DEDICATION

The year 1927-1928 represents a period of transition in the life of Morningside College. Before this year progress was difficult because the road was strewn with obstacles. Finally, in the autumn of 1927, the College realized that in spite of these obstacles it must either go forward or cease to function as a college. After a great deal of thought, prayer, and planning those who administer the affairs of Morningside College decided that the institution could go forward with the help of its many friends. When the Administration turned to these friends for help they responded in a very courageous manner. Friends in Sioux City, in all this splendid section of Northwest Iowa, and those in all parts of the world who hold dear the name of Morningside gave generously in order that the College might continue to be a vital factor in the lives of the Youth of this territory.

DEDICATION

Because of the splendid support of its friends the College has been established financially, and the high educational rank is maintained. With this firm foundation Morningside is ready for the superstructure of the future, for the building of a great institution, and for the molding of the lives of its students in such a manner that they will make great the high or low places they may fill in the world. Morningside has a splendid future before her.

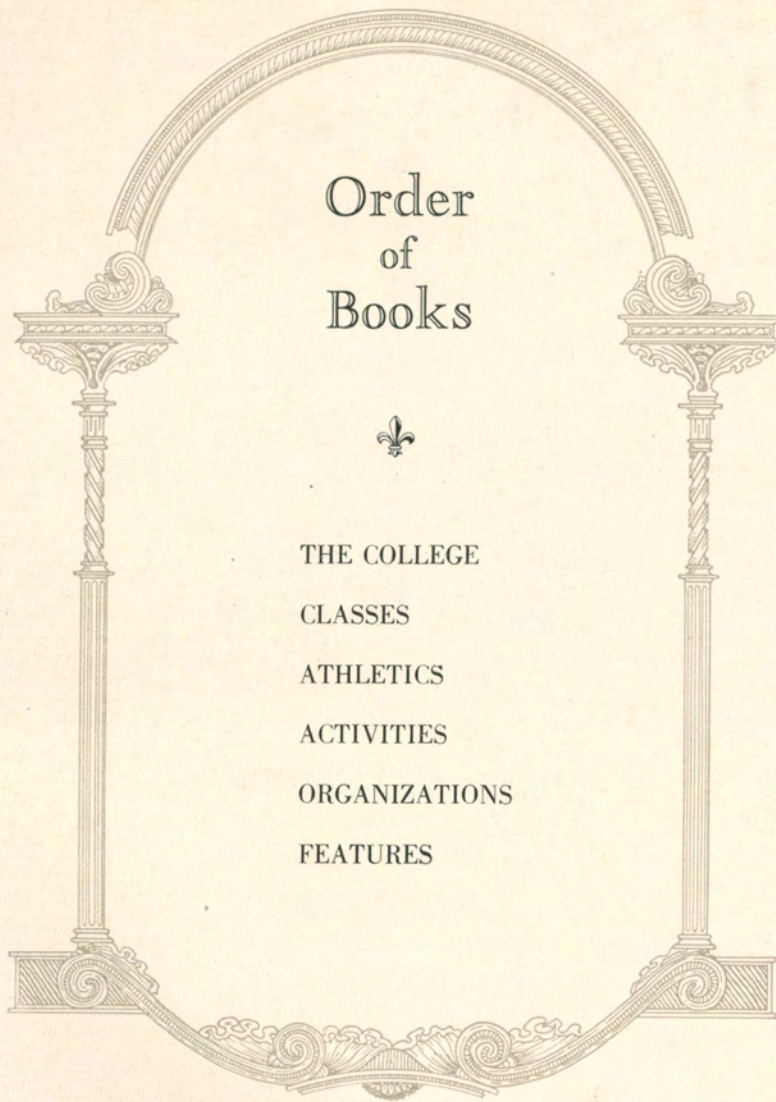

To you who are the friends of Morningside College — Citizens of Sioux City — People of Northwest Iowa — Students of the College — and all others who, recognizing the need, and seeing the vision of a greater Morningside, have responded in a time of crisis, we, the members of the Class of '29, reverently dedicate this volume of the "Sioux of Vision."

Foreword

This volume has been prepared for you. We hope that whenever you turn its leaves it will call up in your minds thoughts of your class and classmates, of your instructors and your studies, of your struggles and triumphs, and of the long, long dreams of youth which were yours here. The best of those dreams and visions you are taking away from college with you to enact into the reality of your life. If this volume will prompt you to make these dreams and visions come true, its purpose shall have been accomplished, for this is not only the Sioux of Vision of a greater Morningside but also a Vision of your own finer life.

In Memoriam

The splendors of the firmament of time
May be eclipsed, but are extinguished not;
Like stars to their appointed height
they climb,
And death is a low mist which cannot blot
The brightness it may veil.

Administration

Morningside has always been a vision splendid to those who have wrought their lives into the building of the institution. The Trustees, Faculty, and Alumni have planned together and in their thinking have never stopped with the immediate present, but have laid plans which have reached down through the years. Many of their visions have been realized, but still others represent a program for future achievement. Increased attendance, enlarged campus, the development of its curricula, new buildings, increased endowment, and the maintenance of its high standing are all a part of the program. All this, however, has to do only with the material part of its existence. Of vitally more importance is the spirit of the campus. The ideals for which the institution stands are represented in the life of its governing force and of its student body; not things material but ideals, around which are gathered hopes, aims, and ambitions of thousands of young men and women who come under its influence and feel the touch of its great heart. Morningside College, as an ideal, shall ever be near and dear to its immediate constituency, and these shall extend its influence to the ends of the earth.

President

WHAT COLLEGE OPPORTUNITIES SHOULD MEAN TO THE MODERN GIRL

No longer does a smattering of French and music and painting satisfy the American girl genuinely interested in an education. The true college girl is conscious of world needs, conscious of her own latent powers, and ambitious to make her contribution in the field of endeavor best suited to her own natural gifts.

Athletics appeal to her. All sorts of outdoor sports attract her, for they suggest physical fitness necessary to her success regardless of the character of her special undertaking in life.

The real college girl feels the need of learning to think, laborious though the process may be. New situations cannot be met by intuitive perception or by any hard and fast rules. The problems of the American home, of the new economic status of women, require all the brain power she can possibly develop.

As she attempts to know herself, she finds that she is possessed of a love for the beautiful and that in her soul is a response to the aesthetic. As her judgment matures, this fondness for the beautiful is satisfied not by merely superficial things but by the beauties in nature, literature, and art.

As her philosophy of life develops, her yearning for happiness finds satisfaction in the things of the spirit; so into this realm she ventures in order to secure the rich, creative life that pays day by day in contentment and satisfaction.

For the real college girl rich are the returns on the investment of these four best years of her young life.

Lillian E. Dommell
Dean of Women

The acid test of the efficiency of a college is its graduate product. For about thirty years Morningside College has been engaged in the fine art of developing manhood, and the records attest the quality of her contributions to society.

The Christian college has a Herculean task imposed upon it by virtue of its high ideals and objectives. It must upbuild and mold life by "setting in motion new trains of thought, quickening the finer sensibilities, and firing youth with a passion for the largest possible service to the world." This undertaking involves no less than the integration of the whole man in his physical, mental, social, and spiritual relations.

Our college has accepted this challenge. As students and faculty, we cannot escape the obligation of making Morningside a center of quickening intellectual comprehension and expanding Christian ideals. The spirit of true sportsmanship and Christian service must be brought into the foreground of every college activity: the Y. M. C. A., athletics, forensics, glee club, and fraternities. Then character shall be the keystone of our arch of victory.

In this materialistic age we need men — real men such as Holland describes in the words:

"God give us men! A time like this demands
Strong minds, great hearts, true faith, and ready hands;
Men who possess opinions and a will;
Men who have honor, men who will not lie;
Tall men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog
In public duty and in private thinking."

ANENT THE SENIOR CLASS

The following nine pages contain the pictured promise of much of the progress of the rising generation. In glancing through these pages one becomes acquainted with the manner in which these men and women have already acquitted themselves. They are leaving a splendid heritage and many high ideals to those who must carry the vision of a greater Morningside into the future.

From these men and women we hope will come great teachers charged with the responsibility of keeping intact the deposit of hard-won knowledge, which will be theirs to hand on augmented to others now barely beginning their long climb. There are men and women here, we are certain, who will have the high privilege of working with the poor, the needy, and those who lack faith and courage to go on. They will carry aloft the ideals of the race and bring high moral purpose to many. One may discern as well the lineaments of men who are to carry on the fight against disease. It will be well if they "hold the lines," but here and there is the face of a man who will yet carry the fight into unexplored domain. Here is material for captains of industry and of justice, some future judges, one of whom, it is not impossible to suppose, may sit upon the supreme bench. And here, finally, are the men and women who are best fitted to found the homes which will bring forth the citizens of tomorrow, men and women who will leave the world, through their contributions of service, a better and happier sphere than they found it.

This book is a trophy erected by a victorious army — the Junior Class — to signify to future days that it has triumphed here. You will recall, at least some of you will, that a certain writer frequently closes his story of a campaign by saying: "After this battle the army erected trophies and withdrew into winter quarters." Strangely enough, some of those trophies erected by victorious Roman armies still to tell what they did in that now distant day. That is the point; this book is to last a long time, and it will tell you who have helped make it, and all others into whose hands it may come, what you did here.

The Junior Class has erected various trophies during its three years' campaign on the collegiate battleground. It has faithfully upheld and honored the traditions of the college. From its ranks have come athletes, debaters, musicians, those skilled in literary work and art, and many others, all of whom have had their share in erecting trophies which will not be forgotten. Above all they have been building character and learning how to live so that life will give them its fullest cup.

Notwithstanding these facts, the Junior Class is not content to remain in winter quarters, but will go on into its Senior Year to fight new battles, win new victories, and erect more trophies of which Morningside may justly be proud.

ANNÉ AALFS

We think Anne one of the finest girls on the campus. Because the days are only twenty-four hours long she had to give up debate this year, and do only a few such things as edit this annual, attend Y. W. cabinet meetings, and get "A" grades. We're expecting big things of her next year as President of the Y. W. C. A., for Anne is a girl of ability, devoted to high ideals, and to her numerous friends.

EVELYN BARKLEY

Evelyn is lucky in having the opportunity of living at home and yet attending college because she gets a nice long buggy ride every morning. Evelyn is tall and dignified, but lots of fun for those who know her well.

MILDRED BARNUM

Our Titian-haired Junior! Her sweet disposition, however, belies her flaming locks. Mildred is much interested in English literature, and some day we prophesy she will make an efficient teacher.

EMMETT BARRETT

If you feel "blue" listen to Barrett. He is always standing around having fun, and he is one of those couples for whom a canopy in the hall is recommended. He spends much of his time with Eileen and hung his pin early in the year as he happened to have the money for a couple of boxes of candy at that time.

FRANK BARTHOLOMEW

"Bart" is one of those serious, sedate fellows, more or less "Scotch" with his words. Nevertheless, he always has a big smile and a "hello" for you. Frank is an athlete of no mean ability. He features in the football and track events, and he was chosen to captain the Maroons for the coming season. As a social lion he has held down a regular davenport seat at the Platts Hall for three consecutive seasons.

WARD BATMAN

Because the Junior Class wanted a banker in their midst they went to Hornick and brought Ward to Morningside. He is known for being a shrewd financier, a fact which is due to his Scottish ancestry, and he is a wizard on the clarinet. His mean line of patter over the telephone has put him in good standing with several promising co-eds.

DERWOOD BECK

One of our group who we hope will be an engineer some day. Who knows but that fifteen years from now we shall be riding over his steel constructed bridges? We are sure he is a Junior of whom we shall be proud. Perhaps his nickname "Buzz" indicates a few things about him.

OSCAR BECK

O. G.—"O-Gosh Beck" has journeyed way from Sweden to develop his possibilities at Morningside College. Oscar has been associated with the institution for five years, having taken his academy work at Morningside. Beck proves his athletic ability on the gridiron. He is often seen amusing Miss Brown in the halls (when her attention is not claimed by somebody else).

LISLE BERKSHIRE

"Red," to say the least, adds considerable color to the class. We have expectations of Lisle's being a big business man some day. He functions efficiently on all Junior committees, and has helped considerably in securing the advertising for this book.

HENRY BOONE

"Beans" enjoys his rucks along with his wooden shoes. This, however, doesn't prevent another of the Orange City boys from being a prominent athlete at Morningside. We are planning to see him on the football field again next year—if the call from Pella doesn't become too intense.

DOROTHY BRASHEAR

One cannot be with Dorothy long without becoming interested in her countless unique expressions. She is one of our group who has individuality, which is often manifested in the clever parties she sponsors. Some rather envy her for her recent experience as a bridesmaid.

PAUL BRINKMAN

"Brink" is seemingly one of the most happy-go-lucky of the Juniors. We know, however, that under the veneer of his exterior are sterling qualities. His activities during his college career have been varied. Besides being a favorite with the fair sex he has featured in athletics, and is a debater of no small ability.

MERRILL BURNETTE

Because they couldn't "burn-it" they called him "Dad." He is one of our busiest Juniors. Besides working at the Journal he has an enviable record in debate. He is a member of the Men's Glee Club, and is the "basso profundo" in the quartette. He is certainly getting plenty of second-hand information about the "Dutch" this year.

ALBERT CHANG

"Al" is one of our cosmopolitan students who chose to come all the way from Shanghai, China, to go to Morningside. He is one of those fellows whom you cannot help noticing on the street, or in the halls, because of his broad smile and cheery face. He has proved himself a most capable fellow. Last year he was the president of our Cosmopolitan Club, and they tell us he was the best ever.

JOHN W. DALLENBACH

When we want something we'll done we quite often ask John to do it. He is one of our best-dressed and best-liked Juniors, and we have heard from some of the boys around school that he has a line with the co-eds that can't be duplicated. He thinks that some day he may go to California to imbibe not only knowledge but also orange juice.

BLISS DEAN

Bliss is a little older than the average student, but this only makes him the more interesting. Bliss is well-versed in forestry, for he is a ranger out West during the summer. His little Ford and the snowbanks on Milner Pass are good companions, but once in awhile he likes to come back to civilization, and we are always glad to see him.

MARGARET DE WITT

Margaret is one of the serious kind who does her own thinking, which is saying something, nowadays. Nearly every afternoon one can see her energetically working in the biology laboratory, bisecting someone's harmless cat. She spent her first years in Africa, and has many interesting tales of life in that far-off country.

STANLEY DITTMER

Stan is somewhat of a triple threat man on the campus. He is a versatile musician; in fact he has conquered most of the instruments put out by the Conn Company. Stan is also a "promising" young chap. He promised a Pi that he will always be true, and has promised the Juniors that he will be a track man and debater before he graduates.

LORENA DIXON

When it comes to translating Latin, Lorena can't be beat. She is a member of Eta Sigma Phi and a girl who seeks diligently for knowledge. To her wisdom is no burden; it just bubbles over in fun, and we are very glad that she decided to come to M. C. instead of going to Western Union.

