ON OUR COVER:

The Washington Redskins' spring practice prevented George Allen from attending the press conference announcing the scholarship he has established at Morningside. So he chose guard Paul Laaveg to present the plaque and the check to President Thompson, and then Allen talked via telephone. For the story on what the coach and the president said, see the Morningsider's sports section.

Estate Planning

How about a gift that pays you a guaranteed income for the rest of your life?

Gift Annuity

Age	Rate of Annual Income
60	5.2%
65	5.6%
70	6.2%
75	7.0%
80	8.2%
85	10 %

Example:

Farm land can be given to the college at appraised value. 100 acres at appraised value of $1000 an acre = $100,000. At age 70 the annual income would be $6200.

A large portion of the annuity payments you receive are tax free because of your gift to the college. In the example above 72.4% of the $6200 would be tax free.

In addition, you would be entitled to an immediate charitable contribution deduction on your income tax return for the year.

These are examples. You can get additional information from your attorney or tax consultant.

Morningside College will send you pamphlets which contain additional information if you so desire. Write to: A. W. Buckingham, Estate Planning Office, Morningside College.

More FUN for Old Grads

Blend together a large portion of fond memories, add a number of old friends in a familiar campus setting, season with a weekend of good times, and you have Homecoming—Morningside Style—1974.

The committee in charge of this year's event is drafting a schedule designed to make old alums drool. Of course there will be the community service projects which have been so popular the last few years; the students to date have contributed hundreds of hours to helping others at Fall Festival time, and there's still a great deal of good to be done.

But if the 1974 Homecoming badge, with its big maroon "M" and the slogan "Days of Wine and Roses," strikes you as an invitation to grow nostalgic, then the committee has found its target.

As the Morningsider went to press, the committee members were drafting plans for the big week of Oct. 6 through 12. This is how the schedule is developing:

On Sunday evening, Oct. 6, the students hope to stage a kick-off dance, perhaps a marathon affair. Fun and games such as last year's pie eating contest will be featured each evening during the week.

The traditional talent show presented by students, faculty and alumni will be the Wednesday night attraction and the movie, "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?" will be shown Thursday night.

According to Jim Goede, chairman of the Homecoming Committee, the students hope to draw a top comedy show to campus for entertainment of alums on Friday night. While plans are still tentative, Jim confides that the committee is thinking of people of the caliber of George Carlin for a personal appearance.

But perhaps the biggest news for those who yearn for the homecomings of old is that the committee hopes to revive the traditional parade. There are a few hurdles to clear—Jim is attempting to get the green light for a parade from the city and has asked the Music Department to determine how many high school bands will be available that weekend to add numbers to the line of marchers.

Special reunions will be held this fall for the classes of 1959, '64 and '69. Plans are also being drawn for the All-Women's Luncheon which has been held in recent years at Dimmitt Hall. Members of the M Club, of course, will be holding their traditional luncheon with the presentation of blankets, in the Randolph Room of the Commons.

The pre-game activities will get underway at Roberts Stadium at 1 p.m., and 30 minutes later there will be the kickoff to the Chiefs' big game with the University of South Dakota's Coyotes.

It will be a special day for alum John Dornon, who will be making his homecoming debut as head coach of the Chiefs.

Excellent food, entertainment and fellowship will be featured at the Alumni Dinner Saturday evening. Another feature will be the installation of the Alumni Association board and its officers.

The dance in the main dining room of the Commons following the dinner will close the week's activities.

Goede says the committee certainly will continue the blood drive which has been so successful the past two years. Last fall more than 200 pints were contributed during the week to the Siouxland Community Blood Bank, Goede indicated that some of the other service projects (more than 3,000 hours of service to others were contributed by the campus community in the 1974 Fall Festival) will also be scheduled.

But he hopes the revamped program will encourage more alumni involvement. Assisting him in the project will be students Fran Struve, Dick Hornberger, Dave Fuchs, Joe Longo, Mike Shanks, Student Government President Bill Kriss and Roger Randall.

