

THE ALUMNI NEWS-LETTER

Morningside College Bulletin

New Series

SIOUX CITY, IOWA, MARCH 22, 1927

No. 127

Published semi-monthly from January to June inclusive, and monthly from July to December inclusive, by Morningside College. Entered February 13, 1911, at Sioux City, Iowa, as second-class matter, under the act of Congress, July 1, 1894.

WE NEED ONE HUNDRED PER CENT COOPERATION

Work on the Alumni Directory is well under way. At this time next month we hope to have arranged to have a copy in your possession. We want to express our appreciation of the splendid cooperation that those of you who promptly returned the information blanks have given us in this difficult piece of work. There are many addresses that we do not as yet have—many have not returned the information blanks. Whether or not you pay your dollar it is essential that we have information concerning each one of you as we wish. We know that you, too, want this directory to be complete and accurate. If you have mislaid the information blank sent to you, send us your name, class to which you belong, present address, present occupation, and any other information you may wish to include.

In order that you may realize, as we did upon the return of the information blanks, that there is a strong bond of loyalty among the ever-growing number of alumni and ex-students and to their Alma Mater we are printing a few of the additional remarks and information sent in to us.

"I noticed the name of Mabel Sia in the 'News Letter.' She was in school when I was."

"I greatly enjoy the 'News Letter,' often recalls the good days long gone by. I had a fine visit with several Morningside students and also saw Professor Garver at the Iowa picnic—a grand gathering of Iowa folks, 100,000 strong."

"If ex-student means college my name does not belong in the directory. Morningside first gave me the vision of a college education. I am proud to be even an Academy graduate. I shall never forget the inspiration received from Dr. Lewis, Professor Van Horne, and many others."

"I have often wished for just such a publication as the one which you propose, and will look for its appearance with much eagerness."

"I attended Morningside College during the fall and winter months of 1901-02, enrolled in the Normal Department. I love the college."

"I have enjoyed reading the Alumni 'News Letter' and shall be glad to receive the Alumni Directory. I think it is needed."

"Alumni News is great. Let it grow."

"This Alumni Directory, which should include all ex-students, will do more to weld the Alumni together than anything else you could possibly do."

"Nothing preventing, my boy will enter Morningside in 1934."

"I think this is a splendid movement."

"I favor this directory idea and think new ones should be issued every year or two. The Alumni 'News Letter' is always welcome and the most interesting part is the Alumni Notes."

Over three thousand News Letters are sent out each month. To secure correct information concerning even half that number of alumni and ex-students would involve time, much work, and all the information you could give us. We shall greatly appreciate any information concerning the following:

MAROONS TRIUMPH IN LAST GAME

Morningside brought her 1928 basketball season to a triumphant close when she overwhelmed the Des Moines University quintet by a 44 to 13 score in a game played on the Morningside court last Saturday afternoon.

The wily tiger which proved itself so ferocious and untamable upon the gridiron last fall fell easy prey to "Chief" Means and his warriors, and when the tomahawks finally ceased swinging the tiger pelt adorned the lodge-pole of the Sioux village.

The Maroons started slowly and for a while it appeared as though a close game was in store for the large crowd of students and high-school tournament players who were on hand. During this time the Maroon and White team missed several set-up shots and had a number of "would-be" field goals roll off the rim.

The latter part of the first half, however, found the Maroons recovering their basket eyes and, led by Captain Means, they piled up a comfortable lead before the intermission.

The second half found Morningside going better than ever. The lead was quickly run up beyond the danger point, and numerous substitutions were made.

A team composed entirely of sophomores, including Gehrt and Crippen, guards; Kingsbury and Hatter, forwards; and Collins, center, played the greater part of this period.

The Maroon defense functioned almost perfectly during the game. Des Moines was held to two field-goals, while Morningside was garnering twenty.

Captain Means ended his collegiate basketball career in a most glorious manner. He scored nine field-goals besides playing a remarkable floor game. Bastian and Eberly, the other two seniors to play their last game, also played well. The entire team starred.

COLLEGE NOTES

Sherwood Eddy, nationally known author, lecturer, and missionary worker, will be at Morningside college on March 30. Mr. Eddy is being brought to the college under the auspices of the college Y. M. C. A. He has done a great deal of good among college students and consequently he has become one of the best-loved of international student workers.