EVERETT DODGE

We can always depend on Everett's talking in Main Hall from one until five. His dark, curly hair and clever line make him a very popular Junior man. He likes his Saturday nights out.

LLOYD DUCOMMUN

Lloyd is another one of our prospective engineers of whom we expect big things, some day. Although he is quiet about the halls, nevertheless the fellows in the Physics lab will vouch that he is a "live wire" when it comes to feeds, and installing radios. He is a classmate whom we are proud to call our friend.

PERCY EBERLY

"Perk" is an active worker in both athletics and college affairs. Although he failed to return for the second semester, he helped much during the first semester in winning Morningside's basketball games. We understand that he has found a sweet-Hart hiding shyly in the Dormitory.

HELEN EMPEY

When we want someone to play the violin, we call on Helen; when we want our hair marcelled, or some art work done, we again call on Helen. She is a girl of varied talents, and one of whom the Juniors and Gib, a Sophomore athlete, are proud.

MIRIAM ENGELKEN

Miriam says that she didn't receive a good foundation in Algebra because her high-school teacher ran off and got married. We're glad, however, that he didn't marry Miriam, and that she could join our class. She is a sweet, splendid friend, and has done her bit for this Annual.

GORDON FOGG

Gordon is one of these people who are very hard to find. He has distinguished himself as a debater and as an extemporaneous speaker in forensics. As an athlete he is both Spanish and physical. During the summer months he is a life-guard at a large summer resort in Estes Park. At present we understand that Gordon is taxing his forensic ability to the nth degree preparing on the subject "How to Win a Maurine."

RUTH FRUM

Though Ruth is generally out of sight in the Main Hall, she can usually be found over at the Con making lots of sound. (In other words, she's a Conservatory student). She is quiet, but her blue eyes have a friendly twinkle, and her presence in a group of girls is always enjoyed—especially that musical giggle.

KATHRYN GANTT

"Pete" is always ready for a good time. She is a jolly girl with a characteristic laugh, and is always willing to put herself out for anybody. She is a light-hearted maid, content, and one who has many friends.

IMOGENE GILBERT

Imogene is another Junior red-head, who seems to get over pretty big with a certain blonde Tau Delt forward named "Johnny." She took time out this semester to indulge in the mumps, and her absence was much bewailed. Her cheerful countenance makes her many friends, and these friendships are deepened after knowing her.

DALE GRABER

Dale takes life seriously until some fun appears. Much of his time is spent in Physics Lab, where he is an assistant. Installing clock systems and light plugs is mere play to him. Furthermore, he's a splendid friend and a true gentleman.

EUNICE GRAY

Eunice's blonde hair and big blue eyes do much to increase her popularity. She used to stay at the Dormitory, but her mother decided that she would have to come to Sioux City and take care of her daughter the second semester. Now Eunice sports a car, but at least Stanley gets home once in awhile.

THELMA GRAY

Thelma is the girl in the bookstore who has become proficient at guessing the book one wants when one doesn't know its name. Thelma is always willing to do her share of work, and more, for Morningside and her many friends.

ANNETTE GREENE

Annette taught school a few years, and then came here to join the Junior Class. She does everything she undertakes very well, even to keeping Professor Campbell's rubbers safely behind the door.

JAMES GRIFFITH

"Sonny" rises early every morning to open the Kaypee Hamburger Shop. His cheery smile welcomes many early breakfasters. He used to be rather bashful as a freshman, but we understand that this quality has been lost.

ELLEN HAMILTON

Ellen is rather quiet and unassuming, but wait till you know her. Because of illness Ellen was forced to leave school for a year, but we consider her a welcome addition to our class. Sometimes these things that are delayed turn out the best after all—certainly this addition to the class.

RUSSELL HAMMOND

"Russ" is one of those rather quiet fellows until you get to know him better. If you can't find him when you want to, just look about a bit and more than likely you will see him high up on some scaffold wielding a mighty paint brush and brightening up the drab walls of some building with his whistle and his gay smile.

LOIS HICKMAN

We were so confident of Lois's ability that we elected her president of our class. She is a very likable and capable girl, and has succeeded in "orating," debating, and making A's and B's in all her class work. She just can't help it that she radiates electricity and accomplishes so much, seeing that her father is engaged in that business.

MRS. VERNAL INGRAM

Mrs. Ingram gave up making a home for a superintendent to return to Morningside and finish her education. Needless to say, we are glad she decided to come back this year and join our class.

ROY JENNINGS

Roy is our varsity yell-leader from Bradgate. He is one of the Annual Board members, and has spent much of his time lately collecting snap-shots. He also takes an active part in dramatic and gospel team activities, and the boys say he's quite a stepper, even at Ames.

WESLEY JONES

"Week" is our most immaculate Junior. He aspires to be a foreign diplomat. We assure him that he has the capacity and all that it needs is development. Wesley finds time to study plenty, step some, and keep things generally going around school.

GERTRUDE JOSEPH

"Gert" is the miniature person frequently seen on her way to and from classes. Her size makes the chance to pull the old adage about "good things coming in small packages" almost too good to pass up. Even though we literally "look down" on her, we do not do so figuratively.

HARRIS KERSLAKE

"Bill" has much faith in the old adage, "Opportunity knocks but once." The opportunity came, she said "Yes," and now "Bill" has someone to polish his pin for him. He engages in both football and basketball, and is a real credit to the Maroon aggregation. Although "Bill" is in a position where his time isn't his own, he does find some time to spend around school.

MILDRED KITCHEN

Next we find the "polisher of the pin" through the operations of coincidence. Can she cook! Bill, we all envy you. "Kitch" is one of the reasons why sounds of laughter ring daily around the Main Hall, and she is one of our jolliest and most popular Juniors.

MAX KROLOFF

Although Max has won more honors than most of us would dare dream of he is very unassuming, and we all admire him for it. Max has won national honors with his pleasing, convincing, and powerful oratory. He is ready to take either side of a debate question at two hours' notice. He is a keen thinker, a splendid friend, and a true gentleman.

KRISTINE KUCINSKI

Kristine decided to follow in her brother's footsteps and has become very skilled on the violin. Besides attending classes she teaches in the public schools; so we don't see "Kris" as much as we desire. Even at that, we can't put much over on Krissy.

LEONE LAKE

Leone is our professor's wife-to-be, references about which may be secured from Orion P. She spends most of her time taking care of the Con office. She is one who deserts the plains of Nebraska to travel over the Big Muddy to the "Cowlege" on the Sioux. Her unfailing good nature is a source of pleasure to all her friends.

GLENNARD LARSON

Glennard is the Junior Larson twin—blonde, but not blue-eyed or curly-haired. Glennard is very much interested in musical and biological affairs. We understand furthermore that he spends most of his spare time in Nebraska.

GLENN LOWE

When it comes to the piano and the harmonica, Glenn can't be beaten. He is one of the best entertainers in the Junior Class. Ask those who sit next to him in chapel. Glenn has a wonderful way with the women, and his pin has disappeared already.

MAURINE McCLURE

Big, brown, snappy eyes and golden hair can't help proving a combination that is disastrous to male hearts. We don't know whether "Rene" likes rain but she certainly shows her preference for "Fogg." Furthermore, she has a lovely voice, charming manners, and is a very dear friend to many Morningsiders.

SIoux OF VISION

MADeline McMULLEN

Webb may be a small town but it sends big girls to Morningside. We are not referring to Madeline's size. She spends a lot of time debating and majoring in such things as history, but she has found time to endear herself to everyone who knows her.

RALPH MAHLUM

Ralph is interested in all school events, and we're always glad to have him around. Musical organizations claim much of his time, but he has a business ability also that can't be duplicated. We'll be sorry to lose him next year, but are sure that he will make a splendid doctor.

MARY MAYNARD

Mary belongs to the set who do a million things outside of classes and still manage to make the honor roll. Mary's mother and aunt came to Morningside, and Mary followed the family tradition, as did a certain Chevrolet and its driver.

GORDON METCALF

Gordon is rather a handsome fellow, very well liked, and capable. He was president of our class in his sophomore year, has taken part in many school activities, and at present is doing his best to manage the business affairs of this book. He is doing it very well, and on the side manages to spend considerable time with "Georgie," who may share his future business success.

ELWIN MILLER

Elwin is a calculus shark—even gets ahead of the lesson once in awhile, but is considerate enough of the remainder of the class to keep the fact to himself. He seems to be brilliant enough to get all his lessons in a short time, and then takes in all the shows at the Park—a record few could equal.

ROGER MOON

Roger is one of those fellows whom one has to be acquainted with before one really knows him. He helps to keep up the scholastic standing of the Junior Class. Socially he is a "Carry On" man. We don't know what would happen to Roger if "Honey" would "Dye," nor to "Honey" if there was no "Moon."

BENITA MOSSMAN

Benita is greatly interested in music, and so spends much of her time at the Con. We see her in Main Hall frequently, however. She has a gift of planning clever parties—in fact, the good times at her slumber parties are never to be forgotten. She keeps secrets splendidly, too—she would have to, wouldn't she?

LAURA FAITH MUELLER

"Lollie" is a minister's daughter, and acquires a different home address every so often. Since she re-entered college the second semester the Main Hall has been a lively place. "Lollie" says she gets a big "kick" out of life. Perhaps her Tau Delt pin and the Ford help.

SIoux OF VISION

NELLIE NEALIS

Nellie is the Junior's idea of a perfect lady. She says she will give lessons if we pay her enough. Her "small" income she really finds insufficient for her many wants. She left Cornell to "chase mosquitoes down in Nicaragua," but at Morningside she does many other things in a very capable manner, and is well liked by everyone.

GEORGE NEIR

George is another one of our pre-engineers whom we expect to hear big things about some day in the future. He is very quiet, but a very good student and sticks to his work until it comes out right. George always has a pleasant smile for all, and should make a success in his chosen work.

LUCILLE O'HERN

Singing over the radio and winning Atwater Kent contests are Lucille's favorite hobbies. She is a valuable asset to any organization that she belongs to, always willing to sing at their social functions. It seems that a good many of the college students keep the pavement hot on the way to Lu's house, too.

JOHN PALS

John, a young man with clever traits, came to Morningside with the fond hope of being a doctor. He changed his mind when he met Professor Steinbrenner, and has decided to go to Florida to tutor a rich man's son in German. He is Joe's right hand man at the tailor shop.

KERMIT PERRIN

Kermit came to us from Cornell College, and we were glad to welcome him. Chemistry laboratory demands much of his time, as does also his job as waiter at Bishop's Cafeteria. He's another street-car devotee, not from choice but from necessity.

THELMA PIXLER

We are glad that "Pixie" returned to college and joined the class of 1929. She takes a great interest in basketball, having played in the Yale-Harvard games for three years. She also is a party to many of the activities of the Junior Class and more especially those of a certain senior Tau Delt.

HELEN REID

Helen is one of our most popular and dependable Juniors. If there's a party to be given or something to be done, Helen's always on the job. She keeps the minutes for the Student Council, is a big factor in W. A. A., and shows her ability on the Annual Board—when she's not helping "someone" translate Spanish. She's one of the "long and short of it," and a certain Phi Sig's chief joy.

ELVA REIMERS

Elva is one of the Junior "A" students. She decided to return to the fold after teaching the little Dutchmen the three R's, and her return was welcomed. She journeys northward as often as possible—three guesses why, besides her mother's cooking.

VERA REISSER

The other half of the long and short combination. Her Velle, loaded down with "students" is a familiar figure on the campus, roads to Vermillion, LeMars, and otherwise. Her piano-playing is a big help at the famous Saturday night sprads, and she does everything else just as well—even though she is rather interested in South Sioux at present.

HAROLD RICHARDSON

They say that "Scotty" has ability in any line, particularly any form of athletics. He participates in football, basketball, and track while at school, and plays baseball in the summer. It seems as though Richardson is called to Omaha frequently to comfort some maiden's heart. Perhaps the curly hair and cheerful smile help.

DOROTHY RUBLE

Dorothy's Buick was seen frequently on the campus first semester, usually loaded down with various and sundry students. Dorothy is attending the University of Arizona this semester, and everyone greatly misses her—not for her Buick alone—but because she is rather a brilliant conversationalist and a valued friend.

JEANNE SCHEFFERS

Jeanne is another girl who comes to us every day from Sergeant Bluff. At least the car ride is better than having to ride the street-car. She is a Conservatory student, and is having much success in her chosen career.

RUTH SCHULER

Some day in the future we believe that Ruth will be a second Jane Addams. She is a major in Sociology, and much interested in this type of work. Furthermore, anything she undertakes she does well—rather an unusual quality nowadays.

WINIFRED SHARE

Winnie divides her time among working in Zoology lab, saying "number, please" at the Dormitory, working on committees for college functions, and planning bungalows with a Morningside alumnus. Like all minister's daughters she is frequently seen at Lake Okoboji in the summertime.

JESSIE SHERWOOD

The Junior star athlete is Jessie. She has been a big gun in all the W. A. A. activities, and will have won her "M" sweater by the end of this year. She assists in classes by relieving the boredom with notes. She also took a vacation to participate in the general run of mumps.

MARGARET SLETWOLD

Talking to a certain senior called John in the Main Hall seems to be one of Margaret's favorite pastimes. Margaret manages, however, to get good grades and report for the Collegian. She has a slow, sweet smile and a cheery word for all.

GAIL SMITH

"Brick" has added a bright spot of color to the basketball court this year. He is also a mainstay in the Band, where the clear melodious tones of his trumpet are often heard. Who knows but that these sweet notes aided in winning Ethel's heart.

LUELLA SMITH

Luella divides her time between the Con. Chapel Choir, Madrigal Club, Orchestration class, and the Main Hall. She's one of our prettiest co-eds—nevertheless, she persists in sojourning in Orange City. Her talents are varied, and she's a true-blue friend.

EDWIN STEELE

Edwin is one of the fellows seen frequently in the Dormitory drawing-room. When not holding down a davenport he works in the Physics laboratory, and we prophesy that some day he will be an efficient radio expert.

ESTHER STEELE

Esther greatly helps to keep up the scholastic standing of the class. She is tall, dignified, blonde, and a true friend to all who know her. She is a faithful worker in Y. W., and is very much interested in the work.

CHRYSTAL STEVENSON

Chrystal is one of those Juniors who is always learning something from Repertoire class. She can generally be found with a certain Phi Sigma, either "heah of theah." Her moving out of the Dorm was greatly bemoaned by the gang. Her pleasing personality has gained her many friends.

EDGAR STEINBRENNER

If you see a tall, thin, dark fellow with a complacent grin on his face, one who looks as though he might come of a family with an ability to "deutsch sprechen" proficiently then you'll know this is none other than Edgar himself. He plans to enter the engineer's profession some day.

