Foreword

Not for literary splendor,
Not for mere artistic beauty,
Not for honor nor for glory
Have we written down this tale.

But to tell you of our college,
Her environment and beauty,
Her traditions and her legends;
And to tell you of the student,
His activities and habits,
Of his victories in battle,
Of his longings and ambitions
Have we written down this tale.

If it adds aught to her glory,
If it makes your love more loyal,
If, in years that are to follow
It shall call up to your memory
Scenes of battle, hours of labor,
Pleasures, honors, tasks well-done
In the mighty Big Sioux College
In the Big Sioux River Country,
Then our labor is not useless,
All our work is not in vain.

With this thought before you always
We submit to you this legend,
This, your annual and our class book,
And extend to you this greeting
Of the 19-18 class.

To

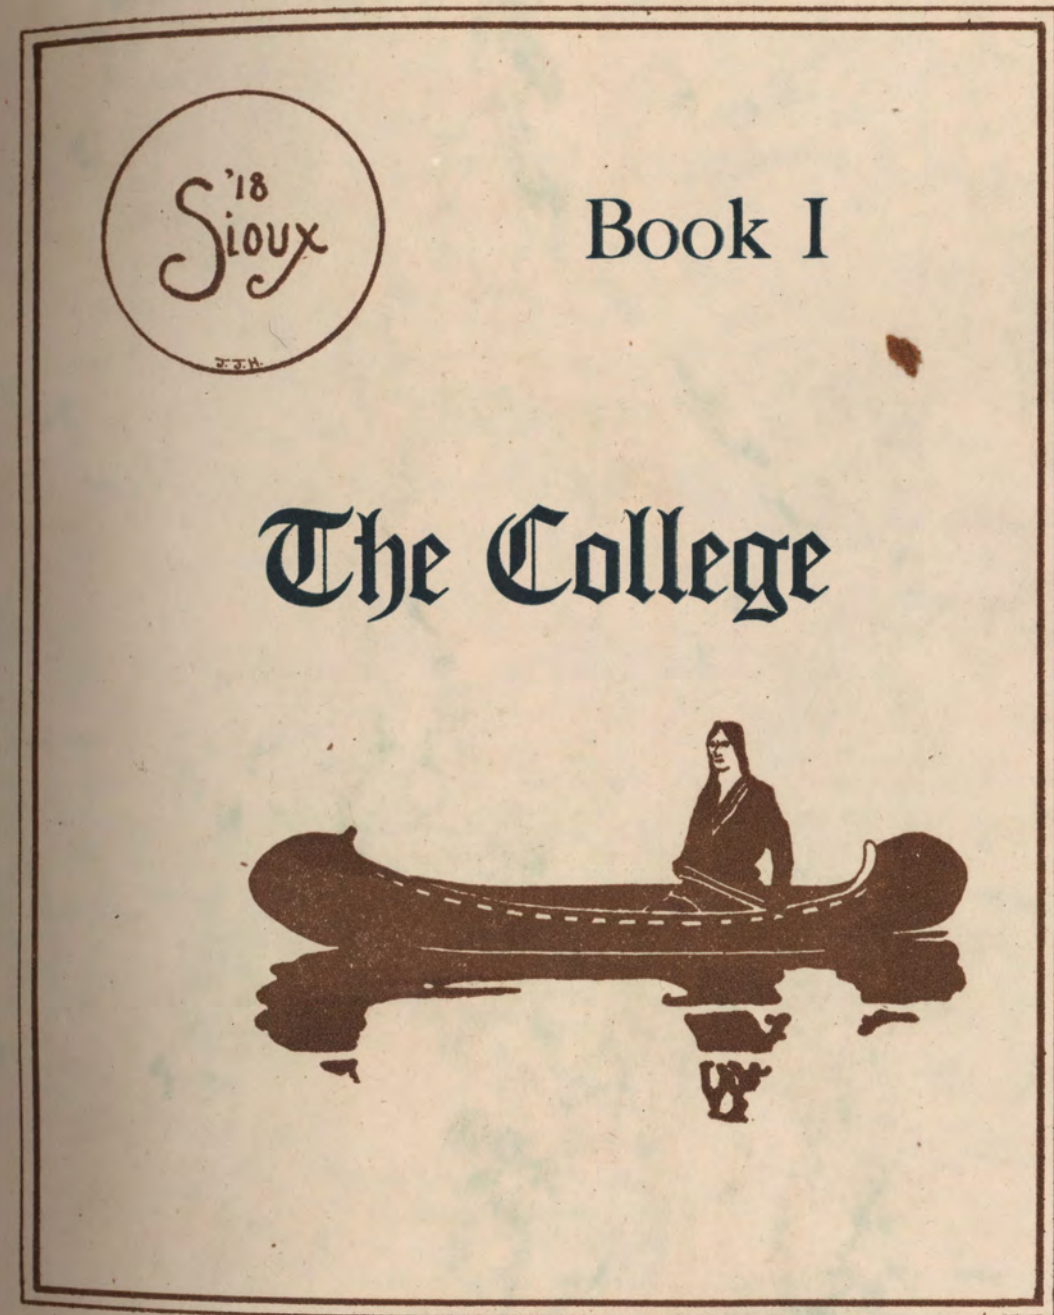

Robert Regley VanHorne

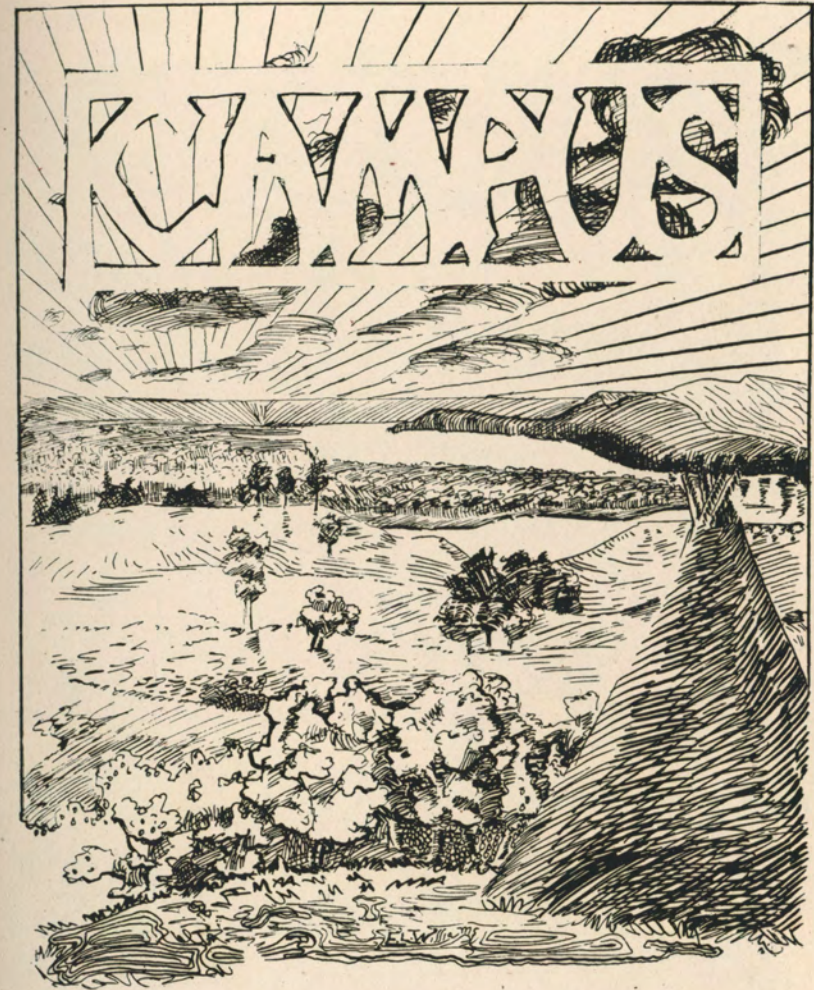

Who has won our love and esteem as a professor and as a man; and who has poured out the best part of his life at the feet of his Alma Mater, Morningside College, we, the Class of 1918, respectfully dedicate this Sioux.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

We wish to acknowledge and express our appreciation to Ewart Williams '17, for the Cartoons; to Lynn Castle '19, for the Decorative Emblems on the society pages; to Horace Morgan '14, for the Order of Books Design; and to Professor James J. Hayes, for the Insert Design and Ex Libris, found in this book.

*Sing the song of Hiawatha,
Of the happy days that followed :
In the Big Sioux River country,
In the pleasant land and peaceful,
On the muskody, the meadow,
On the prairie full of blossoms.*

Alma Mater

PAUL MACCOLLIN

- I Sing the praises of Dear Alma Mater,
Tell of her heroes bold,
Lift high your voices,
The chorus swelling,
All her glories now unfold.

Refrain Then cheer for Dear Old Morningside,
To thee we pledge anew,
Hearts of faithful love,
Now and forever,
Thy loyal sons and true.

- II We love thy halls of learning,
And where'er we roam
We'll cherish the friendship
Which thou hast brought us—
Fair Morningside! Our home!

- III Hear our vow, O Alma Mater,
Ever to honor thee.
All we have
In grateful remembrance bringing,
For the Glory of Old M. C.

WINNING POEM OF THE CONTEST
"The Genesis of Morningside Spirit"

J. FINLEY CHRIST, '18

On a bare and wind-swept hill-top,
 Sloping gently to the southward,
 Looking toward the broad Missouri—
 Toward the swirling Muddy Water—
 Stood a prophet with a vision,
 With a vision of the future,
 With a dream of mighty compass,
 Dreaming of what he would build there—
 On the hill that looks to southward,
 Toward the swirling Muddy Water.
 * * * * *

Comes to Morningside a freshman
 In his hungry search for learning;
 With his burning thirst for knowledge;
 With his bounding youthful spirit;
 With his crude and noisy manner;
 And his heart of sterling metal,
 Though it has not yet been tested.

Little recks the bounding freshman—
 Little recks he, aye, or wonders—
 Of the prophet and his vision;
 Of the portrait in the chapel;
 Or of those who followed after—
 Those who strengthened the foundation;
 Those who toiled, and fought, and struggled
 For the college on the hill-top;
 For the freshman, that his hunger
 After truth should not consume him;
 And he marvels at the spirit—
 At the loyal, boosting spirit—
 Which the numbers gone before him
 (Though their names have been forgotten)
 Have bequeathed to those who follow.

'Tis with awe he views the battle
 With the warriors of Vermilion—
 With the tribes of South Dakota—
 From beyond the Muddy Water.
 With astonishment he ponders—
 'Tis beyond his comprehension—

ALUMNI GYMNASIUM

When he sees us still unconquered
Though the score should stand against us;
When he sees we still are loyal
To our teams and to our Sandy—
Whether winning, tied, or losing;
'Tis in vain he tries to solve it
And appreciates it fully:
For he still is but a freshman,
And he cannot comprehend it.

But in five or six semesters—
After years and years of struggle—
After years of living with IT—
After years of lusty battle,
And of patient, silent fighting,
On the field or in the class-room—
He begins to understand it,
And to have that spirit in him.

Many times he's been defeated;
Many times has hope been shattered;
Many victories have escaped him
As his hand stretched forth to grasp them.
But with each defeat he suffered
He has taken one step onward;
And at last he is a senior,
With his proud and knowing manner;
Oh, SO different from the freshman,
That but yesterday he had been.

And among the many things that
Make him different from the freshman,
Is the conscious, living knowledge
That he comprehends the spirit
Of this college, and its meaning
To the world that moves about us.
For the greatest thing this college
Gives to those that go out from it
('Tis a thing to keep us fighting
In the battles still before us)
Is the spirit of its founder—
Is the spirit of the vision
Of the prophet on the hill-top

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC

Who could see the shining future
And could carve a way out to it:
Change a footpath to a roadway,
And a wigwam to a mansion.

Neither time, nor man, nor devil
Such a spirit e'er can conquer;
For as long as rolling prairie
Forms the banks of Old Missouri,
Or as long as Muddy Water
Flows on swiftly to the ocean,
Morningside shall live and prosper
On the hill-top, looking southward
Toward the swirling Muddy Water;
Shall send forth her sons and daughters
With her dauntless, fearless spirit,
That was never known to falter,
And that never can be conquered.

Morningside

AGNETTE FLOM '20

In the outskirts of Sioux City
On the river's winding shore,
Far upon a hill-top pretty
Stands our college, as of yore.

And its halls are wide and spacious,
Plenty room for fun and care,
But the spirit of the college
With its size cannot compare.

You may talk about your "pep"
And your "vim" and "go" and so,
And think your "spizerinctum"
Is the best that you can know.

But if once you feel the spirit
Of our collge here so dear,
You will then forget all others
And with us abide quite near.

THE COLLEGE CHURCH
Grace Methodist Episcopal Church

We have joys and we have sorrows
As in other lands and schools,
But we still cling to each other
For we've "Friendship" for our rule.

You should hear us all on Thursday,
When our pep meetings are on,
You would sure then wish to join us
And partake of college fun.

We are here too for a purpose,
'Tis to learn, to live and do
And if you would test our motive
Let us come and help you too.

So to Morningside we're loyal
Yes, loyal, staunch and true,
'Til upon the dear old campus
Our four years or more are through.

Then we'll boost, boost, boost
For the college in the west,
For Morningside, yes, Morningside,
The fairest and the best.

Then all join in the "Yip-ki-yi"
For Morningside, Maroon,
And then the nine and fifteen rahs,
While the band strikes up a tune.

A Toast to the Morningside Squaw

J. R. KOLP '17

In days that long ago were gone,
In times when tribes were few,
There lived a band of Indian braves.
On shores of the Big Sioux.

On shores of the Big Sioux they lived,
Right near the old Mizzou,
Their camp was on a hill-top green,
Their squaws were worthy too.

THE PRESIDENT'S HOME

Not few the wars that they did have
 With tribes from neighboring lands;
 Nor few the scalps that home they brought,
 Those scalps of hostile bands.

'Tis not for me to tell of how
 This tribe has fought and won;
 But mine to tell of just their squaws,
 Their squaws that held them one.

When shades were softly drawn,
 The God of Light sunk low,
 The braves came up the hill to camp
 From hunts they'd had below.

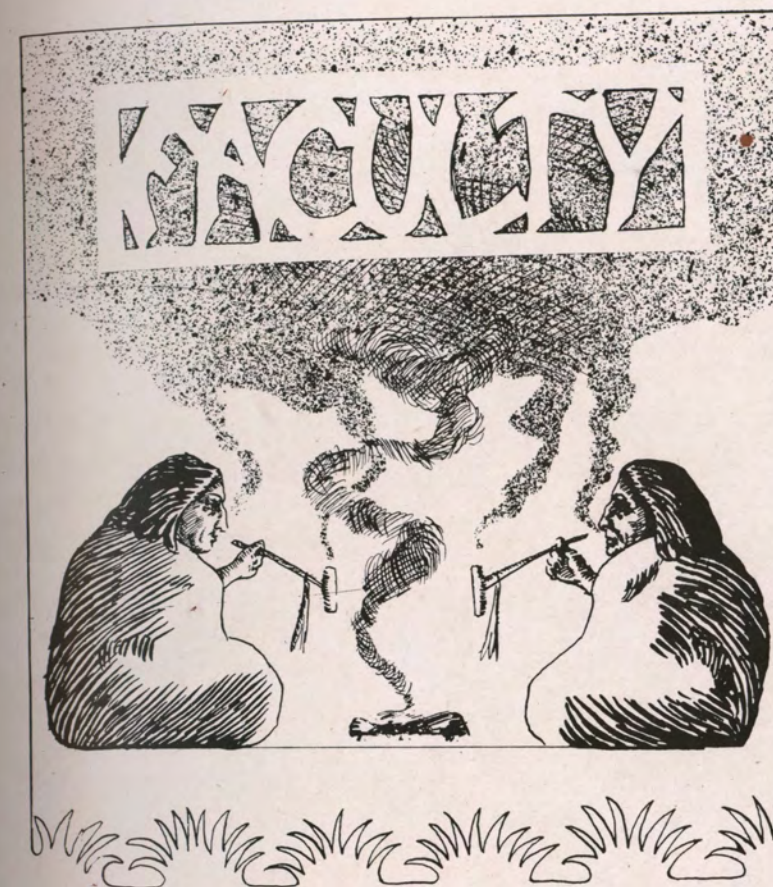

They gathered on the river's bank
 To watch the setting sun;
 While shadows lengthened through the trees
 Their camp-fires were begun.

The fires they lighted in the woods
 Come back to us again;
 They now are fires of knowledge
 That glow in hearts of men.

At first the squaws came not to school,
 They in their homes did hide,
 But soon it was a co-ed school,
 Its name was Morningside.

The squaws now hold the braves in check
 And point to things above
 And teach them how to love to live
 And living is to love.

To them, who have inspired through strife;
 To them we hold in awe;
 To them who give ideals of life;
 Here's to the Morningside Squaw.

*All the wisdom of the Medas,
 All the craft of the Wabenos,
 All the marvelous dreams and visions
 Of the Jossakeeds, the Prophets.*

"No, what?"
"Why the Junior class, of course."

*Patently sat Hiawatha,
Listening to his father's boasting;
With a smile he sat and listened,
Uttered neither threat nor menace.*

CLASS PRESIDENT

CHARLES FRY

Sioux City

"Chick" is our jolly class president. No one can have the blues when he is around. He is ever ready for a good time and his policy is not to let his studies interfere with his college education. He plays the mandolin and is taking expression, but everyone knows his failing for "reeds." No doubt we shall hear more from "Chick" later on, for he's always springing something.

