HOMECOMING . . . 1946

Alums Spend an Enjoyable Week-End

Probably the largest group of alumni and Morningsiders ever to gather for Homecoming thronged the campus from the beginning of festivities on Friday evening, October 18, until after the service in Grace Church on Sunday morning, October 20. The week-end, crowded with traditional Homecoming activities, enhanced in a setting of three crisp, gorgeous autumn days which added to the gay, carefree mood of the crowd, will be remembered as one of the best Homecomings held at Morningside.

Opening the festivities was the Homecoming dance at the new Tomba ballroom in downtown Sioux City, where 1,200 students, alumni, and faculty enjoyed dancing to the music of Mal Dunn's orchestra.

The coronation ceremony this year was a departure from those of previous years, as the queen of Homecoming festivities always has been revealed to the student body at the pep rally Friday night in the chapel. During the intermission of the dance Dr. Earl A. Roadman had the pleasure of crowning his daughter, Katherine, as Homecoming Queen. Miss Beverly Rehnblom, last year's queen, presented the crown to Dr. Roadman who in turn bestowed it on Miss Morningside. She then presided officially over all events of the week-end. A senior sociology major, Katie, tall, slender, and regal appearing, is president of Kappa Zeta Chi sorority this fall. Attendants to the queen were Miss Connie Havighurst of Fort Dodge and Miss Barbara Schmidt of Battle Creek, both seniors.

Parade

Saturday morning at 10:30 Morningside students assembled at Fifth and Wall streets, where the parade started on schedule. The Morningside band, directed by Robert Lowry, '42, was at the head of the four-block long procession. The Homecoming Queen and her attendants rode in an open coupe behind the band, followed by cheer leaders. The array of floats was broken by the Boy Scout drum and Bugle corps. Other features of the parade included the antics of two characters dressed as clowns.

A float designed as an airplane and titled "Victory Mission" won first place for Alpha Tau Delta fraternity. The second place went to the Conservatory of Music and third place to the Y. M. C. A. The three floats were displayed between halves of the football game.

Luncheons

Luncheons were held at downtown hotels at noon on Saturday. The "M" Club met at the Jackson hotel. Al Strozdas, '40, presided at the luncheon, which was attended by 50 former members and students. Coach Les Davis, '24, outlined athletic aims for Morningside the next few years, and Dr. Earl Roadman told of plans for a new field-house. Coaches Al Buckingham, '39, and Charles Obye, '46, were introduced, as were the two co-captains for the Homecoming game, Howard Peterson and Julius ("Butch") Shkurenky.

Alumni-Faculty Mixer

Saturday, from 3 to 5 o'clock, at the Student Union in the Barn an alumni-faculty mixer was held. The purpose of it was to give the alumni an opportunity to get acquainted with new faculty members and to visit with old friends. The time was spent socially with refreshments, consisting of cider and doughnuts. The social hour will probably become an annual event since it was so well attended, especially by out-of-town alumni.

Business Meeting and Homecoming Dinner

At the annual business meeting held at 5:30 in the Women's Residence Hall, Harold Bollman, '35, retiring president of the Alumni Association, installed officers for the coming year.

Two hundred alumni and faculty gathered in the dining room at 6:15 for dinner. Guests included the homecoming queen, her escort, the queen's attendants and their escorts, and Rev. Harvey Potthoff, '32, speaker for the Sunday morning service at Grace Church. Alice Hall Dawson, '27, was general chairman of the dinner, which was streamlined so that everyone might leave for the game at 7:30. Dr. Roadman introduced guests, new and old faculty, and college trustees who were present.

Highlighting the Homecoming activities was the football game at 8:00 at the Public School Stadium between the Morningside Maroons and their traditional rivals, the University of South Dakota Coyotes. The game was played before 6,000 fans, and ended in a 6-0 victory for the Coyotes.

