

Residence Hall Beautifully Redecorated

As enthusiastic girls moved back into their dormitory this fall, the halls once more took on the atmosphere of home with soft rugs, ruffled curtains and newly upholstered furniture replacing the G. I. equipment of the past months.

Newly decorated throughout, the walls of the bedrooms for 200 girls are a variety of soft colors as background for the curtains and bedspreads of the occupants.

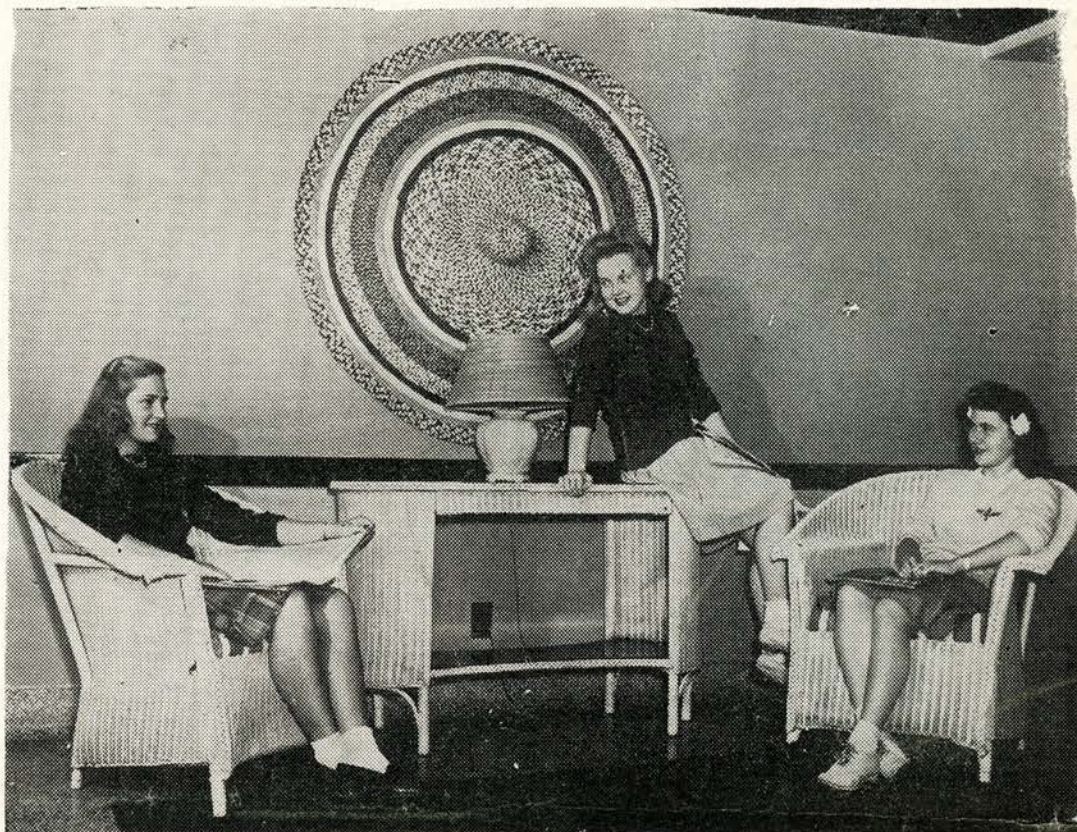

Sorority halls have been moved from the Main Hall of the college to the east wing of the residence hall on the first floor. Kappa Pi Alphas, Kappa Zeta Chis and Alpha Sigmas share a community kitchen for their parties but have individual apartments of lounge and serving rooms.

Downstairs the dining room has taken on a new note of elegance with its bright blue, gold, and cream walls, gold drapes at the windows and fluorescent lights.

Dean Alva Tolf and Mrs. James Reistrup, with economy as well as charm in mind have cleverly used ordinary, humble materials to produce impressive decorations in returning the dormitory to the girls with all its former charm and elegance.

Dean Tolf, Mrs. H. B. Lynch, social director, and Mrs. Margaret Grafton, dietician, compose the resident staff. Above is senior hall, west of the drawing room, for the furnishing of which the Mexican theme has been carried out. A mammoth bright colored sombrero is the decoration above the table on the wall opposite the entrance. To the west of the fireplace serapes make handsome wall drapes while Mexican posters hang over the mantle, donations from Prof. H. F. Kanthlener. Colors on the walls and ceiling are Mexican coral and yellow which are reflected in the curtains of terrace netting at the windows.

