Commencement Record

President Earl A. Roadman (center) of Morningside College may have set a record among college executives when, in presenting a diploma to Miss Katherine Roadman, his daughter, he conferred a degree on the eighth member of his family. She is the sixth child to receive this distinction from her father. An honorary degree bestowed by order of his trustees on his wife in 1945, and a diploma handed to his son-in-law brings Dr. Roadman's family count to eight. Shown in the picture (left) is Dean Thomas E. Tweito.

College Commencement Unofficial Father's Day

Commencement day for President Earl A. Roadman was a sort of unofficial "Father's Day." Dr. Roadman's commencement day schedule read something like a "One Man's Family" script. There were roles in it for the entire Roadman clan, 25 strong.

The college president's day began at 10 a. m. with the commencement program at Grace Methodist Church. Among the 67 graduates was Katherine Roadman, youngest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Roadman, who received an A. B. degree from her father. It was the eighth time he had presented a degree to a member of his family. Five of the degrees have gone to his other children, one to a son-in-law, and a honorary degree to Mrs. Roadman. After commencement, Dr. Roadman officiated at a dinner for families with five or more Morningside graduates or students to their credit at the dormitory. It was the first such dinner ever held at the college. The 104 families eligible included those in which parents as well as children had attended Morningside.

Next on the president's commencement day agenda was a private ceremony at 3 p. m. at the Roadman residence, at which time Dr. Roadman officiated at the christening of three of his grandchildren. The ceremony brought to 10 the number of grandchildren which Dr. Roadman has christened.

That, however, did not conclude the day for Dr. Roadman. At 8 p. m., he officiated at the marriage of his daughter, Katherine,

Music Camp Opens Its 19th Season

The 19th season of the Lake Okoboji summer music camp opened Sunday, June 22, with auditions and registration scheduled for the following day. Regular lessons and work began on June 24.

Student recitals will be presented each Thursday evening in headquarters hall. A schedule of guest artist and faculty concerts will also be arranged.

Camp activities will be supervised by Professors Paul MacCollin and Leo Kucinski of the Morningside Conservatory staff. Associate instructors include Hans Lampl, outstanding concert pianist who appeared as soloist in many programs for the armed forces during the war period; Elizabeth Newton MacCollin, voice; Ethel Thompson Kucinski, piano; Robert Lowry, woodwinds; Emery Stewart, voice, and Gertrude Bale, theory and methods.

to Richard McLaughlin, who will receive his degree from Morningside in August. All members of the Roadman family, including those who married into it, attended the wedding in Grace Church. It was the fourth time Dr. Roadman has officiated at the marriage of one of his children.

After the hubbub of graduation was over, the 14 adult "Roadmans," including the sons- and daughters-in-law, left for a 10-day vacation at Hudson Bay post, Lac La Croix, Canada. The 12 grandchildren were left at the Roadman home in care of a practical nurse and several nursemaids.

53d Commencement at Morningside

Senior music students of Morningside College presented their commencement recital at the Conservatory recital hall Friday evening, May 30, to raise the curtain on four days of activities for seniors, former students and alumni of Morningside College.

Baccalaureate services for the seniors were held at 10:45 a. m. Sunday, June 1, at Grace Methodist Church. Dr. Nelson A. Price, vice president of the college, spoke on the topic, "The Gift of God That Is Within You." He stated: "The times are tremendous. This is no day for mediocrity, indifference or irreligion. God needs men and women in all walks of life who will live lives aflame in devotion to the cause of making the world Christian. With treasures from the past as heritage there also are tremendous problems, perhaps the greatest that ever faced the youth of the world."

A faculty recital was presented at 4 p. m. in the church auditorium by Miss Faith Woodford, organist; Emery D. Stewart, soloist, and Homer Garretson, violinist.

In the evening the alumni choir, under the directorship of Prof. MacCollin, presented its annual reunion concert to an appreciative audience.

Degrees were conferred on 67 seniors at the 53d annual commencement exercises at 10 a. m. at Grace Methodist Church on June 2.

Rev. Richard C. Raines, widely known pastor of the Hennepin Avenue Methodist Church, Minneapolis, gave the address. His topic was "The Power to See It Through." Impressing upon the graduates the great need for each individual to realize to the fullest extent his responsibility for acts throughout life, Rev. Raines urged that the graduates assert their power to "see it through."

