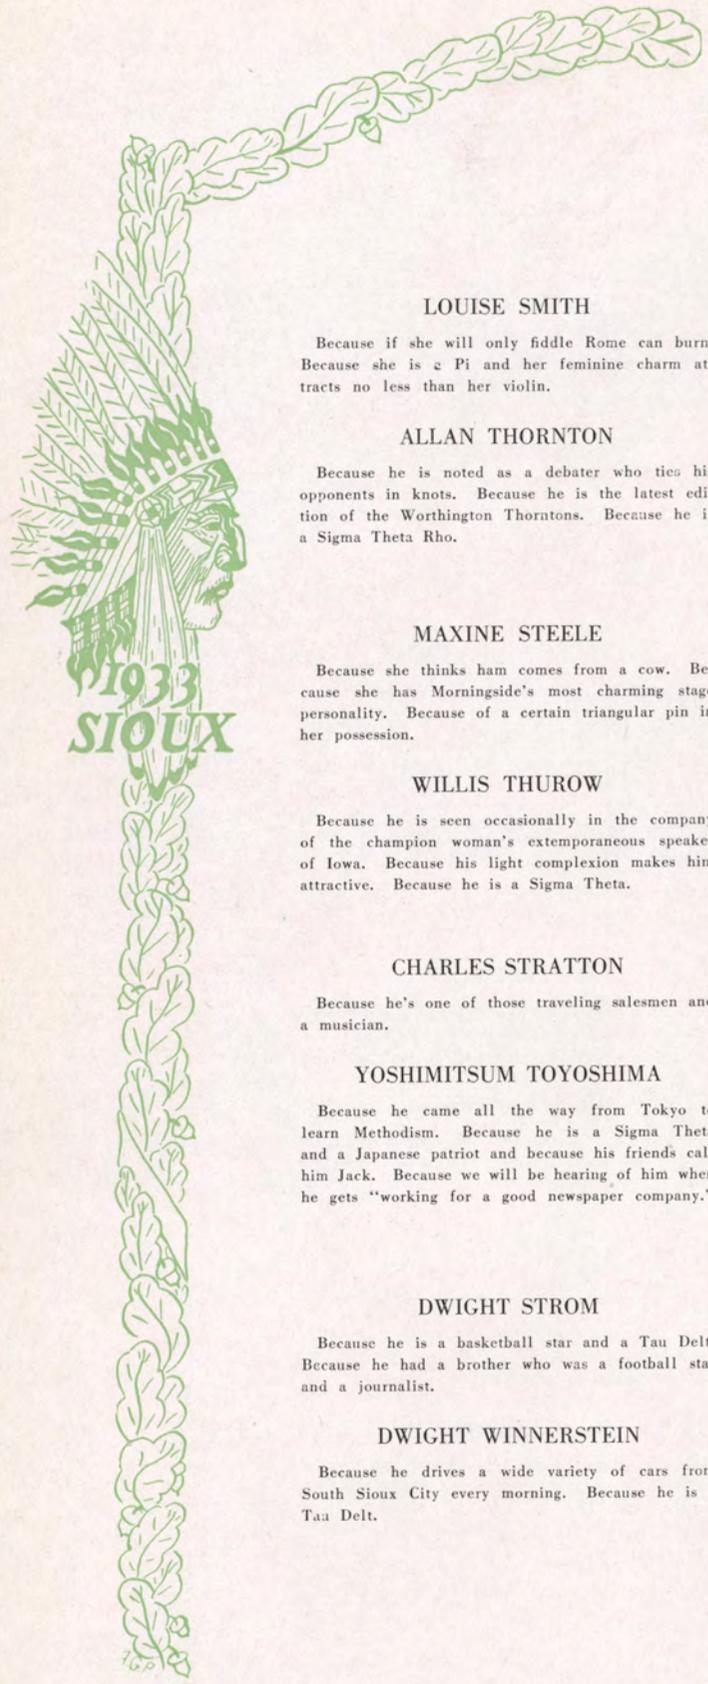

HOWARD ROBSON

Because this Sigma Theta is the last word with a Pi president. Because he executes the Pre-Engineers. Because he is a debater.

FRANCES SHEPARD

Because, like a certain Hollywood star, she has red hair and "It." Because she is from Omaha and a Pi.