LEE STRAIN

Here is a chap who hails from Webster City. "Stress" possesses a remarkable foresight, and is a dreamer of powerful visions. If he isn't assisting Mrs. Cline at the Dormitory one will find him in Professor MacCollin's office trying to schedule a few more Glee Club trips.

HAZEL SURBER

Hazel decided she needed a vacation, so had the mumps during the month of February. She was one of the first, but not the last by any means, to take a vacation in this manner. She is very charming and dignified, but heaps of fun. And can she debate! oh, my!

YU SUNG TAI

Just one look at "Tai's" name, and you know at once that you should like to know him better. The boys around the chemistry lab in his "Quan" class are sure of a jolly time when he is there. We number him among the first of our friends, and are very glad he came to Morningside.

HOWARD TAYLOR

Howard thinks that to travel is an education in itself. He came way from Seattle, Washington, to attend Morningside. The traveling fever has overtaken Howard again, and he has migrated to the University of Minnesota for the present semester. The Juniors miss Howard, and hope that he may join us again next year.

WILLIAM THACKER

"Buzz" is known as the slippery little Maroon half-back, and it would be hard to duplicate him. He also indulges in basketball and baseball. It has been reported that William has a way with the women—he probably charms them with his piano playing. Furthermore, he surely functioned efficiently as a splinter of this Annual Board.

CLIFFORD THOMAS

"Tommy" is rather shy or sedate, but these qualities only make him the more attractive. He is a vocalist, singing in both Chapel Choir and Glee Club. Moreover, there's many a maiden who would give her all to possess Clifford's rosy cheeks, and curly raven hair. Why do boys need such things, anyway?

GLADYCE TIMM

Almost any hour of the day one can go to the Conservatory and hear Gladycie practicing voice, violin, or piano. She is a girl of talent, whom the Juniors are proud to claim.

MARTHA LEE TOMLINSON

Martha Lee's special hobby is English literature. Perhaps this has something to do with her job in the Public Library. Martha likes good times, and she has a good many of them, both winter and summer, even though late work at the library intervenes occasionally.

ELIZABETH TURNER

"Beth" finished the course offered by a good school in Fort Dodge and came to Sioux City to a better one. Because of her scholarship, her capabilities, and her sweet disposition we think her a valuable addition to our class, even though she does spend a great deal of time in places other than Main Hall.

EUNICE WAHLSTROM

Eunice believes in doing things well or not at all. Most of her time is spent at the Conservatory studying the piano and violin. Eunice is quiet but very likable. She rides the street-car every morning, perhaps this accounts for the quietness.

VERDETTIE WALTERS

To see "Shorty" coming down the street you would think he was going to a fire somewhere, but owing to the fact that he is so tremendously short he feels that he must hurry to catch up with himself. He finds time to be a student-pastor at a small church in Luton, Iowa, balance a tray at the Dorm, and display his pugilistic tendencies on the mat in the gym to a profitable advantage.

LE VANE WEAVER

Le Vane is a good student and a serious worker. He is rather quiet until you get him going. Then it is a question of trying to stop him. He stays at the Barn, and spends quite a bit of his time working on his "old" car.

VELDA WELLNITZ

Velda says little but thinks much. She is another music student, is talented, and in addition has the rare gift of common sense. She is a very sweet girl and one whom we are glad to claim as a Junior.

ALLAN WILLIAMS

"Al" is the chef at the Park Cafe. He is studying engineering, and we know he will be a success, for he is persistent, and is willing to put in plenty of time. He says that the reason he doesn't date oftener is that he has to go to bed quite early. Anyway, he's susceptible!

WALTER WITT

"Let Witt Do Your Printing" is the slogan which we see up on the sign in Main Hall some times, which only gives us a hint of the splendid work that "Walt" does in his photography work. If there are any pictures to be taken he is there to snap them. Walt is one of the old standbys on the gospel team, and is a dandy fellow.

BROWNE WOOD

Brownie's chief interest is music. She plays classical music divinely, jazz with vim and vigor, sings in the Chapel Choir, and wears out pairs of shoes practicing the organ. When anyone wants a sympathetic accompanist she calls on Brownie. Brownie also finds time to take care of her grandmother, and Gordon.

MARIE WOOD

Marie showed her wisdom by coming to Morningside this year after spending two years at Western Union. She is a Con student, and a member of the Vesper Choir. We are just getting acquainted with her and like her fine!

MERWIN ZWALD

If it weren't for Merwin's willing and efficient assistance to us in the Physics lab we sometimes wonder how we could ever get along. He plans teaching Physics in a high school some day, and we know he is bound for success. A certain fair damsel in one of the towns a short way from us is the proud possessor of his fraternity pin and thus accounts for his frequent absences over the weekend.

This class has successfully passed through its early stages of development, having swelled somewhat with the honors bestowed upon it by the college, and is now growing vigorously. Not to be surpassed or outdone by any of its predecessors this class has made an enviable record for itself in the field of debate and scholastic attainment. Nothing that is attempted seems to spell failure because of the undaunted, conscientious efforts of the entire body. Finest of leadership ability has been found in the depths of the membership, and the way in which the class business travels so smoothly shows a finely timed organism.

As the Sophomore class become better acquainted with college life, they begin to wonder and to formulate ideas on what college is really for after all. And they have finally come to the conclusion that what they are concerned with most of all is in determining what they care for, what they cherish, and what they really mean to create and fight for as long as they live. "Life," it has been said, "is like playing a violin solo in public and learning the instrument as one goes on." The Sophomores will continue their public performance with all the patience, thoroughness, and skill which they have learned thus far — and their playing will grow better.

College might be likened to a book upon the pages of which each class writes its own history. And, as the book progresses, each chapter becomes stronger and more filled with action, the qualifying adjectives are more vivid, and each chapter draws nearer the climax. Thus, the Freshman Class is beginning to write its own Chapter in the Book of Morningside College Life.

Morningside's boast has always been of her Freshman classes. Each succeeding year has seemed to surpass the preceding one, with the result that this year's class has been of excellent quality and strong virility. The Class of 1931 has not failed in the goal which has been set before it. It has given us thus far the best that it had to offer in the form of aspiring athletes, future debaters, promising singers, capable executives, good sports, and good scholars with a motto of "Each for all, and all for each," not to speak of the witty, well-put humor which ever circulates throughout its membership and throughout the school activities in a life-giving stream.

The future of this class gives promise, and we are sure that the chapter which it writes in the book will help to bring the vision of a more glorious Morningside into a definite reality.

SIOUX OF VISION

"The good of all ages who have been imbued with a passion for righteousness, have never hesitated to spend themselves generously for the cause they loved, the advancement of goodness; nor should those who care for what is beautiful ever hesitate to give themselves as liberally to make beauty prevail in the world."—Bliss Carman.

Schools of music exist in order that music, the great, universal art, may contribute increasingly to the enrichment of life. No other art enters so intimately into the heart-life of all mankind; none strives more faithfully to increase the joy of the world, and bring beauty nearer to all. Our workaday world is sorely in need of renewed strength, rekindled faith, higher nobility; and music has ever ministered with compelling appeal to these needs. Morningside Conservatory is pledged to the task of training musicians of high ideals; teachers whose highest aim and desire is to serve a community with loyalty and diligence. The teaching staff is composed of real artists, each one an outstanding leader in his special field. An increasing number of the school's graduates are winning recognition for their accomplishments in various lines of music work, and the future holds promise of still greater influence and usefulness for the Morningside Conservatory of tomorrow.

"To be able to understand and appreciate literature is one step in interpretation: to be able to present living thoughts and feelings to a listening and eager audience is another step of somewhat longer dimensions."

Expression is the manifestation of mental activity: the outward sign of life and spirit. As the bobolink's song is the outflow of a full heart, so all true expression obeys the same law — it comes from within outward.

One of the first steps in the development of expression must be the recognition of the necessity of genuine possession. Impression must precede and determine all expression.

Methods used in teaching should be based upon psychological principles, developing real power by cultivating those qualities of mind and heart which are fundamental in all true expression.

Morningside College offers such a course in the School of Expression. This course is planned to cover three years, thereby making it possible for students to combine the work in Expression with the Liberal Arts courses. Many, however, not wishing to take the full course, select one or two hours, or private lessons.

During the first six weeks of the summer term, several courses are offered. College credit is given this work as well as practically every course which the School of Expression offers.

SIoux OF VISION

The good sportsman has learned respect for rules. The good citizen has also learned respect for rules, though the rules which he respects are more properly known as laws.

The good sportsman has learned fair play. The good citizen has also learned fair play in that he is always tolerant of the political, economic, and religious views of others.

The good sportsman has learned loyalty. The good citizen has also learned loyalty, the basis of all sound organization.

The good sportsman has learned teamwork. The good citizen has also learned teamwork, which is merely another name for cooperation. A nation of individualists would pass swiftly into anarchy.

The good sportsman has learned gameness. A good citizen has also learned gameness in that he does not capitulate or whine when the tide sets against him. The gambler lacks sportsmanship.

The good sportsman has learned democracy. The good citizen has also learned democracy in that he recognizes no standard of human excellence save merit.

"That a keen, active mind be formed in a strong, virile body; that impulse be tempered with reason, and self-expression restricted by law; that measurements not of one's own making be recognized and accepted at their proper values; that the courteous word and chivalrous deed be present even in the heat of combat, the flush of victory, or the sting of defeat; that in the atmosphere of the classroom these same ennobling principles, finding a fuller field for operation, may result in the most perfect development of manhood — an athlete, a scholar, and a Christian gentleman; these are the objects of college athletics."

Jason W. Sanderson

Head of the Athletic Department.

E. C. WENIG — Assistant Coach

If you hear a man with a slow, drawn out manner of speaking you're quite sure that it is "Obe" Wenig. "Obe" is the head basketball coach, assistant track coach, and freshman football coach. He has proved himself worthy of all these positions. "Obe" is well liked by everyone, even the ladies on the campus. During his college career he was known as one of the best all-round athletes in Iowa, and therefore is able to tell his men "just how it is done." Once in a while he speaks in Chapel, and he always wins the attention of the students on account of his splendid personality. He is very well liked, and everyone is proud of him.

EDWARD PIRWITZ — Director of Freshman Athletics

"Ed," as we call him, is the very able freshman basketball and track coach, besides being "Saundy's" assistant, coaching the varsity line in football. "Ed" was a lineman, and the captain, of Morningside's first conference championship football team. He was a good football player and a real fighter. He still retains these qualities and teaches his men good clean sportsmanship, inspiring them to do their best. He is rather young in the coaching game, but obtains splendid results. "Ed" shows interest and determination in everything and loves his work.

DOCTOR G. W. KOCH — Trainer

"Doc" always has a smile for everyone. If one goes down on the football field any night the boys are practicing football, he will see "Doc" standing there, smiling and smoking a cigar. He is always "on the dot" and ready at any time to help the boys. He keeps them in splendid physical condition, and the boys value him as their trainer and friend.

THE ATHLETIC COMMITTEE

The athletic committee is one of the greatest assets of the Athletic Department, and Morningside is certainly proud of it. Coach Saunderson, Professor Hayes and Professor Van Horne compose this committee. They are very competent men, and take care of their work in a creditable manner. They work for the welfare of Morningside above everything else, and as a result athletics have been placed on a high plane. At the present time they are devoting their efforts to the securing of a very badly needed Field House.

The "M" Club

Ralph Bastian*President*
Marion Sargeant*Vice-President*
Haven Means*Secretary-Treasurer*

The "M" Club is an honorary athletic organization. Any man is eligible who has made his varsity letter in football, basketball, or track. Membership in this exclusive organization is a much coveted honor because Morningside has a very high standard in Athletics, which makes membership in this club a prize to be attained. The present organization has twenty-two members. In order to become a full-fledged member in this club the pledge must pass the initiation, which in itself is no small matter. This, however, is nothing as compared with the satisfaction of being called an active member of the "M" Club.

The 1927 Football Season

The 1927 football season as a whole can be called a success, although Morningside won only three out of eight games. Success is measured not only by the number of games won, but by the development of character and virility in the men, and in this Coach Saunderson was entirely successful.

When the season opened, "Saundy" found that he had entirely new material with which to work. This fact, however, did not lessen "Saundy's" patience and determination to build a team, and he did this in such a splendid manner that he not only built a team of which the entire student body was proud, but also formed a good nucleus for next year's team.

Western Union, on October the second, came to Morningside for the first game of the season. "Saundy" put his new team upon the field, and as a result of their good teamwork the Telegraphers were defeated 18 to 12. Western Union, with a team composed of veteran men, came to Morningside with high hopes of defeating the Maroons. They outweighed the Maroons twenty pounds to the man.

In the first quarter the Maroons marched down to Western Union's one-yard line, but on account of a lack of scoring power were held for downs. The Telegrapher's line braced and held well on the defense. On the first play, Kamerer of Western Union was downed behind his own goal-line for a safety. These two points were the first of the game.

In the second quarter Crippen, of Morningside, passed to Cross, who was downed on the two-yard line. From the two-yard line Abe Williams plunged over the goal-line, and Crippen made good the try for the extra point. The half ended 9 to 6, as in this same quarter a pass by Western Union, Koch to Kamerer, gave the Telegraphers a touchdown.

Morningside's stone wall in the South Dakota game

The line down under a punt in the Des Moines game

Immediately after the beginning of the third quarter, Down of Morningside blocked a Western Union punt, and Kamerer fell on the ball behind his own goal-line to enable the Maroons to secure another safety. Again in the third quarter Down recovered a fumble on the 22-yard line. After two end runs failed, a pass was thrown to Means, who raced over the line for a touchdown. Hatter, who had taken Crippen's place, made good for the extra point.

The Maroons did not score in the fourth quarter, but the Telegraphers succeeded in pushing across another touchdown. The Maroons outplayed their heavier opponents throughout the entire game.

The Haskell Indian team came to Morningside on October the eighth. They succeeded in nosing out a victory in the last minutes of play, and won 15 to 14. The Haskell team was a strong aggregation, and by holding them to such a close score the Maroons showed that they had football ability. Morningside's line played well on both the defense and the offense. The Maroons led at first, and then they were equalled by a Haskell marker. Then Down gave Morningside the second lead in the game when he scooped up a Haskell fumble and ran 85 yards for a touchdown. He was assisted by good interference.

In the first quarter the teams played conservatively, and punted back and forth. Neither team seemed to be able to score. Not much offensive playing was shown by either team. The first quarter ended with neither team having any points.

In the second quarter the Maroons took the lead by making a touchdown after a pass from Hatter to Means. The try for the extra point was good. But in this same quarter the Indians blocked a Morningside punt and scored a safety as the Maroon back fell upon the ball behind his own goal-line. At the end of the half the score was 7 to 2 in favor of Morningside.

The third quarter was a hard fought period. The Maroons failed to make any points, and after the smoke of the battle of the third period was over Haskell had scored a touchdown, which gave them the lead 8 to 7.