"You are responsible for the way in which you use the talents and capabilities with which you were born. If you have any capacity for work in the fields where the work is weakest, there is the place for you. There is a great need for missionaries in Japan and Germany—there is much work to be done everywhere in helping others." He told of the statue of Christ which apparently had survived a terrific bombing in a church during the war, but which, upon inspection, was found to have had both hands blown away.

"The United States must become the hands of Christ to heal broken homes in the world today. Either we will share with those who are suffering or men will hate us because we have not shared. Discipline is a source of power. In this country our freedom means discipline—freedom means loyalty. To enjoy our freedom we have learned, or must learn, to discipline ourselves. Freedom does not mean going carelessly along, and being irresponsible. The deepest thing in human life is to be needed—to be useful—not to be free from the eternal things which come to everyone, such as taking care of those we love.

"Democracy is a conquest which every generation must win for itself. Civic rights are a gift from the Almighty. To have freedom we must have a high code of moral conduct, and that cannot be achieved without religion. National democracy cannot exist without religion and morality."

Honorary degrees were conferred by Dr. Earl A. Roadman, college president, as follows:

Doctor of science, Rear Adm. T. C. Anderson, of the class of 1908, Bethesda, Md., presented by Prof. T. C. Stephens; doctor of humane letters, to Mrs. Warner H. Hubbard, of Clear Lake, Ia., who has become a nationally recognized leader in the field of religious education, presented by Rev. J. C. Buthman, and doctor of divinity, to Rev. Arthur F. Schuldt, class of 1922, superintendent of the Sheldon district of the Northwest Iowa Conference of the Methodist Church, presented by Rev. F. E. Burgess.

Degrees were awarded as follows:

Class of '07

"It seems to me I heard them say,
The '07's had a reunion one day.
Whoop zip! Bif, Boom, Bah!
Naught Seven, Naught Seven! Rah! Rah!
Rah!

Yes, it is true; on May thirty-first They met at "The Barn" and supped and conversed.

They talked of old times and of friendships
true,

But present day doings were interesting, too.

They brought with them pictures of children
grown up,

But the grandchildren—Ah! They're the zest of the lot."

"Forty years is too long a time to wait to return to one's Alma Mater," said Ella Dickson of the class of '07, who had never been back since she graduated. So thought we all when Ella appeared looking as young and energetic as on the day when she received her diploma. Henry Taylor also returned for the first time, that he might be present at the 40th reunion of the class.

The class had responded well to the letter of invitation from their secretary, those who could not come sending letters of greeting that they might renew friendships with their classmates. Those present were Martha MacDonald McKelvey from Ames, Ia.; Corwin and Nellie Taylor from Sheldon, Ia.; Genevieve Howard Hayes and her husband, R. B. Hayes, from Plattsmouth, Neb.; Henry Taylor from Independence, Kan.; Ella Dickson Blackshire from Bellefonte, Ark., and Faith F. Woodford from Sergeant Bluff, Ia.

Greetings were sent by Dr. H. E. Jones, Los Angeles, Calif.; Cora Frear Hawkins, Eugene, Ore.; Mable Vesta Towner, Kansas City, Mo.; Mabel Haskins Maynard, Pueblo, Colo.; D. Ford Robbins, Minneapolis, Minn.; Elsie Kilbourne Cook, Wessington Springs, S. D., and Dr. Robert C. Nichols, Ontario, Calif.

It was a great pleasure to visit together and to read the messages from distant classmates. Cora Frear Hawkins, in characteristic fashion, sent her greetings in rhyme, closing with these lines about their acreage:

"Lon disks and sprays and thinks its fun;
He is ably helped by J. Will Wunn.
Roth think this land's the very best.
I still insist it's too far west."

Mable Vesta Towner, director of leadership training for the Kansas City Council of Churches, wrote: "Several girls in our class changed their names, I changed mine, too, but by a simpler process of dropping my first name. Too many Mables in the world. Call me Vesta." She also sent a copy of the '07 class day program—a scene from Cooper's "Last of the Mohicans," and a duplicate of the class prophecy. She said: "Strange, isn't it, how on that day we were all looking ahead to the future?"

Now, here we are with so much past behind us! But it is a heart-warming past to remember, thanks to a college called Morningside—and we still have a future!"