Brilliancy was the dominant characteristic exhibited in the piano recital of Clara Asmus in the Schmoller & Mueller hall Tuesday evening. A sturdy tone, sparkling florid work, accuracy, and great endurance were displayed throughout her strength-taxing program.

* * * * *

By defeating the freshman basketball team of the University of South Dakota by a score of 28 to 23, the Morningside Frosh secured revenge for an earlier defeat at the hands of the Coyote Pups. The game was played in the Maroon gym and was hard played throughout.

To return with a debate team to oppose the school in which he formerly was debate coach is the situation that will face Professor Charles A. Marsh, of the University of California, when he accompanies his team to Sioux City to meet Morningside College in a debate on March 28.

Professor Marsh was debate coach at Morningside from 1910 to 1923, when he accepted the position with the University of California. He was very highly regarded in his work here and produced many winning debate teams. The team from Morningside that will oppose the team from the California school is to be composed of women.

Fifty-seven freshmen accepted bids to pledgship to the four fraternities last Friday noon. This marked the end of the "rush" season for the freshmen and opened the period of pledgship.

The Alpha Tau Delta fraternity, with 18 men, pledged the largest number of freshmen.

Fifteen men accepted the bid to become pledges to the Delta Theta Pi fraternity.

Seventeen freshmen accepted the bid of the Phi Sigma fraternity.

The Sigma Theta Rho fraternity pledged seven men.

Members of the Cosmopolitan Club of Morningside College met for one of the most interesting meetings of the year at Grace church on Friday evening, February 17. At this meeting the Japanese and Chinese members served a 6 o'clock oriental dinner.

Miss Ruth Schuler, of Sioux City, was chairman of the program given during the meal. The program was as follows:

Invocation.....	Dr. F. W. Schneider
Short Talk—"The Land of Pearl in the Orient....."	Pablo Cabotaje
Readings.....	Miss Doris Baddeley
Chinese Poem.....	Yu Sung Tai
Japanese Ballad and Talk on "The Land of the Rising Sun".....
.....	Takuo G. Kokubo

Fifty-seven students in Morningside College made all A's and B's last semester, thus entitling them to places on the honor roll.

Of this number, 13 were seniors, 14 juniors, 14 sophomores, 15 freshmen, and 1 sub-freshman.

* * * * *

Thirty-seven new students have entered Morningside College for the second semester's work. Among these are 27 freshmen, 4 sophomores, 2 juniors, 1 senior, 1 conservatory student, 1 sub-freshman, and 1 unclassified.

The National Intercollegiate Oratorical contest on the constitution, which has been conducted for the past three years by the Better America Federation of California, will be continued this year, according to an announcement today at contest headquarters, 1217 National Press Building, Washington.

The prizes will be the same as in previous years, namely, $5,000 in cash divided among the seven national finalists in the following amounts: First place, $1,500; second, $1,000; third, $750; fourth, $350; fifth, $450; sixth, $400, and seventh, $350. The national finals will be held in Los Angeles on June 21.

The national finalists of 1927 were, H. J. Oberholzer, N. C. States Agricultural College, winner of first place; Arthur Lee Syvertson, University of Southern California, winner of second place; Hardy M. Ray, Northwestern University, winner of third place; W. C. Cusack, Dartmouth; Clark Beach, Maryland; David A. Moscovitz, Rutgers; and Max N. Kroloff, Morningside College, Iowa.

By a vote of 334 to 28 the students decided to include the cost of the Annual in the incidental fee. This will take effect next year.

The Yale-Harvard basketball classic is scheduled to take place March 17 with 18 girls participating on the two teams. The girls who were chosen from the girls' tournament, which was held recently, are:

Harvard — Faye Woods, Blossom Henton, Eileen Eberly, Winifred Share, Thelma Pixler, Doris Baddeley, Esther Millard, Ethel Hurlburt, and Doris Leonard.

Yale — Jessie Sherwood, Myrtle Anderson, Anne Van Ingen, Mildred Mossman, Helen Empey, Dorothy Carver, Carol Larson, Vivian Brown, and Dorothy Brashear.

At the game an orchestra will perform and a program of stunts is being arranged. The game promises to be very exciting.

By winning the recent tournament the freshman team gained possession of the trophy, which it may keep by winning it three years in succession.

The thinking of the students from colleges and universities of Iowa was challenged to its best by Dr. Bruce Curry at the Y. M.-Y. W. Bible institute at Iowa State College, Ames, March 2, 3, and 4.