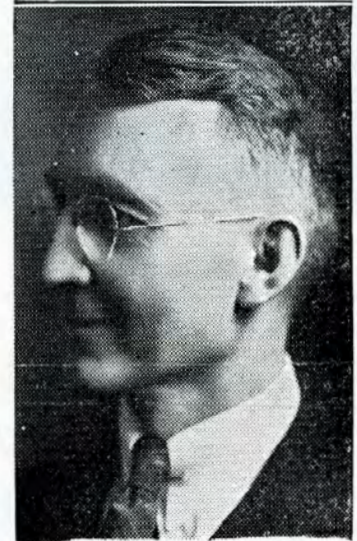

Following the game the crowd assembled at the north end of Bass field, where four tables had been set up to dispense barbecued beef sandwiches and all the trimmings.

Concluding the program was the annual Homecoming service at Grace Methodist Church on Sunday morning. Rev. Harvey H. Potthoff, '32, pastor of Christ Methodist Church at Denver, delivered the sermon, entitled "Obedience to the Unenforceable."

Rev. Mr. Potthoff asserted that the inner urge to do things voluntarily is the force which gets persons ahead in life. Obedience to the unenforceable is obeying that urge. Faculty members participating in the service were Dr. Roadman, Miss Alva Tolf, Dean Tweito, Dr. Graber, and Dr. N. A. Price, vice president of the college.

Rev. N. A. Price Is Named Vice President

Rev. Nelson A. Price, pastor of the First Methodist Church at Algona the last four years and a former pastor of Whitfield Church here, was appointed vice president of Morningside College at the closing sessions of the Northwest Iowa Conference of the Methodist Church at Eagle Grove.

The vice presidency is a new position at Morningside, the institution not having had a vice president since a similar position was held by the late Dr. F. W. Schneider.

Vice President Price's duties will include promotional work formerly handled by Rev. R. H. Cox of Sioux City, who was appointed pastor of the Sac City Methodist Church. Rev. Mr. Price was pastor of Whitfield Church here from 1937 until 1942, when he went to Algona.

Annual Reunion to Be Held in Des Moines

The Morningsider reunion held annually during the Iowa State Teachers' Convention will be at 6:30 P. M. on Friday evening, November 8, at the Goodner Uptown Restaurant, 42nd and University Avenue. All Des Moines Morningsiders and those attending the convention are urged to make reservations as soon as possible with Helen Hanna Goodner, ex '40, 400 28th. Also helping with arrangements are Miss Agnes McCreery, president of the Des Moines Club, Florence Forsberg Royal and Helen Rutledge Hufford.

Dr. Roadman plans to attend the dinner. Let's have the best reunion yet.

Alumni Trustee

Dr. Charles F. Berkstresser, ex '14, is the new alumni trustee elected to serve for a three-year term. The other alumni trustees are Parnell H. Mahoney, Wm. C. Wolle, and Ernest N. Raun.

HEAD COLLEGE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Morningside Has Largest Staff in History

Morningside College, which quietly has been going about its business of educating young men and women for more than 50 years, isn't quite the same old place this fall. For one thing, the college has experienced the greatest influx of new students in its history. For another, a long awaited building program is under way. Other ambitious undertakings either have been launched or are in the planning stage.

The faculty is the largest in the school's history, with 65 members. Perhaps escaping notice in the postwar upheaval is the appointment of many new heads of departments, several of whom have succeeded men who have been department heads for many, many years and who, although continuing full time teaching schedules, are contemplating retirement when the present urgent need for experienced instructors has passed.

Most recent newcomer to the staff is Prof. Ernest W. Saunders, head of the Bible department. Prof. Saunders, who holds theological degrees from Boston and Duke Universities, was pastor of Asbury Methodist Church at Providence, R. I., prior to coming here.

C. E. Bowman, whose picture was printed in last month's issue, is a new assistant in the history department. A graduate of Augustana of Rock Island, Ill., Prof. Bowman received his M. A. at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, where he had been awarded the Johnson fellowship. He spent the past summer working on his Ph. D. degree at the University of Nebraska. He specializes in American and European history.