VICE-PRESIDENT

EARL G. STONEBROOK

Sac City

A quiet, industrious worker whose heart is bigger than his words. He takes an interest in all phases of college life, particularly in "fussing." He is an energetic spirit, a sturdy progressive type of manhood, and his influence is clean and wholesome. He possesses the zeal of an enthusiast who strives after some end, and yet stops along the way to lend a hand to those in need.

SECRETARY-TREASURER

VIVIAN DOWN

Odebolt

Viv is Y. W. C. A. President. This fact alone speaks for the respect which all the girls have for her, and their faith in her ability. She is faithful to her friends, as well as to her Latin and German classes. She is an enthusiastic, tireless worker, an entertaining reader, a poetess, and a jolly good friend. Indeed we can truly say of Vivian. "To know her is to love her."

STUDENT COUNCIL REPRESENTATIVE

MARION HEIKES

Dakota City, Nebr.

"Heike" is one of our rare girls. She is a leader and takes much interest in the activities of college life. Notwithstanding that her thoughts are divided between Morningside and Illinois U, Marion finds time to do all that could be asked of any American College girl. She is dependable to the last degree, always does everything well, and enjoys everything that she does.

JULIA ANDERSON

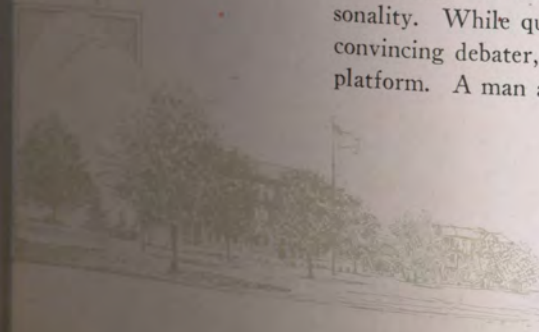

Sioux City

Julia is quiet, faithful, and unassuming. She goes her way silently, and it is only when we come to know her well that we realize and appreciate her true merit. The class of '17 made a mistake by trying to claim her last year, for she has been in our ranks since we started. She is always busy and as a reward she gets grades that anyone might well desire.

IRVING BACK

Sioux City

It is with just pride that we claim this man as a member of our class. He is a fellow whom we all admire for his manly qualities, his open-mindedness, his unselfishness, his big-heartedness, and his genial personality. While quiet and very modest, he is nevertheless a fluent and convincing debater, and has represented his college ably on the forensic platform. A man among men.

G. EARL BARKS

Sioux City

A loyal supporter of every activity which exists in the college. He is a member of the famous Kennel Klub. He loves his society and has been a good "Barks" on the debate platform. Although kept busy as editor of the annual, he finds time to enjoy a good joke, especially on the other fellow, and has a smile that we will all remember.

STANLEY BASHAW

Correctionville

"Bush" is a minister's son. He is always pleasant, although of a somewhat retiring nature. He did all his stepping while a freshman. In him we see a most rugged and tireless specimen of physical manhood. He plays forward in basketball, end in football, and is a handy man in baseball. He is sometimes found in the physics laboratory.

ORIN W. BELL

Spencer

Orin is a quiet fellow, but beneath a modest exterior there exists a man of true gold. He is one of those fellows who is always ready to help another, no matter how deeply engrossed in his own work. Orin intends to enter Y. M. C. A. work when he has finished college, and, judging from his good record of the past, we know that he will be most successful in his chosen profession.

JOSEPH BOGARD

Sioux City

Stubborn? Yes. But a man with ideas of his own, and who has the ambition and courage to carry them out. His mind is never changed by an argument, yet he is as good-natured after a difference of opinion as before. There must be action every minute of the day to suit him. He probably has more "pressing" engagements than any other man in school.

WINIFRED BUSSEY

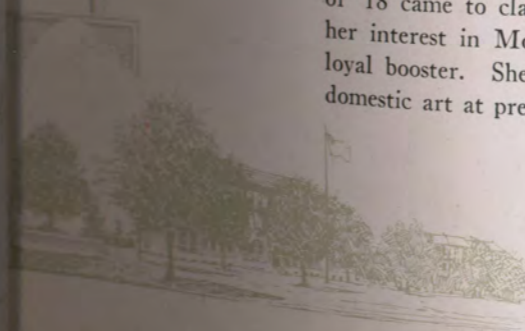

Sioux City

Although Winifred came to Morningside this year for the first time we have already come to realize in a measure her true worth. She is reserved and unassuming, but nevertheless very efficient. She is a girl of gentleness and refinement, and yet so large-minded and broad-hearted that she is admired by all who know her. Hers is the type of a noble and sincere friend.

IRENE A. CHAPIN

Springfield, S. D.

Irene knows more about Morningside than most of us do, having been connected with the academy and the Conservatory before the Class of '18 came to claim her. We were almost afraid that she had lost her interest in Morningside this year, but we find that she is still a loyal booster. She is an accomplished musician, but is specializing in domestic art at present.

J. FINLEY CHRIST

Sioux City

We were quite alarmed last year when the class of '17 claimed Jay Christ, but we have found that it was, after all, one of their mistakes. Here is a man who upholds our reputation for learning. He keeps up with the subjects of the day, and is most contented when the busiest. He is deliberate of speech and sound in judgment. There is surely a place among the first for him to fill.

MARTIN CLOUGH

Allen, Nebr.

"Marty" is a quiet, bashful youth from Nebraska. He is always willing to do his share of any work and let someone else have the glory. He does not let his books worry him much, but manages to pull good grades. He delights in bodily activity and is our baseball captain this spring. "Marty" is a good companion and a true friend.

FLOYD CONNER

Sioux City

Floyd spent two and one-half years with us, and now holds a responsible position in one of the Sioux City banks. We were obliged to look up to him from the very first. He played forward for his class two years in basketball and was a member of one championship team. He was a splendid mixer in social life and we miss him a great deal. We sincerely hope for his return next year.

MABEL C. DAY

Gilmore City

Mabel thinks and is not afraid to express her thoughts. In the midst of the excitement she remains cool and confident. She is a persevering student and has every reason to be proud of her grades. Here is one girl who does not think it necessary to make use of every "cut." One must know her well to appreciate what a splendid friend and comrade she really is.

MARIE EDGINGTON

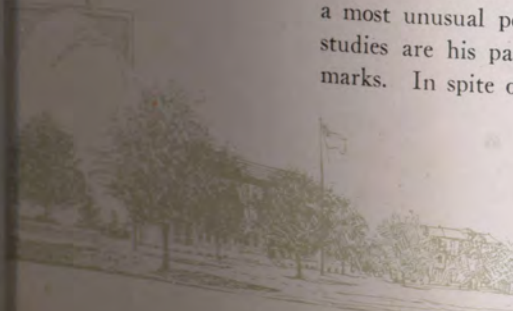

Gilmore City

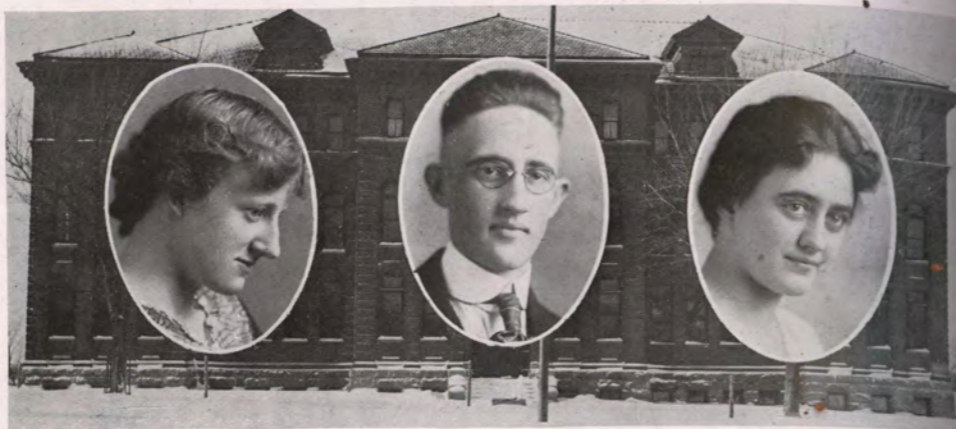

Marie rooms with "Katink" and boards at Sunshine Inn. Should it be necessary to say more? Jolly? Yes, indeed! She is the life of any gathering with her humor and jollity. She believes in a good time, even though it be at the expense of a lesson or two. It is such enthusiasm and life as Marie's, that make for true class and college spirit.

WILLIS FORBES

Sioux City

Perhaps one of the busiest men in school. Editor of the Collegian Reporter, and an orator and debater of recognized ability. He has a most unusual power of winning persons to his point of view. His studies are his pastimes, yet he is able to claim his share of enviable marks. In spite of all this, he still finds ample time to "fuss."

RUTH FOUKE

Sioux City

Ruth is a hustler. Whatever she attempts she starts with a will and usually finds the way. Hers is the vim and snap that make things go. The test of her ability is not so much what she does, but the way in which she does it. She is prominent in class and society affairs, and is an enthusiastic member of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet.

ARCHIE FREEMAN

Spencer

A mixture of music, gallantry, wit, enthusiasm, and energy. He plays the "slide" like few others can. Ask the Sunshine Innors if that's true. A member of the College Band and Orchestra. His manners are precise and his gallantry is unquestioned. He appears serious at all times, but those who know him realize that beneath that cold exterior is a vein of mischievous humor and frivolity.

MARGARET GOUDIE

Sioux City

Margaret takes music and incidentally classes junior. She has a rare gift of words and smiles; neither conversation nor enthusiasm can lag when Margaret is about. She allows nothing to interfere with her pleasure and may be found ready at any time for a jolly time. Don't be mistaken, however, for though preëminently mirthful, she can be real serious at times.

ED. J. HARRINGTON

Sioux City

Ed is an all-around good fellow and is full of the M. C. spirit that makes everything which he undertakes a success. He is a good student in the class room, likes to jump the hurdles on the cinder path, is a warbler in the glee club, and plays center for his class basketball team. To keep himself really busy he solicits ads for the Sioux '18.

CLEO HOLMES

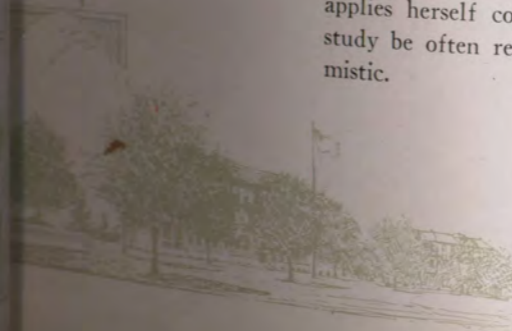

Sioux City

Cleo never admits that she has done anything so well that it might not have been done better. She is so totally without conceit, and yet we all know that what Cleo sets out to do is done well. In spite of her generous, gracious, considerate and even calm spirit, she is so resolute and determined that success is bound to be hers.

HILDA JACKSON

Sioux City

With honest pluck and determination she carries out her resolutions. Her spirit is invincible, and if at first unsuccessful, she tries until the purpose is achieved. She is here to get the most out of her work, and applies herself conscientiously to her work, though patient, plodding study be often required. Hilda is ever found good-natured and optimistic.

LEON J. JOHNSON

Linn Grove

"Jerry" is not a one talented individual, though we hear of him most often as connected with athletics. He is an athlete in every sense of the word. And whether it is on the gridiron, the basketball floor, or the diamond, he enjoys doing his share of the hard work. He is a popular captain and plays football with the spirit that wins. Known for his broad smile and cheery manner.

MARION JOHNSON

Storm Lake

Marion is a live wire and a good mixer. She is always brim full of enthusiasm. When asked to serve on a committee, she works with all of her real Morningside "pep." She has taken an active part in debate and possesses marked literary ability. Because of her capabilities and her love for real sport, Marion has won a host of friends.

ROYAL JURGENSEN

U. S. Army, Philippine Islands

"Jurgie" is full of life and vigor, and a hard worker. His bright ideas and capable hands were always in demand. As a result we miss him greatly. Though imaginative and idealistic, yet he is so practical that he wants to see results for all that he does. "Jurgie" feels at home anywhere.

FRANCIS R. KINGSBURY

Ponca, Nebr.

A rollicking good-natured rascal, chuck full of yarns, quips, quirks, and fancies. In this respect he is perhaps like all the other Kennel Klub Pups. "King" is not unusually fond of work, but is brilliant of mind and takes an active interest in debate. He is also much interested in the College Orchestra. He is kind of manner, a firm friend, and better still, an honorable foe.

CHARLES KLIPPEL

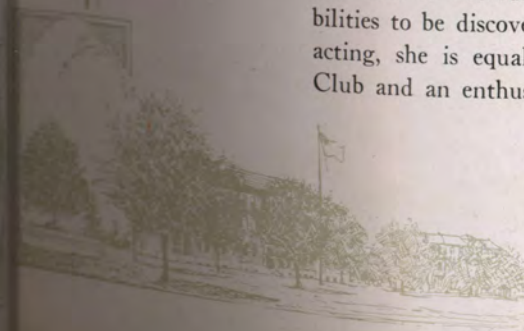

Britt

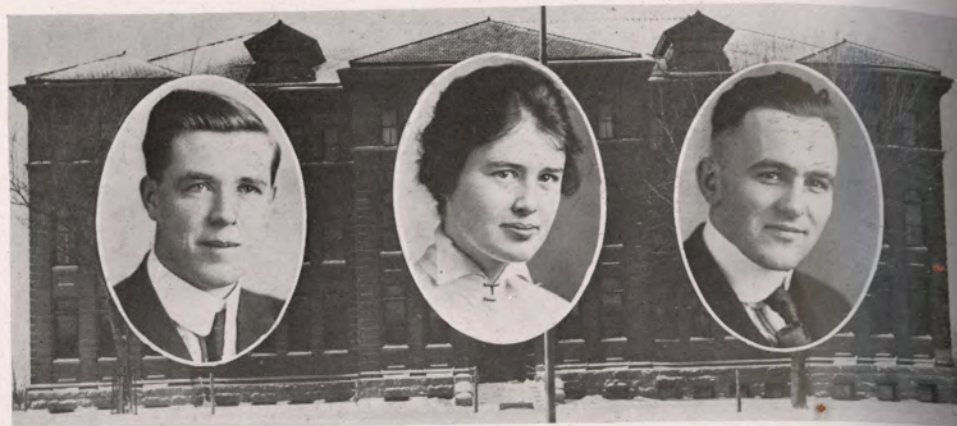

"Casey" is glad that he came to Morningside because he has received more from it than just his college course. He has brought honor to the school through his oratorical ability. He is loyal to his class and to his college, but more than this, he is sincere in his chosen life work, that of Christian service, and is Y. M. C. A. president for next year. "Casey" loves a good time and is capable of doing his share towards making it.

FRANCES KOLP

Jacksonville, Ill.

"Fran" came from Illinois to be one of the class of '18 at Morningside, and we're mighty proud of her. She has ideas all her own—good ones, too—and is exceedingly independent. Although she leaves her capabilities to be discovered, she has almost any one. Singing, playing and acting, she is equally charming. She is a member of the Madrigal Club and an enthusiastic basketball player.

HAROLD LANCASTER

Natland, England

Here is a man who puts forth untiring and consecrated effort to help his fellows. His profession is the Christian ministry. He has no time or desire for meaningless, wasteful, and selfish activities. He works consistently and cheerfully, rarely taking any relaxation. His greatest rest is found in doing more work. A man who comes to college for the sole purpose of development.

CLARA LEWIS

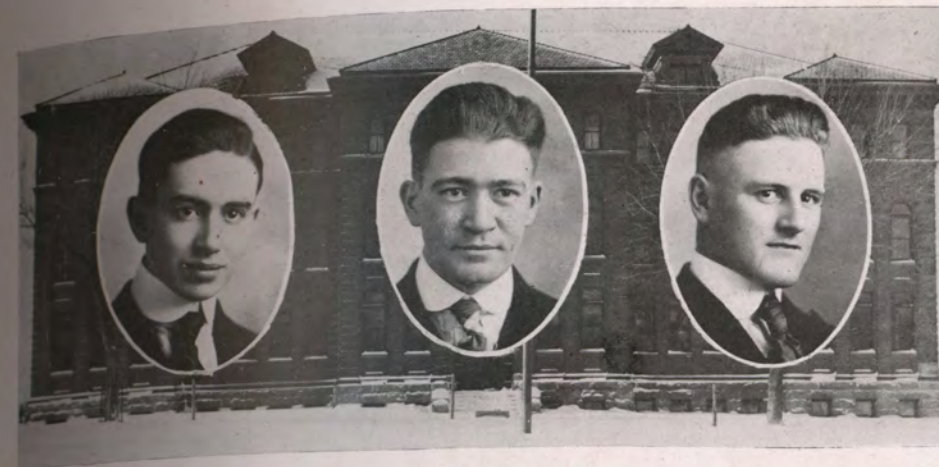

Sioux City

Clara returned to Morningside after spending a year in an eastern school. We respect her for her good judgment. Her genuine good nature makes her a good friend to everyone. Always in a gracious manner she does many little things that other folks overlook. She is an excellent student and has as much Morningside spirit as the rest of her family. We are proud to claim Clara as a member of our class.

THOS. K. LLOYD

Linn Grove

Tom has been unanimously elected to the handsome class. A good-natured fellow, and a well-rounded athlete who is also somewhat of a student. He plays outfield in baseball, guard in basketball and in the backfield in football. Most of his spare moments are spent around the chemistry laboratory, where he entertains his fellow workers with his melodious voice.