Enrollment Figures Are Announced

Figures from the registrar's office show that there are 244 students enrolled in college, 54 of which are men.

The freshmen registration totaled 121, including 10 cadet nurses. This is an increase of almost 50 per cent over last year's enrollment.

Growth of College Told In Anniversary Edition

The story of the growth of Morningside College, from a "college in a cornfield" to one of northwest Iowa's leading educational institutions is told with the release of the 50th anniversary edition of the Morningside College Bulletin.

Consisting of a series of five articles written by members of the college faculty and alumni, the quarterly publication is a permanent historical item of the history of the institution from a meager beginning, September 26, 1894, to the present day college.

A copy of the bulletin will be mailed to anyone upon request.

Successful Season at Lake Okoboji Summer Camp

A large group of talented young musicians from high schools and colleges attended the sixteenth annual season of the Summer Music Camp at Lake Okoboji, Iowa, from June 25 to August 6. Five states, including Iowa, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, and Minnesota were represented.

Under the direction of faculty members from the Morningside Conservatory of music which included Mr. and Mrs. Paul MacCollin, Mr. and Mrs. Henri Pensis, Mr. James Reistrup, Mrs. Ethel Kucinski, and Mr. Durwood Griffin, concerts were given at sessions of Camp Methoji, the Methodist Bible Conference, and in nearby towns.

All who attended were most enthusiastic regarding the fine opportunity the camp offered for summer study and recreation. The addition to its equipment of a "Sponson", model Old Town Canoe, concrete shuffle board and ping-pong platforms added much enjoyment for leisure hours.

Okoboji Summer Music Camp is nationally known and is making an important contribution to the development of music in the middle west.

Methodist Conference Re- names College Men

At the concluding session of the Northwest Iowa Methodist Conference held in Sioux City, Sept. 18-24, Dr. E. A. Roadman was reappointed president of Morningside College, and W. J. Scarborough was re-named dean.

In other shifts, Rev. V. V. Schuldt, '30, former director of admissions for five years at the College, will replace H. V. Bartz, '30, who has enlisted in the navy as a chaplain, as pastor of Wesley church at Leeds.

Former Faculty

News from Lt. (j. g.) John G. Felton:

We were at Honolulu for a while and then took part in the invasion of the Gilberts. My base was at Apamama some 80 miles below Tarawa. It was a very beautiful spot, one of those South Sea Island paradises we read about in stories and dream of visiting. Robert Louis Stevenson had been there for two or three years. The natives were very friendly and kind and educated. For many years the Catholics of Australia have maintained a teacher's college and mission there. The young bride and groom would come there to study for two or three years and then go back to their home island to teach other natives. All the while the Japs were there they allowed the mission to continue, but of course they were cut off from the outside world.

There were many other features of the island I enjoyed—the climate, the beautiful stately palms, the dancing and singing of the natives (they could sing the entire Gregorian mass in Latin). But finally I was transferred out, or rather back, to Hawaii and from there to this admirals staff. In Hawaii I looked up Ayako Yamashiro ex '41. She is teaching on the island of Hawaii.

S/Sgt. John D. Garwood, former Economics professor, is now in the Finance Office at the Reception Center at Ft. Dix, N. J. Mrs. Garwood (Kay Schnoor, '43) was a recent campus visitor.

Miss Marjorie Arkwright, dietician at Morningside during the past four years, is studying at the University of Chicago and working as dietician in the Chicago Latin School.

Miss Marie Liba, Women's Physical Education instructor for two years, is taking work at Chicago University this year.

With her husband, Cpl. Vincent Keiser, Mrs. Keiser (Frances Forsberg, '41) former assistant in the Biology department, visited her parents in Sioux City this fall. Cpl. Keiser is an interviewer at the reception center at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

Mrs. F. W. Schneider, wife of the late Dr. F. W. Schneider, former vice-president of Morningside, and her sister, Mrs. Louise Freyhofer of Lansing, Mich., greeted old friends on the campus this summer. Faculty friends were guests at a tea in the J. A. Coss home in their honor.