Prof. R. N. Miller, formerly an instructor in social science and head of the division of the Social and Political Sciences in Emporia College, Emporia, Kan., for 26 years, is the new head of the economics department. Prof. Miller received his B. S. from Illinois Wesleyan University; an M. A. from the University of Chicago; a B. D. from Garrett Biblical Institute, and a Litt.

Prof. R. N. Miller

D. from Central College in Indiana. An ordained Presbyterian minister and a member of the Topeka Presbytery, Kansas, he served for 10 years as moderator of the Permanent Judicial Commission, Synod of Kansas.

Prof. R. L. Flowers, jr., is the new head of the speech and dramatics department. The story of his work before coming to

Morningside appeared in the September issue of the Morningsider.

Prof. John S. Winston, instructor in physics, received an A. B. degree from Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Ia., and an M. A. from the University of Chicago. He taught metallurgy in the Illinois Institute of Technology, mathematics at Valparaiso University, and physics at the Biarritz American University. He was discharged from the army in January of 1946 after spending 39 months in the service.

Mrs. Frances M. Winston

Mrs. Frances M. Winston, assistant in biology, is a graduate of the University of Texas. After teaching biology in Port Arthur, Tex., she spent three and one-half years as assistant chief inspector of optics and fire control instruments on the technical staff of the Chicago Ordnance District.

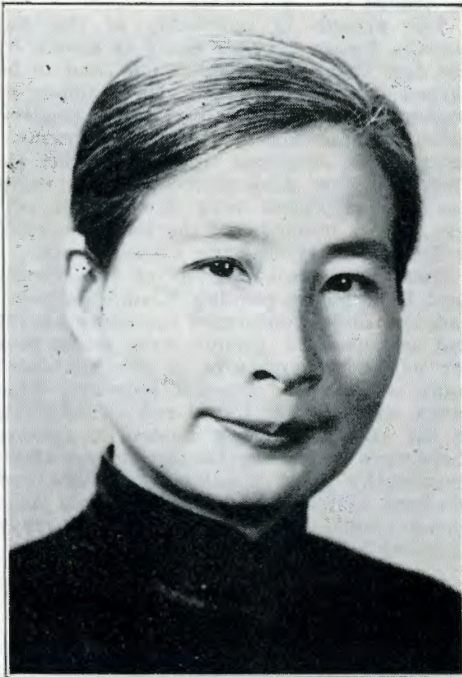

Prof. Lee Bradford of Eveleth, Minn., English instructor, is a graduate of Carleton College, where he received an A. B. in 1929 and an M. A. in 1934. While at Carleton he wrote and produced the May

Lucy Wang to Visit Campus

One of China's leading women educators, Dr. Lucy C. Wang, president of Hwa Nan College in Foochow, who arrived in this country recently to study the latest educational developments here and to rest from eight strenuous years of wartime teaching in her native land, will speak at 10:45 at the chapel program in Grace Church on Thursday morning, November 7. Member of an illustrious family, Dr. Wang is the granddaughter of the renowned Chinese scholar, Weng Jun Keng, tutor to the Emperor Kwang Hsu.

President since 1930 of Hwa Nan College, one of the Christian colleges in China and one of the two women's colleges of liberal arts in China today, Dr. Wang during the war years supervised the college's activities in Nanping, a city 140 miles north of Foochow, where students and faculty fled when the Japanese army advanced on Foochow. Although the campus in Foochow was completely wrecked, carefully placed equipment scattered, and 15,000 books lost,

Dr. Wang courageously set to work to repair the buildings and collect the equipment immediately after V-J Day. By March, 1946, classes were started, and four months later the 1946 class of 25 was graduated.