Class of '12

This year marked for the class of 1912 their 35th anniversary as alumni of Morningside. On the morning of Alumni Day a meeting was held at the home of Hazel Siman Mahood. Greetings and letters from absent classmates were read, and pictures of children and grandchildren proudly exhibited. The event was made happier by the presence of members of the faculty who had guided the class so many years ago.

At the alumni reunion luncheon in the Barn Georgia Wiseman Chandler, who presided so graciously, gave voice to what was in the heart of every alumnus when she said: "The members of the class of 1912 have as their very special and honored guests the members of the faculty who were here when we graduated. We take this occasion to honor them for their devotion and their loyalty to the college. It is such devotion and such loyalty as theirs that has made Morningside what it is today. We have a deep appreciation of the sacrifices they have made for the college, the wider opportunities they have passed by, the work they have done to make Morningside a college of which we may be proud.

"As the years go by we are increasingly aware of the inspiration their lives have been to us, and of the imprint of their characters upon ours.

"There is Miss Dimmitt! What would Morningside have been without Miss Dimmitt? Whenever we meet old Morningsiders one of their first questions is, 'How is Miss Dimmitt?' Her interest in each and every student, her wise and kind advice, her keen sense of humor has endeared her to hundreds of students through the years.

"Miss Dimmitt has given more than 50 years of her life to the college, having come to Morningside in 1893 when the school was known as the University of the Northwest, and was housed in one building, now used as the Conservatory of Music. From that small beginning she has helped to build a splendid college. Like the builder of old, she may look at her work and find it good.

"Professor Van Horne, himself an alumnus of the college, has given many years of service. He was graduated in the class of 1900, and returned a year later to become professor of mathematics. Professor Van Horne is as much a part of Morningside as the very bricks and stones of which it is built. In strength of character and firmness of conviction he is not unlike those bricks and stones. He has wholeheartedly devoted his life to the building of a greater Morningside. After mathematics his interest has been in athletics, where he sternly advocated clean play and good sportsmanship, and where his influence cannot be measured by words.

"Who of us will ever forget his pep talks on the eve of the big game with Vermillion, his pride in having once 'beat Vermillion,' and his firm conviction that we 'can do it again!'

Dr. Stephens came to Morningside in 1906, and for more than 40 years has been a distinguished member of the faculty. His scholarship and his attainments in the field of biology have been definite assets to the college. Dr. Stephens has brought prestige to the college by being nationally

Attend 25th Reunion

recognized as an authority on the birds of America. In his department he has developed such men as Dr. Ira Gabrielson, an illustrious member of that illustrious class of 1912.

"Professor Kanthlener has been with the college for many years, having come in 1900 from Harvard, where he had received his master's degree. He has brought to the college the culture obtained from travel and study in Spain and France, and more recently in Mexico.

"Although few of us had the courage to tackle Greek, and Spanish was not taught in 1912, Professor Kanthlener was a familiar figure to us all, and won our high respect by his dignity and scholarship.

"Professor Coss came to Morningside in our senior year. Although we did not then have the opportunity to become so well acquainted with him, during the past years we have watched his career with interest and pride. As professor of chemistry he has developed some of the outstanding chemists of the day. Among them, I mention, modestly, Ray Hess and Roscoe Carter, both members of the class of 1912.

"Although Miss Woodford is with her own class of 1907 today, we have not forgotten her. For almost 40 years she has been a prominent figure in the musical circles of the city. Her music has been an inspiration, not only to the students, but to the people of this community.

"I invite you all to join in honoring these, our friends and former teachers."

Present at the reunion of 1912 were Edna Rieke Rawson of Menville, Carl Smith of Omaha, Helen Olmstead McWilliams, Maude Gillin Beam, Georgia Chandler, Helen McDonald Harper, Hazel Mahood and Parnell Mahoney, all of Sioux City.

Letters were read from Madge Gillin Kennedy of Waukegan, Ill.; E. E. Bovee, National City, Calif.; Ethel Shannon, Fort Dodge; Clara Crummer Johnson, Pochontas; Gladys Tuttle Arp, Phoenix, Ariz.;