Enthusiasm Commencement,

TOP LEFT: Commencement speaker Michael Gartner, executive editor of the Des Moines Register, told the 256 graduates that unlawful activities which inflict no harm on others should be "decriminalized." The U.S. has become a nation that "listens to blue-noses but ignores red-handed thieves," and efforts spent in the enforcement of personal conduct laws detract from the more important task of safeguarding life and property, he said.

Marks '74 Alumni Days

TOP RIGHT: Some 650 persons packed the main dining room of the Commons Saturday evening for the Alumni-Senior Banquet. The largest crowd in recent years heard Dr. Miles Tommeraasen, '43, vice chancellor for Business and Finance at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, present the main address of the evening.

LOWER RIGHT: Special reunions were held for classes of 1924, '29, '34, '39, '44, '49 and '54. These members of the 50 year class were entertained by President and Mrs. Thompson on Friday evening, were honored at the luncheon Saturday noon, and recognized during the commencement program. Mrs. Leon Hickman (MAYME HOYT, '24) was luncheon speaker.

JOHN HOLTZE NAMED TO BOARD VACANCY

John S. Holtze, president of H. S. Holtze Construction Company of Sioux City, was elected to Morningside's board of directors, Chairman Bruce Crary announced at the close of the April meeting.

The selection of Holtze fills a vacancy that has existed since last fall in the directors' class of 1974.

In other action the board re-elected its current officers and named those members whose terms were due to expire this year (the class of '74) to another three year term as the class of 1977.

A native of Sioux City, Holtze majored in engineering at Iowa State University in 1941-42 and was graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., with a Bachelor of Science degree in 1945. During the next four years he served as a pilot in the Air Force.

He joined the Holtze Company in 1949 and was secretary-treasurer from 1958 until he was named president earlier this year.

Re-elected as officers of the board were Bruce Crary, chairman; E. C. Thompson and Richard King, vice chairmen; Berkley Bedell, secretary; and Elwood Olsen, treasurer and assistant secretary.

In addition to Holtze the class of 1977 includes Crary, King, Wesley Boldt, the Rev. Robert T. Dodder, Mark Gardner, John E. Griffin, Dr. Robert J. Hilker, Mrs. Lamar Jones, William Kirchner and Robert M. Lincoln.

KEENE ROADMAN DIES AFTER HEART ATTACK

Keene A. Roadman, 55, a member of the college's board of directors since 1970, died June 24 at a hospital in Margaretville, N.Y., following a heart attack. Mr. Roadman had served as president of the Margaretville Telephone Company since 1963.

He was a son of the late Dr. Earl A. Roadman, who was president of Morningside from 1936 to 1956.

Keene Roadman was born at Eldora, Iowa, and was graduated from Morningside in 1939. Following graduate work at Syracuse and American Universities, he served with the U.S. Department of Labor in Washington and was senior administrative officer of international labor affairs.

After leaving the department in 1950 he continued to serve the government in an advisory capacity. He was a member of the U.S. delegation to the International Labor Organization in Geneva, Switzerland, and a delegate to the United Nations Economics and Social Council (UNESCO) at Geneva.

Mr. Roadman received a Distinguished Alumni Award from the college in 1973. He also was a director of the National Bank and Trust Co. of Margaretville and vice president of the community's Memorial Hospital.

He is survived by the widow; a son, Larry, in law school at the University of North Carolina; a daughter, Karen, who resides in California; his mother, Mrs. Earl Roadman of Dike, Iowa; four sisters, Mrs. Gene (Joyce) Scott of Sioux City; Mrs. Art (Pauline) Fishbeck of Manitowoc, Wis.; Mrs. William (Earline) Bryan of Brownsville, Tex., and Mrs. Katherine McLaughlin of Omaha, Neb.; and a brother, Charles, of San Antonio, Tex.

WHO'S WHO AMONG VISITORS TO CAMPUS

Noted people who have visited campus since March 1:

Barry Commoner, well-known environmentalist, described railroads as the "ecologically efficient" way to move people and freight and said the U.S. rail system will have to be rebuilt. Citing transportation in Europe and Japan, Commoner suggested tax money would be necessary and added that "the entire issue of public ownership of the railroads is now in front of us."