ARTHUR P. LOCKE

Ft. Dodge

Here is one of those persons who find time to do everything and do everything well. If not engaged in working deep problems in analytic chemistry or in calculus, he passes his spare time in fussing and in the lighter things of life. When Arthur becomes one of the foremost commercial chemists in the country, we will recall with greater conviction the old saying that "the boy is the father of the man."

ROBERT H. MCBRIDE

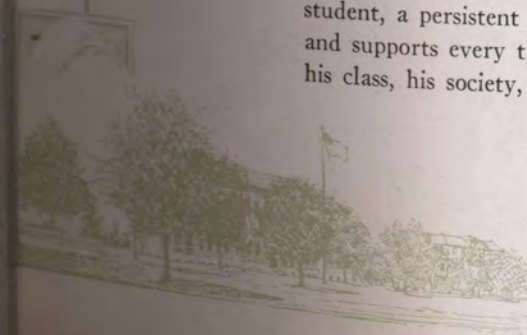

Alden

"Rusty" is a most talented young man. Whether as a physician for the pink eye or as an investigator in astronomy, his equal would be hard to find. He holds a responsible position as President of the Amalgamated Snipe Hunters of America. Notwithstanding the cares and worries produced by preforming the duties connected with this office, he is always cheerful and is ever ready to help a friend in trouble.

THOS. H. MCBRIDE

Hubbard

"Mac" is a good-natured fellow with an Irish smile and cheer that we all like. Looking after his cousin is his chief worry. He is an earnest student, a persistent worker on the gridiron or on the basketball floor, and supports every true and worthy cause. He is loyal to his friends, his class, his society, and his college.

BLY McCONKEY

Yankton, S. D.

Wise from the top of his head up. His studies really don't bother him a great deal, and he enjoys life immensely. He boosts all along the line for everything in which he is interested. Especially known for his track work. A delightful talker, full of wit and brilliancy. May usually be found in the halls or library—talking to the girls.

ESTHER MONTGOMERY

Sioux City

The rule of her life is to make business a pleasure, though some might think it were to make pleasure her business. She is one of those cheerful, happy-go-lucky individuals, who apparently have nothing to do, nevertheless, she is an excellent student, a willing and conscientious Y. W. C. A. worker, and a booster of every college activity. Esther is a true friend and scatters sunshine wherever she goes.

CLARENCE OBRECHT

Belmond

Yell-master and pep-generator! "Buster" isn't very big, but he is full of loyalty and school spirit. Characteristic of him is the intensity and changeability of his moods, for once in a while, (though you may not believe it) he does scold wonderfully, if he is making all the noise. You would know "Buster" for his whole-souled and infectious laugh.

DOROTHY OWEN

Sioux City

"Dot" came to us from Sioux City High. She is as gay and irresponsible as she is brainy and well-meaning. Variety is the spice of her life, and one never knows just where to find her. She likes a good time better than the average girl, and has lots of enthusiasm. On committee work she always does her share ably.

ELMA PARKINSON

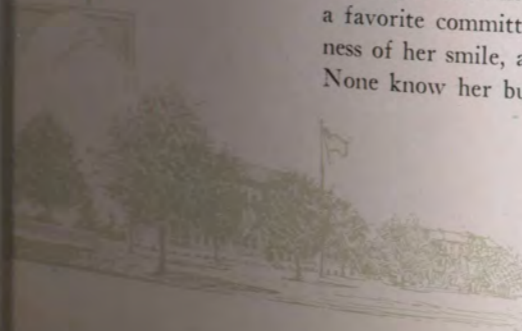

Wall Lake

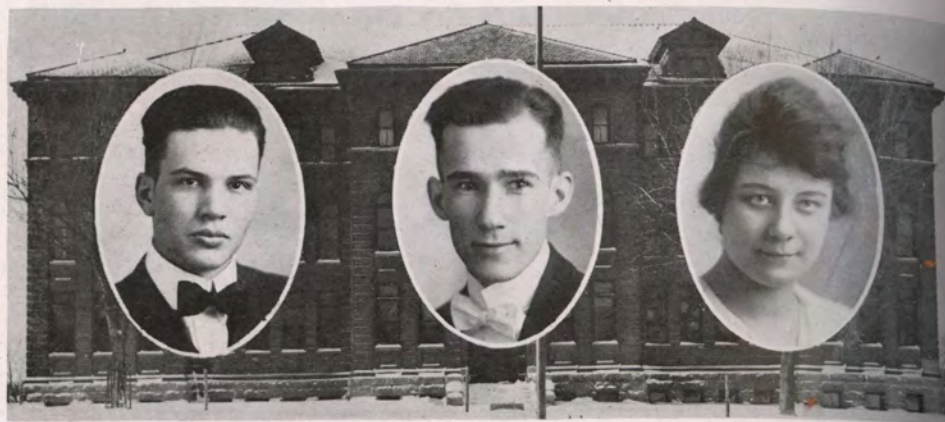

Here is a type of girl in demand in every college. Elma is an enthusiastic booster in every activity of school life. She is always ready for a good laugh and a good time, and yet she works hard and is often seen laboring over her Latin and German book. Elma is a friend to everyone, sincere and conscientious. Whenever called upon to help, she responds willingly.

MILDRED PECAUT

Sioux City

She may seem dignified—but wait until you know her. Mildred is one of the most sincere friends that we have. She is a reader of ability, and a girl with most original and clever ideas. For this reason she is a favorite committee member. The brightness of her eyes, the gentleness of her smile, and the graciousness of her words, win many friends. None know her but to love her.

HOWARD A. REYMAN

Le Mars

He never says much, but his silence speaks louder than words, because of the sympathetic, unselfish intent of his life. While he is somewhat diffident in his speech, manner, and action, yet he is true and sincere in his desire to help the other fellow. Reyman is a diligent student, loves his college, and upholds all things that are high and noble.

NOBLE RICHARDSON

Ainsworth, Nebr.

"Rich" hails from the sand hills of Nebraska. No, he isn't a farmer, but he's going to make an excellent business man. At least he ought to, for he is getting practice while in school. At present he spends his afternoons in one of the city banks. "Rich" possesses that valuable sense of humor, and never gets "peevish" if a joke happens to be played on him. A warbler in the Glee Club.

GLADYS RIDDLE

Onawa

Novelty has a peculiar charm for Gladys, and the regular routine of classes soon seems monotonous to her. Gladys has a lovable disposition, is very cheery, very merry, and as happy-go-lucky as they make them. She takes her own time about everything, and never has a care except a week before examination time. An eager participant in sport, a pleasant friend and a genial companion.

IDA ROBERTSON

Sioux City

Moods are never known to Ida. She is always the same jolly, carefree, fun-loving Ida. Good grades come with little effort on her part, and she gives her studies first thought only at examination time. She is running over with wit, and she can always argue, tho' she never becomes excited. Her highest ambition is to teach in Montana.

GRACE RUSKELL

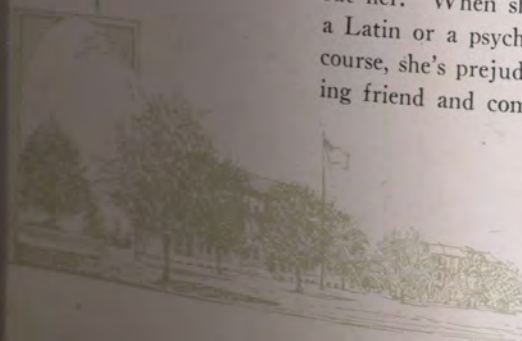

Sioux City

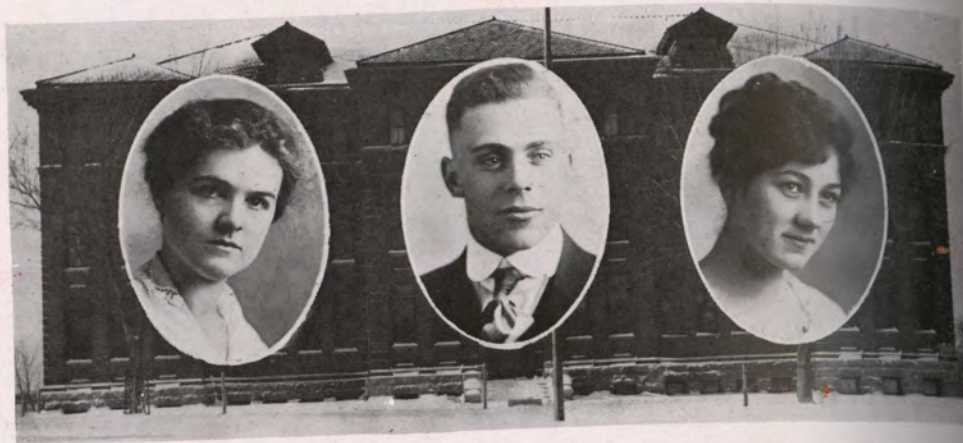

Perhaps Grace hears more from Dakota than any other part of the earth. And she is majoring in home economics, too. To see her one might think her very quiet, sedate, and reserved. Knowing her, however, we realize what a jolly and charming friend she is. She is an untiring worker, and is not afraid to give others the benefit of her own hard work.

LIDA SAUNDERS

Manilla

If you could hear her laugh, you would know that she is a part of all fun, and a plotter of much mischief. Never is a frolic complete without her. When she feels like studying, she may be seen engrossed in a Latin or a psychology book. She prefers James' Psychology, but of course, she's prejudiced. There's so much in a name. Lida is a charming friend and companion.

MERLIN SAWYER

Sioux City

Merlin stayed out of school last year to teach and naturally she fell back into our class, but she now acknowledges that she has nothing to regret. This is not insinuating anything against you seniors. Merlin studies hard, is faithful on committee work, and likes a good time. She always goes to the bottom of things and wants to know the "why" and the "wherefore."

CLAIR I. SHERWOOD

Kingsley

Another member of the Kennel Klub. "Deak" is editor of our joke department. No, he is not a joke himself, but he tries to represent other folks as such. He is a faithful and accommodating librarian and though he studies conscientiously he is quite a lively and consistent "stepper." Deak has common sense in a way that is uncommon, and underneath all there is real worth.

RUTH SMITH

Arthur

Indeed if it be true that there is great ability in knowing how to conceal one's ability, Ruth is a most able person. She is very modest and few realize how much she really does. Nevertheless she is a leader in all college activities and has been chosen President of the Agora Club. Ruth is a girl of high ideals, absolutely dependable, and a sincere friend.

A. EDWARD STILES

Bay City, Mich.

Stiles is serious-minded in all that he does. He is an untiring worker with a definite purpose and aim in life. In his school studies, whether in the class room or on the debate platform, he is systematic and thorough. A conscientious student, loyally pledged to his books and studies, and a worthy fellow to have as a friend.

ALICE SWAN

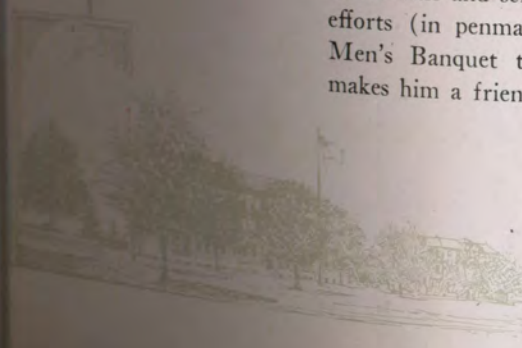

Sioux City

A quiet, modest, studious lass, and yet one who is as loyal as the most loyal. She goes about her work never troubling anyone. But she is so full of generosity and never-failing kindness, that every one likes her. She enjoys her work and studies earnestly and conscientiously. Alice is genuine through and through, and can ever be depended upon.

HERALD WALKER

Sioux City

Never burdens himself by carrying books around. He is able to do anything from managing the Park Moving Picture Theatre to talking to the girls in the library. He has always taken an active interest in his class and served as president last year. It was largely due to his efforts (in penmanship?) that the Class of '18 won the cups at the Men's Banquet this year. His accommodating and cheerful spirit makes him a friend to everyone.

ERWIN C. WENIG

Inwood

"Obe" is a close rival of Sherlock Holmes. He says more funny things with less effort than any ten men in school. He has a letter in football, baseball and track. He plays guard in basketball, pitches in baseball, and plays end or tackle in football. He is just the opposite of "Bush" (they roomed together when Freshmen); he left all of his stepping until his junior and senior years.

FRANCES WETMORE

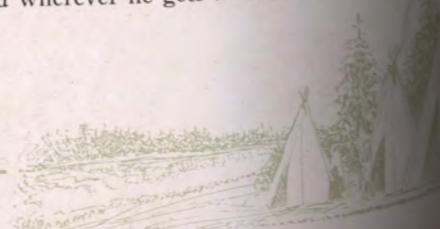

Sioux City

When Frances isn't having a good time or making a good time for someone else, she is worrying about her grades. She minors in biology. Perhaps that's the reason. When she is in the proper optimistic mood she creates much fun and laughter by her wit and humor. Frances plays the violin, and is business manager of the Madrigal Club. She is a loyal booster for Morningside.

WILLIAM C. WOLLE

Belmond

The Class of '18 began its college career under the able direction of this man as president. "Bill" is a man who possesses ability mixed with a great deal of good common sense. He is a sincere and untiring worker both in the church and in the Y. M. C. A. He talks intelligently on any subject and at any time, and wherever he gets a chance.

SUE WORMLEY

Kingsley

Sue is a booster. At the same time she is one of the best-natured, sunniest-tempered, and kindest-hearted girls that we have. Her head is as level as her heart is big. Perhaps she is not as steady a worker as some, but she has times and seasons of working as they come to her. Then she accomplishes much with her swift hand and swifter brain.

MILTON IRWIN

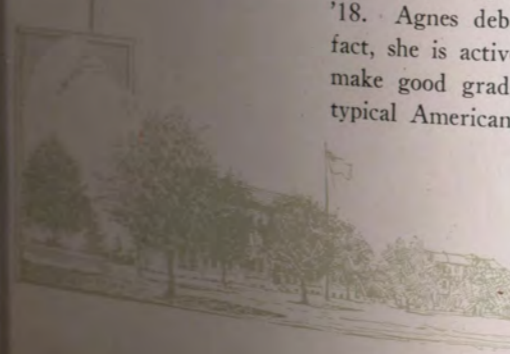

Merrill

A quiet, non-excitabale chap who studies ardently because he likes to. May be found at most any time of the day in the biology laboratory. His keen thinking, strong feeling, and direct speaking are particularly characteristic. Though averse to all frivolity and mischief, he sympathizes in all reasonable forms of pleasure. We might add that his particular pleasure is calling over on Third Avenue.

AGNES M. FRY

Hawarden

We were glad to welcome Agnes back to Old M. C. last fall, and now we are especially glad to welcome her once more to the ranks of '18. Agnes debated for Morningside during her freshman year; in fact, she is active in all forms of college activities, and finds time to make good grades. She never loses a chance for a good time. A typical American College Girl!

JAMES H. DONAHUE

Sioux City

One of Uncle Sam's Soldiers who went down to Mexico. Donahue came to Morningside last year from Yankton. He knew what he was about when he came back from the south in time to enroll as a Junior this fall. Very modest and unassuming, he believes in fair play, and his perfect sincerity is not to be questioned. A man of broad sympathies and enviable cheerfulness.

GOLDIE JACKSON

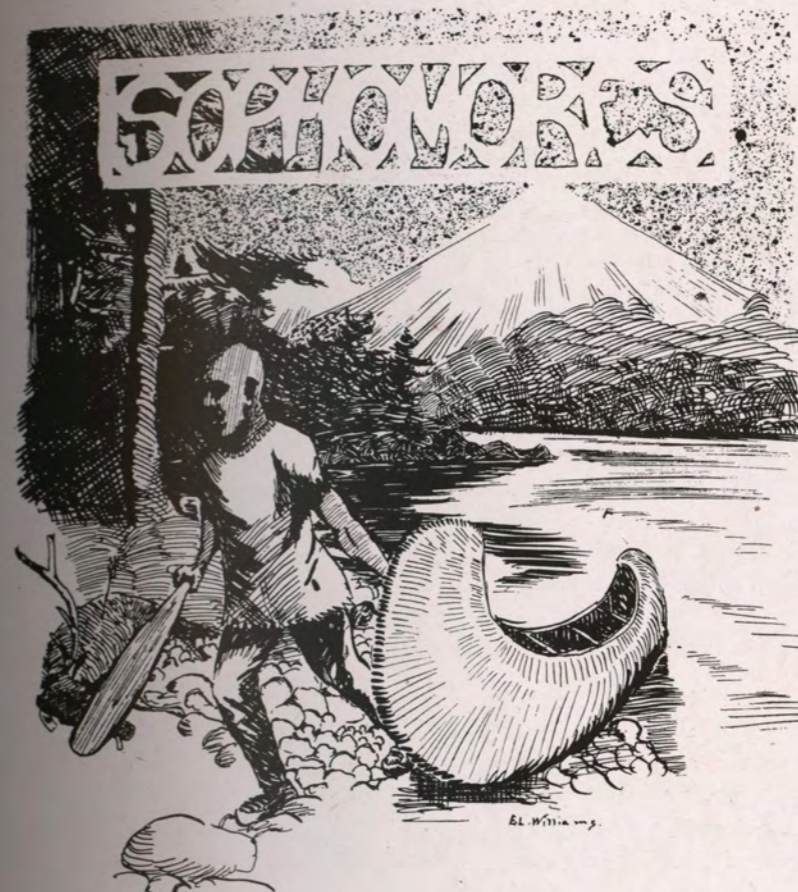

Kingsley

As pleasant as she looks. She is never idle a moment, is always thrifty and thoughtful of others. Goldie is a most brilliant student, and notwithstanding the fact that she was not in school all last year she is back in her old class. She goes her own way and goes quietly. She is happy always and has a bright look for all.