Brought up in central China, where her father was director-general of the Peking-Hankow railroad, Dr. Wang at an early age was sent to a mission school to learn English and western sciences. Then in 1913 she and her sister Emily entered the preparatory department of Hwa Nan College, where Dr. Wang remained until she completed her sophomore year. In 1919 she came to the United States for the first time and became a student at Morningside College, graduating in 1921. In 1935 her alma mater conferred on her the honorary degree of LL. D.

The winning of a Barbour Scholarship for graduate study at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor brought an M. A. degree from that university in 1923, and then Dr. Wang returned to China to teach chemistry at Amoy University. After one year there, she became head of the chemistry department at Hwa Nan College and three years later was appointed its dean. She was inaugurated president in 1930.

In 1938 she and Emily were the two representatives from Fukien province at a conference at Kuling called by Mme. Chiang Kai-shek. During the war years Dr. Wang was on the executive committee of the women's war work in Fukien province, especially that relating to the care of the war orphans in that area.

Commenting on the work of Hwa Nan students, Dr. Wang declares that "to them the opportunity for service comes before remuneration for their work." "Their willingness to serve in rural districts on a sacrificial basis," she says, "has made our graduates in greater demand in all walks of life. Their service in the churches and in the Christian institutions has been considered a unique contribution to the Christian movement in China."

Open house is being planned for Dr. Wang at 2:30 Thursday afternoon, November 7, at the Barn. It is hoped that many of Lucy's friends in Sioux City and the surrounding territory will be able to meet her at this time.

Football at Morningside

Plagued by the Goddess of Ill-Luck and Misfortune, Morningside has met with some unexpected reverses on the gridiron this fall. Opening up against Nebraska Wesleyan on the home field, the team had difficulty working as a unit, and as in all opening games, the ragged edges were prominent. The two teams were evenly matched and waged an aggressive battle before the final whistle blew. When the smoke cleared Morningside found itself on the low end of a 13-6 count.

The second game took the team to Kansas and the Kansas Wesleyan. Here again misfortune and ill-luck forced the team to take a defeat. After a hard fought first half the team met with a series of reverses and this, coupled with a safety, gave Kansas a 9-7 victory.

A second road engagement brought the squad into contact with the highly-touted North Dakota State eleven. North Dakota lived up to its reputation to give Morningside a stinging defeat to the tune of 32-7. Bill Annand scored Morningside's lone touchdown late in the game. Despite the score the team showed a great deal of improvement over the two previous games and gave promise of developing into a powerful aggregation.

Morningside broke the jinx of the previous games by defeating Augustana, 13-0. The line, led by such stalwarts as Peterson and Haenfler, proved to be the deciding factor. They out-blocked, out-maneuvered, and out-guessed their opponents, blocking four punts and setting up the touchdowns. The entire team showed great power on offense and abundant strength on defense.

Morningside celebrated its Homecoming and renewed an old rivalry with South Dakota University October 19th. Early in the game the squad showed the fire of the previous week but the breaks were against them and they were unable to score. It was not until late in the game that South Dakota after a sustained drive pushed over a touchdown. Following that, Morningside charged down to the Coyote goal-line only to lose the ball on an intercepted pass. Throughout the game Morningside displayed the advantage in both offense and defense, but was unable to muster the necessary reserve to win the game.

Morningsider Is "In On" Discovery of New Vitamin

Dr. Max H. Stern, '41, of Rochester, N. Y., was in on the discovery and isolation of deltatocopherol, a member of the vitamin E family.

Dr. Stern, who works in the research laboratory of the Distillation Products, Inc., at Rochester, presented the facts of the isolation of the new vitamin to the American Chemical Society in Chicago.

The new vitamin is found in soybean oil, wheat germ, cottonseed and peanut oils, Dr. Stern said, and is useful in keeping fats from becoming rancid. It also supplements vitamin A and retains its activity when vitamin A fails.

Max obtained an M. S. in organic chemistry at the University of Wisconsin and last year was awarded his Ph. D. degree there.