The Maroons were trailing at this time, but it was in this period that Down raced 85 yards for a touchdown, and the try for an extra point by Hatter was unsuccessful. Then Haskell started passing. Their attempts resulted in a touchdown which tied the score 14 to 14. Hawley of Haskell made good the kick for the extra point which won the game—a hard battle. The large crowd that turned out for the game went away satisfied because of the splendid manner in which both teams had acquitted themselves.

For Morningside the stars were: Hatter, Means, Bastian, and Down; while for Haskell Captain Hawley, Smith, and Brightman were the shining lights.

On October the fifteenth the Maroon team played Hastings College at Hastings. The team was in good shape after the Haskell game, although they were still without the services of Donald Cross, a halfback, in this game. "Don" was hurt during the Haskell game. "Saundy" put in his reserves, however, and Paul Brinkman was called to "Don's" place at halfback.

In the first quarter both teams sawed up and down the field. Neither team made much ground in line plunging nor end runs. In the second quarter the Maroons seemed to slacken their defense, and as a result McCrady, Hastings quarterback, started on an end run, cutting back over the line and running on down the field for a touchdown. He made a pretty run. Before the half McCrady, of Hastings, again ran back, this time to throw a pass. He stood back and went into the motion of throwing a pass, and seeing no one around he ran down the field for the second touchdown. The try for the extra points was good for both touchdowns. The score at the half was 14 to 0, in favor of Hastings College.

In the third quarter the Maroons settled down. Morningside did well on the defense, watching every move of the enemy with determination to hold them. The Maroons, by good straight football, marched down the field for the first Maroon points. The try for the extra point was no good, and the third quarter ended 14 to 6.

The fourth quarter started out as if neither team would score. The Maroons held Hastings for downs easily. Morningside advanced the ball down the field many times, but the Hastings team braced and held. The quarter, however, did not go scoreless, because the Maroons by hard straight football again pushed over another touchdown. The try for the extra point was again a failure. This made the game 12 to 14 in favor of Hastings. Yet the Hastings team was lucky that the whistle blew when it did, because Morningside was on her way for another touchdown.

For Morningside Brinkman, a reserve halfback, and Bastian did well, while for Hastings McCrady was the star.

October the twenty-second was Homecoming Day at Morningside. The Maroons played Des Moines University before a large crowd of alumni and friends. The Tigers edged out a 6 to 0 win over Morningside. It was a heart-breaking defeat for the Maroons, who many times were within scoring distance, but failed to have the punch to put the ball over. Morningside made 18 first downs, while the Tigers were getting 8. By hard hitting football, and all kinds of well-executed plays from passes to line plays, the Maroons drove through the Tiger defense to within scoring distance four times. The first time the Tigers received the ball by intercepting a pass. The second time Morningside lost the ball on downs. The third time the ball was lost on downs, and the fourth time the Maroons lost the ball by the decision of the official.

In the first quarter Means kicked off for Morningside to Ridenour of Des Moines, who returned the ball 10 yards. They failed to make their downs, and Morningside took the ball on the 50-yard line. Brinkman circled Des Moines' right end for 10 yards and first down. Then Morningside failed to make her next downs; so Des Moines took the ball on the 47-yard line. The Tigers made their downs the first time but failed the second time, and were forced to Morningside's 10-yard line. Morningside took the ball. Hatter, on the first play, punted to the Tigers, and the ball landed on Morningside's 38-yard line. Des Moines made their downs, and the ball was on the 22-yard line. They fumbled on the third down, and Morningside's end, Down, recovered the ball on the 14-yard line. Hatter, the Maroon quarterback, made it first and ten on two plays. On the second play Morningside fumbled. The Tigers took the ball, but failed to make their downs. The quarter ended Morningside 0, Des Moines 0.

The second quarter started out with Morningside in possession of the ball. After failure to make downs, Hatter punted to Ridenour. On a pass the Tigers made it first and ten. The pass netted them 11 yards. On line plays they made 10 yards and first downs. Then a pass for 18 yards put the ball on the Maroon 7-yard line, and first down. Stykes made 2 yards off right tackle. Ridenour got a yard off guard. Williams replaced Bohm for Des Moines. On the next play Williams, the reserve, took the ball around end for a touchdown. Means blocked the kick for the extra point. Then Des Moines kicked off to Morningside, who took the ball down to the 23-yard line. Here they were held for four downs. The Tigers failed to make their downs and punted. Brinkman made seven yards. Des Moines was offside on the next play. It was Morningside's ball first and ten to go. In the next series of plays a pass from Brinkman to Means gained 17 yards. The ball was on Des Moines' 20-yard line. Here the Tigers held Morningside again for downs. Des Moines punted and Hatter recovered the ball. Morningside made 10 yards by a pass to Hatter. On the next plays Morningside failed to gain. Hatter punted. The half ended Des Moines 6, Morningside 0.

To start the third quarter Means kicked off for Morningside. Des Moines failed to make their downs, and punted to Morningside. Two plays, one by a halfback, netted the Maroons 6 yards, and Hatter made it 10 yards and first down. Williams broke through the line for 10 yards. Morningside failed to make her downs on the next three plays and so punted. The Tigers failed to make their downs and punted. It was Morningside's ball, and on the third play Brinkman passed to Means for a 20-yard gain. The ball was on the 30-yard line but Morningside failed to make her downs. The quarter ended Des Moines 6, Morningside 0.

It was Des Moines' ball, but they failed to make their downs. Morningside then took the ball but she had to punt after failure to make enough yardage. Crippen came into the game to replace Hatter. Morningside, on two plays, one by Brinkman for 4 yards and one by Crippen for 9 yards, made its first down. Crippen passed to Thacker for a gain of 20 yards. The Maroons kept advancing the ball until it rested upon the one-yard line. Here a fumble by Thacker lost the Maroon chance to score. The Maroons HATTER tried again to reach the goal-line, but the whistle blew before it was done. The game ended Des Moines 6, Morningside 0. For Morningside Hatter and Brinkman were the stars, while Williams and Parrott were luminaries for Des Moines.

On October the twenty-ninth Nebraska Wesleyan came to play Morningside. The Maroons were bound for a victory after the Homecoming defeat. Morningside won the game 7 to 0. The Maroons still showed inability to score because of a lack of punch, or the team would have won by at least three touchdowns — if the yardage gained from scrimmage can be used as a basis. Morningside made 13 first downs to Wesleyan's four.

Morningside took "tough breaks" at the close of the first and second halves. At the close of the first the Maroons had the ball on Wesleyan's 14-yard line, and as the game ended, Strom, Maroon halfback, had carried the ball to the 3-inch line.

The game itself was a seesaw affair, with both teams failing in the critical moments, but the boys must be congratulated upon their hard playing.

It was in the second quarter that Morningside made the points which won the game. Means led the spurt that carried the ball nearly the length of the field and brought Morningside the victory. With the ball on the 23-yard line, Means faked a punt and ran around left end for 20 yards. Then Hatter, the Maroon quarterback, got away for a gain of 15 yards around the other end. Then Means made another gain of 7 yards around right end. On the next play Hatter ran back and threw a pass to Means, who dashed across the goal-line for the winning touchdown. Hatter made good the try for the extra point.

For Wesleyan, Manchester, end, was the principal scoring threat for the conquered, as well as the defensive star. He carried the ball at times and made some good gains. The Maroon fans gave him a hand when he left the field. For Morningside "Hoooley" Means, who carried the ball in the backfield, and played end, was the main star; while the playing of Al Bastian was one of the high spots of the tilt. Bastian has a reputation for analyzing plays, and in this game lived up to his reputation. Two reserve backs who showed real promise of football ability in this game were Strom and Goldberg of Morningside.

On November the third "Saundy" took twenty-one men to Brookings, where Morningside was to play South Dakota State at their annual Hobo Day celebration on November the fifth. State celebrated their Hobo Day by defeating the Maroons 44 to 7. Morningside was outplayed most of the time by their heavier opponents, but nevertheless they didn't accept defeat without a fight. The Maroon line was light for the heavy opponents, backfield and line. The State men made long runs, but Cross of Morningside opened their eyes with his dash of 70 yards.

In the first quarter, after two minutes of play, Crippen of Morningside punted on his own 40-yard line. Smith in two slashes off tackle made 41 yards. Harding, Sweinfurt, and Smith added 10 yards more, and Smith went off tackle for a touchdown for State. The try for the extra point was no good. Morningside was unable to gain after receiving the next kickoff, and punted to State's 40-yard line again. On the first play Smith, of State, went off tackle, evaded the secondary defense, and ran 60 yards for another touchdown. Frandsen did not make good the try for the extra point.

On the next kickoff Morningside nearly scored when Williams passed the ball to Cross, who dashed 70 yards before he was brought down. A fumble at this time robbed the Maroons of this chance to score, and State punted out of danger. Smith of State was replaced by Shaefer, and Englemann was also substituted. Morningside failed to make her downs, and on the next play Englemann went off right tackle and dashed the remainder of the way for a touchdown. Frandsen's kick this time was good.

A few minutes later Shaefer intercepted a Maroon pass on his own 20-yard line and ran in a clear field 72 yards for a touchdown. This ended the scoring in the first half.

On the opening kickoff of the second half Englemann, a State back, returned the ball 69 yards before he was brought down. He added 13 yards on the next play, and after two more plays, which failed to gain, he broke through for his second touchdown. Alert playing by Down, Morningside end, gave Morningside her only points. State had punted to the 50-yard line, and the ball was rolling around on the ground with nobody to claim it until Down grabbed it and ran across State's goal. Hatter made good the place-kick for the extra point.

State's next touchdown came in the fourth quarter. Baker, a substitute, made the score. A Morningside fumble on the Maroon 5-yard line gave State the ball on the next kickoff. Baker went around end for the touchdown.

There was no further scoring. For State outstanding men were Smith, Englemann, Shaefer, and Baker. For Morningside Captain Ralph Bastian, Means, Crippen, Kerslake, Williams, and Down played the best. A crowd of ten thousand witnessed the game.

On November the twelfth Wayne State Normal from Nebraska came to play Morningside in the old traditional game. Last year Wayne was given the small end of a 63-0 defeat. They came with the thought in mind that this year Morningside would meet defeat at their hands. But this was not the case. Morningside battered the line and end of the Wayne defense, and won by a 45 to 0 score. Wayne fought hard and determinedly, however, until the final whistle blew. The Maroons were still feeling the sting of their last whipping, and, being in no friendly mood, they simply walked away with the points. Morningside took the ball down the field almost at will, but the "Wildcats" held good for half of the game.

In the first quarter neither team took any chances, and each team punted freely. In the last part of the first quarter, however, Morningside started an offensive play with end runs and plunges through the line, which soon resulted in a touchdown.. The score was Morningside 7, Wayne 0.

The second quarter started with both teams fighting hard. The Maroons had the edge on both the defense and the offense. In the latter part of this quarter Bastian, Morningside center, intercepted one of Wayne's numerous passes. This started the Maroons upon another offensive drive. Soon another touchdown was added. Crippen missed the kick for the extra point. The game at the half stood: Morningside 13, Wayne 0.

The third quarter started out with Morningside in possession of the ball. Morningside kicked to Wayne and Wayne made a fumble which "Hooley" Means recovered. At this time a fifteen-yard penalty for holding was imposed upon Wayne. The ball was then within easy scoring distance. On the next play Abe Williams crashed over for a touchdown. Crippen's kick was good.

A pass from Crippen to a halfback started the Maroons' next march for a touchdown. By end runs and smashes the ball was placed upon the 12-yard line, from where Cross carried it over the goal-line for another touchdown. Later in the quarter Down recovered a Wayne fumble, and by more offensive playing another touchdown was the result.

The high spots of the fourth quarter were passes by Crippen and Strom to Means, which rather awed the Wayne team, and gave Morningside another touchdown. To top it all off Goldberg, a Maroon halfback, in the last few minutes of play, dashed around Wayne's right end for a touchdown. He ran 20 yards. Wayne never at any time really threatened a touchdown. "Saundy" substituted freely in the game. For Morningside the stars were Means, Bartholomew, and Bastian, while for Wayne Mayberry was outstanding.

The University of South Dakota, Morningside's traditional Turkey Day rivals, came here to do battle on November twenty-fourth. It was a hard fought game, and at the close of the struggle the score was 22 to 7 in favor of South Dakota. Their win over Morningside gave the University of South Dakota the North Central football championship. The Maroons, however, made the sweat come out on the "Coyotes" brows a number of times, and played the game so well that they received as many congratulations as the winners.

The Coyotes received the kickoff, and by virtue of line plays and end runs they drove to Morningside's 12-yard line. The Maroons sensed the danger and tightened their defense. They held the Coyotes three straight downs, but on the fourth down the University of South Dakota team place-kicked goal. This netted them three points. Clancy kicked the goal for the invaders. Morningside then received and advanced the ball to the 50-yard line. It was here that the Coyotes received a break, and intercepted a Maroon pass. Crockett, who did the intercepting, ran in an open field for a touchdown. The try for the extra point was no good. The quarter ended South Dakota 9, Morningside 0.

Early in the second quarter Crippen was substituted for Hatter at quarterback. After a few plays of end runs and a line smash, Crippen threw a pass to Down, who ran 25 yards for Morningside's first touchdown. The fans stood up in their places and yelled. The kick for the extra point was good. The half ended, South Dakota University 9, Morningside 7.

In the third quarter the Maroons had the edge easily over the Coyotes. Twice Morningside, by hard end runs and line plunges, brought the ball within easy scoring distance only to lose it. It was this which probably lost the game for the Maroons. The Coyotes were at the mercy of the Maroons and could not do a thing. The third quarter ended: South Dakota University 9, Morningside 7.

In the last quarter of the game the Coyotes took advantage of a break, and Stensland, South Dakota's end, blocked a Maroon punt. South Dakota recovered it and in two plays crashed over for their second touchdown. The Maroons then braced up and held the Coyotes for a while. Then Gidley broke through Morningside's line and secondary defense and dashed down the field 55 yards for their third and last touchdown. The Maroons elected to receive and on the kickoff a Maroon back brought the ball up the field 45 yards. Morningside then threw passes, until one was intercepted by the Coyotes. The Coyotes held the ball and the game ended: University of South Dakota 22, Morningside 7. For Morningside the stars of the game were Crippen, Bastian, and Bartholomew, while for the Coyotes Crockett, Gidley, and Stenland were outstanding.

In reviewing the season we can say that in spite of the games lost this year's football season was a success. Morningside lost many of the veteran players of last year by graduation. "Saundy" had to rebuild a new team. This year four players — Means, Captain Bastian, Cross, and Down — will be lost.

The leader of the 1928 football squad is Frank Bartholomew, a guard, who has had two years of varsity football. "Bart" is a steady player and a hard fighter, with the Morningside spirit. The prospects of a winning team are very promising, as not many of the men will be lost by graduation and a number of freshmen of ability are eligible for the varsity next fall.