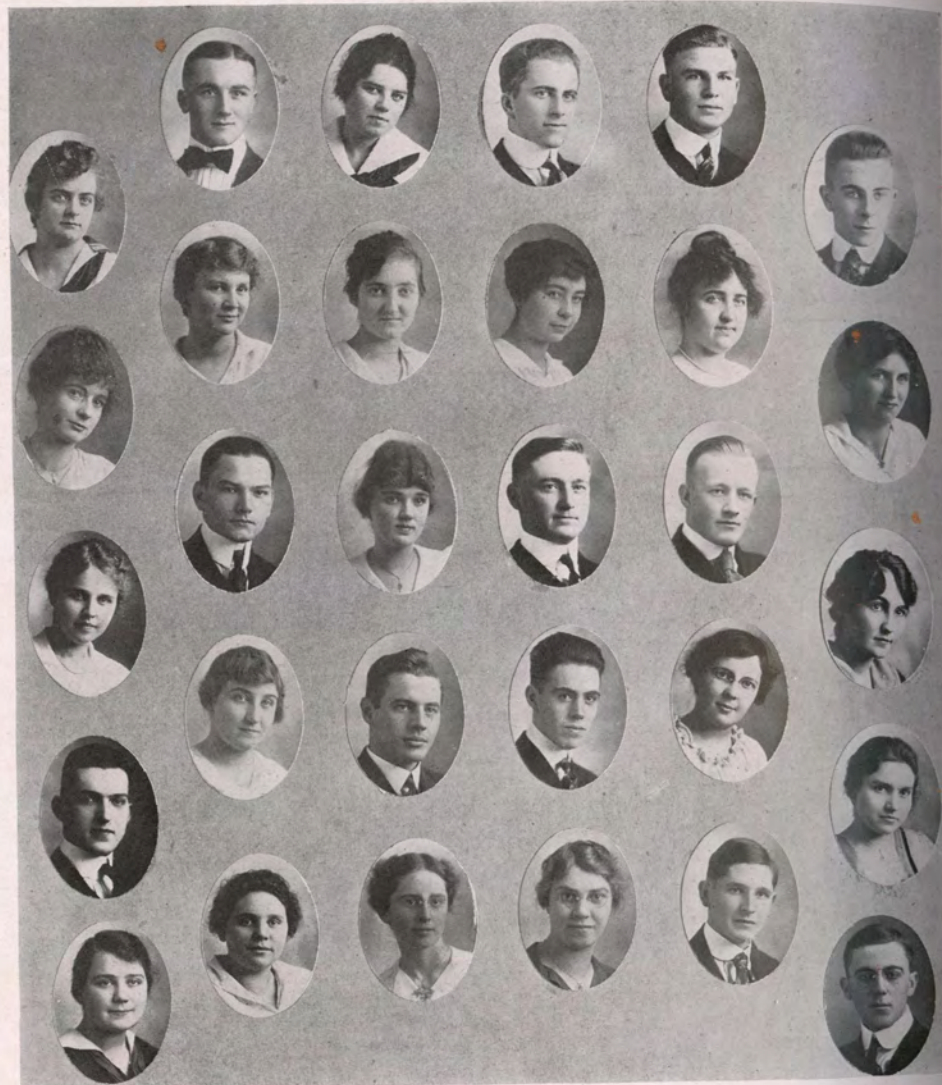

LLOYD D. LEHAN

Sioux City

President of the Tennis Association. And Lloyd enjoys playing tennis perhaps more than any other one thing except "fussing." He seems to have more time on his hands than most folks. No doubt this is because he needs less to keep up his scholarship. Social life delights him and he is not to be excelled in gallantry. Though dignified and conservative in appearance, he appreciates cleverly turned phrases.

*Out of childhood into manhood
Now had grown my Hiawatha,
Skilled in all the craft of hunters,
Learned in all the lore of old men.*

FACTORS OF A WINNING FOOTBALL SEASON

IOWA STATE TEACHERS GAME

The first game of the season was played against the Iowa State Teachers' College, at Cedar Falls. The Maroons were victorious by the decisive score of 38 to 6. A much closer game was expected because of the fact that the Ames Aggies the previous week had been able to score only 19 points against them. The State Teachers' paper likened the Maroon squad to a "well-oiled machine, each man having his certain work to do and then doing it."

BUENA VISTA GAME

The Buena Vista game, which was played at Mizzou Park, was a comparatively easy victory for the Maroons. They started with a rush and scored two touchdowns in the first seven minutes of play. From here on the game was played in a seemingly indifferent manner; the Maroons being content to hold them, and only occasionally showing the fighting spirit that so dominated the entire squad the week before.

WAYNE NORMAL GAME

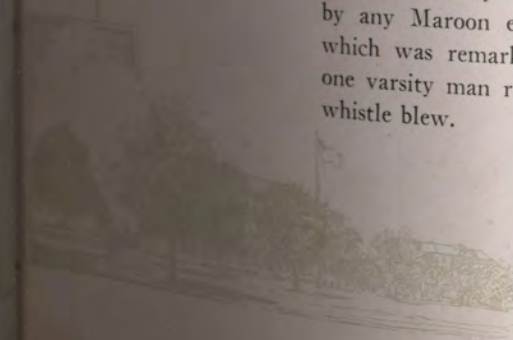

The Wayne game was a decisive victory for the Maroons. From the blow of the first whistle the game was never in doubt; the Maroons scored at will. All of the backfield men, Behmer, Johnson, Gnatt and Hinkley, making sensational runs of thirty and forty yards at a clip. At the end of the first half a total of 54 points had been registered and the second half started with several of the second squad in the lineup. The final score which showed that their work was not in vain was 112 to 0.

DAKOTA WESLEYAN GAME

The overwhelming defeat of the Dakota Wesleyan squad was the sweetest victory of the season because of the fact that the Wesleyanites had the previous season defeated the Maroons by a score of 29 to 10.

The Maroons outplayed them from the first blow of the whistle! The backfield men plunged through their line for short smashes of three to eight yards, and skirted their ends for thirty and forty yards at will. The 112 points scored by us was the largest score ever amassed by any Maroon eleven against a team of equal rank, which was remarkable considering that there was only one varsity man remaining in the lineup when the final whistle blew.

NEBRASKA WESLEYAN GAME

This game, which was played at Lincoln, was one of the hardest battles of the season, both teams fighting to their utmost, but the Maroons by their smashing style of play finally won out by a score of 17 to 0. Nevertheless it was a dear victory because of injuries to Johnson and Northrup.

This was the first time in the history of Morningside that any Maroon eleven has defeated Nebraska Wesleyan at Lincoln, and it is also the first time in the history of the school that we defeated Dakota Wesleyan and Nebraska Wesleyan in the same season.

AMES GAME

When we met the Aggies we were in very poor condition because of the hard game the week before. Nevertheless the Maroons played stellar football and lost only by a single touchdown caused by a fumble, due to the intense cold. Neither team was able to make consistent gains because of the condition of the field. The touchdown came in the third quarter and was the second and last time the Maroon goal was crossed during the entire season, resulting in our only defeat.

VERMILION GAME

The contest with South Dakota came as a fitting climax to one of the most successful of all Maroon football seasons. The enthusiasm and the spirit shown was greater than during any previous year, because of the fact that we were doped to hold them at least to a tie.

The football game really started in the morning when a parade consisting of the entire student body, led by the College Band, marched thru the streets of the down town district, arousing and creating pep by giving yells and singing songs.

The game started promptly at three. The Maroons kicked off and the Coyotes after several plays were forced to punt.

The ball was in the Coyote's territory most of the time and only once during the entire contest was there a chance for either team to score. This opportunity came in the third quarter when, after a series of forward passes, the ball was advanced to the Coyote's seven yard line, where the Maroons were held for downs. The game ended with the ball in South Dakota's possession on their own forty yard line.

LEON JOHNSON, '18

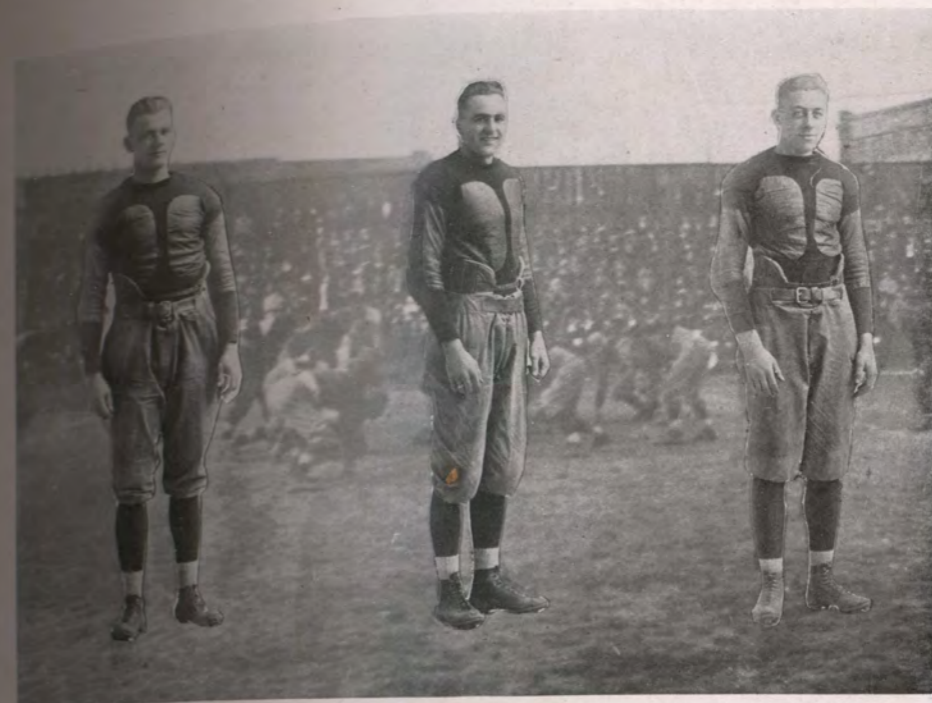

Captain "Jerry," our husky right halfback, by his wonderful line plunging ability, his open field running, his aggressiveness on offense and his good right toe made many a victory possible for the Maroons. Jerry is a typical football leader, and a clean, hard player and deserves the position on the all-State eleven accredited him by football critics.

COACH J. M. SAUNDERSON

"Saundy," the man who made the football squad what it was, the man who is a natural football fighter and who has the faculty of instilling it into his men; a man who, by his personality, can win the respect of any of his football men and can give them that dogged persistency which will surmount any obstacle on the football field.

CARROLL NORTHRUP, '20

"Norty," the captain-elect who played the right end position, was a wonder at breaking up interference and tackling the man in the same play; he received forward passes in a phenomenal manner and in going down under punts oft times tackled the safety man in his tracks. He was given a place on the second all-State eleven.

ERWIN WENIG, '18

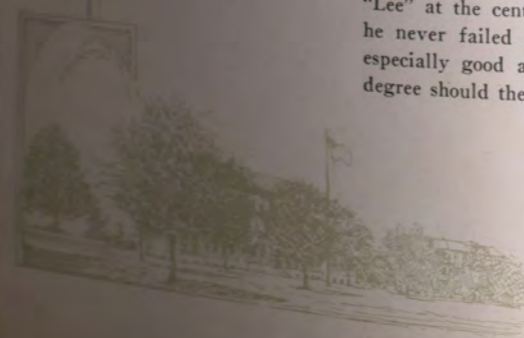

"Obe," our lanky right tackle, was a wizard at analyzing plays and delighted in busting up end runs and off-tackle smashes before they got under way as well as intercepting forward passes and carrying them down the field. His toe won us many points, once lifting a drop kick 49 yards and hanging up a new record for Sioux City. "Obe" received honorable mention for all-State.

THOMAS LLOYD, '18

"Tom," a substitute backfield man, was fast on his feet and a clever runner. He substituted both at fullback and the quarterback position, and from this position showed unusual generalship in directing the plays of the squad.

LEVI HORNNY, '19

"Lee" at the center position was a man worthy of the place; on defense he never failed to block a play through the center of the line; he was especially good at passing the ball to the backfield men and in no little degree should the showing of these men be accredited to him.

EDWARD GANTT, '20

"Ted" played left halfback on the squad and was a tower of strength in that position, being fast on his feet, a clever runner, and a man who could hit the line when occasion demanded. He was also adept at receiving passes and he was one of the hardest and surest tacklers on the Maroon squad.

ALBERT BEHMER, '19

"Little Al," the quarterback who directed the playing in the squad, was a fast, clever, and shifty open field runner, a wonder at receiving and returning punts. On several occasions twisting through the entire opposing squad for touchdowns. "Al" was given the position on the all-State eleven of quarterback and captain.

STANLEY BASHAW, '18

"Bush" played left end for us. He was a hard worker and a man who always used good judgment in playing his man; he was especially strong on defense, breaking up plays and smashing the interference on many occasions before the play was fairly started.

ARTHUR HINKLEY, '20

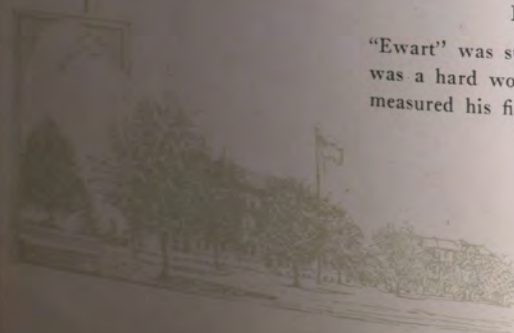

"Hink," although playing as a sub in the early part of the season, held the position of fullback during the closing games. He was a hard runner and a clever tackler and made superb interference for his teammates in the backfield.

HORACE WULF, '19

"Halligan," the big left tackle, was a fighter from start to finish. He never did anything sensational, but always got his man, he was a veritable giant on offense when called upon to make a hole in the opposing line for the backfield plungers.

EWART WILLIAMS, '17

"Ewart" was substituted both in the backfield and the end positions. He was a hard worker and a consistent tackler and his small size in no way measured his fighting determination to return victor.

DALE NORTON, '19

"Skinney," playing at right guard, proved to be a tower of strength. His weight and power enabling him to make a hole in the opposing line when called upon to do so. On defense, he marched through the line, blocking many a play before it was started.

AXEL BECK, '20

"Swede" played left guard and never left anything undone; on offense he always put his man out of the play, and on defense he broke thru the line time after time, blocking the man behind the line of scrimmage.

CHARLES SWARTZ, '20

"Red" was substituted at both the center and guard positions. He acquitted himself in a creditable manner. He was a hard, consistent worker and was a real fighter from start to finish.

WILSON CLARK, '17

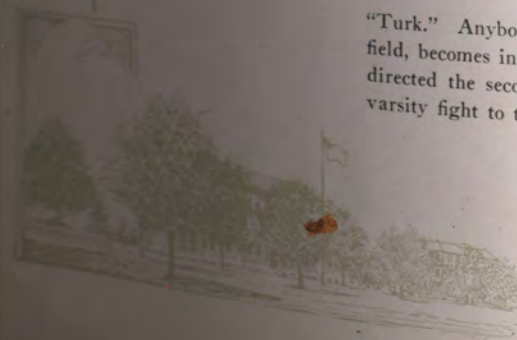

"Wils" was substituted in many positions, playing at center, guard, end, and in the backfield. A very valuable man because of his ability to fill any position. He was a consistent fighter, and distinguished himself as a hard tackler.

HARRY WARNES, '19

"Harry" on several occasions was substituted in the backfield and whenever he was called upon to carry the ball made a substantial gain, being fast on his feet and a hard runner.

PAUL EIFFERT, '17

"Turk." Anybody who has associated with Paul, especially on the football field, becomes infected with the never die spirit of "hit 'em hard men." He directed the second squad and he put the fight into them which made the varsity fight to their utmost to hold their positions.

The Reserves

Reifstick, Omer, Hackett, T. McBride, Behmer.
Bogard, Kenney, Brown, Pearce, Downs.
Walker, Quinn, Connors (Capt.), Mickelson, Cowan.

On the afternoon of November 29, the "Scrubs" journeyed to Sutherland, where a hard-fought game was played with the town team. A little stage fright at first caused them to surrender the first half by a score of 6 to 0. After a little heart-to-heart talk with Behmer, their manager, they went into the game the second half with a determination to win. After a few minutes of play, a forward pass signal was called. The line held like a stone wall and a forward pass, Mickelson to Connors, resulted in a thirty yard run for their only touchdown. Conner's ability at kicking goal won for them the game. Scrubs 7, Sutherland 6. P. M.

The lineup was as follows:

Left Tackle	Walker
Left Guard	Kenney
Center	Bogard
Right Guard	T. McBride
Right Tackle	Hackett
Right End	G. Brown
Quarter	Capt. Connors
Left Half	Quinn
Right Half	Mickelson
Full Back	Steele

Tribe of Scalp-Hunters

Produced under the direction of Jason M. Saunderson

PART I. "THE COYOTE HUNT"

Scene I. Vermilion, S. D.

May 12, 1916

The feature of the game was the work of the pitchers. "Obe" Wenig of Morningside and Steele of South Dakota pitched wonderful ball, each holding their opponents to two hits. At the end of the tenth inning the score stood 0 to 0. An overthrow in the first of the eleventh, with a coyote on second and two out, gave South Dakota the only score of the game.

Score: Morningside 0, South Dakota University 1.

Scene II. Vermilion, S. D.