JUNIORS

LOUISE SMITH

Because if she will only fiddle Rome can burn. Because she is a Pi and her feminine charm attracts no less than her violin.

ALLAN THORNTON

Because he is noted as a debater who ties his opponents in knots. Because he is the latest edition of the Worthington Thorntons. Because he is a Sigma Theta Rho.

MAXINE STEELE

Because she thinks ham comes from a cow. Because she has Morningside's most charming stage personality. Because of a certain triangular pin in her possession.

WILLIS THUROW

Because he is seen occasionally in the company of the champion woman's extemporaneous speaker of Iowa. Because his light complexion makes him attractive. Because he is a Sigma Theta.

CHARLES STRATTON

Because he's one of those traveling salesmen and a musician.

YOSHIMITSUM TOYOSHIMA

Because he came all the way from Tokyo to learn Methodism. Because he is a Sigma Theta and a Japanese patriot and because his friends call him Jack. Because we will be hearing of him when he gets "working for a good newspaper company."

DWIGHT STROM

Because he is a basketball star and a Tau Delt. Because he had a brother who was a football star and a journalist.

DWIGHT WINNERSTEIN

Because he drives a wide variety of cars from South Sioux City every morning. Because he is a Tau Delt.

1931 Football Season

"Morningside conquers University of South Dakota in traditional encounter on Bass field, 18 to 0" . . . "4,500 fans see Morningside succumb before attack of strong Iowa State eleven at Stock Yards park, 20 to 6."

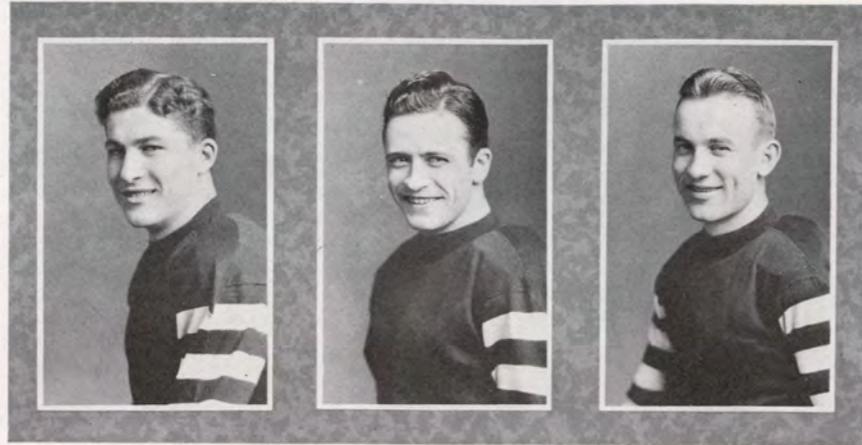

Such are the vivid headlines that attract the eye when the 1931 Morningside College football season is reviewed. Six frustrations and only two triumphs were entered on the record sheet for the season. But by vanquishing the Coyotes in the feature game of the year and by holding such powerful juggernauts of the gridiron as the University of North Dakota and Iowa State to small scores, the Maroons realized a vast amount of satisfaction that crowned an otherwise luckless campaign with success. As a heritage from the redoubtable eleven of 1930, Coach J. M. Saunderson had ten sterling letter men at his command early in September.

Morningside football stock took its first slump when John Popevis, burly all-conference and all-state guard, transferred to Purdue University. Almost on the heel of this misfortune came the discouraging news that Sheldon Hutchinson, 190-pound all-conference tackle, had been barred from intercollegiate competition by faculty legislation.

With two of his mainstays irrevocably lost for the season, Coach Saunderson began the arduous task of shaping a machine for the initial test of the season against Wayne Normal, September 27. A paucity of both time and reserve material was too great a handicap, and the Maroons dropped their opener by a 9 to 7 count.

After a hiatus of some fourteen years, Morningside renewed athletic relations with Iowa State College, of Ames, before 4,500 spectators at Stock Yards park on the night of October 3. Fighting gallantly against the overwhelming man power of the Big Six conference invaders, the Maroons held their own until late in the second half when Dick Grefe filtered through the wearied Maroon ranks for three touchdowns. Lawrence Smith averted a shutout by skittering across the Cyclone line in the fourth period, making the final score 20 to 6.