Dr. Arthur Harkins, futurist from the University of Minnesota, said it is important for man to retain the capacity to modify his mores to meet situations as they arise—not in order to pervert values but rather to better understand them. Through the technology of values "we can help people to program themselves to do good things by learning how to design and modify their moral systems," he said.

Rabbi Eugene Borowitz, Jewish theologian, said man's chief problem is to develop the proper use of power. "Instead of reaching forward . . . you pull back and make room for the other person. It then becomes power not exercised in control, but rather in pulling forth, in bringing out, in exerting a creative presence on the person."

Dr. Charles Weingartner, educator and author, declared that as a result of the communications revolution education is now confronted by a totally new kind of student, and if the school persists in its old role—as a dispenser of information—it will continue to lose its audience. He called on education to lay aside old metaphors and absolutes, and to concern itself with the production of individuals who are "flexible, courageous, talented and innovative."

Edmund J. Farrell, associate executive secretary of the National Council of Teachers of English, predicted that education will become less formalized, that people will pursue their areas of interest on a voluntary basis when they feel like it, and it will be up to the educators to inspire them. In suggesting that the age for compulsory school attendance be lowered to 14, he said secondary students lacking motivation should be allowed to drop out and return later.

Lani Pettit, '70, a teacher in the South Sioux City school system, receives help from Lt. Col. John Lindsey in launching the rocket she made for Morningside's Aerospace Education Workshop. Aerospace, offered in two sections in June and July, was one of 10 summer workshops on the Morningside campus.

SPORNITZ, GEVIK FILL ADMINISTRATIVE POSTS

Morningside has a new registrar and financial aid officer and gained a new vice president as the result of recent changes in the administration.

William E. Spornitz, a member of the Business Administration faculty since 1950, was named by President Thompson to fill the vacancy in the Registrar's Office created by the retirement of Mrs. Irene Holman Friesner. The appointment was effective June 1.

Spornitz has served as an instructor in accounting and marketing and was chairman of the Business Administration Department from 1961-72.

A native of Park River, N.D., he received Bachelor of Science and Master of Arts degrees from the University of North Dakota and also studied at the Universities of Nebraska and Colorado. Mrs. Spornitz teaches in the Sioux City public schools.

Mrs. Friesner joined the Morningside staff in 1966 and served as assistant registrar until her appointment as head of the office in 1973. A native of Rockwell, Iowa, she received a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Iowa in 1931 and a master's degree from New York University.

Gary L. Gevik became director of Student Financial Affairs on June 1, succeeding Louis Croston, who retired after 16 years of service on the college staff.

Gevik received an Associate of Arts degree from Sioux Empire College in 1972 and his Bachelor of Arts with honors from Morningside in 1974. He was a computer technician in the Air Force from 1966-70 and served as director of admissions at Sioux Empire from 1971 until his appointment to the Morningside staff.

Croston, a 1930 Morningside graduate, had been director of the office since 1970, and previously had served as alumni director, associate director of wills and estates program and an admissions counselor.

Except for the 1969-70 academic year, when he was vice president of Sioux Empire, Croston had been associated with the Morningside staff since 1957. In 1972 he was named to a two-year term on the Iowa Advisory Council for State Student Aid Programs. His son, Craig, is director of admissions at Morningside.

President Thompson also announced that Donald E. Poppen, dean of students at Morningside since 1967, has been named a vice president of the college.