May 13, 1916

This game was featured by heavy hitting on both sides. A high wind made errorless ball impossible. Northrup twirled for us and kept the hits of the coyotes well scattered.

Score: Morningside 8, South Dakota University 6.

PART II. "THE HAWKEYE TRAIL"

Scene I. Des Moines, Iowa

May 15, 1916

The heavy-hitting of the Maroons again featured. "Obe" allowed but two hits while the much-touted Kinley was driven off the mound.

Score: Morningside 9, Highland Park 0.

Scene II. Cedar Falls, Iowa
May 16, 1916

Home runs by Eiffert, Northrup, and Johnson enabled the Sioux to annex another scalp to their belt. Northrup pitched.

Score: Morningside 12, State Teachers 0.

Scene III. Iowa Falls, Iowa
May 17, 1916

The support given Wenig was the feature of the game. Captain Eiffert's work behind the bat was even better than usual. Two errors were checked up against the Maroons.

Score: Morningside 5, Ellsworth 3.

Scene IV. Storm Lake, Iowa
May 18, 1916

The Sioux completed their record-breaking trip by an easy victory over Buena Vista. Obrecht allowed but five hits and shut out his opponents. One error made by Morningside.

Score: Morningside 14, Buena Vista 0.

PART III. "THE SIOUX INVASION BY THE COYOTES"

Scene I. Bass Field, Sioux City

May 19, 1916

The features of the game were Duncan's batting, Steele's pitching, and a rally by the Maroons in the eighth. Wenig, after pitching superb ball for four innings, was compelled to leave the game with a dislocated knee.

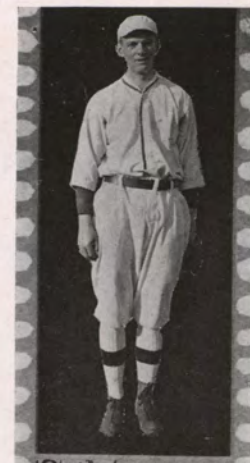

Score: Morningside 2, South Dakota University 4.

Scene II. Bass Field

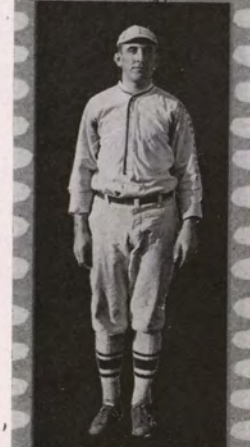

May 20, 1916

The Sioux avenged themselves of the defeat of the preceding day by smothering the Coyotes. Eighteen hits were made off the delivery of the South Dakota pitcher, including four home runs, four three-baggers, to say nothing of doubles and singles. Northrup pitched.

Score: Morningside 23, South Dakota University 4.

PART IV. "THE BADGER HUNT"

Scene I. Northfield, Minn.

May 24, 1916

Rain prevented starting the game until after four o'clock and left the field slow and slippery. Obrecht and Clough pitched.

Score: Morningside 2, St. Olaf's 8.

Scene II. Northfield, Minn.

May 25, 1916

The heavy slugging of the Maroons compelled four Carlton pitchers to leave the mound.

Score: Morningside 19, Carlton 7.

Scene III. Northfield, Minn.

May 26, 1916

Northrup pitched and allowed but five hits as did his opponent, but errors at critical times allowed the latter to win.

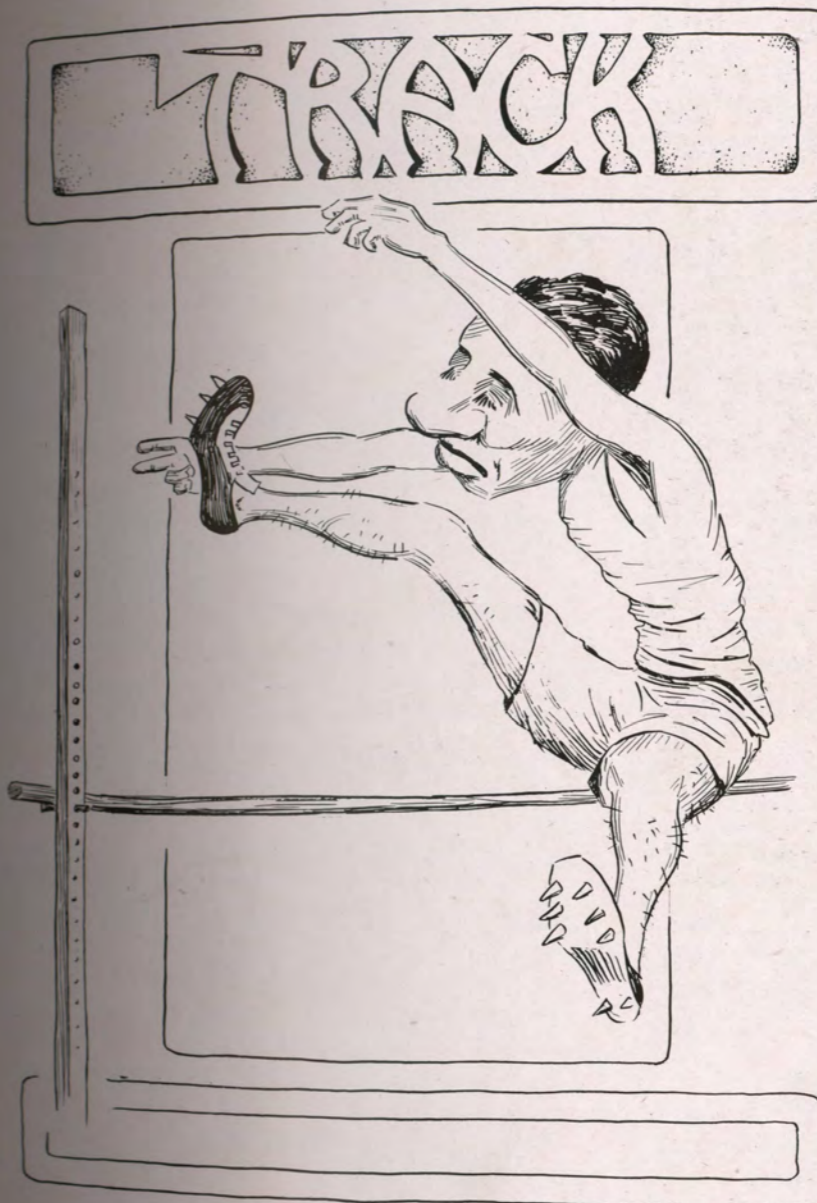

Score: Morningside 3, Carlton 8.

PART I

Drake Relays, Drake Stadium, Des Moines
Captain Wendell Curry, Herald Walker, Earl Williams, and Harry Warnes carried the Maroon for us in the two-mile relay, the only race we entered. We were unlucky in drawing the extreme outside lane. Williams, our first man, was boxed until the last 220 where he managed to break through and pass up several men. He ran an easy race and could have bettered his time if given a chance. Warnes took up the race with a handicap of a bad start and passed up man after man of the seven ahead of him and ran the fastest race of his young career. His magnificent sprint on the finish gave Walker second place with a 20-foot handicap. "Steve" loafed around behind his man in his customary style until the last 300 yards, where he left the whole field and gave Captain Curry a generous lead of 20 yards. Our holder of the conference record continued to increase the lead between himself and the Cornell man until fully 50 yards separated them at the finish. Curry was conceded to be the prettiest runner of the afternoon. He covered his first lap in 55 and would have made record time if pressed.

The bad starting position probably prevented us from setting a new record. As it was, we came within $2\frac{3}{5}$ seconds of it, covering the distance in 8:17:2, the record being 8:15, held by Morningside since 1913, when we broke the previous record, also held by ourselves, by 13 seconds. With the exception of one year, Morningside has always held the record in this event.

PART II

Dual Meet, Morningside-South Dakota University
Bass Field, May 10, 1916

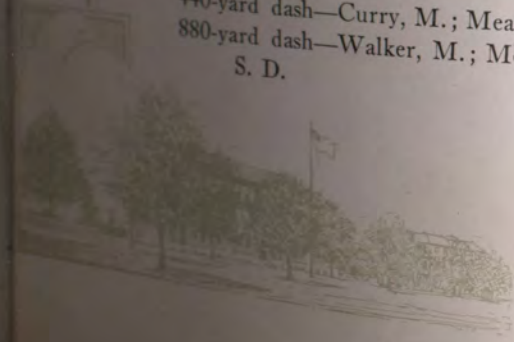

Yes, Vermilion trimmed us, but they just evened up an old score of the year before. Vidal of South Dakota was the individual star, carrying off 18 points. Captain Curry was easily second with 11 points.

It was not a good day for a track meet as there was a veritable gale blowing up the home stretch which, added to the chilly weather, made it unpleasant for both the spectators and the participants. The final count was 64 points for Vermilion and 45 for Morningside.

Probably the feature event was the 440-yard dash. This was a contest between two state champions. Meade holds the South Dakota record in that event, while Curry holds the conference record in the 880-yard dash. Curry broke the tape a stride and one-half in the lead. In the 880 Walker had things all his own way, his lead being threatened but once, which caused "Steve" to forsake his opponent's company and finish with a good lead. In the broad jump Wenig beat out Vidal, the S. D. star, by two inches. In the two-mile VanHorne had an easy time, his only competitor being Williams of Morningside. In the shot put Ray Harrington pulled down five points for us. Ed Harrington copped 3 points in the high hurdles and threw a big scare into the Coyotes in the lows. No records were made because of the cold and windy atmosphere.

Girls' Athletics

Like an "M" sweater is to a man, so an Agora Athletic Medal is to a girl. The Agora Club gives two medals each year to the two best all-around girl athletes. It is based upon a point system. A girl playing basketball gets one point for each half of an official game she plays in, and five points if she is a member of the champion class team and plays a half or more in the final game. This year points will also be awarded to members of the Crimson and Blue teams. In Tennis five points are awarded to the girl who wins the tournament, and three points to the runnerup. The winner of the track meet gets five points, the one taking second, three points, and the one taking third, one point. Each member of the winning relay team gets one point. Five points are also given to the girls doing the best gym work.

Last spring Lois Russell had the greatest number of points and received first medal. Lorene Williams was the next highest and received second medal.

Waiting to behold the strangers,
Waiting to receive their message;
Till the Black Robe chief, the Pale face,
From the wigwam came to greet them,
Stammering in his speech a little,
Speaking words yet unfamiliar.*

*How Iago, the great boaster,
He the marvelous story teller,
Told his tales of strange adventure,
That the time might pass more gayly
And the guests be more contented.*

*From the hollow reeds he fashioned
Flutes so musical and mellow
That the brook, the Sebocoisha
Ceased to murmur in the woodland,
And the squirrel, Adjidaunio
Ceased to chatter in the oak tree,
And the rabbit, the Wabasso,
Sat upright to look and listen.*

Looked they at the gamesome labor
Of the young men and the women;
Listened to their noisy talking,
To their laughter and their singing,
Heard them chattering like the magpies,
Heard them laughing like the blue jays,
Heard them singing like the robins.

The Student Council of Morningside College was organized a few years ago to fill a need felt by both students and administration for some organization that would act as a check upon certain student actions and at the same time present to the administration student problems from the student's standpoint. The council is made up of the student body officers and a representative of each college organization including the classes.

Pride of the Sioux

S. O. ROREM, '09

Oh Morningside, thou are the "Pride of the Sioux,"
 And we'll honor thy name evermore,
 To thy standard we'll ever be loyal and true,
 As thy sons ever have been before.
 We shall sing of the honor and fame thou hast won,
 With our hearts and our voices attune,
 And forever we'll stand united as one
 In our love for the dear old Maroon

We are glad for the days that we've spent on thy hills,
 And the friendship we've formed in thy halls,
 And for dear Alma Mater our hearts shall beat still,
 When at last we shall turn from thy walls.
 'Till the waters have dried in the "Rolling Mizzou"
 And all love in the old world has died,
 We shall stand by our college, "The pride of the Sioux,"
 And we'll cheer for our old Morningside.

*In the Vale of Tawasentha,
 In the Valley of Wyoming,
 In the Groves of Tuscahosa,
 In the far off Rocky Mountains
 On the shores of Gitche Gumme
 Past the shining Big-Sea-Water
 Gathered all the tribes together
 With one feeling and one purpose
 That the light might burn the brighter
 In the Big Sioux River Country.*

The Alumni Association

G. W. FINCH
President Alumni Association

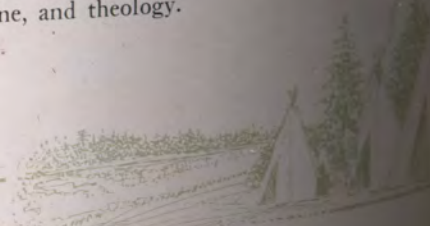

OUR ALUMNI

The real worth of any college is determined by the lives and deeds of the men and women who leave the halls of their Alma Mater to take up their share of the burdens in the work of the world. Since such a test is applicable to all institutions we can gladly say that Morningside College has attained and is constantly measuring up to the highest stands of life through the earnest endeavors of her loyal sons and daughters everywhere.

During the years when the alumni of today were students in the old familiar halls, Morningside College inspired them with high ideals which they are now striving to maintain in all parts of the world. The aim of the institution is the same today: "To attain high scholarship, to maintain clean athletics, to preserve pure morals, to inspire lofty living to urge a fine conservation of talents to the service of the best."

From the classes graduated in the last five years, ninety five men and women have availed themselves of the opportunity of post graduate work in more than twenty universities and colleges in all parts of the United States and in foreign countries. Iowa, Northwestern, Chicago, Columbia, Boston, Illinois, Denver, and Wisconsin universities and the Y. M. C. A. College claim the largest quota of this number.

The subjects chosen for advanced study by our alumni have embraced many and various fields of knowledge. The number is too great to enumerate here, but it includes many of the sciences, foreign languages, law, medicine, and theology.

Morningside Clubs

This last year, through the untiring efforts of Miss Dimmitt and other Morningside enthusiasts, a Morningside Club movement has been started in the cities and towns, universities and colleges where graduates and ex-students are living. The purpose of these organizations is to keep alive the old Morningside Spirit which characterizes everyone who has been a student in her halls to make that spirit a vital factor in the promotion of the best interests of the College, and to inspire the young people of the communities where the clubs are established to seek their education under the maternal shelter of "The College on the Hill."

The Morningside Clubs are constantly increasing. Manson, Hawarden, Sac City and Early are among the first to sign the constitution and enliven the interest of their associates and fellow citizens in an energetic and progressive Morningside.

Chicago, Iowa City, and Boston, have led the way in establishing University-Morningside Clubs. The Chicago-Morningside Club has strengthened the old time ties which bind her members to their Alma Mater by partaking in two big rally-banquets in the past six months. This club is distinguished by a membership of thirty-seven. Their interest in the activities and progress of their college serves as a stimulus to the present student body to do its best in upholding the high standards set by the institution.

The Boston-Morningside Club, although small in numbers, shows by the individual attainments of her members that each is bringing honor not only to himself and herself in the goals achieved, but is also contributing his or her share of glory to the distinction of her Alma Mater.

The Iowa City-Morningside Club with a membership of twenty-six, expresses very vitally, in an enthusiastic letter from the president to "The Sioux '18," the fundamental ideal in the formation of the Morningside Clubs:

"I think that the idea with our club is to rally to bring home to the State University, that Morningside is furnishing every year some of their strong men and women for their graduate and professional schools. Many of the students here think that in case a man makes good in his professional or his graduate work, the reason is all to be found in the university, whereas a large amount of credit is due to the foundation which was laid before he saw Iowa University."

"I am sure that all the fellows at Iowa are in sympathy with the Morningside Club Movement. We have much to congratulate ourselves on that we spent our undergraduate days at Morningside College."

From all the clubs comes the hearty greeting: "We are ready to assist in any way to make a bigger and a better Morningside and help to kindle and keep ever-burning in the hearts of our members the right and genuine Morningside spirit."

This "spirit" is that of daring and eagerness such as is expressed in the following:

"There's a breathless hush in the close tonight,
Ten to make and the match to win;
There's a bumping pitch and a blinding light,
An hour to play and the last man in.
And its not for the sake of a ribboned coat,
Nor the selfish hope of a season's fame;
But his captain's hand on his shoulder smote—
'Play up, play up; and play the game!'

"The sands of the desert are sodden red,
Red with the wreck of the square that broke;
The Gatling's jammed, and the colonel's dead,
The regiment's blind with dust and smoke.
The river of death has brimmed its banks,
And England's far and honor a name,
When the voice of a school boy rallies the ranks—
'Play up, play up, and play the game!'

This is the word that year by year,
While in her place the school is set,
Everyone of her sons must hear,
And none that hears it dares forget.
This they all with a willing mind
Bear through life like a torch in flame,
And falling, fling to the host behind—
'Play up, play up; and play the game!'

Everyone who has had the privilege of attending Morningside College has felt that strong, wholesome spirit of daring which makes the words "Alma Mater" a living and essential force in his life: broadening the vision of his service; encouraging him in defeat and inspiring him to higher purposes in victory. It is that spirit which at all times and on all occasions spurs him on to do his best, with the watch word of his Alma Mater ringing in his thoughts:

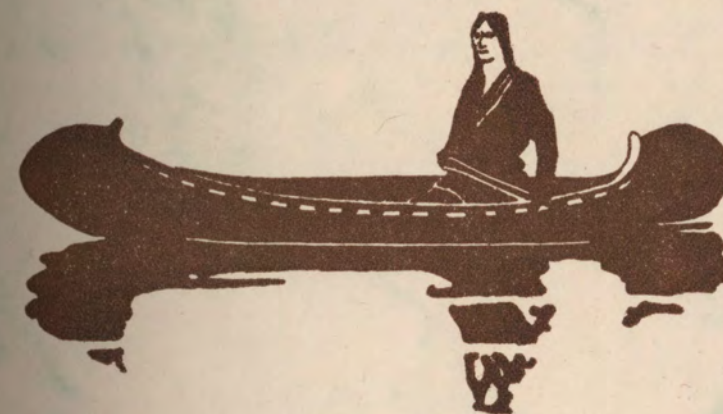

"Play up, play up; and play the game!"