Lawrence Smith, George Venson, Marvard Wyant.

The three Fates conspired to deliver two more staggering blows to the Maroon cause in the South Dakota State game at Brookings, October 10. Two regulars were crippled—Herbert Bones for the remainder of the season, and Lawrence Smith for two weeks. Minus the services of this star duo, the unfortunate Methodists fell before the attack of the Jackrabbits 20 to 0, and a week later succumbed to the North Dakota State aggregation by a 21 to 0 count.

Morningside refused to stay down and on October 24 it sustained a precedent of some years standing by conquering the University of South Dakota gridders 18 to 0, in the traditional game on Bass field. Fully 3,000 alumni and students, part of the Homecoming crowd, witnessed the rout of what had been publicized as a superior team.

Snapping into victory formation at the sound of the opening whistle, the surging Maroons swept over the bewildered Coyotes like a tidal wave to register three touchdowns, one in the first half and two in the second. Except for a few minutes at the very outset of the struggle, when the Coyotes recovered a costly fumble deep in our own territory, the Morningside goal line never was threatened.

Emaciated in appearance and spirit, the Golden Eagles representing Western Union College, of LeMars, offered only passive resistance to the Morningside grid machine the following Saturday and lost by a 31 to 6 score. Coach Saunderson employed his reserves against the Eagles a greater part of the time, choosing to save his regulars for the two ensuing tilts.

Following the gratifying triumphs over South Dakota and Western Union, the Maroons trekked to Indianola on November 8, where they received a 31 to 12 thumping at the hands of the football journeymen of Simpson College. Morningside's 12 to 0 lead at the halfway mark was dissipated in the second half by Dick Richards, Simpson's great all-western fullback, whose ferocious ball toting ripped the Morningside defense to shreds.

Kenneth Lewis, Paul Perry, Eugene Sherwood.

Rising to unexpected defense heights, the courageous Morningside football team held the famed University of North Dakota eleven, four times North Central conference champions and second among the high scoring clubs of the nation, to a 14 to 4 score in the season's finale, November 15, at Bass field.

The final standings of the conference follow:

E. C. Wenig

A former athlete of great repute and of whom Morningside may well be proud is "Obe" Wenig, our head basketball coach. Not only does he coach basketball, football and track, but he is as well, a prominent golfer in the city and state. "Obe" has won the respect, the confidence and the liking of the entire student body.

1931-1932 Basketball Season

The closing chapter in Morningside's book of sports for the 1931-1932 season might reasonably be called "Virtue Goes Unrewarded." For it is the elegy of a luckless Maroon basketball team that kept coming back for more, even after twelve successive defeats.

When a team salvages only two victories, both against mediocre opponents, out of a fourteen game schedule and finishes at the bottom of the North Central Conference pile for the third consecutive season, one would rather expect to find it hopelessly lost in a pessimistic fog.

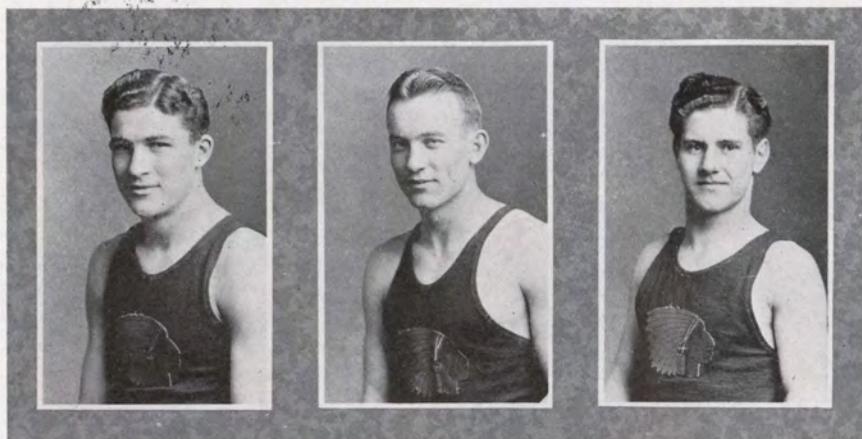

But neither coach nor players labored under the yoke of a mental complex of disaster. Instead a philosophical optimism permeated the campus. It is a fine tribute to the ill-fated crew to say that when they approached the end of a weary and discouraging trail they played their best ball of the year.