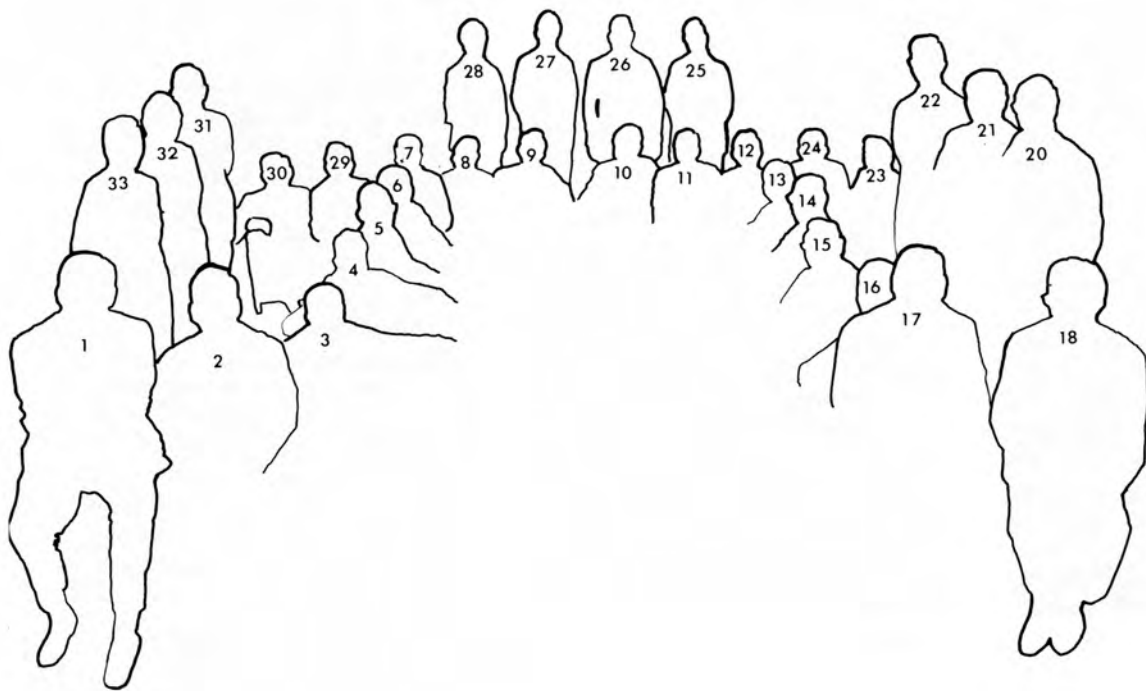

Dr. Poppen will continue in his duties as director of the Office of Student Affairs.

The president said the promotion is in recognition of the excellent leadership which Poppen has given to the office during a period in which its duties, responsibilities and importance to the college have multiplied.

SPORTS: NEW SEASON NEW FACES

ALLEN SCHOLARSHIP BOLSTERS PROGRAM

George Allen, general manager and coach of the Washington Redskins, is bolstering the Chiefs athletic program with an annual "full ride" scholarship, it was announced at a press conference in Roadman Lounge April 26.

The gift—covering tuition, fees, room and board—is valued at more than $2,900 yearly on the basis of Morningside's costs for the 1974-75 academic year.

Allen, who began his head coaching career at Morningside in 1948, was unable to attend the program because of the Redskins' spring drills. Representing him was Paul Laaveg, Washington's star left guard who played his college football at the University of Iowa.

Laaveg presented President Thompson with a check and a handsome plaque commemorating the establishment of the scholarship. Then Allen, via a long-distance telephone hookup, outlined his reasons for presenting the gift, reminisced about his days on campus and wished Morningside well on the gridiron.

In three years as Morningside's head football coach, Allen compiled a 15-12-2 record in the North Central Conference. Following his stay at Morningside he coached six years at Whittier College and began his pro coaching career as an assistant with the Los Angeles Rams in 1957.

After an eight-year stint as defensive coach of the Chicago Bears, Allen rejoined the Rams as head coach in 1966, and in his second season was named Coach of the Year.

He was named head coach of the Redskins in January 1971, and in just three seasons rebuilt the team with a record of 30 wins, 11 losses and one tie. The Redskins have competed in the playoffs each of those years and in 1972 won the NFC championship and played in the Super Bowl.

Morningside awarded Coach Allen an honorary doctor of laws degree in 1973.

The first winner of the Allen scholarship, Doug Bowers of Sioux City's West High, was announced in May.

Bowers, who will enter Morningside this fall, was all-city, all-conference and all-state in football during his senior year. He also was the Sioux Interstate 185-pound wrestling champion and shot putter this spring.