The frosh team showed up well against the varsity. There were many men who displayed real football tactics. The team gave the varsity much competition and battle. There is a wealth of material in these men who are going to bear the banner of the Maroons in the future.

The 1928 Basketball Season

This year's basketball season may well be called a success. The Maroons stepped into a tie for third place in the Conference rating by defeating South Dakota State in the last Conference game. The Conference title went to North Dakota University, and second place went to South Dakota University, while the North Dakota Aggies placed fourth.

Morningside finished up the season in Conference games by defeating South Dakota State, which showed that they were well recovered from the middle season slump. The Maroons started out with an easy victory, and it looked as if the Morningside team would take the Conference title. Bastian, Means, and "Perk" Eberly formed the front line at first, while reserves in the form of a "pony team," composed of Hatter, Johnson, Collins, Kingsbury, Kerslake, and Smith were ready to take the floor when needed. Also, Jerry Gehrt and Lowell Crippen stood out as guards. "Hooley" Means lacked but one point of equaling the high scorer of the Conference—which is an honor for any athlete to win. The boys always played clean basketball, and fought hard the whole game. "Obe," our coach in basketball, should be given the credit for developing such a team, especially, as always shows good sportsmanship.

The first game of the season was with Augustana College on December 14. The Maroons made it an easy victory, by defeating them 41-24. Morningside's defense functioned well, and the boys showed good teamwork. "Obe" used about every player he had. Bastian, Means, and Hatter were outstanding for the Maroons. The starting lineup for Morningside was P. Eberly, Bastian, Means, Gehrt, and R. Eberly.

The next game on the schedule was with Western Union. This game also was easy for the Maroons. "Obe" substituted freely in the game, using fifteen men before the tilt was over. Morningside's defense worked well, and Western Union found it almost impossible to get a short shot at the basket. The Maroons broke quickly on the offense and piled up a total of 44 points while Western Union was gathering MEANS 20. Abe Williams and "Red" Smith showed up well as guards, while center Bastian, Means, and P. Eberly made the defense function well. This January 7th game was the second straight victory.

January 9 the Wayne Normal team invaded Morningside to beat the Maroons, but Morningside did not consent to run, and as a consequence Wayne was beaten 48-15. The Maroons had little difficulty in defeating the invaders, as the score shows. The Maroons showed a speedy offense. At the half the Maroons were leading 23-7. Bastian was hitting the hoop regularly and accounted for nine field-goals, while Means made four. "Obe" again substituted freely, and used fourteen BASTIAN men. Morningside's defense also forward worked well. Gehrt made a good showing by stopping many of the Wayne spurts. Wayne's threat was Groger, a running guard who made some long shots.

The first conference game was played on January 14. With high hopes the Maroons were anxiously waiting to encounter the North Dakota University five. The outcome was in the Maroons' favor, because Morningside won the game 32-19. This victory gave the Maroons the hope for a good showing in the "Title Race." They took an early lead, and were never headed. It was a well-played game, with both teams fighting hard. The Maroon defense and offense functioned well. In the closing minutes of play "Obe" sent in the "pony" team, who not only held the Nodaks, but succeeded in making two field-goals. Means and Bastian starred for Morningside, and Letich and Boyd for the Nodaks.

EBERLY On January 20 the Maroons encountered South Dakota University and won a guard second Conference game 26-18. This game had much stalling. The two teams battled on even terms, and at the half the University led 14 to 12. "Obe" sent his men into the second half with confidence, however, and the Maroons battled on even terms until about ten minutes to go, and then Bastian caged some baskets which put the Maroons in the lead. "Obe" must be given credit for the way he substituted his men, and credit must also be given to Bastian for his work. CRIPPEN guard Crill was outstanding for the Coyotes.

On January 28 the Maroons met the North Dakota Aggies, and suffered their first Conference defeat. The game started slow with North Dakota stalling. The Maroons, however, broke up the stalling by playing a man to man game. During the whole game the teams might be said to have battled on even terms. Morningside missed some set-up shots. "Obe" used eleven men in the game. For Morningside "Perk" Eberly and Means were outstanding, while McPherson, Gergen, and Bliss were outstanding for the victors. The score was 28-25.

On February 3 the Maroons again GEHRT guard met the University of North Dakota. The game ended in defeat for Morningside. The boys from the north won 26 to 19. North Dakota University had a hard time winning this victory, and played over their heads the entire game. The Maroons showed a hard fighting team. Four baskets in the last minutes of play by a North Dakota substitute broke the lead for the Maroons. For Morningside Hatter, who filled the place left vacant by Eberly, Means, and Bastian starred, while for North Dakota University Soldberg was outstanding.

After the North Dakota U. game the Maroons journeyed up to Fargo to play the North Dakota Aggies. The HATTER forward Aggies lost to Morningside 31-24. This victory put the Maroons in a triple tie for first place in the Conference. The outstanding performer for the Maroons was Means, who made nine field-goals. The Aggies, however, played without McPherson, their center, who was dismissed on account of scholastic difficulties, but they fought hard and gamely. Gergen was the outstanding performer for the Aggies.

The Maroons showed a great eye for the basket, and good defensive work.

February 7 the Maroons sailed to Omaha to meet Creighton. The Creighton team proved too much for Morningside, and defeated them 57-23. The Maroons fought gamely and hard. The Bluejays started out with a goal by Diesing. The Maroons had bad luck on many of their shots, or otherwise the score would not have been so big. "Obe" tried many combinations but to no avail—the Bluejays were "hot." Jensen, Creighton's lanky center, was too tall for Means, and this gave the Bluejays an advantage. For Morningside Means and Bastian did well, while Diesing and Jensen were outstanding for Creighton.

The Maroons went to Vermillion February 11 to meet the Coyotes, and were defeated 21-11. Bastian opened the scoring with a short throw. The Coyotes came back with a basket. From then on the Coyotes "played safe" and watched their passing and watched "Hooley" Means. Syverson was the high point man for Vermillion, while Bastian led the Maroon. Morningside made good seven out of ten free throws. At the half the game was 11-8 in Vermillion's favor, and in the second half they "stalled" again, which forced the Maroons to a man-to-man play to get possession of the ball.

Saturday, February 18, the Maroons encountered South Dakota State, who defeated our boys 30-16. The Maroons were out of form, and allowed the State men to get many set-ups. The first half of the game was slow owing to the cautious playing on both sides. State was leading 14 to 11 at the half, but in the first few minutes of the second half Abe Williams sunk two field-goals, which made Morningside close to State's points. Morningside's defense did not function as well as it had done. The outstanding men for Morningside were Means and Williams, while Sessler was outstanding for State.

On February 20 the Creighton five came to Morningside. The Maroons were de-terminated to show them a good game, if not to beat them. The Bluejays, however, nosed out a win over the Maroons in the closing moments of the game, and won 27-24. The Creighton five were hard pressed throughout the game and were forced to "stall" to edge out a victory. The Maroons led throughout most of the game, and at the half the score was 11-10 in favor of Morningside. Both teams played carefully, and both teams used the zone defense and the quick break. The "stall" of Creighton forced the Maroons to a man-to-man defense.

At the middle of the second half the Maroons were leading 21-17, but it was at this point that Diesing of Creighton "found the basket" and "iced" the game. The outstanding men for Morningside were Means, Kingsbury, and Crippen, while for Creighton, Diesing and Beha were outstanding.

On February 27 the Maroons went to Brookings to play State. To beat State meant a third place tie, and to lose meant fourth place. The Maroons won 35 to 24. The State men took an early lead, but the Maroons, making long shots from every angle and playing a good defensive game, showed that they deserved a victory. The Maroons sank many baskets in both halves. The outstanding men for Morningside were Means, Hatter, and Kingsbury. While it was said that inability to throw free throws cost the Bunnies the game, our boys well deserved their victory.

Morningside closed her basketball season March 3 with a victory over Des Moines U. The score was 44-13. "Hooley" Means, captain, closed his college basketball career. The defense of the Maroons functioned perfectly. The Tigers were allowed only two field-goals. Morningside excelled in every department of the game, and showed the Morningside spirit in their comeback after the mid-season slump. Means, Crippen, and Gehrt starred for Morningside, while for Des Moines Ulrich and Erickson did well.

Freshman Basketball

The tutor of the freshman basketball squad is "Ed" Pirwitz. The "Frosh" had a successful season this year. They did not play very many games during the season, but in those that were played they showed some good material, and promise much for next year's varsity squad.

As usual the freshmen played two games with their rivals, the South Dakota U. freshmen. The first game was played at Vermillion. It was hard fought, but in the end the Coyote pups came out victorious. The second game was on the home floor, and the Morningside Frosh avenged their defeat by beating them.

Besides these games the Frosh scrimmaged with the varsity squad and made them fight hard to retain their lead.

MARINUS JENSEN, Captain

The 1927 Track Season

The 1927 track season was a great success. Morningside won the 440-yard relay, the 880-yard relay, second place in the high hurdles and javelin, and third place in the 100-yard dash at the Dakota Relays. At the Drake Relays our boys won first in the preliminaries in the half-mile relay. Morningside won the Tri-State Meet by an easy margin. The team won by 20 points. Although Morningside did not do so well in the North Central Meet, the team tried hard and kept out of the cellar.

The captain of the track team was Marinus Jensen. Jensen was our high jump man. He did very well, and with the close of the season his career was ended.

THE DAKOTA RELAYS

The Dakota Relays were held at Sioux Falls, April 22, 1927. Seven hundred twenty-three athletes were entered from the various schools. Five records were broken in this year's meet.

Although Morningside had only a small squad at the meet, the showing made was anything but disappointing. Morning ide placed in every event entered. The sprint relay team, composed of Sargeant, N. Williams, Hartzell, and Cross, won both the mile and half-mile relays by nosing out South Dakota University and Carleton runners in tight races.

One of the thrills of the meet was the struggle between Means, Morningside, and Kelley of South Dakota State for first honors in the 120-yard high hurdles. The men were old rivals, having met last year in the North Central Conference Meet, in which the Dakotan nosed out Means at the tape. History repeated itself and the Morningside star was second by a few inches.

Cross grabbed a third in the 100-yard dash, and in the javelin throw Knudsen was second to Dunkak of South Dakota, who set a new mark of over 181 feet.

Morningside's men made a spendid showing, and should be praised for their work.

THE DRAKE RELAYS

On Friday, April 29, five crusaders chosen from the ranks of Morningside's track squad made a pilgrimage to Des Moines, the shrine of athletes of the Middle West, and participated in the annual Drake Relay carnival.

Success smiled on the adventurers during a race to determine the best Iowa college half-mile relay team, and the Maroon squad broke the old record of 1:33.4 by running the event in 1:32.9. Sargeant, N. Williams, Hartzell, and Cross were the bearers of Morningside's colors.

Another Maroon, Haven Means, fared well in the preliminaries of the 120-yard special high hurdle division of competition, and qualified for later competition.

It was either lonesomeness or homesickness that crept into the Maroon camp Friday night and so demoralized the little band that their efforts on Saturday were buried beneath hostile boards. The Maroon men, however, did well amid all the competition, and should be complimented for the fine spirit and manliness that they displayed.

Dear Morningside

I.

Home of our college days,
Hark to our song of praise
While we our voices raise
For Morningside.
Thou queen of all the land,
Loyal to thee we stand,
Thy sons a faithful band—
Dear Morningside.

II.

Bright are the hours we spend,
Dear is each college friend,
Sweet is the charm they lend
To Morningside.
Brothers in heart are we,
Joyous and light and free,
Joined by our love for thee—
Dear Morningside.

FRESHMAN TRACK

At "Ed" Pirwitz's first call a large number of freshmen turned out. The weather was pleasant, which added to the eagerness of the boys to train. The material for track was better than usual. Several men of high-school experience and good ability were introduced to Morningside ways.

The track aspirants worked hard, and in the course of the season they met in a dual meet with the University of South Dakota freshmen; competed in the Home Meet, or Interclass Meet; and two relays, both of which they won.

Those who made their letters in track are: Menter, E. Hansen, Rice, Fredricks, Thornton, Bale, Gehrt, Pritchett.

INTERCLASS TRACK MEET

The Seniors had to work hard to take the Interclass Meet. The freshmen came in second place with fifty-two and one-third points.

The freshmen placed in the following events:

High Hurdles — Pritchett, third; L. Johnson, fourth.

Low Hurdles — Crippen, second; Allen, third; Townsend, fourth.

440-yard Dash—Menter, first.

Half-mile Run—E. Hansen, first; Walters, third; Owens, fourth.

THE FRESHMAN MEET WITH THE UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH DAKOTA

This meet was held on Bass Field, and although our freshmen took eight out of fifteen first places the Coyote freshmen secured enough points to win the meet. The final count was South Dakota 65, Morningside 52. For Morningside Wayne Menter scored 16 1/4 points for individual honors.

Alma Mater

I.

Sing the praises of dear Alma Mater,
Tell of her heroes bold,
Lift your voices, the chorus swelling
All her glories now unfold.

Refrain:

Then cheer for Dear Old Morningside,
To thee we pledge anew;
Hearts of faithful love, now and forever,
Thy loyal sons and true.

II.

We love they halls of learning,
And where e'er we roam,
We will cherish the friendship endearing
Fair Morningside—our home.

III.

Hear our vow, O Alma Mater,
Ever to honor thee,
At thy call loyal service we offer,
For the glory of old M. C.

Marching Song

Morningside comes marching,
With her hundreds strong,
All are now united
In a mighty throng;
Stalwart sons are ready
For the battle soon,
Marching on to victory,
Dear old Maroon.

Morningside goes marching—
Hear the shouts that ring
For our Alma Mater,
Praise to her we bring.
Banners crowned with glory,
Paths with victory strewn;
Morningside forever,
Dear old Maroon.

The Athletic Girl has come to stay. Athletics for women are no longer a fad, but a well recognized factor in the better development of women, and incidentally of the race. Institutions and organizations must realize that athletics, that all sports and games are a part of Physical Education—not a separate program to be controlled by a separate set of individuals. The "spectator" must be made a secondary, shadowy consideration, the participant and her education the important thing.

Not only must the college program provide for the athletic life of the girl in college but give her something to carry over into her recreational life after college. This program should establish the habit of spending leisure time, and a capacity for spending it in a way that would bring interest and pleasure—the greatest factor in making life contented. Training in sports as tennis, bowling, arching, golf, skiing, skating, supplies opportunity for the girl to select a sport that will carry over to the after-college life.

"Educational Athletics aim at (1) sports and games adapted to girls and their needs (2) conducted in such a way as to allow the greatest number to participate and to develop play spirit in a larger number of girls and (3) motivated by joy and love of play not play for the purpose of making a record or beating an opponent." Such are the aims that are advocated by Miss Agnes Wayman of Columbia University.

These aims are held as a standard of the athletic program for women at Morningside College. The program strives not only to entertain the girl in college but also to give the girl something that will help her to take care of her leisure time during and after college. In the attaining of such aims and ideals the athletic program at Morningside is overcrowded with events throughout the year.