The burning sting of defeat was somewhat assuaged by the spectacular achievements of Captain Arlo Koberg, big blond guard, who merited a position on the honorary All-North Central team, despite his affiliation with a losing club.

His unprecedented feat of scoring 60 points to rank fifth among the high scorers of the league established him as the outstanding player of the season. Uncanny ability at dropping the ball through the hoop from any angle of the floor enabled him to score nearly half of the Morningside's total points for the season.

A dearth of capable material at the opening of the season presaged the unfortunate days that were to come. As holdovers, Burton Hall, Marvard Wyant and Koberg constituted the nucleus of Coach "Obe" Wenig's new machine. Other aspirants were Clyde Van Dyke, Ardell Garber, Eugene Sherwood, Gerrit De Groot, Dwight Strom, Jack Haakinson and Herbert Bones.

BASKETBALL

Darton Hall, Arlo Koberg, Eugene Sherwood.

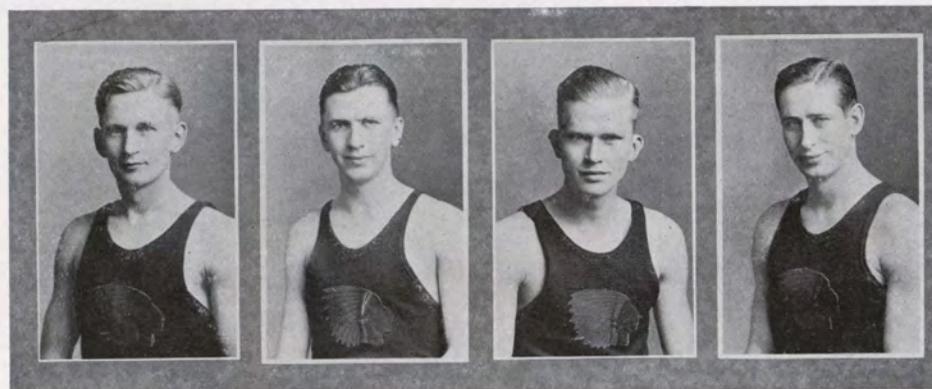

Roseate hues colored the basketball horizon when the Methodists, on successive weekends, trounced Western Union 29 to 17 and Wayne Normal 22 to 12 in the opening brace of games. Little did the staunch adherents of Morningside realize that already their team was at the end of its victory tether.

An ominous warning of impending disaster was sounded a few days later when a horde of Midland Warriors administered a 31 to 25 trouncing on the home court. It went unheeded, however, and the defeat was excused as an upset or just one of those things. However, when the Maroons succumbed before a sporadic Western Union attack in a return engagement a day later, campus concern was aroused.

There was a disposition on the campus to believe that the Maroons would prove more successful in the annual North Central Conference race. But this proved to be a false hope as Morningside was delivered a crushing defeat in its loop debut against North Dakota University, 33 to 12.

On the same trip, the Maroons took it on the chin from North Dakota State, 33 to 24, and South Dakota state 44 to 21. "Moanin' Low" was adopted as the official theme song at Morningside when the luckless Maroons dropped three straight games to the same schools in return contests on the home floor.

BASKETBALL

John Haakinson, Dwight Strom, Clyde Van Dyke, Marvard Wyant.

A week's cessation of North Central hostilities resulted in two more stinging defeats, both at the hands of Nebraska opposition. Wayne Normal avenged an early season loss with a rousing 37 to 27 defeat and Midland triumphed by the decisive score of 39 to 17.

The final blow was dealt the following week by the University of South Dakota Coyotes who also had lost their former glory on the court, when they trimmed the unfortunate Maroons twice, 44 to 25 on the home floor, and 31 to 21 at Vermillion.

The Alpha Chapter of Iowa, Morningside College Chapter of Alpha Kappa Delta, national honorary sociological fraternity, was organized in 1922 for the purpose expressed in its Greek name, Anthropos Katamonthano Diakonesis; that is, an investigating society for the purpose of service to humanity. It has for these ten years been intermittently active in scholastic and social pursuits. This year the fraternity has carried out a program in which the social service officers of Sioux City have at each meeting given a talk on the work carried on in the city. Several sociology students who have done research work in Sioux City presented their findings in the form of special reports.