Coach John Dornon feels the 6-5, 215 pounder is an outstanding college prospect with an excellent attitude. He has the potential, Dornon believes, to become one of the top linemen in the North Central Conference.

Bowers was presented with the scholarship at halftime of the Varsity-Alumni game.

CHIEFS DEMONSTRATE BAT POWER AT PLATE

The 1974 Chiefs baseball team will go down in the record books as the team with "clout." While the squad ended up with only a so-so showing in the won-lost column, its members blasted 35 homeruns and established a new school record for that category.

The hitting power was adequate, but more support was needed than the inexperienced pitching staff could provide.

With the strengths and the weaknesses more or less balancing one another, Coach Don Protexter's men finished in fifth place in the strong North Central Conference, but they gained satisfaction as the only team to twice defeat league champion Mankato State.

Capturing team honors for the season was Steve Zediker, who was voted by his fellow Chiefs as most valuable player. Steve provided strong arm pitching and led the team in hitting with a .344 average while contributing seven home runs.

He also was selected as an all-conference pitcher in the North Central and was named to the all-district NAIA team. Rodd Nordstrom, at first base, was another all-conference selection after hitting .309 with six home runs during the season.

Both Zediker and Nordstrom are juniors and will return next year.

The Chiefs lose seniors Scott Burgason, Tom Polt, Bob Thompson and Don Ritland from the 1974 squad. But "Pro" reports that recruiting for next season has been excellent, and along with returning power the team will have more experienced pitchers.

"If we can put them together," Pro says, "we will have a good year."

DORNON TESTS SQUAD, LIKES WHAT HE SEES

Morningside's new head football coach, John Dornon, put 36 football candidates through spring practice and expressed pleasure at the "excellent" attitude shown by the squad.

First, Dornon was anxious to know the results of an off-season conditioning program of weight training and distance running which had been assigned to each candidate. The results, he found, were very encouraging—throughout spring drills there was only one time-lost injury and the casualty was playing within three days.

"This," Dornon commented, "is an example of the hard-nosed attitude shown in spring ball."

Offensively and defensively the emphasis was on basics, with the chief concern being the evaluation and proper placement of personnel. Dornon and Assistant Coach Denny Kuhn stressed fundamentals and hitting, and the aggressiveness improved with every practice.

The Chiefs topped spring workouts with an alumni game which Dornon hopes will become an annual affair. The coaches and the crowd agreed it was a rousing success. The alumni roster included such familiar names as Dave Bigler, Pat Murphy, Dan McClanahan, Al Charlson, Tim Jackes, Tony Sciorriotto and Jim Rupert.

The varsity won 20-6, but not without a struggle. Turning in the better performances of the day for Coach Dornon were Randy Diehl, 6-2, 225 pound fullback, Dave Dupree, 6-0, 205 pound slotback and Gary Niles, 6-1, 215 pound linebacker.

BOARD SUPPORTS TIES WITH NORTH CENTRAL

Morningside will remain a member of the North Central Conference for the present and will attempt to strengthen its intercollegiate athletic program with contributions from outside sources, the board of directors decided at its April meeting.

According to Chairman Bruce Crary, the board's decision came in the form of its adoption nearly in toto of an eight page report submitted by a special committee to study athletics at the college.

Howie Staber, 58, leads interference for freshman quarterback Jim Engler of Las Vegas, Nev., as the varsity downed the alumni 20-6 in spring game. In background is the alumni's Steve Brower, 41.

Morningside's withdrawal from the conference was one of a number of options which the committee was directed to study when it was formed last November. Funding of the athletic program was another assignment.

In support of its recommendation to remain in the conference, the committee expressed doubt that Morningside could continue an athletic program as an independent and also noted that no vacancies exist in other conferences which the college might consider.

The report called the North Central "a quality conference."

The committee endorsed the concept of intercollegiate athletics as "linking the various facets of the college community and the larger community," and stated the "opportunity ought to be given to the development of community support" of the program.

Increased support from outside sources was necessary, the committee stated, in order to bring the intercollegiate program up to the level of other conference members.