Dr. and Mrs. E. M. Buchner (Pearl Woodford, '03) entertained at open house for their house guests, Miss Faith Woodford and Miss Lillian Dimmitt during August. Many former Morningsiders enjoyed the afternoon visiting.

Farewell Parties for Former Faculty

A farewell party was given in honor of Rev. Victor V. Schuldt, '30, and Mr. Thornton N. McClure at the home of Dr. Earl A. Roadman, on September 28th, in recognition of their splendid inspiration, guidance and leadership while at Morningside College.

Rev. Schuldt, while at Morningside College, was in charge of the Admissions Office. He acted in this capacity for the past five years, and has now taken up his new duties as pastor of the Wesley Methodist Church at Leeds.

Mr. McClure was Business Manager for the college during the past six years. He has now taken up his new duties at the Wincharger Corporation.

Both men will be greatly missed by students and faculty. They made it a point to meet and know each student intimately upon enrollment in school and were very popular with all who knew them.

The Faculty Women's Club entertained at a beautifully appointed tea in the home of Mrs. J. E. Kirkpatrick in honor of Mrs. Schuldt (Ruth Hulse, '33) and Mrs. McClure (Evelyn DePue, '39) whose loyal cooperation and help will be greatly missed in that group.

CAMPUS ACTIVITIES

Prof. Ira Gwinn was called to Maplewood, W. Va., by the death of his mother on Sept. 16. The Gwinn family were former Sioux City residents.

The Morningside College band began a new season under its versatile new director, Mr. Rocco Pesile. Plans are being made for an interesting and successful season.

Dr. J. E. Kirkpatrick, head of the education department, addressed an audience of 1,300 teachers in attendance at a meeting of the Southwestern District of Iowa Teachers Association at Council Bluffs on Oct. 6. He also led a roundtable panel discussion.

Several new courses are being offered in this year's curriculum. Two of these are General Science and Recent Developments in Science, taught by Dean Graber; Mr. Burris is offering a new course in Library Science; Miss Ruth Butts will direct a course in Radio Production and Prof. Mendal Miller will teach the Survey of Social Sciences.

The Morningside Downtown Division, which offers night classes under the direction of Prof. T. E. Tweit, has an enrollment of more than 125 registrants, including a number of officers and privates from the Sioux City Air Base.

Concert Season Opens

The Sioux City Civic Concert Course was opened Tuesday, October 3, at the Orpheum Theater with a concert by the young Metropolitan Opera Star, Patrice Munsel.

The young star who is only 19, made her debut at the Metropolitan at the age of 17. Until her talent was recognized she lead a normal life for a girl of her age.

Miss Munsel was assisted by Stuart Ross, accompanist, who played several piano selections, and Evelyn Crocker, flutist.

This year's concert course also includes Joseph Szigeti, Sidney Foster, Argentinita and her Spanish dancers, Blanche Thebom, the Philadelphia Opera Co., Salzedo Concert Ensemble, and the Sioux City Symphony.

Lieut. Frakes Now Prisoner

Reported missing in action after an aerial raid over Germany last February, Lieut. Robert L. Frakes, ex '44, son of Mrs. A. E. Bergstrom, 1809 Morningside avenue, is now a prisoner of war of the German government.

Word to that effect was received by Mrs. Bergstrom from the adjutant general's office of the war department, which in turn had received the information through the International Red Cross. No details of his capture or his whereabouts were given in the telegram.

Lieut. Frakes, pilot of a P-38 fighter plane, had been stationed in England for six months prior to his disappearance in February.

Bob had received the air medal for meritorious achievements in the air and had been given credit for helping destroy a German Messerschmidt III.

Former Morningsider Receives High Honor

Lt. Lloyd E. Rozeboom, ex '31, formerly of Orange City, after spending two years at Morningside, entered Ames College where he graduated with a fellowship to John Hopkin's University in 1931. He received his doctor of science degree from John Hopkins three years later. From 1934 to 1937 he was medical entomologist at Gorgas Memorial laboratory in Panama. The next two years he served as associate professor of entomology at Oklahoma A. and M. He was then professor of the school of Hygiene and public health at John Hopkins.