Morningside representatives at this conference were Dr. Schneider, Dr. Graber, Carol Larson, Esther Steele, Floradora Mellquist, Blossom McDade, Emma Shore, Charles Biersma, Claude Brown, George Thornton, Dale Graber, and Roy Jennings. In all, from ten schools there were about 100 representatives.

The purpose of the institute was to rediscover the true meaning of Jesus' principles of life and to inspire those present to take to their home campuses along with these principles the incentive to earnestly apply them in practical every-day campus life.

Morningside College won its seventh consecutive debate when Max Kroloff and Gordon Larson, of Sioux City, won from Colorado College Monday evening on the Morningside platform.

Morningside upheld the negative of the question, "Resolved, That the United States Should Cease to Protect by Armed Force Capital Invested in Foreign Lands Expect after Formal Declaration of War."

Westley Curtis, of Colorado Springs, Colo., and James Keyser, of Salt Lake City, Utah, debated for Colorado. Ivan Asay, of Monte Vista, Colo., is alternate for the team which is making a tour through the Middle West and South, engaging in twenty-two debates. Saturday evening Colorado met the University of Nebraska. The team goes to Huron, S. D., from Sioux City.

Judges for the debate were Edwin J. Stason and J. C. Gleysteen, Sioux City attorneys, and W. J. Hayward.

Professor R. L. Welty was chairman of the debate.

Private Hal M. Thomas, of the Howitzer company of the One Hundred Thirty-third infantry, a Sioux City unit of the Iowa national guard, is at Fort Crook, Neb., this week taking the examinations for entrance to the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y.

Thomas, who will graduate from Morningside College in June this year, won first honors in the preliminary examinations at Des Moines, Iowa, last November to select one candidate from the entire Iowa national guard for entrance examinations at Fort Crook, required by the national military academy. Thomas topped his college classmate, Sergeant Lauren C. McClaren, another member of the Howitzer company, by one point. Gov. John Hammill nominated Thomas. He is a member of the Phi Sigma fraternity.

Thomas enlisted in the Howitzer company May 5, 1927.

CLASS REUNIONS

At this time of the year the word "commencement" suggests to the minds of the Alumni Committee the subject of class reunions.

According to our plan, five classes are to hold reunions this year, the classes of 1923, 1918, 1913, 1908, and 1903. The class of 1903 have their plans well under way. We have heard them talking about this reunion for more than a year. The other classes will want to be at work soon. All of these classes had secretaries when they were seniors. We are sure that these persons will be glad to get in touch with the Alumni Committee of the Faculty, who are very willing to help make arrangements for the reunions. Secretaries of these classes, please make yourselves known to Mirah Mills, chairman of the Alumni Committee.

SMALL MID-YEAR GRADUATING CLASS

Morningside College had two members in its mid-year graduation class this year. The two girls, Miss Mabel Nissen, of Iowa Falls, Iowa, and Miss Lillian Lindaman, of Wellsburg, Iowa, are both at their homes at present.

While at Morningside, Miss Nissen was president of the Zetaethlean society. This fall she was president of the student governing body of the Dormitory. Miss Lindaman, who was active in Dormitory affairs, was a member of the Athenaeum society, as well as treasurer of Sigma Tau Delta, English literature fraternity.

A VISIT TO ETON COLLEGE

(Mrs. H. G. Campbell, wife of Professor Campbell, has been kind enough to write an article for the "News Letter" describing her visit to Eton College which I feel every "News" reader will enjoy. Both Professor and Mrs. Campbell have conducted the Morningside Tours for the past number of years.—Editor).

Eton College, which is one of England's most famous schools for boys, lies about 25 miles west of London. From the terrace of Windsor Castle one has a fine view of the college buildings situated in a beautiful meadow on the River Thames.

There are about 1100 boys in attendance each year, and a record of the attendance is checked up on school days through the classes, but we were there once on a holiday, and then the roll is called at noon and at 5 o'clock in the evening.

One of the masters stood up on a block in the center of the main Quad, and called each of the 1131 boys by name, whereupon said boy stepped forward, touched his hat, and responded, "Heah, suh." Those who had come in from cricket, or tennis, or from a row on the Thames were dressed in sport clothes, but those who had come from study, or from a walk in the park, presented an unusual appearance for a student group. The official garb of an Eton student is a silk hat, a cutaway coat, or "spike tails" as they are called there, provided he is 5 feet 4 inches tall, otherwise an Eton jacket, and all wear turnover collars of white.