At the national convention of Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatic fraternity, held in St. Louis, Missouri, November 26, 27, 28, 1931, six members, Professor J. J. Hayes, Janice Hagy, John Bottom, Cepha Pasek, Allen Richardson, and Maxine Steele, represented the Alpha Gamma cast of Morningside College. This fraternity has seventeen members, and often sponsors interesting social times. At a recent meeting the members elected the best looking girl and boy members—Helen Down and Morton Pickersgill. The cast for "The Doctor in Spite of Himself" was chosen from Alpha Psi Omega.

Eta Sigma Phi, national honorary Latin fraternity, is composed of major and minor classical students of high scholastic ranking. Its purpose is to encourage classical scholarship and to create an appreciation of classical culture. This year the program included a study of Greek Drama, Roman Religion, and Roman Drama. The social program includes an annual Saturnalia Celebration in the form of a Christmas Tea and a spring reunion banquet. This year the banquet was held April 21, the sixth anniversary of the establishment of Nu Chapter at Morningside College. In addition to the other activities Eta Sigma Phi sponsors a local Latin Club at East High School.

Phi Sigma Iota, national Romance Language fraternity, is composed of honor students elected from the French and Spanish classes, the membership being limited to twelve during a school year. The club meets once every month, at which time programs are presented with a view to furthering interest in Romance literature. The programs this year have been varied and especially interesting. At the first meeting, Mrs. Moog gave a colorful description of her trip abroad. At the second meeting, Professor Kanthlener described Mexico. Other programs have included Christmas in various countries and studies of French Dramatists. Leota McCoy and Mrs. McBride compose the program committee.

The Omicron Chapter of Sigma Pi Sigma, national honorary Physics fraternity, was installed at Morningside May 21, 1930. The organization has grown since that time, and though its membership is not so large as that of some of the other organizations on the campus, considerable interest is shown in its progress.

Morningside is very fortunate to obtain a charter for a local chapter since the standards of the fraternity are very high, and few of the smaller schools can meet these requirements. Its purpose is to promote an interest in the advanced study of physics, to stimulate individual research, and to provide a means for common discussion of current developments in the field of physics.

Beta Beta Beta, national honorary biological fraternity has chapters in eighteen states and three Chinese cities. The Tau Chapter of Morningside College was installed May 21, 1928. Designed to promote interest and scholarship in biological sciences, Beta Beta Beta membership is accessible to those who have taken a certain amount of biology and are interested in the subject. Since only two of the members returned to school last fall, the club was not very active until enough new members were initiated to make the organization a live one.

The Gamma Beta Chapter of Sigma Tau Delta, national Professional English fraternity, was organized at Morningside in 1926.

The purpose of Sigma Tau Delta is to select those students who have interest and ability in creative composition work or in English Literature, and to nurture that interest by mutual association. Membership is limited to eighteen, chosen from English majors of high attainment in scholarship.

The varied interests of the student members are aptly welded together by the leadership of the faculty members, Professor Hayes, Miss Mills, and Professor Gwinn.

May 29, 1929, Morningside College organized the Iowa Delta Chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, national Social Science fraternity. Students who have attained an exceptional scholastic record in the study of social sciences, including sociology, anthropology, economics, commerce, business administration, law, political science, history, geography, ethics, religion, education, psychology, philosophy, and biology, are eligible for this society. Its motto is "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." The purpose of this organization is to fix in the minds of its members the ideals of scholarship, scientific attitude, method, and social service in relation to all social problems.

The Iowa Delta Chapter of Pi Kappa Delta is one of the most active of the national honorary fraternities on our campus. Membership to this organization is obtained by meritorius work in debate, oratory, or extemporaneous speaking. The national organization sponsors a national contest once every two years and a series of provincial contests the other years. In the number of points won at these national conventions in the last six years, Morningside held first place. Pi Kappa Delta is responsible for much of the interest in forensic activities in Morningside.