In 1941, he spent four months in Trinidad, studying tropical mosquitos at one of our new defense base sites. He reported that wide areas of South and Central America were danger spots because one native variety of mosquito, a wide malaria carrier, had a particular appetite for human blood.

For this discovery, he was awarded the highest honors for helping to make the tropics habitable for troops. The American Society of Tropical Medicine presented to Dr. Lloyd E. Rozeboom the Bailey K. Ashford award of $1,000 and a bronze medal for tracking down malaria transmission to a variety of mosquito suspected, but never demonstrated, to be a carrier of the disease.

Released from his work at John Hopkins for the duration, Lt. Rozeboom is stationed somewhere in the New Hebrides where he works at a base hospital in the malaria control unit.

The annual reunion dinner for Morningsiders in Des Moines and for teachers attending the State Teachers' Convention will be held Friday, Nov. 3 at Younkers Tea Room at 5:30 P. M.

Kindly send your reservation as soon as possible to Mrs. Ben Hall, 935 35th St., Des Moines, Ia.

Prof. MacCollin Honored by Association

Paul MacCollin, director of Morningside College Conservatory of Music, head of the voice department, founder and director of the Morningside College Choir, received notice during the summer of his election to membership in the National Association of Teachers of Singing.

This Association is a comparatively new organization and an outgrowth of the American Academy of Teachers of Singing, and the Chicago Council of Teachers of Singing. It has a limited membership of about 100 teachers, selected because of their leadership in the vocal profession.

The aim of the association is the raising of teaching standards. Lists of teaching materials, and articles of interest to the profession in general are published from time to time and distributed to all teachers free of charge. Membership in the Association is through invitation.

L. G. Benz Buys Interest In Newspaper

Lester G. Benz, '25, former publisher of the Sheffield Press and one of the directors of the Iowa Press Association, has formed a partnership with Leonard C. Bowman in publishing the Mitchell County Press and Osage News.

During the past 12 years when he successfully published the Sheffield Press his paper won journalistic and job printing awards in state competition.

After graduating from Morningside College, Mr. Benz took graduate work at the University of Iowa.

Before going to Sheffield he spent seven years with the Sioux City Tribune in the editorial and advertising departments and later taught in the Fort Dodge high school.

Mrs. Benz is the former Marguerite Held, '25. The Benz' have two children, a boy 7, and a girl 9.

DEATHS

Friends of Miss Edwarda Metz, for six years a member of the college conservatory faculty, were shocked when news of her sudden death came last Monday, Oct. 9th. Death resulted from a fall from a 14th story window of the city hall in Kansas City where she had stopped enroute to Wichita, Kan., where she was to have an interview for a position at the Wichita Municipal University.

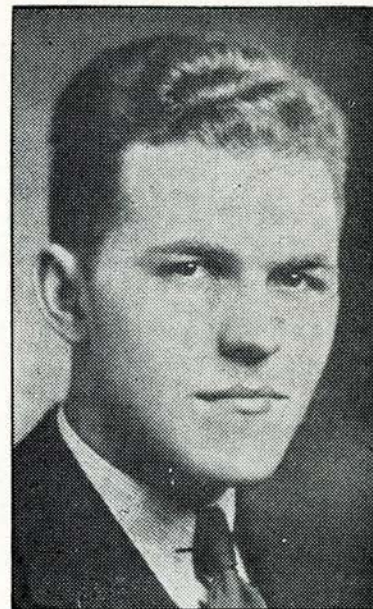

Miss Metz taught last year at Mary Baldwin College for women at Staunton, Va., but had been resting at her home in Sioux City the past summer because of ill health.

Funeral services were held in the Trinity Lutheran church with Dr. Roadman officiating.

Remember When ---

On October 17, 1907, United States Vice President Fairbanks visited Sioux City and Morningside College. In order to honor the distinguished visitor, the student body formed a double line on the walk between the Main Hall and the Gymnasium, and Mr.

Harold Decker to Wichita University

Harold A. Decker, '34, former Sioux Cityan, who for six years has been with Shurtleff college, Alton, Ill., four years as head of its conservatory of music, has accepted a more important position as head of the University of Wichita's music department, which has a faculty of 20 persons.