Wearing the flashing crimson of the noted eastern university, the Harvard girls' basketball team defeated the blue-uniformed Yale sextet, on March 17, by the score of 28-26.

A last-minute rally brought the Harvard girls to victory. Faye Woods was high point scorer for the contest, gathering 18 points for Harvard, while Myrtle Anderson was not far behind with a total of 16 points for Yale. Blossom Henton, for Harvard, and Jessie Sherwood, for Yale, each made 10 points. Ed Perwitz, varsity basketball coach, refereed the game, which was arranged by Miss Lillian Murray, director of Women's Athletics.

The Yale-Harvard game is a tradition among the co-eds at Morningside and one of the outstanding athletic events of the year. Unusual interest was displayed by the largest crowd that ever gathered for a women's basketball game because of the splendid advertising carried out under the direction of Miss Marion Hughes, and also because of the uniforms worn by the contestants.

Archery

Archery was introduced for girls in the fall of 1926, and has been very popular. It is a pretty sight to see the girls in their black and white outfits out on the campus on a fine day, shooting at the target. Sometimes they miss it, but more often they are able to shoot the arrow straight into the bull's-eye. Quite a crowd of onlookers is usually attracted—small boys and girls, and big strong college athletes who sometimes wait for their turn to try the bow.

Not much was done with archery in the fall, but during the spring a tournament was conducted for all girls interested. Archery appeals to girls who cannot participate in such strenuous sports as hockey and track. It is fast becoming a universal sport, and we hope to develop it more here at Morningside.

Dancing

Aesthetic dancing is being taught three times a week now, and the girls are fast learning to be graceful, and to develop poise and rhythm. Along with this dancing the girls are practicing for the May Fete. Usually most of the dancers in the May Fete are the ones who have been in the dancing class. Dancing is recognized as being a very valuable means of self-expression, and more girls should participate in it for their own good.

May we present Miss Sherwood, the only girl this year to win the coveted honor of the W. A. A. sweater. Through diligence and persistence she has won the necessary 1000 points, as provided by the National W. A. A. She is a splendid athletic girl.

Activities

Morningside Traditions

The May Breakfast

Each year the Y. W. C. A. sponsors a May Breakfast, the proceeds from which assist in the Geneva fund. If fair weather prevails (one year out of four), the breakfast is served on the campus. All of the college students attend and give up their precious quarters for the traditional oranges, hard-boiled eggs, rolls, and coffee. A good time is had by almost everyone before the general rush for eight o'clock classes begins.

Miss Lucille Claerbout, chairman of the Geneva Conference fund, was general chairman last year. Miss Cora Montgomery was chairman of the menu, and Miss Margaret Davies of the finance.

The Walkout

In October, 1907, Morningside College was preparing for a visit from Vice-President Fairbanks. One Thursday chapel was dismissed that the students might practice their yells on the campus. Orders were given to march out and keep on marching, and these orders were obeyed literally. Over the four miles to the monument they marched, for it seemed that the leaders somehow thought that to prepare for Fairbanks meant to journey to the fair banks of the Missouri. After they arrived and had practiced their yells, they returned to the chapel to find that only Professor Brown was present.

Since this first "walkout" Morningside students have repeated it each year. It has now become an accepted tradition that on one day in the spring the students shall walk out of their classes after the first period, and hike (or ride) out to Floyd Monument. Speeches are made by some of the students, a talk is given by Professor Hayes, some songs are sung, and yells are given. Before returning to town light refreshments are served.

The walkout last year was held on May 6, and was enjoyed by all.

The Dedication of the Women's Residence Halls

With the completion of the Women's Residence Halls another dream has been realized and the vision of a greater Morningside becomes more concrete. During the week of May ninth to fourteenth, 1927, the Halls were dedicated with beautiful and impressive ceremonies. To Miss Lillian E. Dimmitt, Dean of Women, belongs much of the credit for this splendid building, for it was she who dreamed the original dream and helped to carry it to completion.

On Monday morning, during a special chapel service, Dr. Herbert Keck, an alumnus of Morningside College, gave the dedicatory address on the subject, "The College in a Democracy." The conferring of the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters upon Miss Anna Lawther and Mrs. Evelyn Riley Nicholson for meritorious service in the interest of humanity concluded the morning program.

Monday evening in the drawing-room of the Women's Residence Halls, Ralph Arnold, architect, and B. Short, contractor, presented the keys of the building to Dr. A. N. Sloan, trustee. President Frank E. Mossman presented the dormitory for dedication, and T. S. Bassett, Superintendent of Sioux City District of the Northwest Iowa Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, read the dedication proper. A symbolic pageant, The Blessing of the Hearth, written by Margaret McCoy, was presented by six dormitory girls. As part of the pageant the Madrigal Club sang the dedication hymn, the words of which were written by Mabel Nissen and the music composed by Brownie Wood. Monday's program was concluded by a banquet held in the dining-room of the new Residence Halls.

On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday afternoons, and Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings, informal receptions were held in the dormitory.

The week was concluded by the Men's Banquet on Friday evening, and the Women's Banquet on Saturday evening.

May Fete

"Rendezvous" was presented May twenty-third on the College Campus by the Women's Physical Education Department. This is the annual May Fete sponsored by Agora and under the direction of Miss Katherine Parkhill. Miss Clarice McDonald was crowned May Queen by Miss Edith Shaw, who was feted in 1926.

SYNOPSIS:

"In a garden lit by the silvery moon
One beautiful night in spring,
While the thrushes sang till the garden rang
There happened the strangest thing!

When the gardener finished his nightly round
And hung up his pruning-knife,
Where the bats twit, twit and the big moths flit
Two statues came to life.

And they met and danced at their rendezvous
In this beautiful garden green,
Till the fairies came out and ringed them about
And elected them king and queen.

Then the fairies pleased their court of the May
With dances from mountain and glen
All the moon-lit night, but at morning light
They had to be fairies again."

"Y" Freshman Party

The bewildered Freshman is informed upon arrival that Saturday night is his one night to reign supreme in the social world, when there will be no upperclassman to dominate him. The first Saturday night of the school year the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. help the newcomers to get together and to appreciate the strength and beauties of the Freshman class.

Awkwardly the men gather in one hall and peer out at the timid girls as they arrive later. Finally they are, with much labor and urging, induced to mingle in the same hall. Before a half hour is over, the spirit of good comradeship and joyousness fills the rooms, and a lively party is under way. As the Freshmen seem to have a great deal of pep, their festivities always are rollicking, energetic, and friendly. They play with complete abandon, and enjoy themselves greatly.

Toward ten o'clock refreshments play an important part. But the homegoing seems also important, and unbelievably interesting. The poor Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. committee remain to do the dishes. This year the committee was composed of Carol Larsen and Edgar Schuler.

The Faculty Reception

The members of the faculty of Morningside College were hosts to the students of the school at the annual faculty reception held in the parlors of the Women's Residence Halls on Friday evening, September the twenty-third.

Almost four hundred students passed along the line formed by President and Mrs. Frank E. Mossman, Vice-President and Mrs. F. W. Schneider, Dean Lillian E. Dimmitt, Dean and Mrs. M. E. Graber, Professor and Mrs. Paul MacCollin, and Reverend and Mrs. H. E. Hutchinson. Lauren Van Dyke, president of the Student Council, introduced the students to the faculty members.

The social chairman for the reception was Dean Lillian Dimmitt. She was assisted by Professor James J. Hayes and Miss Muriel Hughes. Mrs. Ida M. Cline, and Miss Hughes greeted the students as they entered the halls.

During the latter part of the evening, light refreshments were served. This faculty reception is the only opportunity that the students have really to see the faculty in their "soup and fish," and so the event is usually well attended, at least by Freshmen and Seniors.

Homecoming Program

On Friday evening, October twenty-first, the annual Homecoming festivities began with an all-College bonfire just west of the "con." The band was present and played between speeches. Captain Bastian gave a short talk on behalf of the football team. Stylus and Joe Ott, student president of last year, also put "pep" into the crowd with speeches. After the bonfire had died down, the students, led by the band, "snakedanced" up to the Park.

At the Alumni Chapel at 9.30 on Saturday morning, Dr. A. L. Haworth of Portland, Oregon, a former Sioux City pastor and an alumnus of Morningside College, spoke on "Making History." Virgil Gerkin, president of the Morningside Alumni Association, and Lauren Van Dyke, president of the Student Council, gave welcoming speeches. Miss Betty Mead, a Senior, was introduced as Miss Morningside, an honor to which she had been elected by the students.

At 10:30 a Homecoming parade marched through the principal downtown streets. Following the college band, which marched at the head of the procession, Miss Morningside rode in a position of honor. Practically every organization on the Campus was represented in the parade. dilapidated flivvers labelled with remarks witty and otherwise, and elaborate floats excited the laughter and admiration of the many observers. At noon the societies and fraternities entertained their alumni at luncheons.

The main event of the day was the football game with Des Moines University. Despite hard playing, the Morningside men received the small end of a 6 to 0 score. After the game the annual barbecue was served to the spectators.

A three-act play, Dulcy, was given in the college chapel on Saturday evening, as a climax to the Homecoming program.

MISS BETTY MEAD

The Agora Rummage Sale

Another very ingenious and rather traditional means of the Ways and Means Committee of Agora to raise money is the Rummage Sale. This year the sale was held on the third of December in the old Sioux Candy building on East Fourth Street. For a week before the sale a barrel was placed in the hall to collect the cast-offs of the students. In the meantime the committee was telephoning and making trips to various homes in the city to collect more rummage.

Saturday, the third, dawned clear and cold, but several college girls placed two oil-stoves in the otherwise heatless building, and proceeded to display their wares. And such a collection! Hats, shoes, carpet slippers, a lawn-mower, electric irons, wringers, fountain pens, compacts, pocketbooks, pictures, and many other articles greeted the eyes of the eager yet cautious buyers. Sometimes pity overcame the business sense of the girls, and they gave away much needed gloves and shoes, but it was fun to bargain, also, and finally they cleared thirty dollars and closed shop. Helen Tiedeman and Anne Aalfs were in charge of the sale this year.

Agora Bazaar

One of the Agora's annual attempts to raise money is the Christmas Bazaar. This year the girls put on an Oriental Bazaar, having for sale many novelties imported from the Far East, from dinner gongs and embroidered cushion tops down to block puzzles and fortune tellers. The Chinese boys added much to the atmosphere with their lacquer trays, cloisonne vases, and fragrant jasmine tea. Mrs. Mossman kindly added to the income by donating Christmas cards to be sold on commission. One of the most interesting articles for sale was the little Christmas story The Stairway to Happiness, written by Miss Della Dimmitt, sister of our own Dean of Women. There was even a "25-50 cents" bargain counter, displaying flowered lacquer trays and embroidered wooden-soled Chinese mules, which was very popular.

Great interest was aroused by Professor Hayes's set of chessmen carved in the figures of Japanese lords and knights; and in the collection lent by Miss Joy Smith, Morningside graduate and former missionary to China, there was a Chinese lady's powder puff, comb, a baby coat, and a gentleman's fan, together with dolls representing the various classes of Chinese peoples.

One of the pleasant incidents was the tea served by Carol Larsen's Freshman Commission, at which the Delphian ladies were guests.

Much of the success of the Bazaar was due to the capable work of Miss Julia La Grone, chairman, and Miss Lillian Murray, cashier and "credit-master." Agora wishes to thank them, and also all of the faculty and students who were such willing customers.

The Bean Shower

The first bean shower occurred in April, 1911. It did not seem to meet with the entire approval of the students, for the Collegian Reporter referred to it as a "juvenile trick" which appealed to the "sense of humor of the audience." When the main hall was rebuilt after it had burned in the spring of 1912, great care was taken to make the ceiling above the chapel platform of very thick concrete in an effort to stop all future bean showers. But the builders had miscalculated the ingenuity of Morningside students, for the beans continued to fall each year.

After President Mossman had come to Morningside, the bean shower became the "royal welcome always accorded to distinguished visitors." With this view of the tradition, Billy Sunday, evangelist, and Ralph Hielman, Dean of the College of Commerce of Northwestern University, were showered.

In recent years the bean shower has deteriorated and is likely to "come off" at any chapel service. During this last year there was a corn shower on President Mossman, as well as a bean shower earlier in the year.

The traditional class struggle between the Sophomores and Freshmen was of greater intensity in the fall of '27 than it has been for several years and displayed itself in various ways.

One fall morning a dummy, representing the Sophomore Class, met the eyes of those superior Indians as they arrived at the campus. No self-respecting Indian can stand such an insult; consequently with reinforcements from the police department they triumphantly hauled down the insulting bundle of straw. But the frosh, who were a persistent tribe, immediately replaced the original dummy. The sophs driven to extremities allied themselves with a powerful tribe known as the Faculty, and as a result the frosh were forced to retire from the scene of battle and find a more "humane" way of defeating their peers. They first tried the civilized game of football, but the upperclassmen defeated them by a couple of touchdowns. The cane-rush played off between halves of the Homecoming game resulted in a victory for the freshmen. By this contest the official initiation of the freshmen was concluded, but for a few weeks following it was carried on unofficially. A part of this was the attempt of some of the sophomores to break up a freshman picnic, but they were unsuccessful and the frosh obligingly offered them some "eats."

The Men's Banquet is usually celebrated at the same time as "Dad's Day." This year, however, as plans did not work out toward that end, "Dad's Day" will be held later.

Quite a goodly number of fathers attended the dinner, the waitresses were beautiful, the food good, the program interesting, and the tables cleverly decorated; so the men of the college thoroughly enjoyed their annual dinner party.

The Women's Banquet is an annual formal dinner eagerly looked forward to by every girl in school. The Mothers are also invited, and a gala time is had. The tables are beautifully decorated by the different classes, and a loving-cup is presented to the class which has the best-looking tables—this year, the Juniors. Roses are presented to the Freshman girls whose Mothers or Fathers attended Morningside College. Boys as waiters grace the occasion and add quite a bit of excitement while the yelling is going on. After that they are lost to sight, until they again appear to escort fair ladies homeward.

Mrs. Lucy Dimmit Kolp presided as toastmistress. The theme of the toasts was "Gates," castle gates, rusty gates, garden gates, and closed gates—all very interesting to be sure.

There never was a time when public speaking formed a more important factor in American life than it does today, nor was there ever a time when this talent brought to the individual more social and business and political influence. In the legislative assembly; in the courtroom; in the church; in faculty meetings, fraternity meetings, and mass meetings; in the meeting room of the directors of a corporation; in the home or on the street we find that people argue to sell their own wares, to instil their own views, to adjust their differences, and to find the truth. Wherever active-minded men with opinions meet, there is a necessity for a knowledge of argumentation.