W. D. Farnham, Payette, Idaho; G. E. Wickens of Chicago, and Ray Hess of Buffalo, N. Y.

Class of '22

Nine members of the class of 1922 were at the luncheon on May 31 to exclaim, "Why, you haven't changed a bit" (in 25 years). No annual was at hand to disprove it. But reminiscent of the past and also an evidence of change was the appearance of one of our members in uniform. In the fall of 1918, the male members of our freshman class were in the uniforms of S. A. T. C. and living in the building where the luncheon was held. This time, the one who came from the greatest distance for our reunion wore the uniform of another war, Lt. Golda Kane Moser of the Waves, who came from San Diego, Calif. Elmer Rankin and Mrs. Rankin (Marion Arnold, ex '24) drove in from Manson, where he is farming but planning to leave the farm this summer to sell hybrid corn, a product unknown to 1918 farmers. Gladys Bradley McBurney and John ('21) came in from Webster City, where he is head of the schools and Junior College. Agnetta Flom Kelly and her husband came from Grinnell, Ia., and Eva Shelton Smith and Mr. Smith from Milford, Ia. Arthur Schuldt, district superintendent of the Storm Lake district of the Methodist Church, had to be given up to the head table during the luncheon since he was to be granted a D. D. degree on Monday. Don Nissen left his duties at the Morningside State Bank long enough to come and chat a few minutes, though he was unable to stay for the luncheon. Nona Moss, home from teaching in Fort Dodge, and Ruth Wedgwood, teaching at Central in Sioux City, completed the group.

There was much visiting before and after the luncheon and all enjoyed having at the '22 table during the luncheon Dr. M. E. Graber, well remembered by most of the class, Mrs. Evelyn Balkema Trotman, '21, and Ernest Raun, '23. Some who had a little time to spare took a ride around old haunts at the monument and South Ravine.

Several very interesting letters of greeting were received from class members. Esther Walters Bashaw wrote from Ovid, Colo., where "Bush" has been school superintendent for some 20 years and where she has been teaching the last few years to help in the teacher shortage. She mentioned that Maude Blackstone, ex '24, had been teaching there the last two years. A very interesting letter from Blanche Smith Wilson in Wauwatosa, Wis., told of her activities and of her son, who is making a name for himself by having articles published in Colliers, Pic, National Geographic and other magazines. Joyce Ingvaldstad Wilhelm wrote from Chicago that she was quite seriously injured in a train wreck early last winter and still recuperating from the broken bones and other injuries Dorothy Skewis sent greetings from Detroit, where she is head of the art department in Cass Technical high school., Margaret Held Baker told of her work as pastor's wife in Harcourt, Ia., and sent a generous gift for the Alumni Living Endowment Fund. More class members should "go and do likewise." Cordial greetings were also received from Leon Hickman in Pittsburgh (Leon had attended a college trustees' meeting earlier in the spring), from James Van Peursem in the music department of Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College at Richmond, Ky., and from Robert Williams, pastor of the Asbury Methodist Church in Washington, D. C.

Those present found it a most enjoyable occasion and look forward to a bigger and better reunion in 1952.

Prof. Reistrup's New Composition Is Published in East

"Sunday Morning," composition for piano, by James Reistrup, has been published by The Composers Press, Inc., New York. The piece, illustrated with a gay 90s cover page in silhouette, is a direct presentation of a churchgoing theme, introduced by chiming chords, which, in pianissimo recession, mark the finale.

Mr. Reistrup left this week for Madison, where he is to be guest teacher on the faculty of the University of Wisconsin this summer for an eight-week session.

"Sunday Morning," which arrived in published form before his departure, had been played last month in New York on a program of piano teaching material. Clara Novich, composer and pianist, played Mr. Reistrup's piece.

Awarded Alumni Scholarships

The three June graduates of Sioux City high schools to receive alumni scholarships are (left to right): Nancy Asmussen of Leeds, Richard Asmus of East, and Margie Marksbury of Central. These scholarships are sponsored by the Alumni Association in recognition of outstanding seniors in Sioux City high schools.

The selection of the graduate to receive the award was made by the faculty of each school on the basis of citizenship and probable success as well as scholarship, and was presented at the high school commencement program. The scholarships, funds for which are provided by Living Endowment and other alumni contributions, pay $100 tuition a year for a four-year period.

CLASS NOTES

Harold Crain, '35, received his Ph. D. in speech with a minor in English at the University of Iowa on June 7, 1947. Harold has been teaching full time there for two years in the new course in communication skills which combines the new English and speech. He is the author of a new diagnostic test in English which will be used for entrance at Iowa this fall.

Mrs. Marc L. Severe (Daveda Mills, ex '12) of San Paulo, Brazil, arrived in the city by plane to visit her mother, Mrs. Phoebe Mills. She will remain for an indefinite stay. Mr. Severe, ex '12, is United States consul at San Paulo.