SUMMER MUSIC CAMP

High school and college music students from Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Kansas, Missouri and Texas filled all the available accommodations at the Lake Okoboji Summer Music Camp during its eighteenth season, June 23 to August 4.

The growth in popularity of this nationally known pioneer camp is shown by the fact that many applications had to be turned down. In limiting the number of students the camp followed its original policy of maintaining a strictly "personal" camp, with emphasis upon individual instruction. Ever since its inception the camp has been affiliated with Morningside college, and a majority of the teaching staff is from the Morningside Conservatory.

During the two sessions of the Northwest Iowa young people's "Camp Methoji," and the Bible Conference the camp choral and instrumental groups were augmented for public performances in the Methodist camp auditorium. Several concerts were given at Templar Park, and in addition to the regular evening student programs there were recitals by faculty members and lectures by guest speakers. Students and teachers wishing to attend the camp next season should send in their names as early as possible for reservations.

Sioux City Sue Has Scholarship to Morningside

Miss Gayle Jean Hofstad, who won the title of Sioux City Sue two months ago and since that time has helped spread the fame of her home town from coast to coast, will become a co-ed at Morningside College at the beginning of the second semester.

Invited to make an appearance at a student assembly program at Morningside,

Miss Hofstad was astounded when State Representative Charles S. Van Eaton, acting in behalf of the college board of trustees, presented her a four-year scholarship valued at $1,000.

"This is the nicest of the many nice things that have happened to me since I became Sioux City Sue," Miss Hofstad exclaimed. "I have often dreamed of going to college, but never thought my dreams would be realized."

Sioux City Sue will take a liberal arts course with emphasis on dramatics and radio presentation.

CLASS NOTES

Rev. Arthur Hopkinson, '23, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Greenfield, Massachusetts, spent an interesting summer in England. In a letter to Miss Fischer, Arthur writes: "One thing I learned above all others is that the people of these United States do not begin to know anything of the sacrifices and privations the people of Europe have suffered—and are yet suffering, due to the fearful ravages of war."

Oliver A. Mogck, '41, is teaching voice and conducting the chorus and a capella choir at Colorado State College, Ft. Collins, Colorado. Since his discharge from service in January, Oliver has been doing graduate work in music at the University of Minnesota, appearing as "Elijah" in Mendelssohn's oratorio "Elijah" with the University chorus and also as soloist in the annual Bach festival performances of the "Mass in B Minor" and "Magnificat" under Prof. Donald N. Ferguson.

Donald S. Peter, '24, who served four years as assistant attorney in the judge advocate general's office of the army, recently was discharged at Jefferson Barracks, Missouri, and has returned to Sioux City. Don spent 21 months in north Africa and later was stationed for 10 months at the Sioux Falls army airfield and just previous to his discharge served 10 months with the A. T. C. in New England.

Robert Farb, '46, has been appointed a graduate assistant in the department of history at the University of Nebraska. Bob plans to pursue graduate studies in American history for his master of arts and doctor of philosophy degrees while at the university in addition to his duties as an assistant instructor.

Miss Maxcean Rook, '42, is employed by Western Union in Chicago. Maxcean previously taught in Merville, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Thompson (Jeanette Bartlett, '09) have moved from Montana and are now making their home at 2531 W. Garvey, El Monte, California. Miss Carrie Bartlett, '00, of Robincroft Home, Pasadena, California, spent the month of May with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. ('99) and Mrs. Bruce Empey (Hattie Bartlett '00) at their home in Junction City, Oregon.

Bill Wedgwood, '20, is service-manager of Cook's Auto and Supply Company in Cooperstown, New York.

Allan B. Kline, '15, vice president of the American Farm Bureau Federation and president of the Iowa Farm Bureau, was the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Woodbury County Farm Bureau in the Shrine auditorium, October 1. He spoke on "Problems of Agriculture."