Speaking in public is no longer a "rock-to-sleep" process but rather an enlarged and intensified form of conversation. Only as this is truly appreciated does the speaker attain true grandeur. And in the words of William Jennings Bryan, "The speaker, moreover, is eloquent in proportion as he knows what he is talking about and means what he says." In other words, knowledge and earnestness, coupled with a power of directness, are important requisites of successful speaking.

The object of public speaking is usually to persuade. When Cicero spoke people said, "How well Cicero speaks!" but when Demosthenes spoke they said, "Let us go against Philip"—the difference being that Cicero impressed himself upon the audience, while Demosthenes impressed his subject upon them. Possibly this comparison may not be a fair one; however, it at least presents an important truth.

It is Morningside's purpose in Forensics to train men and women not to speak over the audience but to the audience; not to "float on air" but to know; not to be superficial but to be analytical and genuine; not to exhibit an artificial display but to convince sincerely; not to "can" but to think and to be equal to the occasion; not to deceive but to be honest; not to whine in defeat but to rejoice in victory; not to shirk the task but to be masters of the job; not to debase but to make men and women nobler in mind and spirit.

To this end, "to the art of persuasion, beautiful and just," do we pledge ourselves.

National Pi Kappa Delta Convention

At the biennial convention of Pi Kappa Delta, held at Tiffin, Ohio, Morningside placed in three different divisions, taking one first, one second, and one third, and thus established the best record of all the one hundred and two Colleges and Universities that were represented. Walter Upton won the men's oratorical contest, Mildred Hickman placed second in the women's extempore contest, and Mary Maynard was awarded third honors in women's oratory. No school, other than Morningside, placed in more than two events.

Although they did not reach the finals, both the men and the women made creditable showings in debate. Mildred Hickman, who found time to debate as well as extemporize, combined with her sister, Lois, to out-debate the women from Colorado Teachers College, College of Emporia, and Bethany College. Losses to East Texas College and College of the Pacific, however, eliminated them from the competition at the close of the fifth round.

The Morningside men argued their way through six rounds of debates before being put out of the running. In the first two rounds, they disposed of the University of California and Gustavus Adolphus College. They were defeated in the third round by Augustana College, but retained their eligibility by winning from Aberdeen Normal and Central College in rounds four and five. In the sixth round, in a second debate with Gustavus Adolphus, a two to one decision against them constituted their second loss and marked their elimination from the tournament.. Morningside was represented in men's debate by Cecil Marshall, Gordon Larson, and Max Kroloff. Both the men and the women debated both sides of the official Pi Kappa Delta question.

Charles Down, Morningside's eighth contestant at the convention, made a good showing amid a group of outstanding speakers in the extempore contest.

Much credit for Morningside's excellent record at the convention is due to Professor Eerkes, who accompanied the contestants and worked tirelessly to prepare them for the contests. Mrs. Jane Smith also deserves mention for the splendid way in which she trained the orators who placed so high at the convention.

Men's Debate

The debate season of the past year was without a doubt one of the most successful that Morningside men have gone through in recent years.. This is true as regards not only results, but extensiveness and quality as well. Fifteen scheduled debates were indulged in. Moreover, these debates were with such schools as Marquette University, the University of Montana, Loyola University, and the Universities of both North and South Dakota. Not alone the names of these institutions, but, too, the audiences that attended, will testify to the quality of the contests. Of the fifteen debates, eight were won, only four were lost, two were conducted on a no-decision basis, and the one which was judged by the audience resulted in a tie. High spots in the season were the victories over Marquette, Montana, and Loyola, and the winning of both ends of two duals, held on consecutive nights with Iowa State Teachers and Coe College.

With one exception, the question used throughout the year was the national Pi Kappa Delta question: "Resolved, That the United States should cease to protect by armed force capital invested in foreign countries, except after formal declaration of war." In a no-decision dual with the University of South Dakota, the teams discussed the proposition: "Resolved, That the recent Latin-American policies of the United States Government should be condemned."

Men's Oratory

For the second successive year, the men's oratorical contest was won by Walter H. Upton, this year a senior. His oration, entitled "The Rising Tide," dealt with the problem of crime. By virtue of this victory, Upton was designated to represent Morningside in the men's oratorical competition at the national Pi Kappa Delta Convention at Tiffin, Ohio.

In the contest at Tiffin, in which orators from sixty-seven schools competed, Morningside's representative was the winner of first place. The contest was conducted in tournament style, and it was necessary for Upton to win his way through three preliminary rounds in order to qualify as one of the six finalists. His victory in the finals was clear-cut. At the Convention, the Morningside orator spoke on the topic, "The Cost of War." As first place winner, he was awarded a gold medal for himself and a large silver cup for the College.

Upton is not only an orator, but an intercollegiate debater as well.

Men's Extempore

Charles Down, the athlete of the debate squad, demonstrated his versatility completely by taking first place in the annual men's extemporaneous speaking contest. "Charlie," who plays end on the grid team equally as well as he debates—and he is not a poor debater—spoke on the subject, "The Best Page of the Newspaper," in the local contest. "The Influence of the Press" was the general theme of the specific topics that the contestants drew one hour before appearance on the platform. Second place in the contest went to Raymond Fullerton, a freshman.

Although he did not place in the extempore contest at the Pi Kappa Delta Convention, Down represented Morningside well.

Although there were but three veteran debaters in the Morningside Women's Debate team, the women acquitted themselves in a very creditable manner. Six debates were scheduled, and defeat was met only once at the hands of Western Union College.

Two representatives were sent to the Pi Kappa Delta Convention at Tiffin, Ohio, but they lost in the sixth round to the College of the Pacific, after displaying some very fine ability in debate.

The question used this year was the national Pi Kappa Delta question: "Resolved, That the United States should cease to protect by armed force capital invested in foreign countries except after a formal declaration of war."

Women's Extempore

Miss Mildred Hickman, a senior at Morningside, and winner of several local and state extemporaneous contests during her four years of college life, won second place in the Women's Oratorical Contest at the National Pi Kappa Delta Convention.

In the preliminary contests Miss Hickman spoke on "The Modern Newspaper in the American Home" and "The Radio in the American Home." In the final contest Miss Hickman, in developing her topic, "Science and the Modern Home," stressed the benefits which scientific inventions and such scientific studies as psychoanalysis bring to us. Her subject-matter and tone of voice were most convincing, and she acquitted herself in a very admirable manner.

In the final contest, Miss Violet Johnson of Hamline University, Saint Paul, Minnesota, placed first, and Miss Bernice Dendel of Ypsilanti State Normal, Ypsilanti, Michigan, placed third.

Women's Oratory

In the final round of the Women's Oratorical Contest at Tiffin, Ohio, the six contestants were Miss Genevieve Brayton of North Central College, Illinois; Miss Hortense Bemet of Simpson College, Iowa; Miss Genevieve Temple, University of Southern California; Miss Louise Lawrence of Park College; Miss Dorothea Blender of Bradley, and Miss Mary Maynard of Morningside.

The results of the contest were not announced until the final night of the convention at the Farewell Banquet, at which time Miss Genevieve Temple, from California, Miss Genevieve Brayton, of Illinois, and Miss Mary Maynard, of Iowa, were called to the platform to receive gold medals and the honors of first, second, and third places respectively.

Miss Maynard's oration was entitled "The New Pioneer." Miss Maynard began by describing the woman of early pioneer days, as portrayed by a recent work of sculpture. With the early pioneer woman, she contrasted the modern college girl, calling her "The New Pioneer." Her life is characterized by a search for knowledge, friendship, and God. The oration is a sympathetic and sincerely optimistic treatment of the subject of youth.

The Morningside College Chapel Choir is a student organization, singing unaccompanied and from memory the masterpieces of sacred choral music. Its members, recruited from the student body, are chosen for their natural ability.

And yet, with this constantly changing, amateur personnel, the Morningside Chapel Choir has attained a degree of excellence in its singing that is remarkable. Critics have been unanimous in commending its well-nigh perfect ensemble and beautiful harmonic effects, comparing it most favorably with the best known professional organizations.

In addition to the duties of furnishing music for the regular college chapel service, the Choir makes a concert tour each year, the purpose of which is to give an adequate public presentation of these great masterpieces of sacred music which are so seldom heard, and to encourage their study and use by church choirs.

The Vesper Choir is a new organization on our campus. It was organized in the fall of 1927 with Miss Margaret Miller as the director. Although the reputation of the Vesper Choir is not well established, the members of the choir have gained a great deal from their work this year. The Vesper Choir has appeared on the chapel platform twice and will take part with the Choral Association in the Music Festival this spring. The charter members of the Vesper Choir are looking forward to the success of the organization in the years to come.

Morningside String Quartet

Leo Kucinski.....First Violin
Douglas Reeder.....Second Violin

Carol ParkinsonVioloncello

String quartet music is the most intellectual, serious, and dignified of musical compositions.. The name suggests the character of the music in that it does not call for a large volume of sound and is fitted for performance in a room smaller than a concert hall. In a general way chamber music reveals the subjective and the intimate, which is both the composer's and the performer's best self. It demands a subservience of personality, a unanimity of spirit, and many years of patient ensemble practice to realize balance and finish.

Critics have proclaimed the Morningside String Quartet one of the best organizations of its kind in the Middle West.

During the summer of 1927 the Morningside String Quartet made an extended tour of the Orient, playing in all of the larger cities in China, Japan, Hawaii, and the Philippine Islands.

Girls' String Quartet

The Morningside College Girls String Quartet is composed of Christine Kucinski, first violin, sister and student of Professor Kucinski, who is head of the Department of Violin of Morningside College; Miss Marian Hughes, second violin; Miss Benita Mossman, viola; and Miss Wanda Castle, cello, assistant in the Department of Stringed Instruments.. The quartet is made up of students in the Morningside Conservatory of Music, except Miss Castle, who is a member of the faculty.

The rapid improvement of the Morningside Girls String Quartet is marked by the greatly increased number of engagements this season. The quartet has been called upon for out of town as well as Sioux City engagements.

The success of this quartet is due in measure to the earnestness, sincerity, and pleasure of the string quartet work.

One of the organizations on our Morningside Campus of which we are justly proud in our possession is that of our quartet. "That" quartet is to be found singing at all school functions from a victorious debate reception to a football or basketball game. It is always received with open arms by the student body as one of the most popular organizations on the campus.

Third Annual May Music Festival

A four-day festival of music is presented each spring under the direction of Paul MacCollin, Director of Music at Morningside College. This festival, coming as it does during National Music Week, affords the people of Sioux City and Morningside an opportunity to take part in an annual observance of music, and presents them with four concerts of unquestionable quality and unusual interest.

The first concert, on May 4, was presented by the Chapel Choir. A very interesting program was offered including the numbers: Nunc Dimittis by Gretchaninoff and Psalm 50 by F. Melius Christiansen.

On the second evening, May 5, Harry Farbman, an American violinist, entertained with an unusual and pleasing program. A few years ago Mr. Farbman toured South America, where he was received with a warmth indicating the character and extent of his resources. Returning to his native country this young artist continued the success he won on the Southern Continent. He then went to Europe, to play before discriminating listeners, and recently he has devoted his entire efforts to concertizing in the United States.

The third concert was presented by the Symphony Orchestras of Morningside College and South Dakota University, which combine for the Spring Music Festivals. The splendid cooperation given by the University Orchestra is appreciated by Morningside College, and a very fine program is presented. Edna Richalson Sollith, whose interest in modern music is very intense, was soloist.

On the evening of May 7, Mendelssohn's Oratorio Elijah was presented by the Choral Association, Sioux City Choral Club, Morningside Symphony Orchestra, and Faith Foster Woodford, Pianist, with Paul MacCollin conducting.

Soloists:

Elizabeth MacCollin	Soprano
Mrs. James A. Coss	Contralto
Henry Hedeem	Tenor
Carl Norrbom	Bass

Characters

Elijah	Bass
Obadiah	Tenor
An Angel	Contralto
The Widow	Soprano

Elijah, the most admired of all Mendelssohn's compositions, was finished in 1846, during the latter part of his life.

The text of the oratorio was compiled mainly from the First Book of Kings, and presents chiefly three great episodes in the life history of Elijah: the raising to life of the widow's son, the rival sacrifices on Mount Carmel, and his experience in the desert and his disappearance in a fiery chariot. The scenes presented indicate the dramatic character of the oratorio.

The establishment and growth of the Morningside Symphony Orchestra mark a new era in the musical life of Sioux City. During the seven years of its existence it has developed from a small student orchestra into an organization of fifty players, many of whom are leading professional musicians of the city and vicinity.

Leo Kucinski, conductor of the orchestra for the past four years, was born in Warsaw, Poland. A young musician of high ideals and exceptional ability, Mr. Kucinski has steadily increased the efficiency of the orchestra and each year leads his players to new heights of achievement.

Aunt Mary is a "peppy" spinster who has lived in the country all her life. Her nephew and charge is a typical college man, continually getting into difficulties which he calls for his aunt to solve.

She goes to the city to visit her nephew and arrives at the time a party is given by her nephew, Jack, and his friends. The college lads proceed to show Aunt Mary a roaring good time. She becomes so entirely infatuated with the city and the fast pace of city life that she is bored to death with the simplicity of her country home.

Finally, when she cannot stand country life any longer, she turns her house over to her servants and then tries to get as near to New York as possible. A love-affair between Jack and Janice develops early in the play and continues throughout.

The suggestion for this fantasy lay in the Greek myth of the Pleiad who came to earth to marry a mortal. The Pleiads were the seven beautiful daughters of Atlas and the ocean nymph, Pleione. By command of Zeus they became a constellation, shining by night as stars; but by day, in the form of doves, they winged their way to the far Hesperides to fetch ambrosia for the Olympian king. All were content with their fate except Merope, who having fallen in love with Sisyphus, King of Corinth, slipped down to earth to become the bride of the mortal of her choice.

The play Macbeth is one of Shakespeare's most powerful studies of criminal psychology. In it is the tragedy of a man and a woman whose ambitions master them, causing them to commit crimes which bring about their final overthrow. The great ambition of Lady Macbeth is that Macbeth shall become king, and to that end she plots the murder of King Duncan. When Macbeth is once a murderer he is hurried on to other crimes in self-defense, until he loses the respect of his subjects; his conscience drives him to absolute despair, and at the hand of Macduff he dies a most ignoble death.

Morningside Alumni Association

Vergil Gerkin, President

An organization which is indispensable to a growing college is its Alumni Association, an organized body of graduates who are interested in every activity of the school. Morningside is very fortunate in having such an association, with branches in every part of the country where a group of Morningside graduates are together. The Alumni Association showed splendid support in the Forward Movement put on by the college in the fall of '27, and they will continue to be strong supporters of any measure for the advancement of the College.

of the organization. An exploring process was carried on in an effort to discover just what contribution the association could make to the life of the students. An attempt was made to tie the work of the Y. M. more closely to the actual life situations of the students. In doing this it was found necessary to bring about a better form of cooperation among the various organizations and between faculty and students. A new appreciation of the relation of Christianity to life has come to many through participation in the activities of the association.