Naomi Erckmann, a graduate of Morningside College in 1937 and the State University in Iowa, takes the place of Isabel Davis as secretary-office manager for the State University of Iowa college of education. Naomi has her master's degree in commerce and commercial education, and has been head of the commercial department and girls' adviser at Spencer for the past four and one-half years. She has worked during the summers as a secretary in the Board of Trades building, Chicago, and also participated in the AIB training of government stenographers for Wright Field during the war.

Capt. H. Leverett Jacobi, ex '40, marine corps, was the official announcer of navy participation in the Philadelphia world air show, May 30 and 31 and June 1. Capt. Jacobi identified naval airplanes.

Ralph K. Brakke, '39, has been appointed accounting instructor in the college of business administration at Marquette University, Milwaukee, Wis. He is continuing work towards a C. P. A. while teaching.

Mark McLarnan, '31, head coach at Central high school, has been appointed assistant county extension agent for the summer months by Paul Sadler, president of the Woodbury County Farm Bureau.

A young Sioux City musician, William J. Easley, '47, has been selected to be summer organist and choir director of the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer at Pittsburgh, Pa., one of the largest churches in that city. Mr. Easley has been organist at St. Thomas' Episcopal Church here the past year, and also chapel organist at Morningside. After his summer duties at Pittsburgh, Bill will attend the American Conservatory at Chicago, where he will work for a master's degree.

Rev. Cecil Derivan, '23, minister of religious education at Central Presbyterian Church, Montclair, N. J., has been elected president of the Ministerial Association of Montclair and vicinity. Rev. Mr. Derivan has been associated with the Montclair church since 1941, except for a period during the war in which he served as an army chaplain. Previously Rev. Mr. Derivan had been director of religious education and assistant pastor of the West Side Presbyterian Church, Ridgewood, N. J., for 18 years, and for one year New England director of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

New President of Hockaday

Mr. Hobart F. Mossman became president of Hockaday School for Girls, at Dallas, Tex., Nov. 5, 1946, upon the retirement of Miss Ela Hockaday, who had served as president for 33 years. The Alumni Magazine of Hockaday College commented as follows on Mr. Mossman's election:

Hobart F. Mossman

Mr. Mossman, the new president elected by the board of trustees, has been serving as director of the Hockaday School since July, 1945. During the past year and a half, he and Miss Hockaday have worked together closely in planning and carrying out the program of the school. A graduate of Morningside College in 1931, and of Northwestern University, with graduate study toward his doctorate at Columbia and the University of Chicago. Mr. Mossman came to Hockaday from the principalship of the high school at Hinsdale, Ill., one of Chicago's loveliest suburbs. His educational philosophy is closely akin to that which has resulted in Hockaday's past achievements—that of providing educational advantages and experiences which will make each student a well balanced individual. The staff of the school has come to recognize in Mr. Mossman's leadership the confidence in the future that is so much a part of charting the school's program and policy. His easy friendliness, his democratic attitude, his complete fairness are in daily evidence as he works with staff members.

Maroon Award Winners

Winners of athletic scholarships at Morningside College are Bill Collopy and Connie Callahan. Collopy, baseball shortstop, football fullback and "B" basketball forward, received the award originally given Fred Warner of Onawa a year ago but relinquished when Warner did not return to school, while Callahan, all-North Central Conference football halfback and baseball outfielder, received the Bob Feller scholarship, annually awarded the outstanding freshman athlete.

DEATHS

Edwin B. Flynn

The Morningsider is indebted to Rev. John H. Engle, '14, for the following account of the death of Mr. Flynn:

Mr. Edwin B. Flynn, ex '23, passed away at his home in Hollywood on May 24, 1947. Memorial services were held in the First Methodist Church of Hollywood with Dr. Glenn Philips and Rev. John H. Engle, '14, officiating.

Mr. Flynn leaves his wife, Florence Fair Flynn, ex '21, and two daughters, Virginia and Lois.

Mr. Flynn was a graduate pharmacist from the University of Southern California and had been employed in Hollywood in that capacity for the past 20 years.