Freshman Mixer

If you are a "Thirty-fiver," you probably have more or less vivid recollections of that "stirring" affair the "Y" Associations threw for you that first night after you, the "Fresh" little breezes (to be) of dear old Morningside, blew into town. What a born Master of Ceremonies George Davies turned out to be—and how properly dignified (?) "Honie" Rogers, Prof. Parlette, Clary Nash, and Paul Haviland managed to appear when their turn came to perform. Perhaps by this time you have learned that that "gin-u-wine ole time fiddler's contest" wasn't quite the best our Con students could produce, (though it might have been the funniest), and that college isn't much like Hawaii in spite of the uke duet and the tap dancers. The refreshments—ice cream for the most part—concluded the "good time" which "was had by all." Funny how little it takes to make children happy!

Dads' Day Banquet

The Men's Banquet is an annual affair peculiar to Morningside College, instituted in order that all Dads of Morningside men might have the rare privilege of taking their sons to a perfectly scrumptuous feed under the pretense of being taken to said feed by said sons. It was held this year on November 14, at the Women's Residence Halls, as a fitting climax to the fraternity luncheons, and the Morningside-North Dakota football game. Cornie Eerkes, former Morningside student and faculty member, was the principal speaker of the evening. The toast program included speeches by Paul Haviland, toastmaster and Dads' Day chairman, Harvey Potthoff, Richard Matson, and Harold Decker. Other features of the banquet were vocal selections by Earl Fitzpatrick, an interesting dance number by Leon Dunlap, a small West Side colored boy, several piano solos by Edward Wendell, and the usual charming waitresses to furnish appropriate scenery for the occasion.

Freshman-Sophomore Day

An authority on weather has said that whoever is in charge of the waterworks on Freshman-Sophomore day is just plain perverse. No official survey has been made, but it is extremely doubtful whether any of the extant alumni can remember a time when the howling pack didn't wade through mud pies. This year was no exception. There was the usual concourse of unspoiled and eager freshmen, and a similar contingent of supercilious sophomores out to win an easy revenge for last year's defeat. But fate (or freshmen) decreed otherwise. The end of the cane-rush found the sophomores in rags or less, the freshmen victorious and jubilant, and the rain coming down in everything from buckets to sheets.

After a luncheon served in the gym by the W. A. A. the blood-thirsty Frosh went at it again and tried to dry up the Floyd with the already waterlogged Sophs. Needless to say, they succeeded. That evening, the victors and losers were honored at an All-College party, which was really a county fair with all the side-shows and exhibits.

Sioux Day

The inauguration of Dr. Robert E. O'Brien as seventh president of Morningside College was a special feature of "Sioux Day," 1931. The academic procession formed at Main Hall and marched to Grace Church. The processional was followed by an invocation made by Rev. W. T. McDonald. The chapel choir sang Mendelssohn's "Judge Me, O God." The Honorable E. A. Morling, Justice of the Iowa Supreme Court and President of the Board of Trustees, presented Dr. O'Brien, and the installation was conducted by Bishop Locke. Dr. Alexander Ruthven, President of the University of Michigan, delivered the charge, to which Dr. O'Brien responded with an inspirational inaugural address.

Following the inauguration ceremony, the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon President A. G. Ruthven. Dr. F. J. Seaver, curator of the Brooklyn Botanical Gardens, received the degree of Doctor of Science. The degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred upon Rev. A. C. DeLapp, of South Norwalk, Connecticut, and Rev. B. J. Riner, of Sheldon, Iowa. Rev. P. W. Burt pronounced the benediction.

Dignitaries who were present for the Sioux Day activities were honored at an inaugural luncheon at the Women's Residence Halls. C. W. Britton, of Sioux City, presided. Music was furnished by Conservatory students.

Preceding the luncheon there was a parade through the business district. The College band headed the procession, which included floats of the various college organizations. Loving cups were presented to the two organizations whose floats were judged the best. The Women's Athletic Association float won first honors.

The Morningside-South Dakota football game was scheduled for the afternoon. Preceding the initial kick-off the combined Morningside and South Dakota bands and the string of floats paraded around the field. Then came the great game. Both sides fought with the tradition of the successes and defeats of thirty years behind them. The Coyotes yapped valiantly but to no purpose. When the battle ended the score stood 18-0 in favor of the Maroons.