Harold graduated from Morningside college and later attended Oberlin college at Oberlin, Ohio. He went to Shurtleff in 1938, and an editorial in the Alton Evening Herald, expressing regret over his departure, states that "in his relatively brief time in Alton he gave Shurtleff one of the finest music schools in the middle west, an a cappella choir which ranked with the best and the leadership of an outstanding community music program." It speaks of him as a "brilliant young musician" and says his going will leave "a gap in Alton's cultural life."

Mrs. Decker is the former Helene Crenshaw, '34.

Fairbanks and Dr. Lewis walked between the two lines while a picture was taken for the annual.

Then the students marched south on Morningside Avenue and St. Aubin to the Bishop Lewis residence. There the parade was to break up so the students could return to their classes. But, when they reached the president's home, a voice called out "On to the Monument!" And that was the first walkout.

One day every year since that time the students have gone to the Monument to spend the day. Walkout Day has been given a political significance since it is always held on a day just before election for student body president. The members of the student council are the only ones who know what day of the week the walkout will occur; and on that morning during the first period class, trumpets are blown, classroom doors are thrown open, and the students walk out.

At the Monument games are played, a lunch is served, and the candidates for prexy give their pre-election speeches.

Third Annual Report of Alumni Living Endowment Committee

Three years ago the Morningside Alumni Living Endowment was born. This report of the third year of operation is presented for the consideration of interested alumni. Most of the important facts concerning the progress of the program during its third year are portrayed in the three tables which are included. These follow the form adopted last year, and the interested reader will wish to refer to last year's report for significant comparisons.

The records for the last three years speak for themselves. In the first year 77 alumni contributed $1600 in cash, or the equivalent of $32,000 of endowment at 5%. In the second year 221 alumni contributed $6,484, equivalent to approximately $127,000 of endowment, while this year 234 alumni have paid $4,575, equivalent to $110,000 of endowment.

After some vacillation, the committee has fixed the fiscal year at June 30th. This year's report is prepared on that basis. It is in reality a ten-month report as the second annual accounting period carried over to September 1, 1943.

Your committee is more than satisfied with the progress to date. As time goes on it becomes increasingly apparent that the loyalty of Morningside's alumni represents a vast reservoir of untapped strength. This strength will be of inestimable importance to our Alma Mater in the days which lie ahead. Much has been written and said in recent years about the place of the church-supported colleges in the educational program of the future. It is freely predicted that many of them, without "visible means of support" will disappear from the educational landscape. It would seem that inadequate attention has been given to certain invisible means of support. There is every reason for believing that the determined loyalty of the alumni of Morningside will guarantee that our Alma Mater shall continue for some time to occupy the significant place which it has for the past fifty years in the educational program of the mid-west. The enthusiastic support of the Alumni Living Endowment seems clearly to betoken a desire on the part of a multitude of her sons and daughters that Morningside shall remain strong and effective, and an appreciation of their responsibility for helping to keep her so.

Detailed comment about the various tables is necessary. In the first table, printed in the September Morningsider, were presented the names of persons participating in the program this year. Comparison with last year's report will show that some names are missing, and others have been added. Most of the defections can be explained only by the individuals concerned, but it should be remembered that these are difficult times. People are changing their addresses, many of them are busier than they have ever been before, and some are so deeply concerned about the safety of loved ones that they may be pardoned for postponing or forgetting such obligations as their pledges to the Living Endowment. It is suggested that if anyone thinks that his name has been incorrectly omitted, communication with the treasurer should clear up the matter.

Your committee is making plans for broadening the scope of the Living Endowment program within the next year or two. It will be noted that the size of the committee has been increased. Class organizations will be set up which will promote the Living Endowment within individual groups. Other expansions, modifications, and extensions of our program are planned. It should be emphasized, however, that the publication of the enlarged MORNINGSIDER, which has been such a constant source of pleasure to the alumni during the past two years, will be continued.

"House Beautiful" Features Home

In the September issue of "House Beautiful," the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Keen Young, '25, of Owatonna, Minn., appeared as a six-page feature story on remodeling. The pictures—19 in all—show "before and after" interior and exterior scenes along with first and second floor plans of the 60-year-old house of Mr. and Mrs. Young. One photograph shows Mrs. Young with their two children, Tom and Suzanne, in the kitchen, a model of every modern convenience.