He had two great hobbies, one of which was raising begonias. He took first prize at the Annual Begonia show this year, and at the time of his passing was president of the Begonia Association. The other hobby was as a lapidarist. A few months before he passed away he thrilled the high school departments of the Crescent Heights Methodist Church and of the First Church of Hollywood with his lecture and beautiful specimens of rocks which he had gathered through the years.

Mrs. B. M. Miller

Funeral services for Mrs. B. M. Miller, a Morningside resident since 1897 who died at her home, 4306 Orleans avenue, June 8, were held Tuesday, June 10, at Grace Methodist church. Although Mrs. Miller had been an invalid for years, her many friends and callers marveled at her patience and never failing cheerfulness as well as her continued interest in church and public affairs. She was the mother of Mrs. A. R. Toothaker (Narcissa Miller, '04).

Mrs. Helen J. Smith

Mrs. Helen J. Smith, Morningside College librarian from 1928 to 1938, died May 25 at her home on Orleans avenue after a long illness. Funeral services were held on Wednesday, May 28, at Grace Methodist Church, with Rev. John Buthman officiating. She is survived by her husband, Mr. C. H. Smith, two sisters and two brothers.

A College Reunion Was "Held"

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Held of Hinton and members of their family are pictured as they attended the dinner following commencement exercises. Families from which five or more members have attended the school were honored guests. Sixteen members of the Held family attended the college. Ten of them appear in the accompanying picture. Left to right they are: Seated—Hazel Held, Lois Held, Mrs. Richard Burr (Carol Held), Mrs. Maurice Talmadge (Emma Held), Mr. Talmadge, and Darlene Held; standing—Mrs. Robert Held (Charlotte Kingsbury), Robert Held, Mr. and Mrs. Held. Those not present at the reunion were: Mrs. Leroy Jensen (Joyce Held), Sgt. Warren Held, Howard Held, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hasek (Roberta Held), and Richard Burr.

Class of '27

The class of 1927 held a very successful 20th anniversary reunion on Alumni Day, May 31st, when class members from far and near gathered for luncheon at the College Barn. Invitations were mailed by Zoe Kellogg Kuhler, class chairman, to all whose names appeared on the class list as compiled in the Alumni Office, and the response was considered most gratifying.

Twenty-one persons made reservations for the reunion. Among those present from out of the city were: County Superintendent of Schools Ada Gehring, Howard, S. D.; Juliet Johnson Gamble, Missouri Valley, Ia.; Helen Huff Hemphill, Atlantic, Ia.; Alice Moir Deegan, Orange City, Ia.; Clara Anna Reid Shepherd, LeMars, Ia.; Leland (Tuck) Wicklund, Dakota City, Neb.; Don Lillard and Mrs. Don Lillard, Winterset, Ia.; Claire Milne Britton, Dubuque, Ia., and Grace Hedenbergh Peterson, '26, Chicago, Ill.

Letters or cards brought messages from Margaret Schamp Johnson, Lincoln, Neb.; Lois Jack Swanson, Los Angeles, Calif.; Kenneth Rowley, Spencer, Ia.; Melba Reifsteck Bender, Portland, Ore.; Robert Snyder, Iowa City, Ia.; Margaret McCoy, Los Angeles, Calif.; Mildred Hartzell Lacoock, Mt. Vernon, Ia.; Mabel Swanson Scheible, Chicago, Ill.; W. E. (Red) Williams, Onawa, Ia.; Marinus Jensen, Muscatine, Ia.; C. W. (Chuck) Bach, Minneapolis, Minn., and from Mrs. R. S. Crosbie, mother of Howard L. Crosbie. She informed us that Howard's present address is Ward 26, Vanghan Hospital, Hines, Ill.

Among telegrams received was one from Joe Ott, Chappaqua, N. Y., who expressed disappointment about not being able to attend the reunion. In a reminiscent mood, Joe quoted one of former College President Mossman's favorite expressions. We wish to assure Joe that everyone quickly recognized and appreciated "his challenge to us as thinking men and women."

Donald Hartzell, who was recently made assistant director of home service for the Red Cross for the Pacific area, sent a telegram of news and best wishes for each and every one in the class.

The Sioux Cityans of class '27 who were present were: Eula Eberly Tucker, Alice Hall Dawson, Margaret Condron Whitford, Frank Henderson, Orpha Kudrle, Pearl McMullen, Margaret Anderson Sheldon, Janet Wegerslev Anthony, Ruth Gilbert Burnette, and Zoe Kellogg Kuhler.