One of the greatest ways in which the Y. M. contributed to the college life of the year was in the selecting and scheduling of great speakers. The first speaker, 'Dad' Elliott, came at a critical time and helped in breaking down barriers between organizations. John Nevin Sayre, Kirby Page, and Sherwood Eddy were here during the latter part of March. These are all widely known speakers.

A number of men have attended conferences at Ames, Detroit, Des Moines, and Chicago, and each on return had some valuable service to offer. A larger group participated in gospel team work. This took them into many churches of the city and surrounding territory. The series at Lake Park, which was the most extended piece of service, lasted eight days. The work was conducted by two teams. One of the later developments was the organization of a Freshman Cabinet, patterned after the regular cabinet. This gives the Freshmen a definite method of contribution to the Y. M. C. A. work of the college.

The Morningside group of the Young Women's Christian Association is composed of those girls who are interested in finding life at its best. As an organization it has grown and developed until now it holds one of the most prominent places in the lives of the girls and is one of the most active organizations on the campus.

SIoux OF VISION

Claerbout, Shore, Reisser, Hughes, Batho
Lindaman, Schuler, Mellquist, Larsen, Gilbert, Walker

The Y. W. C. A. conceives of "religion" as a guiding and inspiring force in every activity. Through providing opportunities to consider Jesus and His way of life, it aims to make possible the highest development of personality. The real true Association Spirit is Service, with the spirit of friendliness and personal interest.

The Cabinet consists of the heads of various departments created to best carry out the purpose of the Y. W. Through the Geneva Conference, World Fellowship, Community Service, and Industrial Chairmen, the girls are brought into contact with others outside the college realm. Interest in international questions is notable, and indicates a natural widening of the horizon of student life. The Bible study chairman plans for the Cabinet devotionals and the regular Morning Watch services. The Devotional chairman plans the meetings of the Y. W. for the year. The Gospel Team chairman cooperates with the Y. M. C. A. and sends groups of students to near churches to conduct meetings.

Under the direction of the social committee, a party is given for all the Freshmen during Freshman Week. This is followed later by an all-school party. During the year teas, picnics, parties, and other forms of social diversion are planned, all attempting to make the students better acquainted with one another. There is increased ability to deal with social situations and to participate in social life with more sympathy, understanding, and skill. Through Y. W. many students find the relationship of religion and social life in specific terms.

The ultimate purpose of all the Y. W. efforts is to seek to bring young women to such a knowledge of Jesus Christ as shall mean for the individual girl fullness of life and development of character; and to help the members to release and direct their energies and to form fundamental attitudes toward life.

Women's Self-Governing Association

OFFICERS

Mabel Nissen	President
Lillian Buehler	Vice-President
Helen deClercq	Social Chairman
Mina Omer	Secretary
Elva Reimers	Treasurer
Irene Kohl	President of Freshman Hall
Lillian Lindaman	President of West Hall
Mary Kees	President of Central Hall
Muriel Hughes	Social Director

The Women's Self-Governing Association was organized in March, 1927, with Juliet Johnson as first president. Its purpose, as stated in the constitution, is "to direct all matters pertaining to the women of the dormitory and to aim to increase the sense of individual responsibility of all its members in accordance with the grant of powers conferred by the board of trustees and faculty of Morningside College."

The organization was faced with the problem of establishing for its members the necessary habits of living. Since a democratic form of government has proved most successful in the experience of other dormitories, a Women's Self-Governing Association was organized.

Kohl, Omer, Kees, deClercq
Lindaman, Walker, Mahlum, Reimers, Hennum

Officers of the Association are elected each April and serve for one year. This year, however, vacancies left by two officers who graduated at mid-year had to be filled by a special election in January.

After the resignation of Mabel Nissen and Lillian Lindaman, Lillian Buehler, the vice-president, became president; Mary Kees was made vice-president; and Elsie Hennum and Ruth Walker were elected presidents of West and Central Halls.

Officers of the Association are divided into two groups. The Honor Court is made up of the W. S. G. A. president, vice-president, the hall presidents, and the Social Director. Its function is to try the cases and pass judgment on all reported cases of infringement of rules.

The Senate is composed of all the officers of the W. S. G. A. and a representative from the freshman wing who is elected by the freshman girls in November. Dorothy Mahlum is this year's freshman representative. The purpose of the Senate is to unify the interests of the various halls and to serve as a clearing-house for the transaction of dormitory business.

The local chapter has been very active this year, having held monthly meetings which featured lectures by noted specialists and social workers, and participation by the members in the presentation of topics of social interest and in discussions. Social activities have also added to the interest of the meetings. Membership is based on interest in sociology as evidenced by the number of courses taken, and by meeting certain scholastic requirements.

ADVERTISEMENTS

Students, reflect a moment! When you rise in the morning you get up out of an advertised bed, wash with advertised soap, put on an advertised collar, or advertised face powder, as the case may be. You go down to breakfast, eat advertised breakfast food and drink advertised coffee.

You go to school either in an advertised car or street-car, study out of advertised books, use an advertised fountain pen, and buy advertised candy. You continue to use advertised goods all through the day.

Such is the great field of advertising. Give a thought to those who are instrumental in giving you this book and in sending the life-blood through the veins of modern business enterprise.

JOKES AND OTHER GLIMPSES

Questions and Answers for the Weak

Question: Is it true that this year's output of motor cars will run into millions?—Ima Goat.

Answer: I dunno, but if it is, I'm gonna watch my step.

Question: Why is it that with my liking for the fair sex, I've never married?—C. Der Mop.

Answer: Well, a man may like a flower and yet not care to be a florist.

Question: My daughter, aged sixteen, goes out nights with young men, not getting in until two or three o'clock in the morning.. What would you advise about it?—Mrs. Share.

Answer: Well, let her sleep until noon. Statistics show that a child of that age requires eight to ten hours' sleep a night.

Question: My sweetheart and I are going to be married next Friday. Do you think Friday is an unlucky day for marriages?—Charles Down.

Answer: Why should Friday be an exception?

Question: Where can I buy a car to fit my pocket?—H. Means.

Question: What shall I do? I dropped my watch on the floor and it stopped.—Roy Jennings.

Answer: Did you think it would go right through?

Question: Please advise me. Should I join the Salvation Army?—Jerry Gehrt.

Answer: Who are they fighting?

Question: I understand modern girls have longer necks than the old-fashioned girls. Why is that?—Ralph Bastian.

Answer: I don't know, Ralph, unless it's supply trying to keep up with demand.

Question: Does the law give a man the right to open his wife's letters?—Dr. Schneider.

Answer: Yes, but it doesn't give him the courage.

Question: If it's true that a person lives to regret anything he ever steals, what about the kiss I stole from the sweet little girl that I am now engaged to marry?—Roger Moon.

Answer: You'll regret it.

Question: What should I do? When my little boy says his prayers, I can't hear him.—Prof. Hayes.

Answer: Why should you? He's not talking to you.

Question: Please answer this: What should a woman take when she is run down?—Anna Mae Hurlburt.

Answer: Well, Anna, she should take the license number.

Question: I think it's just terrible sending all those nice marines to China. What will they do when they get there?—Helen deClercq.

Answer: Good heavens, Helen, haven't you ever been out with a marine?

Question: I'm a very sick man and the doctor advises marriage. Do you think a wife will do me good?—Verdette Walters.

Answer: Yes, but a gold digger will do you better.

Question: Do you think the girl who kisses promiscuously is bad?—Alan Gorthy.

Answer: No, Alan. Just generous.

Question: Is it true that exercise will kill germs?—Glennard Larson.

Answer: Yes, but it's tough teaching the darned things to exercise.

Question: If a baby was fed on elephant's milk would it grow extra big?—Prof. Hayes.

Answer: Yes, it would. That is, if it was an elephant's baby.

Someone gave Professor Campbell a booklet on memory. He exhibited it before the class, wondering why anyone should be so absent-minded as to give him a book on memory.

Mr. Lamb had just returned from his first aeroplane ride. Upon arriving home he found that apple sauce had clogged the sink. His wife said the little bear doesn't go "whoof whoof" any more. What, no soap, lady?

Professor Campbell: "Is it true that generally you put on the same shoe, or sleeve first?"

S. Dittmer: It is true in those cases but not so with your socks."

Prof.: "Why?"

Dittmer: "Because the socks will go on either foot."

An optimist is one who has hopes that Friday's beans will be steak.

Nurse: "Whom are you operating on today?"

Surgeon: "A fellow who had a golf ball knocked down his throat at the links."

Nurse: "And who's the man sitting so nervously in the hall? A relative?"

Sim: "Thankful! What have I to be thankful for? I can't even pay my bills."

Tim: "Then, man alive, be thankful you aren't one of your creditors."

Don Burrington: "My life's not a path of roses."

Henry Running: "Odd! You throw enough bouquets at yourself."

In Regard to Exams: A college professor is like a dog eating bologna—he is getting his own product back in a much mangled form.

"I am not well, doctor."

"How do you live?"

"Like any other poor dog—I work like a horse all day, I am always ravenous as a wolf, then I am tired as a dog, and sleep like a bear."

"You had better consult a veterinary surgeon."

Charles Down: "Do you know I'm something of a mind reader?"

Helen: "So? Well, why are you sitting at the other end of the davenport?"

Gordon: "Can you think of anything more useless than silk stockings this kind of weather?"

Georgianna: "Sure! The things that stand on the Main Hall steps and inspect them."

Surgeon: "No, that's a golfer, a Scotch gentleman. He's waiting for his ball."

A hungry dog once wandered
 Into a butcher's store;
 The butcher threw some sausage
 To the dog upon the floor.
 The butcher said, "Now eat it."
 The dog said, "I decline,
 For in that link of sausage
 Is that old gal of mine."

Don MacFarland: "I believe in plenty of physical exercise."

Edith: "Do you still use Indian clubs?"

Don: "Not any more. I'm winding a dollar watch."

Modern youth respects old age when it comes in bottles.

The night was beautiful, a night like the night that Mark Antony made love to Cleopatra. The stars resembled exquisite jewels; the luminous moon beaming elegantly down was the kind that would make even the Sphinx romantic. Two souls were alone. No one was near. The soft moaning of the wind, brushing aside the colorful autumn leaves, made the two move more closely together. Suddenly Rolly said: "We are going to have a hot time tonight." "Red" answered meekly, "Yes, I wish those darned actives would come and initiate us."

Margaret: "It's in that glass on the her teeth with soda to make them white): "Flora, what's the matter with this soda? It tastes so funny."

Flora: "Sally, that isn't soda; that's soda up here."

Margaret: "It's in that glass on the medicine-chest. I brushed my teeth with it last night."

Flora: "Willy, that isn't soda, that's hard water softener!"

"Confound it," cried a passenger who had been tumbled to the pavement. "Can't you wait until I get off?"

"Huh!" returned the stret-car motor-man. "If you ain't off now you never will be."

A young man was boasting that his family traced its ancestry back much farther than the Conqueror.

"I suppose," sneered one of his friends, "you'll be telling us that your forefathers were in the ark with Noah."

"Certainly not," said the young man with a lift of his eyebrows. "My people had a boat of their own."

Telephone Operator: "I have your party. Deposit five cents, please."

Souse (at pay station): "Whattzat?" Operator: "Please deposit your money."

Souse: "Listen, girly, wat I wans is a conversash'n from a fren', not financial advice from a stranger."

The stout man on the scales was eagerly watched by two small boys. The man dropped in his cent, but the machine was out of order and registered only 75 pounds. "Good night, Bill," gasped one of the youngsters in amazement. "He's hollow."

Prof. Eerkes: "You've been missing too many classes. Where were you Wednesday morning?"

Gordon (trying hard to think): "Let's see now — Wednesday morning—on my schedule that was Tuesday night—I was in bed."

Four-year-old Joe had just come away from his playmate, a girl about a year older. His troubled features showed he had a serious problem on his mind and he volunteered the explanation of the situation.

"I don't want to get in the habit," he said, "of Ruth Spencer hitting me."

Frosh: "Yes, sir. How do you calculate the horsepower in a donkey engine?"

Owing to the absence through illness of the woman who taught the Senior girls' Bible class, the young assistant minister was asked to undertake the duties for the day. He consented, but before beginning he said smilingly: "Now, girls, I want to conduct your class just as your teacher does, so you might tell me what she does first."

A short pause, then the answer from a pert miss of sixteen: "Well, she always kisses us all round!"

A pretty girl lost her glove. The finder was an old bachelor named Page, and he returned it with this note:

Then Page is age, and that won't do for me."

"The twelve-fifty, for it's ten to one you won't catch it."

"How do you play hookey from the correspondence school?"

"I sent them an empty envelope."

Aunt Mary had been visiting our house, and she was a great talker. A few days after she had gone home, the subject of vaccination was being discussed one evening, and our young son, a little past eight years of age, remarked:

"Well, I guess Aunt Mary was vaccinated with a Victrola needle."

A Mexican and an American worked together in a mine in Kansas. On several occasions the Mexican had rabbit in his dinner-pail, and he shared it with his workmate. One night the American asked:

A professor of mathematics in Harvard University was walking home from the university one afternoon and while crossing a street was hit by a speeding automobile. When asked by a policeman if he had noticed the licence number of the car he replied, "No, I didn't, but I did notice that the cube of the first two digits plus twice the square of the last two digits would be equal to four times the sum of the digits of the cube of the entire number."

Mr. Brown: "Chewing gum, Miss Smith?"

Libbie: "No, sir. I was just trying to pronounce that work."

The Editor's Last Word

It was the privilege of the Editor to write a "foreword" for this volume, and it is now her joy, as a woman, to write the "last word," the "last word" to express the very great appreciation of the Business Manager and Editor to all of those who have aided in producing this book. For you have helped, every one of you, perhaps not in a material way, but at least by your moral support. We also wish to thank the members of our class for the privilege of letting us serve you by editing this volume. If you like it, we shall be satisfied.

Then, there are those to whom the Editor owes a special word of appreciation. George Vanderbrink, artist at the Journal, has done all of the art work in this volume, besides helping with the panels and layouts. Being a former Morningside student he was ready to stand by at all times with his fine support and suggestions. The Engraving Department at the Journal has cooperated in a splendid manner, and turned out very good engravings. Youngberg's Studio has given us its usual fine pictures and service. The Verstegen Printing Company have made every effort to get this volume to you as early as possible, and at the same time to do their very best work. Lauren Van Dyke has drawn the cartoons which amuse you. Miss Mills and Miss Price have very kindly corrected and helped with all of the copy—and that is no small task! The 1929 Sioux Staff have done their best to have copy in on time and have cooperated splendidly. Many others, both students and faculty, have done their bit for this Annual by writing copy, pasting pictures, and doing other things that must be done. We thank you—each and every one of you. You may feel that the Annual truly belongs to you, for without your help it would never have been finished. Again we say "Thank You."