In order that Morningside might compete at "a fully competitive level," the committee proposed two avenues for raising additional money—the development of an athletic boosters "club" designed to enlist contributions and the sale of season tickets.

Season tickets have been offered in pre-season sales each year, but the committee felt that a more aggressive campaign should be waged.

The committee also reported that women's athletics at Morningside "need and deserve more financial support, even though it (the program) has progressed significantly during the past two years."

Those who served on the committee included James Gerkin, Ray Burnight, Mrs. JoAnn Fowler, Tom Geelan, Dr. Charles Mason and Thane Treptow, all of Sioux City; the late Keene Roadman of Margaretville, N.Y.; Dr. Sharon Ocker, faculty representative to the NCC, and Marc Burkhart, junior from Humboldt, Iowa, who was vice president of Student Government last year.

ROGERS LEAVES STAFF FOR USD ASSIGNMENT

Lonnie Rogers, assistant football and head track coach for the past year, resigned July 1 to join the athletic staff of the University of South Dakota. He will be defensive secondary coach for the Coyotes football team and head baseball coach.

Rogers, who also served as coordinator of sports information at Morningside, received his master's degree from USD in 1972.

He joined the Morningside staff last summer after five years as an assistant in football and basketball at Sioux City East. His coaching career has included previous assignments at Upper Iowa College and Sibley (Iowa) High School.

As part of his sports information duties, Lonnie was director of the Morningsider's sports section.

1957 and did post graduate work at Northern Illinois University. He was awarded a Ph.D. degree in student personnel management by the University of Northern Colorado in 1971.

He was an admissions counselor at Morningside from 1961-64, director of guidance services 1964-65, and dean of men 1965-67.

Morningside currently has three other vice presidents: Elwood Olsen, business manager and treasurer; Raymond S. Nelson, academic affairs; and A. W. Buckingham, estate planning.

In other recent administrative changes, Robert Miller, former admissions and alumni director, and Jim Walker, director of development, resigned from the college to enter business.

Miller left in March and now is associated with the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company. His office, located in the Orpheum Building, in Sioux City, is affiliated with the Bill Burggraaf General Agency in Sioux Falls.

Bob joined the college as an admissions counselor after receiving his bachelor's degree from Morningside in 1955. His work as a counselor was interrupted by Army service from 1956-58. He was made associate director of admissions in 1959 and headed the office from 1960-68.

Miller was appointed alumni director in 1968 and was on special assignment as Morningside's representative to junior colleges during the winter months of 1973-74.

Walker also joined the admissions staff following his graduation from Morningside in 1970. He had served as staff coordinator of the Long Range Planning Committee and was named to the development post in 1973.

As a student Walker served two terms as president of Student Government, was president of the Colleges of Mid-America student organization and served on the Iowa Youth Commission in 1969.

Jim and his wife, Sharon, are managing the Gas Lite Motel in Laramie, Wyo., while taking graduate work at the University of Wyoming.

SEATTLE SOPH WINS STUDENT ELECTIONS

Bill Kriss, a sophomore from Seattle, Wash., was elected president of Morningside's Student Government for the coming year in elections March 27.

Kriss, a political science major, defeated two other candidates for the top office in the annual balloting. He succeeds Dan Oakland, senior from Canton, S.D.

Elected vice president was Paul R. Doster of Knierim, Iowa, a sophomore political science major who also won a three-way race.

SOCIAL WORK WINS COUNCIL APPROVAL

The Council on Social Work Education notified the college this spring that the Morningside Social Work program has received CSWE approval.

John Mackey, associate professor of Social Work, said the endorsement is retroactive to September 1973 and establishes the college as the only institution in Western Iowa with an approved program.

CSWE endorsement generally means better job opportunities for the graduate and a higher grade in starting pay, according to Mackey. In addition there is a trend at many graduate schools to accept only candidates from recognized programs.

Morningside, which had offered a minor in the field for more than 40 years, began to expand the program more than a year ago to enable students to establish a major in Social Work.

Increasing emphasis on social work and employers' demands for career social workers (rather than those who majored in other areas of liberal arts) necessitated the change.