Miss Florence Paine, Housekeeping editor of "House Beautiful," prepared the accompanying script which tells why remodeling pays. Since it is quite unusual to find one of our mid-western houses being given so much space in a national magazine, Mr. and Mrs. Young consider it a fine tribute to their effort.

To quote Mrs. Young: "The most outstanding feature of the house is the bold use of color throughout. The outside is painted pink—the most delicious pepper-mint candy color, with door, shutters, chimney and balcony rail of white. In one bedroom we have used sky-blue wardrobe doors, red and white plaid on walls and ceiling, and bright red inside stairway has treads painted rosy pink, with a deep red carpet, rising from a grey blue entrance hall. And so on throughout the house."

"House Beautiful" had Ken Hendricks, considered one of the foremost architectural photographers, and his assistant, bring $20,000 worth of equipment and spend two days in Owatonna photographing the Young house.

Mr. Young is secretary and general sales manager of the Mutual Hardware and Implement Insurance Co. with central offices in Owatonna.

It was while Mr. Young was history instructor and assistant football coach at Central high school in Sioux City that Mrs. Young, formerly Marianne Zamboni, who had come here with her husband, finished her college course at Morningside.

The Youngs extend an invitation to any Morningsiders who may happen to go through Owatonna to stop for a visit.

WEE MORNINGSIDERS

Pfc. Dale Harter, '41, and Mrs. Harter are the parents of a daughter, Paula Dale, born Sept. 22, in Sioux City.

Ensign, ex 41' and Mrs. John Loff, (Myna Nickum, ex '41) have announced the arrival of Gary E., at Manning, Iowa, on Sept. 30. The Loffs have another son, Jackie, age 2. Ensign Loff is with a U.S.S. Circe Detail at New Port, R. I.

Mr. Arthur Patch, '37 and Mrs. Patch are the parents of a son, Charles Jeffrey, born Aug. 14, in Van Nuys, California.

Lt. Darrel McEntaffer, ex '42 and Mrs. McEntaffer, have a son, Roger Eugene, born on Sept. 8, in Sioux City.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Menke (Kathlyn Kolp), both '40, have a son, Daniel, who arrived on August 14, in Calumet, Iowa. The Menkes have another son, David, 2½ years old.

Mr. Jack Weed, '35, and Mrs. Weed of Burlington, Iowa, have a son, John Gregory, born on February 23, 1944.

Mr. Earl J. Fitzpatrick, '42, and Mrs. Fitzpatrick, have a son, Larry Arnold, born in Sioux City, Sept. 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Uhl (Gladys Timm, '30) have a daughter, Margaret Ann, born June 1 in Fargo, N. D. The Uhls have recently moved to Fort Dodge, Iowa.

Linda Ella, born July 10, is the new daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schoeberl (Mabel Fritz, '37), of Odebolt, Ia.

James Reistrup Honored by Invitation

Sioux City's distinguished pianist and composer, Prof. James Reistrup who heads the piano department of Morningside College recently returned from the MacDowell colony, Petersborough, N. H., famed retreat for serious workers in the creative fields.

Mr. Reistrup, whose published compositions already have received national recognition, has the distinction of being the first Sioux Cityan for whom the MacDowell colony has been made available.

It is a place where one must be invited and for which one must be recommended by accepted authorities in his field. It is a place for the serious worker who, after sleep and breakfast in community residence and dining halls, retires to a studio exclusively his for a full day of creative effort.

MacDowell colony, established in memory of the late Edward MacDowell pianist and composer, by his widow is permeated with the personality and presence of that wonderful woman, according to Mr. Reistrup.

Only once during every year is the colony opened for a public meeting. That time this season, Mr. Reistrup was invited by Mrs. MacDowell to be the guest artist before the Petersborough Woman's club, the group she entertains annually.

Due to be published this autumn by Composer Press is Mr. Reistrup's "Etude for Piano," dedicated to his friend, Cecil Burleigh, and completed at the MacDowell colony. Even more pretentious is his Concerto in B. Minor, work on which is well under way as a result of his sojourn at Petersborough. There were numerous other revisions and lesser compositions, likewise accomplished there.