A wonderful spirit of good fellowship prevailed at the long table decorated with the maroon and white colors. Flowers, candles, nut cups, place cards and napkins, each of the latter with a prominent maroon '27 attached, carried out the theme of the reunion. Upstairs in the Student Union, we had a fine opportunity to visit with each other and to browse through the College Annuals of two decades ago.

At the conclusion of our meeting, we sent telegrams of greeting to Mrs. Frank Mossman, Winfield, Kan., and to Mr. Howard Crosbie, Hines, Ill.

Make plans now to attend the 25th reunion in 1952. Don't forget!

... M ... Class of '42

This was the first reunion of the class of '42. Fifteen alums of the class had lunch together and brought each other up to date on the happenings of the past five years. It was all too good for any class member to have missed. Remember that, you absentees, and make a promise to yourself not to miss the 1952 reunion.

Those present were Doris Hall Kadlub, Whiting, Ia.; Betty Hoefler Knoll, Humboldt, Ia.; Joe Lease, Rolfe, Ia.; Phyllis Baker Nance, Bayard, Ia.; Jean Jones Butler, Charter Oak, Ia.; John S. Kolp, Manson, Ia.; Alice Spalding, Marian Stickels Van Der Maten, Robert Lowry, Theresa Ramse, Ardis Hall Angstrom, Byron D. Walter, Lauretta King Brooks, Dorothy Luchsinger Pearson, James H. Bolton, Dorothy Jones Wright, all of Sioux City.

Attending the 1917 reunion were Minnie Fry McBride, chairman, Mildred Chesbro Brown, Dr. Ray J. Harrington, Anna Anderson Hayes, Manhattan, Kans., Noel J. Williams, Milford, Ia., and Bessie Reed Walton, '21, proxy for her husband, Rev. Donald Walton, New York City.

Greetings were received from Clara

Loveland Home a Gift to College

Before Miss Helen Loveland's death she gave her library and deeded her home on Peters avenue to Morningside College. Thus her life and her property were given to the college she loved.

The house is now being used as a dormitory for men with Mr. ('23) and Mrs. Harry Billiard supplying the home influence. The house was built along generous lines, with the upstairs planned for student needs, and the downstairs ample for Miss Helen and her sister, Miss Elizabeth, with dining room and parlors for the girls that shared this home. Many grateful girls testify to the joy and privilege of living in this atmosphere of Christian ideals coupled with good fellowship.

Some people give out of their abundance, and mankind is indeed blessed thereby, but when on the altar of humanity's need one places a life of service plus all one's material wealth, not only are the living helped but posterity is inspired by a great example.

Life at Morningside College will be enriched by the memory of this courageous woman, who touched the lives of her students with the beauty of literature and taught by example that a full life includes sacrifice and unselfishness.

Sioux Chiefs Display New Finery

Morningsiders who witnessed the initiation of the class of 1947 into the Tribe of the Sioux expressed their admiration of the beautiful new costumes worn by the Tribe leaders at the ceremony.

The Tribe of the Sioux is indebted to Squaws Evelyn Balkema Troutman and Margaret Coleman Cray for the time and effort they spent in planning and securing materials for the costumes and in finding an Indian woman at the Wall Street Mission to make them.

Chief of the Sioux Van Horne, War Eagle the Third, wears a beaded buckskin suit with an authentic woven yarn belt and beaded moccasins. His gorgeous headdress, made of real eagle feathers, was purchased from the Indians at Winnebago.

Costumes were made also for Medicine Man Great Healer Toothaker, Chief of the Records Little Finger Gwinn, Young Buck Far Horizon Mutchler, and Chief War Dancer Loep.

This official regalia has long been needed for induction ceremonies, and with proper care will last for many moons and see many bands join the happy tribe on the Banks of the Sioux.

But—Sioux Tribe need much wampum to pay for all new finery. If each brave and squaw can send in one "buck," then Tribe soon can be all out of debt. When squaws and braves return to pow-wows will be heap nroud then to see big chiefs all decked out in war paint and fine feathers.

To Sponsor Publications Project

The Alumni Office is very happy to announce that we have made arrangements to furnish Morningsiders with a much needed service. Beginning at once we will be able to take ALL of your magazine subscriptions—both new and renewal—at exactly the same prices you would pay the publisher if you ordered direct. That includes every subscription you now order direct or buy on the news stand.