In English parlance, Eton is a public school, and the schools corresponding to our public schools are called board schools, or those that are supported by rates or taxes. The tuition and expense at Eton are about $1500 a year, and boys are admitted only by examination. One day on the train I met the Hon. Mrs. Dyson Laurie and her son, Walter, who had just finished his first year at Eton. His father had been a member of the English Parliament. I asked Mrs. Laurie when she registered her son for Eton. She asked what I meant by that. When I explained, she said, "Oh, you mean when did I put him down." She had put him down for Eton at 4 years of age, but because he was so old, she had also put him down for two other schools so that when he should be about 12 or 13 years of age he would be sure to get into one of the best public schools, preferably Eton, for this had been his father's school. Boys are frequently registered for these schools when only a few weeks old, for there are always very long waiting lists.

The boys are not allowed to smoke or play cards. If they fail to make their grades or keep up in scholarship, they are sent home. There is no time to bother with a boy who will not study, there are too many other boys waiting to get in.

I asked Walter about his studies, and recreation, etc., and among other things he told me he was a fag for an older boy. He said I surely knew what that meant for it told all about it in Tom Brown's Schooldays. He told me he was in a house with a Master in charge, with 60 other boys, and was a fag for an upperclassman. He makes toast, boils eggs, runs errands, etc. When asked what would happen if he should burn the toast, he said this older boy would switch him. I said I felt sure that an American schoolboy would never stand for that, but he replied it was good for them. I told him I knew why he said that; he knew he would be a senior some day, and then some lowerclassman would have to fag for him, and he admitted that was the case.

The birch is used for punishment as in the old days, and once 80 boys were switched for some prank. Another story is told that some 20 boys were sent up to the head master, who is also a clergyman, for confirmation, and he birched one boy before he found out his mistake. The week we were there, three boys had really been punished in this way for some breach of the rules, and we were shown the switches behind the office door with which the deed had been done; also about 20 other switches not yet used, and there was a noticeable difference in the size and condition of the two kinds.

The oddest part of Eton College was erected about 1525, and on classroom has columns made from some of the ships of the Spanish Armada. Some of the old, original desks are here, about ten feet in length, and the benches have no backs. Also the whipping block or bench is kept here.

Many of the rooms in the old part have wooden panelling, and here the students used to carve their names. Among the distinguished Etonians are Chatham, Fox, Peel, Canning, Wellington, Shelley, Balfour, and others. The American names carved here are Marshall Field, and Drexell. In the vestibule are carved some 7000 names, and in the hall are 10000 more. But there is an official carver these days, and if a boy wishes to have his name carved there, he must pay for it. We were told that 5000 Eton boys enlisted in the late war, and 1100 were killed.

Boys can enter as low as the seventh grade, and finish about 17 or 18 years of age, or somewhere between our freshman and sophomore years in college. Classes begin at 7:30 A. M. and there are three half holidays a week: Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday afternoons. I asked Walter when school was out, and he did not know what I meant, but after explaining, he said, "Oh, you mean when do we go away. We go away in July for eight weeks." He also did not know what was meant by "hookey" but when he did understand he told us they call it "dodging."

The present Head Master is not an Eton man but comes from the Grammar School at Shrewsbury, which is also a "public" school. On one of our visits a regatta was being held on the Thames between Shrewsbury and Eton rowers. We wondered what the Head Master would do that day, no matter which school won!

Remember when you go to England and wish to visit a real public school you must ask for a Board School else you will be sent to visit Rugby, Harrow, and Eton.

Mrs. H. G. Campbell, Conductor of The Morningside Tours.

FACULTY NEWS

Professor R. L. Welty, head of the department of history and political science at Morningside College, handed in his resignation to the board of trustees at their annual meeting. His resignation will not take effect until the close of the current school year.

Professor Welty has accepted a position as assistant professor of history at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth, Texas. He will teach English and American history there.

Professor Welty came to Morningside after completing his work for his doctor of philosophy degree at the University of Iowa. He has been head of the department of history and political science at Morningside four years.

Professor Welty's successor has not been named by the board of trustees.