Monument Day May 19, 1916

Winning every game on a down-state baseball trip is too much for any red-blooded student body to sit down and fold their hands over. As early as 8:30 on the morning of May 16, murmurs of "monument" were heard. By chapel time this cry was imperative and the whole student body journeyed to Floyd's Monument for a celebration and to imbibe some good old Morningside Pep for the coming baseball game with Vermillion. Some "Pecans" also got valuable experience out of the trip, learning that the only safe way to ride in a wagon is to have a horse hitched to it.

After Champ had led us in some yells, faculty members and students were made the goats and compelled to amuse the crowd.

A very democratic spirit prevailed, expressing itself in an abhorrence for ties especially if they suggested the hue of Vermillion.

The student body came home in groups. The route through South Ravine was by far the most popular. Most of them reached Morningside so as to not be very late for 1:30 laboratories and classes.

May Night Revels

Under the Direction of MRS. MARGARET BRAND-HAYES

The most spectacular annual performance for the girls of our college is the May Day program given by the Agora Club on Bass Field. Last year's exhibition was bigger and better than ever before. Over a hundred girls took part in it. It was an evening performance, and with our usual luck, we picked the very best night of the year, so far as weather was concerned. The morning had been warm and cloudy, threatening rain, but it cleared off at noon drying the field, and making the most perfect evening possible. The city responded. People began to arrive an hour before the performance, and by the time the girls began to appear on the hill back of the gymnasium, the bleachers and surrounding hills were black with spectators, while automobiles were lined up three deep with their headlights ready to play on the field when the signal was given. Then down the long cinder track came the stately procession of girls in bright colored costumes, escorting the May Queen elect to her position in the center of the field. Here she was crowned by the May Queen of the year before, while the "court" stood in a semi-circle facing the throne.

When the queen had been crowned she took her position on the throne and the dances began. They represented an eighteenth century rural May Day in the fields. First came a Grand March executed with faultless precision by the whole body of girls marching in single, double, and quadruple lines in intricate figures over the entire space before the throne. This was followed by a rural Folk Dance, which was succeeded in turn by a Shepherdess Dance, both well received by the Queen and the audience. During the last part of the Shepherdess Dance the drums of the orchestra gave warning of thunder and forced the dancers to flee for cover while the Storm Dance filled the "stage." It was a violent dance, based upon Wagner's Ride of the Valkyries, and performed by five storm-clouds and the spirit of Lightning.

The storm passed as quickly as it had come, and the Rainbow took its place. This was a gorgeous display of colors and so encouraged the village girls that they brought the traditional May Pole, and wound it perfectly to the delight of everybody. This took a good while, and twilight had given way to darkness before it was finished. The auto headlights were directed on the field where Moths danced in the light. Then they were put out again while a solo dancer performed the Will o' the Wisp Dance, a single search-light being flashed on and off her misty figure, now clearly and now faintly seen like the Will o' the Wisp itself. This brought out the Dance of the Fairies, a frolicsome little dance, which concluded the program. Once more the long procession formed and marched toward the spectators, then turned abruptly and was lost in the night. Another May Day was over to the satisfaction of all concerned. It was the prettiest and most elaborate we have ever had.

Men's Banquet

February 21, 1917

The Men's Banquet has become one of the important traditions of the College. It is the great get-together event of the men, for the men, and by the men of the college year. Its motto is Unity, Fellowship, Enthusiasm, and Achievement.

The Banquet was born on Washington's Birthday, 1906. The idea, however, had been incubating for many months before. It came to fill a need, and the need was long felt. The Men's Literary Societies did not love each other as angels should, in those days, and College Spirit slumped, and Alma Mater wept.

The Banquet idea furnished a rallying point and a unifying center. The men took hold timidly at first, almost suspiciously. A thirty-five cent menu served at 8:30 P. M. in the old "Boarding Hall" in the north end of the college basement, with odors and smells a plenty, was not calculated to arouse great enthusiasm in hungry stomachs.

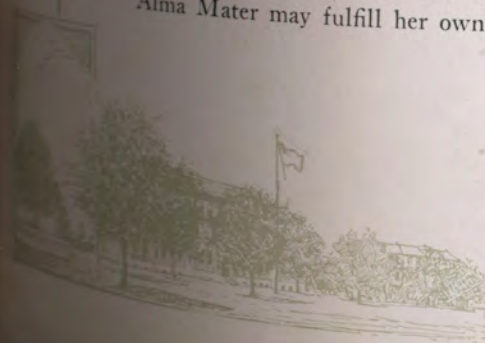

The toast program was chiefly a booster for Track, Football, and Baseball. The participants were inclined to treat the idea of a Men's Banquet lightly and humorously. They had not seen the vision of possibility that the few had seen who fathered and promoted the idea, but the Banquet weathered the first three years and then began to take on strength. It was not until the Banquet of 1912 that the competitive plan based upon table decorations and class attendance was introduced. This added greatly to the interest, even though the trophy was but a small silk banner of uncertain whereabouts.

In 1916 the committee determined to get a trophy worthy of the occasion and one that would have added interest as the years pass. The fine Trophy Cup was secured and the class winning it each year had its name inscribed upon it.

This year the former students and alumni were asked to send in the names of their sons; each year these will be announced at the banquet and dropped in the cup; there they remain until the son arrives at College and at the first Banquet thereafter draws his name from the cup. New names received during the year will be announced and dropped in the cup at the next Banquet.

The Banquet idea is one of unity and fellowship among Morningside Men everywhere. Though sundered far by faith we meet, for college ties shall ne'er be broken formed at old M. C. As Washington's birthday draws near each year, remember that we on the campus wish to draw back to the College and Banquet the memories and the hearts of all our men everywhere. Those who cannot be here in person are asked to join us in reverie o'er the past and in hope and prayer for the future that Alma Mater may fulfill her own high ideals.

PROF. H. G. CAMPBELL.

Girls' Banquet

March 3, 1917

The Girls' Banquet is the one big get-to-gether event for the coeds. Collegiates and academy, faculty and alumnae, mothers and high school sisters unite to make this the most joyous occasion of the year. Enthusiasm runs high when the classes and faculty vie with each other in "pulling off" stunts, cracking jokes and perpetrating puns.

Seven years ago the women of Morningside decided not to allow the men to monopolize the banquet idea. So committees were appointed and arrangements made for the first girls' banquet. The girls had such a good time at this first banquet that each succeeding year has added both numbers and interest.

Since its organization in 1913 the Agora Club has had charge of the banquet, and has added a number of new features and clever ideas. At first the decorations were planned and executed by a general committee. But later the rivalry between the classes which had already manifested itself in the class songs and stunts at the banquets, led to the idea of each class decorating its own table. For the last three years this class spirit has been further fostered by the presentation of the silver loving cup to the class having the highest percentage in attendance and the best decorated table.

Each year a different idea has been carried out in the toast program. One year each toaster was assigned the title of a Shakespearean play. The next year music was the theme. Another year the unfolding plant was developed into a toast program. Once the four-leaf clover was used as a symbol. The banquet was held in the gymnasium the year it was completed, then the idea of "the building" was used in the program. The next year the college added its Domestic Science Department, so wheat was grown, ground to flour and baked into bread by the speakers. Another time the toasters "hitched their wagons to the stars." This year music was again used as the theme of the program. Indeed, the ease with which the classes, alumnae and faculty members have compared themselves to "As You Like It" or "Much Ado About Nothing;" to the opening flower; to the lucky leaves of the four-leaf clover; to the cornerstone or walls of the building; to the field of waving wheat or batch of dough; to Jupiter or Saturn; to sharps and flats or chords is truly marvelous. Morningside coeds are certainly versatile.

At the first banquet the president of the Girls' Student Body, Miss Ide Belle Lewis was toast mistress. In other years the president of the Agora Club has presided and introduced as toast mistress one of the faculty ladies. Miss Margaret Gay Dolliver was the first. Then Mrs. A. E. Craig and the next year Mrs. J. A. Coss. The year the gymnasium was opened Miss Lillian E. Dimmitt as toast mistress presided over the largest banquet the girls have ever had. Mrs. W. C. Hilmer was toast mistress for the Domestic Science program. Last year Mrs. H. G. Campbell introduced the stars. This year Mrs. J. J. Hayes told the story of writing of music and presented the speakers.

What the future may bring of joy and happiness we cannot tell, but always on the calendar of Morningside coeds, the Girls' Banquet will be marked with a Red Letter.

MARY LOIS CROUCH, '16.

"M" Minstrels

One day in each year the athletic organization of Morningside College, known as the "M" Club, rules the campus in an effort to raise funds. The above picture shows them in their minstrel show given March 24th. With Wulf and Obrecht as end men the audience was kept in an uproar over jokes cracked at the expense of members of the faculty and student body. Other members of the Club executed some very clever and characteristic dances. Following the minstrel show the various societies of the College appeared in songs and skits, and the Negro Stringed Quartette from Patrick's demonstrated the "hoe down" and the cake walk.

The matter of securing an audience never worries the "M" Club. Everyone, student body and faculty alike, go either to the entertainment or to the stocks and no one prefers the latter more than once. For this reason the "M" Carnival is unquestionably the most popular event of the year.

FORD FACTORY AT MORNINGSID

OBRECHT'S NEGLECT PROVES UNDO-
ING OF STUDENTS BODY
PRESIDENT.

MATERIAL TO BE FOUND IN SENIOR CLASS.

It was the night before Commencement. The silvery moon was shining brightly on our fair campus and on the Spoon-holder, where Wendell told Gladys that old, old story for the steenth time and on a porch on Morningside Avenue Fish bade Edna good night and gracefully backed down the steps.

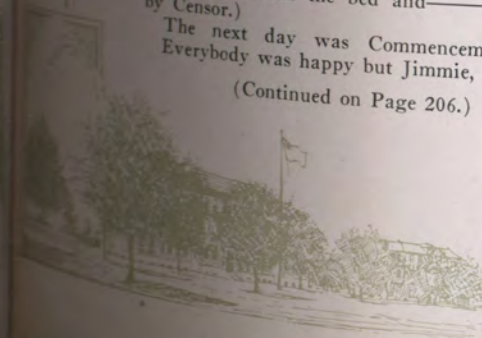

The road to the monument was well lighted so that Hod and Cecil could give all their attention to each other and were not compelled to watch their step, while on the Big Sioux River, Pug was almost inspired to words, as he and Ruth floated along in the bright moonlight. The little squirrels which haunt the trees around Sunshine Inn had gone to sleep after their gluttonous feast.

On this night, or rather, about 2 A. M. James Rush Kolp bade his fair maiden good night and started for home. As Obrecht had invited him to come and stay with him some night, Jimmie thought that would be a good night to do so. So he went to Obrecht's room and prepared to retire. Thinking that he had forgotten to wind his watch and unable to find it in the dark, he turned on the light. As he stood there casually winding his watch he glanced towards the bed and——(Cut out by Censor.)

The next day was Commencement Day. Everybody was happy but Jimmie, who went

Great excitement was created on our campus when it was announced that Henry Ford was going to establish a Branch Ford Factory at Morningside. Much speculation was rife as to where and how he would get his material, but a staff reporter in a personal interview obtained this information from Mr. Ford.

He announced that he could get all of his material from the Senior Class. For the body of the machine he would use Ray Harrington's shoes by cutting them down a little. For the mudguards Dutton's ears would be sufficiently large. Eiffert would make good axles because he is so well seasoned. Rosene's neck would make good tires, it is solid rubber. Marguerite Cummings would make a good steering wheel, she is so easy to turn. For a made-to-order crank there is Laura Pease. For a brake Al Hornney could be used, he is always broke. Gailord Starr could be used to good advantage for a windshield as no wind ever blows around him. For a headlight Bess Shannon's dome could be used, it is light and shining. For wheels, he said, he would borrow some from Art Payne's head. For nuts to fasten the machine together any senior would do. For cushions Wils Clark would be excellent for he has been sat on so many times by the faculty. For an air pump any member of the class would serve.

TEN O'CLOCK RULE

Why is the ten o'clock rule?

This is a question often asked but never satisfactorily answered.

It is like the federal constitution, it has two interpretations, that of the strict constructionists, and that of the liberal constructionists.

The strict constructionists are few in number, being the landladies, some of the faculty and a few of our spaghetti-backboned students who wouldn't stay after ten o'clock under any consideration. The landladies, of course, we do not blame, since it results in wearing out her chairs, (or chair), burning gas or electricity (not in all cases), in addition to sometimes taking the morning paper with them when they go.

Those who believe in a liberal interpretation are many. Most of the students are in favor of this interpretation. In the first place they do not believe there should be a ten o'clock rule, and second, if it has to be, let it be liberally interpreted.

Now we think a young gentleman should be allowed to stay after ten when calling upon a fair, (or unfair), co-ed under certain conditions. These conditions are.

1. That he talks loud enough so that he can be heard all over the house.
2. That he will shut all the doors when he goes.
3. That he will not take the milk or the morning paper with him.

CHAPEL CUTS

Five? Gee, that's a small number. In the good old days we used to think fifteen was not enough. Well, fifteen was but five isn't, at least to some. What we advocate is this: All fussers, both faculty and students, should have an extension on the number of chapel cuts. Non-fussers such as George Pratt, Harry Rosene, James Reistrup, Dale Norton, and Virgil Gerkin never went fussing simply because they could not cut chapel and fuss, as could be done under the old regime. It is wrong that these gentlemen should have themselves blighted, their hearts and heads cracked, simply because

Orleans Yaps Humbled

CRUCIAL GAME OF SEASON GOES TO
SOUTH NEWTON BRAVES

On Orleans Avenue there are two rooming houses. One is called the Bleakly House and the other the Patrick Gang. They bought a football and practiced every day until they thought they were quite proficient in the workings of the game, and all were stricken with inflated craniums.

They challenged the South Newton Braves to a game of football. This South Newton street also had two rooming houses, the Kennel Klub and Sunshine Inn, whose inmates were all fine young men. Although these men had no football and had had no practice, yet they accepted the challenge of the Orleans Yaps.

The game was called at 3:30. At three the bleachers were packed and the field lined with students and cohorts of the two hostile camps. At 3:05 the South Newton team appeared and were given a great ovation. At 3:30 the Orleans team appeared and were greeted with hisses, cabbages, eggs and over-ripe fruit. The South Newton Band now appeared and rendered some partial airs.

At 3:30 the wind whistled through the trees and the game was on. It was a game remarkably free from football. South Newton kicked off to Orleans. Kolp, the Orleans fullback was downed in his tracks. Farnham gained four yards through the line. Nicholson, Orleans half, was stricken with goose pimples and had to be removed from the game. At this point Orleans tried a forward pass, but Hutchison, not having his compass along, passed the ball in the wrong direction. South Newton now took the ball on downs. The mighty South Newton backfield quartette, Kingsbury, Sherwood, Barks and Martin started a triumphant

RECRUITS SHOWING UP WELL.

Prospects for another successful season are very bright. Among the most promising recruits are Russell Smith of Eagle Grove, Fred Hackett of Onawa, Orville Crews of Sioux City, and Omer, who threatens to replace the veteran Obrecht. Downs of Manson, although an amateur made a strong start but has slumped and has been forced back to the bushes from whence he came. Sanger, although new at the game, showed extraordinary ability while in the game, not to be drawn into plays that would result in his being put-out. Among the veterans, Walker and Forbes, trying for the same position have a hard battle, but Forbes is winning out and Walker is warming the bench. Lloyd, Johnson and Wolle are showing up well and seem to have their heart in the work. As utility man, McConkey is making a very good showing, often stepping in and filling the place when the regular is absent. Those who are retaining their old positions are Van Horne, Kolp, Kingsbury, Hartley, Stonebrook, Kilbourne and Northrup, although he is being pushed hard by a man from the federal league. Leitch, an experienced man in the bushes, made a bad start and is working under a handicap.

With these prospects, and under such coaches as Prof. Hayes, Jones, and Himmel, we should have a successful season.

march down the field and were halted only by time being called.

Between halves the south Newton Band rendered more music. The game was delayed while Tom Kenney went home to see if he had a letter from Early, his home town. On his return the game was resumed. Orleans kicked off. Kingsbury made 15 yards on a forward pass. Leitch was completely exhausted but after eating a couple dozen onions, he was stronger and again went back into the game.

On the next play Kingsbury would have made a touchdown but he broke his shoe string

We haven't handed the Seniors any compliments because we are like the Father of our Country, we cannot tell a lie.

Judging from some of the hours the freshmen keep, they must be out for milkmen.

Chas. Fry has accepted a position at Stone Park for the summer, teaching the ostriches to fly.

Joe Bogard will never try to bribe any of the faculty again. He wanted to get on the good side of the Librarian, so he gave her a box of rouge, but Joe says he got about half of it back again when she thanked him for it.

Ruby Flynn says she doesn't believe in preparedness, but that she wouldn't mind being in arms.

Archie Freeman has waited for the fussing season to open up with Patience.

Willis Forbes has opened up a new dray line for books between Dolliver's and the Main Hall. Times of transit: going north 8:30 A. M.; going south 12:30 P. M.