Rev. Milton Schaper, '26, who recently received his discharge after three years as a chaplain in the U. S. Navy, has been assigned to the episcopate of the Methodist Church at Hawarden to succeed Rev. M. V. Bell, '32, who has been transferred to the Methodist charge at Paullina, Ia.

Tommy Down, '39, is traveling for the Skelly Oil Co. in northwest Iowa, with his headquarters in Sioux City.

Lois Muckey Vander Schaaf, ex '37, who lives at 2542 Delta avenue, Long Beach, Calif., writes that she has two children: Michael, age 2 years, and Mary Clare, 2 months. Her husband is a pharmacist at Long Beach since his release from service.

Homecoming Queen

Miss Katherine Roadman

Ellabel Johnson, ex '39, is teaching kindergarten in Spencer this year.

After spending five years in the service, Frank L. Logan, '38, is living in Des Moines, where he is a salesman for Grove Laboratory, Inc., of St. Louis, Mo. During the five months that he has worked for the firm Frank has ranked among the first eight of the 35 company salesmen.

Mr. and Mrs. James Coffie (Janice Hagy, '33) are living in Olympia, Wash., while Mr. Coffie is stationed at Fort Lewis.

Richard (Dick) Van Piper, a student at Morningside in 1908-09 is advertising manager of the newspaper in Olympia, Wash.

Leslie Alt, ex '22, is superintendent and ceramic engineer at the Kraft Tile Plant in Niles, Calif. He is living at 547 Sinion street, Hayward, Calif.

Lt. Doane McElravy, ex '45, is with the Hdq. and Supply Company of the 12th service battalion of the U. S. Marine Corps in the Pacific. Doane has chosen to make the marine corps his career.

Principal Joseph C. Y. Huang of the Guthrie Memorial High School in Hingwa, China, who was a graduate of Morningside in 1923, has returned to the United States for study this year.

David Q. Loepp, ex '48, pharmacist mate third class, was one of five selectees from Treasure Island recommended for the naval preparatory school. The school prepares men for the entrance examinations to the naval academy, final appointments and selection for which are made by the station commander.

Prof. Einar Haugan, ex '29, has returned from a year's stay in Oslo, Norway, where he was engaged as an attache of the government. He has resumed his duties as professor of Scandinavian languages at the University of Wisconsin in Madison.

Deaths

Ann Schultz, '32, who had worked in Sioux City as a practical nurse and companion for elderly people since graduating from Morningside, died on June 21 in a hospital here.

Mrs. Ray E. Winter (Lila Montgomery, ex '23) died July 22 in Encinitas, Calif., where her husband is superintendent of schools. Besides her husband and mother, Mrs. Samuel Montgomery, Lila is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Charles Krause (Alverda, '20) of Decatur, Illinois, Mrs. Eldon Harris (Ruth, '24) of Elmhurst, Illinois, Mrs. Hosan Essatt (Cora, '28) of Alhambra, California, and a brother, Dr. S. Alvin Montgomery, ex '33, of Glendale, California. The Montgomery family formerly lived in Morningside.

Mrs. M. A. Perry died August 31 in a hospital in Minneapolis. Funeral services were held in Sioux City. The name of Mrs. Perry and the "Sunshine Inn" are synonymous in the minds of many former students who were fortunate enough to belong to her boarding club while in college. They learned to know her as a true friend and counselor who helped them over many rough paths.

Her daughter, Mrs. Vivian Haynes of New York City, and son, Grayson, of Minneapolis survive.

Concert Season Opens

The Sioux City Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Leo Kucinski and with gifted Frances Greer of the Metropolitan Opera Company as guest soloist, inaugurated a new concert season, Monday evening, October 21, at the Orpheum theater with a program that veered sharply from opening selections by Handel and Bach to a medley from Oklahoma as finale.

Miss Greer—who is young and beautiful as well as a coloratura soprano of high degree—similarly contrasted the aria, "Oh Linger Not" from The Marriage of Figaro, by Mozart and the "Jewel Song" from Faust, by Gounod, with light operatic selections, adding a group of four songs with piano accompaniment.