Following the game the Board of Trustees held a public reception at the Women's Residence Halls in honor of President and Mrs. R. E. O'Brien.

Miss Grace Gordon, chosen as "Miss Morningside" by the students, was honored at all the Sioux Day festivities.

Rideout--1931

Yes—the name has been changed, or should be, for when 99.9 per cent of the students ride out, how can it be called a walk-out? Anyway, the usual derisive howl, “Wot ya goin’ ta class for?” (from a college student!) pealed through the front hall at 8:00 o’clock on the morning of May 1, 1931, and the whole establishment, more or less, led by Hobart Mossman, made a wild dash for Floyd Monument.

The day was grand and the wind collected all around the monument waiting for us. After climbing hills and walking railroad ties awhile, we got together and Mossy, as Master of Ceremonies, introduced Harvey Potthoff, who fed us a highly digestible history of the foundation of Morningside College and the walkout habit. Harvey Nelson contributed his own original interpretation of the 23rd Psalm, and Lois Crane, to a uke accompaniment, told us why she wouldn’t marry any man. Professor Hayes wound up Paul Haviland’s jocular advice with a prophecy of the future of Morningside.

Our fortunes being thus comfortably arranged for us, we began to sniff about for the all-necessary food. A large supply of pop, Dixies, and Hot Cross (dog) biscuits was discovered and quickly consumed.

May Morning Breakfast

“It’s the early bird that catches the worm” is a well-known adage apparently applied in the case of the May Morning Breakfast which was held May 5, 1931. It brought with it the sunniest morning of the whole year, and everything was perfect. Shut your eyes and imagine lattice-work, flowers, pretty waitresses serving luscious food, music while you eat, and all this mixed up with springtime and birdsongs. Could anything be sweeter—especially when your fraternity isn’t serving breakfast this morning?

Women’s Banquet

“All the world’s a stage and all the men and women merely players,” tra la. So said Shakespeare, and what more appropriate theme could have been found for the Women’s Banquet of April 25, 1931? The novel toast program built about this theme included as toastmistress, Mrs. Stansbury, who spoke on the subject, “As You Like It”; Betty Evans, representing the freshman girls romped in “Green Pastures”; Roene Brooks, for the sophomores, spoke earnestly on “The Importance of Being Earnest”; and Eleanor McCaffree, a junior, ventured on “Strange Interlude.” The seniors, represented by Marilla Conley, decided that “All’s Well that Ends Well,” but Mrs. White, for the mothers, brought the wanderers back to “Apron Strings.” Having paid “The Piper,” Rex Hinshaw, who played several clarinet solos, and listened to the Men’s Glee Club “Measure for Measure,” the banquet was declared a success.

Junior-Senior Banquet

On May 20, 1931, the Juniors entertained the Seniors at the annual Junior-Senior Banquet—only it wasn’t a banquet. It turned out to be a picnic. Just who was accountable for the original idea, we can’t say for sure—perhaps it was the master of ceremonies, Milton Rixman, and then again it might have been the general chairman, Cepha Pasek, they’re both original. Anyway, as far as those present were concerned, the thing was a huge success, not because there was a large crowd (there wasn’t)—but because there was plenty for the adventurous few to eat—and they needed it to get fat and keep warm on. South Ravine was second cousin to Greenland that day.

The program consisted of humorous talks by several jolly Juniors and sensible Seniors, including Helen Bond, Junior class president, the Honorable Rixman (himself), and best of all, Professor Hayes.

TRADITIONS

Faculty Reception

The Faculty Reception was held October 2, 1931, in the drawing room of the Women's Residence Halls. For the first time the traditional idea of the reception as a stiffly formal affair was changed when President O'Brian announced that the reception was not to be formal unless one cared to consider it so. This change was not so much a change in form, however, as a change in atmosphere.