A petition is being circulated among the students to witness the girl's inter-collegiate debate. This will be presented to the College Education Board of Iowa for action upon.

Minnie Fry reports that she is studying so little that she is almost getting Rusty.

See "The Great Emancipator" by Harrison Kilbourne. In this great play Killy announces himself as heartily in favor of freedom of the Blackman.

on their five yard line and had to stop and repair it. Orleans then got the ball on a fumble. Bill Wolle here lost his shoes, a hush and reverence (for the dead) fell over the audience as they were being carried off the field.

After two or three more plays, time was called and the Orleans Yaps went off the field dejected, because they had been defeated by the South Newton Braves in spite of their weeks of practice. However it alleviated the pain of their inflated craniums for the time being.

they cannot go fussing during chapel like Van-Horne, Harvey, Dodsley, Johnson, Kingsbury, Clark, Northrup, Forbes, Lloyd, McConkey and an army of others. Was it not while cutting chapel that Professor Hayes first got acquainted with Miss Brand? Was it not while strolling neath our fair trees (10:20-10:40), that Casey got that deeper friendship for Ruby? Was it not while standing by the window, in the lower corridor during chapel that Mabel thought of Glen as her Sir Galahad? Look at these examples in contrast with these first shown, and see for yourself if it is not an injustice to our student body to be restricted to five chapel cuts.

We wonder who will take Harvey Lawrence's place, playing the part of Alice on the glee club trips next year.

A petition has been circulated by Verle Hart prohibiting college boys from fussing down town girls because of inconvenient car service.

FOUND

The following letter was picked up in the corridor of the Main Hall, first floor. In order that the owner may recognize it we are printing it in full.

Dear Mary,

Do you know Opie? Well, he's my friend (maybe more than that some time). Well, he is a sophomore. I'm just a freshman, you know. Prof. Jones said Opie was an apt pupil. I guess he must have meant apt to flunk; I hope so because then I could catch up with his class.

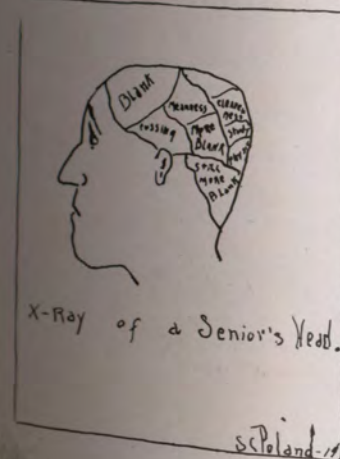

Opie says they have lots of exams in his classes, so he studies hard and holds a class meeting just outside the door just before exams, then he takes up a collection. When Opie don't know the answer he says, "See text, please, for answer". But you know some of the profs don't have books, so that is why he is apt to flunk.

Gee, I'm glad the term is almost over. You see, I live almost a block from college, so I have to get up so early. So to be sure to get there in time I have to have two alarm clocks. One I set for five o'clock. This wakes me up so I can set the other one for seven. And that way I'm never late to classes.

I believe I like baseball better than sewing because I know it better. All of our boys wear stripes around their stockings. Opie says they are for the same reason that farmers paint white stripes around the tree trunks; so that bugs can't crawl up them. I think one of the players tried to make a goal by pushing another down in the game. I heard the umpire say "one down" and he told one fellow to strike, but he never did it at all. The umpire seemed to know everybody pretty well because he kept waving at them over his shoulder. I should think they would have more than one ball for all those boys, wouldn't you? Well I guess I had better close,

Yours confectionately,
Rosie.

P. S. Opie and I went to the movies last night. They weren't very clear and I got ear-espipolis trying to listen to them.

"THE RAVING"

BESSIE REED '20

Once upon a day so dreary, one green freshman baby was weary
From a wiener roast the night before—
In English class he gave his number, then, like Williams took a slumber,
His gay and jovial spirits to restore—
Slumber minus every snore.

* * * *

At Hyde and Search the sun did play as in his Ford he made his way—
To meet his comrades on the distant shore—
To catch the boat for a short Crews, a little Harder applied the fuse,
And thus the lonely hours swiftly wore.

Darkness then and nothing more.

At last the Lake came into view, and from his Ford he fairly flew,
To gently stroke her Back of Steele once more—
To say that she had Dunn-again the class of work that she did when
In childhood days the Lizzie left the store—

Never again—no—nevermore.

So to the West-fall of the Lake, the Lizzie came without mistake,
Before her there a league out from the shore,
At peace the great White ship, the Kamper drifted quietly at anchor,
Encircled by the night's majestic lore,

Tossed and rocked, no, nothing more.

If human eyes were not deceiving, it were time that she were leaving,
They would not leave him there upon the shore,
Osborne along by wings of air, the Call soon came "We're waiting here,
The ship will sail in just ten minutes more."

Only this and nothing more.

With one quick move he doffed his coat and sprang into an old rowboat,
The Troutman paced aghast the rocky shore.
The freshman lad so Bent-on going, saved the Day by violent rowing,
It was Two-good the way the croud did roar,

Cheered and shouted, yea, and more.

With cheerful sound of "Hackett, Hackett", Fry(ed) the engine of the packet,
To Hall-em to-Ward the Sutherland's shore:
On deck the Carver and the Dean, the Smith and Porter could be seen
The Taylor and Butler with the ladies, yea, by the score—

All of these and still some more.

THE SEAL OF TRUTH

THE foundation upon which this institution has built since its inception years and years ago is the Truth. The Truth in advertising, the Truth in merchandising, the Truth over the counter, the Truth everywhere and nothing but the Truth

THIS is the only fertile soil in which any store can grow, thrive and prosper, and the wonderful prosperity Davidson's have enjoyed is proof conclusive that the Truth has always been and is the pivot around which all the activities of this establishment are revolving.

TRUTH engenders public confidence and public confidence is the most cherished and valued asset "The Big Store" possesses. To foster, strengthen and spread this public confidence to the utmost limits of its sphere of influence shall be its goal always.

DAVIDSON BROS. CO.

And through his subconscious soul the English principles did roll,
Would "Unity" be with him evermore?
And "Emphasis" and then "Coherence" with him did start interference,
He answered not a Jeep, not even a single snore,
Green for sure and something more.

Up from Belew in trembling sound, a piteous wail was wafted Raun,
'Twas like a Cow,-an Wolf's and Martin's roar,
'Twas the old Bald-win with the Beard, as he his lady gently cheered,
While thus he sang-er love songs o'er and o'er,
Worse than Hilmer, yea far more.

And with this Wier(d) and Hays(y) tone, a Payne did Pearce his Hart
of Stone,
It Pearce'd his Hart unto the very Corr,
So Back he Wendt to yonder side to ask her to become his bride,
More Abel was none, not even one Whitt-more.
De-well my lad, or nevermore.

Select your words right well old man, yes that was the emphasis plan,
If you your point successfully would score,
And so with pleading words and clever, asked her to be his Doll-ever,
"Oh yes, Mei-Dell", she sobbed, "I'd just adore,
Yours I am for evermore."

And just as he was ready to speak, at yonder door he heard a click
The door was locked, the English class was o'er,
And when he heard the sweet refrains of those entrancing chapel strains
With tear-dimmed eyes in his boyish heart, he swore—
"Naps in class, NO, Nevermore."

Tw'as the night before Thursday when all through the school
Not a creature did stir but a couple of fools.
And Jessie was sleeping so calmly in bed
While visions of discipline ran through her head.
And all the good students who honor the right,
Had just settled themselves for the rest of the night,
When back in the library there appeared two young boys.
With paint-brush and paint-pail they made not a noise.
These two young collegians, with slow stealthy stride
Approached the pen closer and each other guyed
About which color would look best by the light of the day,
Red and Black they selected, both somber and gay.
"Don't lean on the fence" and "Kids, keep away"
Were warnings which glared at us all through the day.
And now one more mystery confronts our dear college;
We all seem a seeking the following knowledge,
Who are the young culprits with artists rich mind?
Come help us, you scoundrels, this tangle unwind
But, Students of Morningside, though you may have done wrong,
You'll long be remembered in verse and in song.
So here's to the artists, whom we dare not disclose,
May they live long and be happy, and at last, sweet repose.

AN ODE

FROM THE CLASS OF '18 TO THE CLASS OF '17

It was as freshmen seeking knowledge
That we came to Morningside College,
And you met us here, a baloon-dome sophomoric crew.
It was as brothers that you met us,
But well we knew you would not let us
Know the plots you had against us, as in your minds they grew.
As it came time for class scrapping,
Then you tried to catch us napping,
And you took some of our members out into the rural brush.
And you bound them with strong fetters,
You were regular goat-getters,
But your hopes were to be shattered, and trampled in the slush.
As the time came for the tussle
All freshmen began to hustle,
They escaped the bonds that bound them, and to the fray they flew
Hard they fought, cheered on by co-ed,
But we freshies from the start, led,
And when the scrap was over, defeat was hung on you.
Since that time we've ne'er been beaten,
You've been skinned alive and eaten
By the dear old class that graduates in the year 1918.
Both in basketball and track meets,
You've been made to take the back seats,
And in many other conflicts, you've been clicked upon the bean.
Now as seniors you must leave us,
We scarce can tell how it will grieve us,
And although you're still uncultured, your faults we'll overlook,
And as we bid farewell tomorrow,
Though it causes both much sorrow,
Yet in ways that we outclass you, we still could write a book.

These are the naughty, naughty girls that swiped the boys clothing. See the fiendish glee written on their faces. This picture was a strong contender in the atrocious contest, but did not receive first because of bribes and threats which the editor received. We can't tell you all we would like to.

Here are the victims of the above atrocity. These poor boys had to make up for the lost time while the "villianettes" had their clothes. They are here seen "sawing wood", their favorite pastime.

Here are the champion som'r'set players of South Newton and Orleans Avenues. The man in the sweater is the champion stepper in school and it is expected that he will better Noe's record before June 1.

Here we have Nakado and his harem. This might be interpreted as an advertisement for the Sioux City Tent and Awning Company, but it isn't.

This is a quartette of versatile ability. McConkey, the stepper, Hunt the basketball forward, Payne the debater, and VanHorne, debater and stepper extraordinary.

It is a matter of Especial pride that during the past year we have Demonstrated our faith in the Suburb of Morningside in the erection of our new and modernly Equipped Bank Building. Morningside College, with its rapid strides in educational development has helped us greatly in making this substantial improvement possible. Caring for the banking needs of a city suburb is a live factor in the growth and in the advantages offered to prospective home builders and home owners. We are especially grateful to the college faculty and students for past favors and shall always use our best efforts in the handling of their accounts.

This is the Petty Gang of last year. See how happy they look as they gaze into the distance, out of which will appear six young Sir Galahads, or shall we say Romeos, or possibly they will wear the cap and bells.

Really there is but one Case in this picture, figuratively there are at least three. The first is on the extreme left. The next is the lady on his left, or rather the case is down as Washburn. Mary says it doesn't matter who he is just so his hair is red and his name is Leland.

These are the preps. On the extreme left is Sanger, who can resist temptation in any form and of very great strength. There are also some more "Salubrities" here.

Future home makers. On the left are two of the victims, just ready for the sacrifice. Its too bad and they're juniors too.

In another picture we had, her shoulder was partly hidden by Leitch's hand, although she said she didn't know it was there. A law of psychology says that sensations become unnoticeable if habitually ignored.

Here we have the Prattler Club. They are: Stonebrook, who believes in much fussing and concentrated efforts; Pritchard, who fusses a nice Bergh sometimes, and Randolph who, like Stony, believes in much fussing, but not concentrated fussing; Engberg, a well-known violator of the ten o'clock rule; Warnes who roomed with Curry and has gone home to see her now, and McBride, the snipe hunter.

This is after the Great Compromise of 1916 which was settled peaceably without bloodshed and without Compulsory Arbitration, but nevertheless satisfactorily to all parties.

Perhaps the most notorious figure in this picture is that illustrious(?) senior, Minnie Fry. She and Rusty McBride are often seen together, thus carrying out that old Maxim, "Birds of a feather."

At each end are the champion long distance fussers of the junior and senior classes, respectively. We don't know whether they have been playing cards or not but according to King they have been holding some good hands.

These pictures are typical of Morningside groups.

The first one is entitled "Why High School Men come to Morningside." We know a good one on the lady on the extreme right, but we dare not publish it.

An up-river trip. This is the crew for the boat "U. R. Slow" on the Big Sioux River. They go on duty at 4 P. M. and stay until 12 P. M.

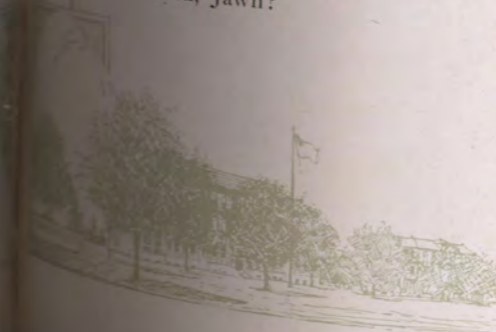

We don't know whether this is supposed to be a snake dance, a bread line or one of the modern dances.

Some more Salubrities. From left to right they are: Tuffer N. Leather, Helen Highwater, A. Buncha Junk, I. Etta Bugg, G. A. Longfellow, Iona Carr, Will E. Bite, and G. Whatta Crabb.

Naughty, Naughty. Why children, where is your chaperone. There are the eats, the girls, and everything to make up a party, but the chaperone. Did you forget about the rule book, Jawn?

Feeding time. See how the crowd has gathered around, as it always does, when the squirrels are being fed. See the great dexterity with which Mabel serves the food, thinking of the future. Even Ruth is smiling as if contemplating a happy future.

To be shot at sunrise. Some are partly so now. See how Clara through force of habit, holds the hand of the person beside her. And there is Cleo, who just loves to put on stunts at the carnival, or perhaps we should say puts on love stunts.

This is the Devitt Bunch. The boy standing at the left with that platonic smile, Sammy, would be a pretty good kid if he wasn't rooming with Strangler Norton. This taken with another fact, that he stays with the Patrick Gang accounts for his eccentricities. Therefore we pity him.

Please notice the central figure in

No, this is not the women's ward in the city jail, although some might think so. This is a corner of our domestic science department where the girls cook things for the biology cats to save the boys the trouble of killing them.

Don't you pity that one lady there, that junior? Dame Fortune was cruel to her and brought her into this bunch of unsophisticated Sophs, and worse still, one senior, but such is life.

Wouldn't the little squirrels have "pickins" here? Gee, they'd feast for a month. But these ladies feel safe because they're behind thick walls.

We would call this picture "hashed chaperones". Women's Athletics, English, Expression and Agriculture all meet here. As certain bells have rung since this picture was taken, we dare not say any more.

This is a picture of the sophomores when they were freshmen, although they have not improved much. As the background of this picture is also green it is impossible to distinguish plainly where the landscape ends and the freshmen start.

Deak says, "Tread Easy", so we won't say anything about this, although we have the goods on him.

We don't know whether the gun is for self-defense against squirrels or not. From left to right they are: Kill M. Quick, Otto B. Schott, I. Rhoda Mule, and Ima Nutt.

We could write volumes on the checkered careers of these four and of the trail of broken hearts they have left by the wayside. But suffice it to say, they are sophomores.

MORINGSIDE GIRLS AT LAKE GENEVA

"Geneva, so much looked forward to—so much enjoyed" was a slogan which proved itself to the Morningside Delagation last August. After some trying experiences with such trivialities as no breakfasts and lost baggage, Morningside found her way to Williams Bay, Wisconsin, where with two hundred college and university girls of Chicago, a steamer was boarded and guided to that beautiful site of the Y. M. C. A. College—Summer Camp.

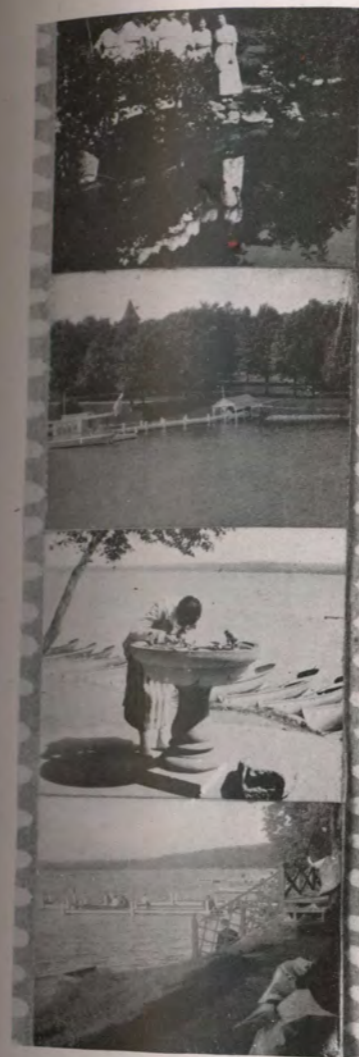

Everyone was made to feel quite at home and it was but a short time until we were located and settled in our tent near Grinnell, Cornell and Ames, for a ten day camp. Nine hundred and fifty girls can make a decided impression on any community, but soon we found that the great oaks, parks, drives, shady paths, and the lake, dotted in every direction with yachts, steamers, sails, and happy bathers, gradually impressed us in such a way that the remainder of the time we gave our selves up to the "spell of Geneva."

Because we had the largest conference ever held there, it was necessary to be very alert in order to take in everything that the committees in charge offered. For instance, one failing to reach the Dining Hall at the proper time might miss the first four or five courses of the dinner, and at Geneva this does not do. The usual walks, hikes, swims, picnics, etc., were indulged in, if one could manage either side of the "two o'clock quiet hour" skillfully. Classes and lectures took up the morning hours, while in the evening addresses by famous men drew immense crowds from surrounding camps.