Morningside continues to offer a major in Sociology and recently inroduced an interdisciplinary major in Criminal Justice.

Mackey explained the increasing emphasis on social workers with degrees stems from the distinction between sociology and social work.

MORNINGSIDE GETS NCA ACCREDITATION

The North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools (NCA) has granted full accreditation to the Morningside undergraduate and Master of Arts in Teaching programs, President Thompson announced in April.

NCA approval followed a routine review of the college's academic offerings and operating procedures which included a visit to the campus last November by a six-member evaluation team. Educational institutions accredited by North Central are evaluated at regular intervals to assure high standards.

The primary purpose of the recent inspection was to examine the graduate Master of Arts in Teaching program, which first received preliminary approval in 1967. However, the evaluation necessarily included the undergraduate program as well.

The new accreditation for the MAT program for elementary teachers is for a 10 year period, President Thompson said, and he called attention to favorable comments in the report:

"The MAT elementary program has evolved into a coherent program with a solid corps of graduates and a sound curriculum," the evaluation noted. "Many graduates reported that, in effect, it has been a mind-stretching and professionally relevant program."

However, the MAT program for secondary teachers has experienced only limited enrollment and Dr. Thompson said the college will phase out that area of graduate study because interest in the program fails to warrant its continuation. The NCA report suggested the college consider such action.

Provisions will be made enabling those who are significantly into the program to finish within a reasonable time. It was estimated that approximately 10 persons would be affected.

The Siouxland Civic Dance Association dedicated its first production of the 1974 season to Miss HAZEL BERGH, '19, who worked with thousands of dance students in the Siouxland area over a 35 year period. She was ballet mistress of the original Sioux City Civic Ballet, which was Iowa's first ballet company. Miss Bergh's address is 11005 Santa Fe Drive, Sun City, Ariz. 85351.

1930

Mrs. ALICE BELLIS Thornton, x'30, and her sister, Mrs. Marjorie Bellis Richmond, were honored in Los Angeles in June on the 20th anniversary of Friend Finders Institute (FFI). The two women founded FFI as a personal introduction service for unmarried men and women who want to meet prospective friends with common ideals and interests. Mrs. Thornton is the author of "How Come You're Not Married?" which describes the early years at FFI. After attending Morningside she worked as an advertising copywriter at Davidson's Department Store in Sioux City.

1931

MARK McLARNAN, '31, retiring as athletic director at Sioux City's North High School, was honored by fellow teachers recently at a luncheon. McLarnan, who completed 26 years of teaching, received a gift from the faculty and a plaque from the North High Student Council.

1933

Mrs. Frank G. Sankey (ELLEN BAL-LACHEY, x'33), now living in California, often travels with her husband, who operates the United States Stamp Co. in San Francisco. Mr. Sankey, a philatelist, deals in rare stamps for collectors. Their address is 140 Hilltop Crescent, Walnut Creek, Calif. 94596.

Mrs. ELIZABETH RIGGS Caldwell, '33, is head editor in the Publications Engineering Branch of Automations Industries, Vitro Laboratories Division, at Silver Spring, Md. Her address at Silver Spring is Rossmoor Leisure World, 3350 Cheswick Court, but she admits she is "not at all at leisure."

Dr. HERMAN S. WIGODSKY, '36, who completed his undergraduate work at Yankton College after attending Morningside, received an alumni achievement award during spring commencement weekend at the South Dakota college. Dr. Wigodsky is active in the fields of medicine, education, business, insurance, social service and the theater, and is lecturer at the University of Texas Medical School. His address is 420 E. Huston, San Antonio, Tex. 78205.

The Sioux Falls Symphony Orchestra Association recently honored LEO KUCINSKI, '36, with establishment of the first named chair within the orchestra. Income from the Kucinski Fund will go toward payment of the concertmaster's salary. Kucinski was conductor of the orchestra from 1959 to 1972 and continues as conductor of the Sioux City Symphony.

The Rev. Dr. KENNETH METCALF, '38, of Des Moines recently visited Sioux City to speak at First United Methodist Church. Dr. Metcalf has served as chairman of the World Service and Finance Commission of