Victor Trucco, former conductor of the San Carlo Grand Opera Company, was the singer's excellent accompanist.

The concert marked Mr. Kucinski's first appearance with the symphony since his overseas military service and the symphony this season is an orchestra of many new faces in a new arrangement of instruments. as opener, exploited an excellent balance of "Prelude, Choral and Fugue" by Bach, instrumental tone, with violins repeatedly setting themes for the brasses and woodwinds. Handels "Suite from Water Music" which followed featured strings and wind instruments in a charming succession of highly-contrasted dance themes.

Alumnus Named Methodist Secretary

Dr. Joseph H. Edge, former president of Dakota Wesleyan University, has been elected associate secretary of the general board of evangelism of the Methodist Church, with offices at Nashville, Tenn.

In making the selection the general board said: "We want a man of maturity of judgment and experience, one who might know and analyze the trends of the church, not only nationally but around the world, in the decade ahead. We feel that Dr. Edge with his years of experience as a pastor, district superintendent and college president is eminently qualified for the position."

Having gained national recognition in his work with youth during the early days of his ministry, Dr. Edge is well known in the church at large. For a number of years he has served as an officer in the general board of ministerial training of the church, and in 1944 was elected a member of the general board of education of the Methodist Church.

Joe was graduated from Morningside College in 1913, and later received the honorary degree of D. D. from his alma mater. He took his graduate work at Boston University, receiving the degree of S. T. B. A year ago Boston University honored him with the degree of doctor of science in education.

Packard Wolle to New Position

Packard Wolle, '40, chief of training for the veterans administration subregional office in Sioux City, has been appointed supervisor for business and sales training for a five-state area to include Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota and Minnesota.

Packard will be transferred to Minneapolis headquarters. His new duties will include surveying and supervising activities of training services in state headquarters and subregional offices. He was employed by the veterans administration here in February after having served in the south Pacific theater of war in the naval air corps.

Morningside Welcomes Nearly 1,200 Students

On the first day of registration week, two of the sophomore girls who had come to help with registration could be seen peeking through the doors of Grace Methodist Church at the welcoming assembly for new freshmen. As someone looked in their direction they quickly closed the doors and turned to face each other with startled eyes.

"I don't believe it!" said one.

"Neither do I," said the other, and opened the door to confirm what she had seen before. It was true. The church was completely filled, even to the choir loft, and people were actually standing.

The registrar's office reports an approximate number of 1,120 students enrolled in Morningside, with a 70 per cent to 30 per cent ratio in favor of the boys. When the fact that Morningside was crowded the last regular semester with an enrollment of 510 is considered, you can see why the girls were surprised.

There is a different atmosphere, too. It seems strange not to know by name most of the students. One freshman, after wandering through the crowded halls for a considerable time, looking with dismay at the sea of strange faces, finally spied someone he knew, and began weaving his way through the mob toward him. He could be heard mumbling as he passed by, "At last! Someone I've seen someplace before."

It's different having 120 students in one psychology class, and not even being able to get in to a chemistry class. It's different wondering whether those figures racing across the campus are hurrying to get a booth at Schwartz's or are only late for a class over Ben's store. It's different having Saturday classes, and two shifts for meals at the Dorm.

But that's only on the surface. There's still the same fun in yelling for your team to make a touchdown and jumping around like crazy when it does. There's still the same college spirit and loyalty, only it's better because there are more students to make it that way. No matter whom you ask, they're sure to say, "It's good to be back."

Mrs. W. Bruce Lindsay (Ila Eberly, ex '41) and children, Ronald and Constance, have gone to Fort Hamilton, N. Y., from where they will go to Darmstadt, Germany, to join Mrs. Lindsay's husband. Bruce, '41, is a first lieutenant in the army signal corps and is serving as a supply officer.