The 12th annual meeting and the 15th regular meeting of the National Association of Deans of Women was held at Boston, February 27, 28, 29, and March 1, with headquarters at the Hotel Copley-Plazo. Miss Lillian Dimmitt attended the convention.

The meeting was attended by about 500 women deans, and the four-day program scheduled for them was very interesting and educational. The time was divided between section meetings, teas, business sessions, luncheons, and discussion meetings. Topics for discussion centered on problems of the high school and college, and addresses were given by such prominent individuals as President Ada Comstock, of Radcliffe College; Dr. Alice Hamilton, of the Harvard Medical School; Mrs. Helen Taft Manning, dean of Bryn Mawr College, and Miss Mary E. Woolley, president of Mount Holyoke. The visitors were favored by teas at Simmons College, Radcliffe, and Wellesley, and were luncheon guests at Brown University, Providence, R. I.

THE FIRST DORMITORY WEDDING

The first wedding held in the Women's Residence Halls took place Saturday, March 3, at 8:00 P. M., when Miss Mabel Nissen, of Iowa Falls, Iowa, and Mr. Melvin Haas, of LeMars, Iowa, were united in marriage. Dr. C. A. Mock, president of Western Union College, performed the ceremony.

Promptly at 7:45 th music began. The guests were fast assembling and in a short time the drawing-room seemed full of groups of people in formal dress. The crackling of the fire in the hearth was heard. The pink tapers lighted the drawing-room with a soft, beautiful light. The brother of the bride sang "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly;" then came soft strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March. Before an altar of ferns and primroses the bridegroom awaited the coming of the bride. The bride wore a dress of white georgette over baronet satin, a full length veil caught with a coronet of pearls, and carried a bouquet of roses. She was attended by her maid of honor and three bridesmaids. There was complete silence during the ceremony broken only by the crackling of the fire. The line of guests, whispering wishes for happiness in the ear of the bride and congratulating the groom, seemed almost endless. After this came the important event for the girls of the dormitory: the bride threw her bouquet and there was a mad, if dignified, scramble for it.

Will this wedding end in tradition for the Women's Residence Halls?

ALUMNI NEWS

Le Roy Rowse, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Rowse, 3322 Orleans avenue, Central High School and Morningside College alumnus, has been appointed professor of physics at Huron College, Huron, S. D.

Mr. Rowse obtained his appointment February 2. He succeeds Prof. M. J. Breevort, who has accepted a position in the research department of the National Chamber of Commerce at Washington, D. C.

Professor Rowse was the first man from Morningside College to receive a fellowship in the physics department at the University of Iowa. While at the University of Iowa he was an assistant professor in the physics department. He obtained his master's degree there in 1925 and was made a member of the scholastic fraternity for physics students. For three summers he was head of the physics department at Morningside College.

Two Morningside College graduates and a former Morningside College president figured in a wedding at Los Angeles last Sunday which culminated a college romance of 14 years ago.

The bride was Miss Ruby Flinn, 4212 Orleans Avenue, class of 1906, known to hundreds of former students as former assistant in the college library. The bridegroom was George Albert Vennink, principal of a school at Los Angeles, a member of the class of 1914. The minister was Dr. Luther Freeman, who held the president's chair at Morningside College from 1909 to 1912.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Vennink, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. L. Graves, of Long Beach, Calif., aunt and uncle of the bride; and Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Johnson, former residents of Morningside, were included in the bridal party. A wedding dinner followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Vennink will make their home at Los Angeles for the present.

Mrs. Vennink left Sioux City about three weeks ago. Mrs. T. E. Leonard, 4325 Orleans Avenue, assisted her in arranging her trousseau before she departed.

Mr. and Mrs. Vennink met on the Morningside College campus when Mr. Vennink was a student there. Mr. Vennink was a track star, working under John Griffith, then coach at the college and later czar of Big Ten athletics. Vennink worked his way through school and at one time during his college career took a homestead in South Dakota. He also worked as an assistant to the humane and juvenile officers here.

Many friendships formed in college end there. This, however, is not the case with the former students of Morningside who live in Chicago. There is an organization there called the Morningside College Club. The members of this club are ex-students and graduates who meet several times each year for social gatherings. This year the annual dinner is to be held on March 17 at the Auditorium Hotel.

The officers of the club are: President, Miss Evangeline Sletwold; vice-president, Mr. Sam Stauffer; and secretary, Miss Ruth Whitlock.