A reception given at the first of the Conference made us feel acquainted and until the time we parted in Chicago, we considered ourselves as just one big family. There was no unfriendly rivalry at any time and various "U's" and Colleges met together for chats, study, good times or prayer after the evening services.

The influence of the great men and women who were there for our uplift and education could not help but broaden our lives. Christian spirit and fellowship were everywhere. If you have not been to Geneva, plan to go next year, as it should be a part of every student's college course.

Lake Geneva for Men

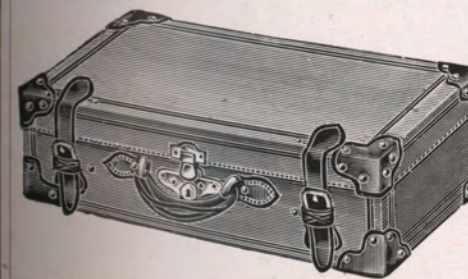

There is an impetuous demand for Christian Leadership in this world today that is sounding within the walls of every college in America. Nothing short of a movement including every "red blooded" college man with a great evangelistic passion will be sufficient for the immediate demands of the future.

The Lake Geneva Student Conference is one of the most fertile spots in the world for the birth of ideals that direct the course of true Christian lives. Of the nine hundred and fifty men who gather on the shores of Lake Geneva every year, perhaps every man would say, that his conception of what Christianity should mean to a college man had been changed so that he has become a more efficient Christian than ever before.

Lake Geneva invites every college student who has accepted, or is willing to accept definite responsibility for the promotion of Christian influence in college.

No pains have been spared to secure the men who are especially qualified in leading students into such vital relationship with Jesus Christ. We feel safe therefore in recommending Geneva as an essential part of a complete college education. GO TO GENEVA.

During the past seven years nineteen Morningside students have enjoyed a very profitable part of their summer vacations at the McBride Lakeside Laboratory on West Okiboji Lake. Here

—“our life, exempt from public haunt,

Finds tongues in trees, books in run-
ing brooks,

Sermons in stones, and good in everything.”

A summer spent here on moranic hills, natural prairies, woodland shores and sparkling waters of Iowa's most beautiful summer resort will never be forgotten by anyone who has availed himself of the unequalled opportunity afforded here for combining study and recreation.

From the time your ambitious tent-mate rouses you from sound outdoor sleep until you wearily forget yourself in the same sound slumber on the same cot at night, there is never a dull minute. You get to breakfast on time at six forty-five and attempt to satisfy a ravenous appetite. At seven-thirty you meet for classes or embark on a field trip with hand lens, bird glass, or specimen cases under the direction of the able instructor who is enjoying the experience as much as anyone. It is a long while until dinner at eleven-forty-five and your appetite is still ravenous, as is that of the others. To eat three times a day with students of other colleges and teachers of wide learning, experience and travel who are all in for a genuine and uproarious good time at meal time and several other times a day as well, is an education in itself.

The afternoon until four o'clock is spent much as the forenoon, in the laboratory, or out in the field whenever the weather permits. After four o'clock the professors and instructors forget what little dignity they may have had during school hours and enter into the water sports on a splendid, nearby bathing beach with as much roguish hilarity as the most enthusiastic freshman. The hours after supper, which comes at six thirty, are spent much as one's heart desires;—fishing, boating, studying or reading in the spacious library of the cottage where, on cool evenings a fire roars in the fireplace, or playing games. Once a week there is a stunt party after supper, which is productive of much merriment. Occasional launch and sailboat parties are organized to spend the evening or Sunday afternoon on the lake.

Too much emphasis can hardly be placed on the benefits of being a part of this rare combination of democratic fellowship, study, recreation, and living with students of other colleges and with some of the most able scientific men of the country, even during the short period of six weeks. Such an experience is a cherished memory to anyone who has been a part of it.

This is a page of Salubrities about Morningside. This is Bill getting Down. No, it isn't Vivian, but her little sister. See with what brotherly care he guides and helps her.

No, this is not Queen Liliuokalani, but Mary Dolliver with her ukelele. Perhaps she is trying to quiet some of the many girls that stay there, as it is said that music will subdue the fiercest heart.

This picture was not run by request. We don't know whether to name it, "The Days of Real Sport," "When a Fellow Needs a Friend," or the "Powerful Katrinka."

Here we see one of our salubrities, but, fellow students, what we want you to notice is that shadow. If you can guess who it is send in your answer to Mr. E. G. Stonebrook, and receive a liberal reward.

The Days of '49. "Trapper" always did have an innate tendency to investigate into the inner workings of the unknown and unknowable. Here we have him investigating the domicile of a pocket gopher.

We run this person as a celebrity for two reasons. First, she was manager of the so-called basketball game between Yale and Harvard, and second, (this reason proves her good judgment more than any other possibly could) because she says the joke department of this Annual is very good.

Yes, of course, Al posed for this picture. However, since it is this year instead of last, he could find his own book. Al is studying hard this year at that. Besides his resident work he is taking a correspondence course which requires much reverie and dreaming.

Where did you get those books, Lee? Did you forget to hand them to her when you said Good-bye or did you get them for the college librarian? You're supposed to be on the black-list there.

Sixty Minutes

If you realized how much easier it is to prevent aggravated forms of eye trouble than it is to relieve them, you would not neglect your eyes for a day.

It will probably take less than an hour of your time to have us thoroughly examine your eyes and tell you how to relieve them, and it may save you from years of eye trouble.

This picture received first prize in the atrocious contest. See the beautiful expression on her face as he whispers sweet little syllables into her shell-like ear. Of course she is a senior, so we suppose this accounts for the picture.

This picture received second place in the atrocious contest. They are a couple of our fair co-eds. The one above is a fair senior, a lady with lots of blond, curly hair. We are telling you all we know now so as not to be pestered with questions when the annual comes out.

Here we have the princess Frederica a Dupont Von Appel and her gallant husband. Alas, his affections have been alienated and now he has his Knapp regularly.

No, this is not Ruby. Neither was the picture run by request. Here we have Casey as he was in the days of yore when love was new, and fickle. Although his favorite stone is the Ruby, he has been known to buy diamonds.

Don has won two "M's" since he has been in school and it is whispered that he has one M. M. also.

You ask what the lady is doing. Well we'll explain. She wanted a toothpick so she just reached up and scratched his head.

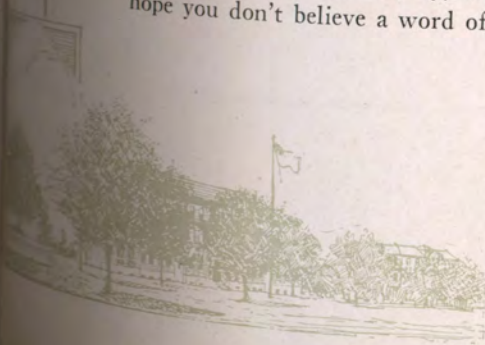

We think it was Shakespeare who said about Kay, "He loved not unwisely, but too frequently."

Charles Victor Payne, student and astronomer. His favorite poem is, "Twinkle, twinkle, little star, how I——"

Although Don is not a botany fiend he is very interested in Ferns. Here we have them abusing the silences of the Big Sioux River with their chatter and giggles. Since this Don has listened to the music of other lady's voices by his side.

This is Hod and Cecil along the west bank of the Big Sioux. They are not in school this year, but a film of fussers would not seem complete without them. A monument in the background would make them look more at home however.

Ladies and Gentlemen, you may observe before you the champion middle distance fusser of the college. Wendell smiles in that regular go-to-wedding manner, which has fooled many girls before Gladys.

We had to tree this couple before we could get their picture. She is teaching school this year. She addressed a letter to her brother to Orleans Avenue. Her brother lives on South Newton. Some explanation due here.

Lloyd says that although he isn't playing cards he is holding some good hands. Lloyd was elected president of the Tennis Association three years ago and is still president. Reason, no meetings called.

We don't know who this fellow is, but he looks happy anyway. We wonder why a state school appeals to him more than a denominational school. Lida told us that no one had this picture but herself, but she surely must have been mistaken.

Bing!

This is another case of high school affairs being carried into college. But brace up Fish. Take it like a man. 'Twas ever thus.

Stoney's favorite subject for themes in English is "The Modern Co-ed," so that both Professor Hayes and She know what his idea of an ideal woman is.

This picture run by Spec's request. He can throw more concentrated fussing into a square inch than any other man in school. We suppose he will have another girl by the time this is published, but then we are not going to attempt to keep up to his pace.

Hugh is very good at doing personal work. This is one picture showing a failure however, for she has not returned to school this year. Brace up, Hugh.

Ladies, here is the champion heavy-weight fusser of the college. In the library (before kicked out), in the corridors, or on the campus, Jons is equally at home if his Sue is by his side.

"Jimmie Hayes and Miss Brand." As such they will always be remembered by Morningside students, instead of Dr. and Mrs. Hayes. In this picture, however, Professor Hayes is not sitting on that dining room chair.

Here is our Y. M. president looking out over the Missouri River. We had hard work to persuade them to let us take this picture, that is we had a hard time finding it. We can't tell what she is thinking about.

It is never cloudy to Hildred, always Fair. But the football captain-elect appears upon the scene, the plot thickens. But what can men expect of fickle co-ed.

Shoey, we didn't think it of you. An ex-champion fusser, who had the fine art of kidding the fairer sex up to 100 per cent efficiency, to at last give all his valuable time to one lady.

Eagle Grove High School is responsible for this, so don't blame it on Morningside College. The first date this couple had dates back farther than any other couple in school.

David says, "Daisies won't tell." It's too bad she isn't in school this year. We don't see how he can Barrett.

Jim, on his way to see "her." Note the melancholy air, with which he proceeds to his fate. Jim says "Only two more blocks and then——"

See how guilty this pair look. They are the misfits of the picture above. Cupie isn't in school this year. We don't know whether this is the reason or not.

The gentleman in this picture has that pessimistic, getting married, never-do-it-again look, but his fate has already been sealed. "And when he became a man he put away childish things and took up a—. See page 213.

Shh! Quiet! We mustn't disturb these two infatuated individuals, nestled in armorous juxtaposition. But, don't worry, they'll get over it.

The lady in the picture is the captain of this good ship. Ruth says he minds the helm pretty well too.

PREPAREDNESS

*After the War Be Prepared to do Your Share in the Great Industrial Re-organization
That Is Certain to Take Place.*

*Education is not a Luxury, It Is a Necessity.
Prepare for Leadership.*

WHY GO TO COLLEGE?

- It heightens the ideals and gives direction to the ambitions.
- It increases efficiency and earning ability.
- It develops mental mastery and trains the mental processes.
- It helps you find your place in the professions.
- It develops all that is best and worth preserving in you.
- It widens your circle of friendships.
- It trains for the most useful citizenship.
- It opens the door of opportunity.

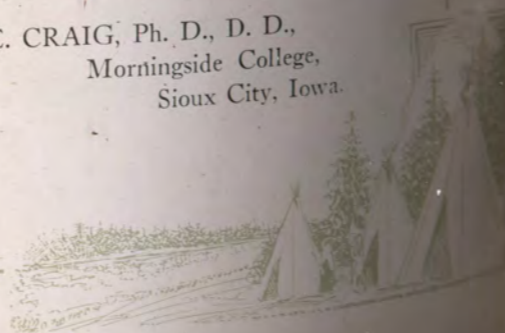

WHY CHOOSE MORNINGSIDE?

- Here only the highest standards of scholarship and morality prevail.
- It has a splendid college atmosphere.
- It has many graduates of distinction.
- It is not conducted for the purpose of making money. All that a student pays in and much more goes back into his education.
- Its social life is exceptionally free from objectionable features.
- It has a fine enthusiasm for clean and legitimate sports.
- It has one of the best equipped gymnasiums in the state.
- It has a faculty especially strong in scholarship, having been trained in the leading universities of Europe and America. The teaching is done by experienced professors, not by tutors and instructors without experience.
- Its buildings are all fireproof and equipped with thoroughly modern appointments and conveniences.
- Thorough practical instruction is offered at a cost as low as is consistent with high quality.
- Scholarships are offered to worthy and meritorious students.
- It welcomes to these privileges the worthy of all ranks with equal rights and opportunities to all.

The fall term opens September eleventh.

Cy and Frances. Cy is a fusser of the first magnitude. What happened to your South Dakota Romance, Cy? She seems to be in a hurry to get away. We would too if we were with him.

This is Walker in his characteristic position. Of course, the ladies are just freshmen, so that accounts for it. They'll know better by the time they are seniors.

You're a fine guy, Stiles. Why aren't you carrying her books. Lucky thing for you that Hartley never heard of this or you would be under the care of the Red Cross Association.

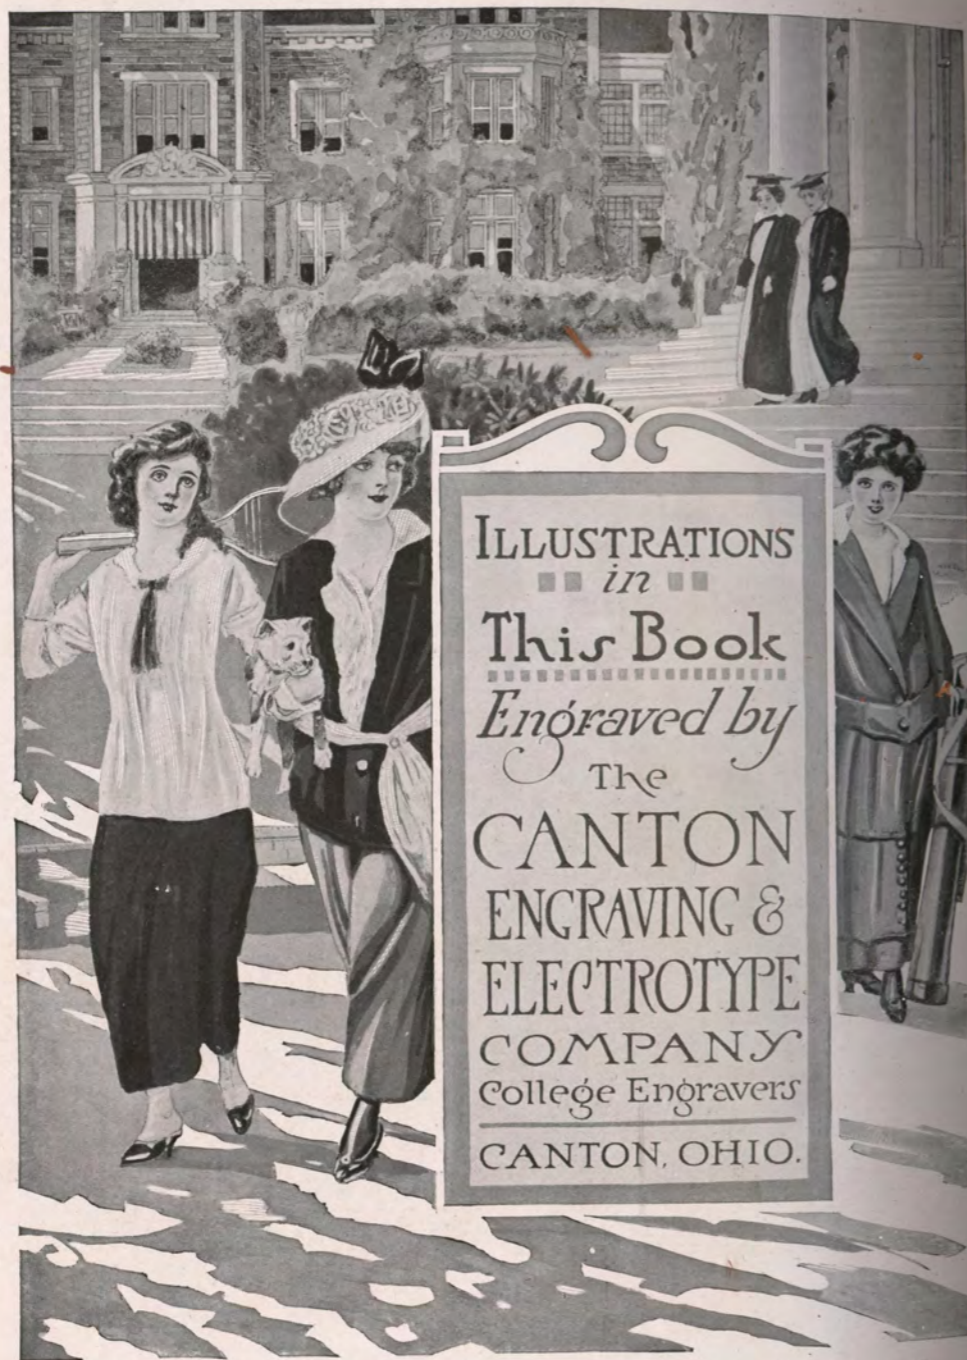

THANKS

To the engravers and photographers for taking the pictures of people and making them good-looking—people who were—well, otherwise.

To the Student Body for its many suggestions as to how the Sioux '18 might be made attractive,—several days after it has been printed.

To the Senior Class who have made possible a joke section.

IF YOU WANT YOUR ANNUAL PRINTED AND bound the way you want it and when you want it, the logical thing to do is to place your order where you feel at ease about it being properly taken care of.

Editors, managers and others who have to do with the making of annuals have their time fully occupied without the anxieties and perplexities that come because of placing their order in the hands of inexperienced annual builders.

We are annual specialists. You can place your order with us with full confidence that you will get a high-class book.