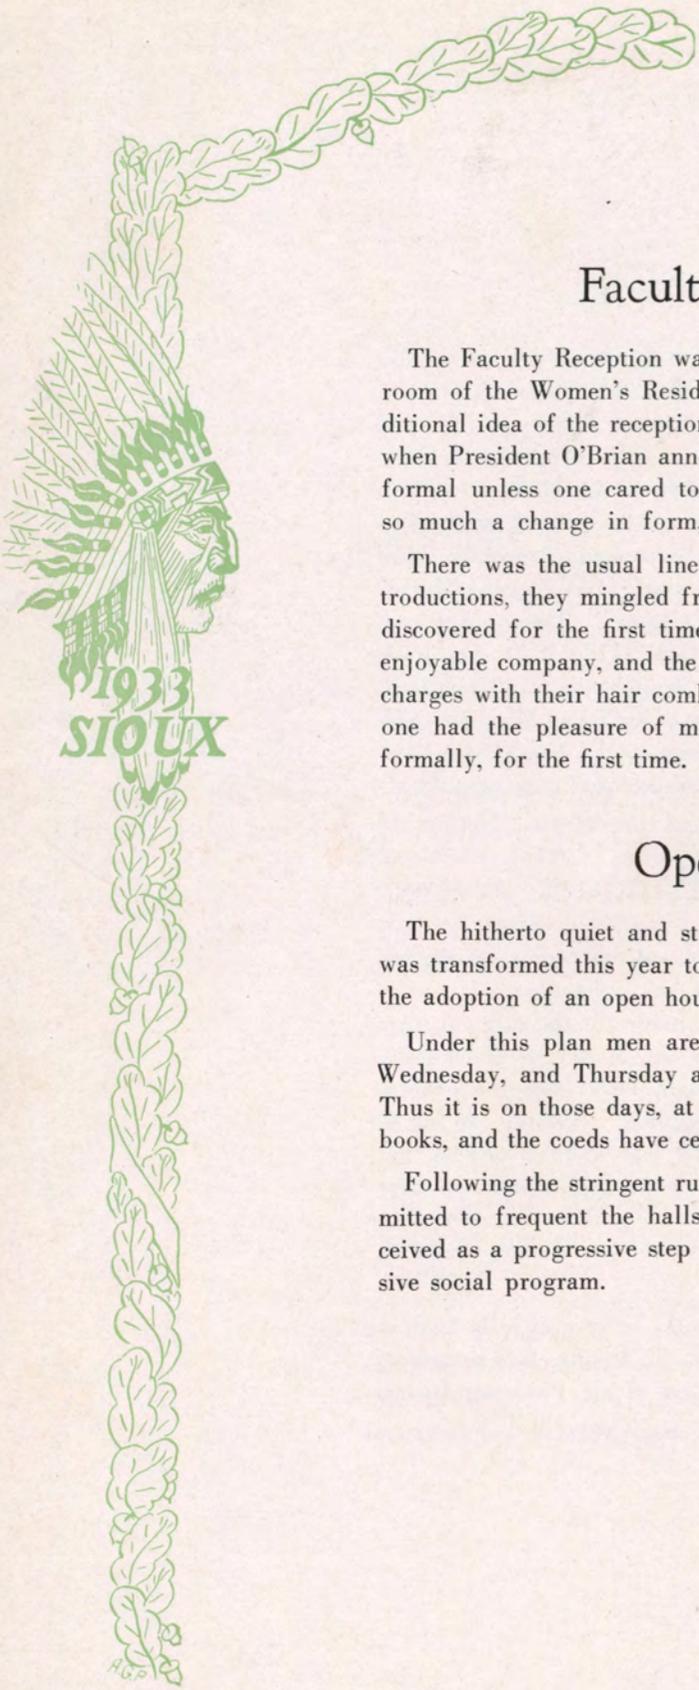

There was the usual line of faculty members, but after the introductions, they mingled freely with the students. Many students discovered for the first time that professors are human and quite enjoyable company, and the faculty was given a chance to see their charges with their hair combed and in their "best" clothes. Every one had the pleasure of meeting the new President and his wife formally, for the first time.

Open House

The hitherto quiet and studious atmosphere of the society halls was transformed this year to one of a more "sociable" nature with the adoption of an open house policy.

Under this plan men are privileged to visit the halls Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday afternoons from two until five o'clock. Thus it is on those days, at least, bridge tables have replaced textbooks, and the coeds have ceased to live the "solitary life."

Following the stringent rules of last year when no men were permitted to frequent the halls, the present policy has been well received as a progressive step in moulding Morningside's more extensive social program.