This service will enable you to send all your subscriptions to one reliable place—with one check to cover all.

Your alumni office will make the standard agency commissions and this will furnish extra funds much needed for the association.

About September 1 we will mail you a booklet listing ALL the popular magazines, but in the meantime send us any you wish to order or renew. If you do not know the price, we will advise you by return mail.

Send us EVERYTHING—LIFE, TIME, NEW YORK TIMES, GOOD HOUSEKEEPING, etc., and EVEN the POTATO WORLD and SOYBEAN JOURNAL, etc.

Alumni Day

Graduates and other former students gathered on the campus Saturday, May 31, for the activities of Alumni Day. The day began with class reunion breakfasts. Classes holding reunions this year were '02, '07, '12, '17, '22, '27, '32, '37 and '42. The class of '12 held its reunion breakfast at the home of Hazel Siman Mahood, 4100 Orleans avenue. The luncheon for members of all the reuniting classes was held at noon in the Student Union building, with Mrs. Harry Chandler (Georgia Wiseman, '12) presiding. The principal speaker at the luncheon was Dr. Fred J. Seaver, director of the Botanical Gardens of New York City and a member of the class of '02. Also present from the class of '02 were Ross P. Brown of Sioux City and Guy G. Frary and Mrs. Frary of Vermillion, S. D.

Chairmen for the class reunions were: Miss Faith Woodford, '07; Helen Olmstead McWilliams, '12; Minnie Fry McBride, '17; Miss Ruth Wedgwood, '22; Zoe Kellogg Kuhler, '27; Roberta Finney Grimm, '32; Ethel Coomer Bolton, '37; Dorothy Jones Wright, '42. Alice Hall Dawson, '27, was in charge of decorations.

Afternoon activities included the initiation of qualified seniors into Zeta Sigma, national honorary scholarship society, and an address by Rev. Arthur F. Scholdt of Storm Lake, a graduate of '22, following the initiation. The seniors who received this recognition are: Emilio Arredondo, Elbert Bales, Constance Havighurst, Clarice Lane, Harold Minor, Carolyn Sernstrom Mutchler, Katherine Roadman, Fred Roehrs, Donna Severson, Kathryn Smith and Carolyn Wolle.

The annual spring alumni dinner at 6:30 p. m. at the Women's Residence Hall, was attended by 235 Morningsiders and faculty members. Mrs. Merrill Burnette (Ruth Gilbert, ex '27) was general chairman, assisted by Mrs. Louis Croston (Hazel Surber, '29) and Mrs. Leslie Davis (Leota Bergeson, '24). Presiding at the dinner was Evelyn Balkema Troutman, '21, president of the Alumni Association. Adm. Thomas C. Anderson, '08, a member of the staff of Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz during World War II and now in charge of the naval hospital at Bethesda, Md., addressed the alumni following the dinner. Stressing the importance of the development of spiritual life to go hand in hand with strong economic and military powers, Adm. Anderson said, "If we have an emphasis on the spiritual side of our national life we can be more certain that our economic and military powers will be used correctly. World peace can be brought about only if the United States continues to take the lead in world co-operation."

The admiral recalled that during his student days, more than 35 years ago, finances had been a problem at Morningside. "However," he concluded, "we had faith that the college would live and grow. I am proud that our faith has been so well justified."

Graduating seniors were initiated into the Tribe of the Sioux at colorful ceremonies following the dinner. Ray Toothaker, '03; Prof. Robert N. Van Horne, '00; Ira J. Gwinn, '22, and Norman Mutchler, president of the class of '47, took part in the ceremonies, wearing authentic Sioux Indian costumes, used for the first time this year. David Loep, '11, performed the tribal dance and Emery Stewart, '47, sang.

Here's What Your Money Has Done

As alumni of Morningside College, you'll be interested in this report of what 1946 contributions to the Living Endowment Fund accomplished.

- They provided five Alumni Scholarships.
- Purchased equipment for the new Science Hall.
- Permitted an increase in Faculty salaries.
- Contributed to office staff salaries.
- Purchased books for the Library.

As a Morningside graduate, YOU can contribute to the welfare of your College through the Morningside Living Endowment Fund. Select a Bond of any denomination. Then pay only the interest. A $1,000 Bond, for example, would require you to pay only the interest of 5 per cent—or $50 a year.

Take an interest in your College through your interest in the MORNINGSIDE LIVING ENDOWMENT.
