President Announces African Student Program

Twenty students from Africa will begin arriving in Sioux City about the middle of August to inaugurate an accelerated program of college education which will enable them to be graduated at the end of three calendar years.

President J. R. Palmer in explaining the program said, "Being fully aware of what Russia is doing for African students through its Friendship University in Moscow—where they plan to enroll 2,200 students from Africa annually in a determined effort to train Africa's future leadership—it is my personal conviction that we can do nothing right now of greater importance than to provide young Africans with the influences of our program of Christian higher education."

The prospective students "will be carefully screened, tested and transported to Morningside College by the Board of Missions of the Methodist Church in co-operation with our general board of education".

Cost of the program will be approximately $160,000 for the full three year program for the 20 students. The general board of missions will assume $100,000 of that amount—which includes $2,000 each for round-trip transportation and $1,000 per student for board and room annually.

Tuition, fees and books will amount to another $1,000 a student annually. "This $60,000 amount we hope to get through advance educational specials. We hope individual churches will want to adopt one student for a three-year period and assume the financial obligation for that student".

The First Methodist Church of Mason City, Iowa already has agreed to adopt a married couple, both of whom will be students—Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Chitsiku who are now both teaching in one of the church's mission schools in Rhodesia, Africa.

There are two other married couples in the group of African students thus far accepted by Morningside College.

Concerning the program Dr. Palmer further observed: "It is hoped that following this beginning, we may be able to bring the campus

students from other "soft spots" such as South or Central America, under a similar plan starting the following year, then moving to the Far East the third year.

"This would mean, if the program succeeds, that we would have in training on our campus 50 to 60 students annually from outside the boundaries of our nation, and particularly from areas where Communism is attempting to make inroads with their own "missionary education" program.

"It should be noted that these students are mature, the products of our own mission schools in various areas of Africa. They have been screened by taking the scholarship aptitude test and the Michigan English Test. The screening committee, made up of graduates of English and American Universities, feel that the students being sent will be capable of doing college level work in any of our better institutions of higher education.

"We realized that literally scores of students eager to have their training in America not only would be unable to come unless some new programs were developed, but that these potential African leaders probably would accept the opportunity to study in Moscow.

"The Key, of course, is the co-operation of the local church, in adopting a student for the three-year program (accelerated through summer courses) and paying for his tuition, fees and books", Dr. Palmer concluded.

Pre-Registration Inaugurated At Morningside This Spring

Pre-registration was inaugurated at Morningside this spring.

Freshmen, sophomores and juniors registered for either or both sessions of summer school, or for fall courses.

When those who have pre-registered return to the campus for regular classes in September they will need only to make their regular tuition and board and room payments or make arrangements for payment. No further registration will be necessary for them.

Those who do not pre-register will have to delay their registration until after new students have registered, according to Dean Holmes.

Pre-registration appears to offer a great advantage to the returning student by eliminating for him the registration period prior to classes in the fall.

The pre-registration procedure also will ease the load for administrative personnel who will have a longer time to process the registration materials.

James Galli Invited To Georgetown Conference

James W. Galli '54, assistant professor of physics and astronomy, will attend a summer conference for college professors of physics and astronomy July 6 to July 28 at Georgetown University, Washington.

Title of the conference is Recent Advances in Astro-Geophysics. It is sponsored by the National Science foundation. Thirty-two college teachers have been invited to participate. The conference will include lectures by experts in scientific fields, experimental work and field trips to scientific centers in the Washington area.

Education Department Head Attends Chicago University

Professor Russell M. Eidsmoe, head of the education department is attending the University of Chicago this summer. He has selected two courses, The Study of High School Curriculum and Current Educational Research.

Professor Eidsmoe has had copyrighted a new teacher-rating form. The scale is titled, A Student's Evaluation of an Instructor. It enables the student to rate the teacher on classroom management, student relationship, sense of humor, personal appearance, personality, expression, emotional poise, teaching skill, and contribution to a higher level of development within the institution.

Purpose of the rating is for the instructor's self evaluation.

Professor Eidsmoe has developed several other rating scales. The most widely used by colleges and secondary schools is titled, A Pupil's Rating Scale of an Instructor.

New Radio Series Spotlights College Music Personnel

The Morningside music department is taking part in a "new departure" in musical programing on Sioux City radio stations.

Dr. James Wood, head of the department, is host each Sunday at 7:30 p. m. for a half hour of music performed by members of the Morningside faculty, students and student groups. The music is selected from tapes of public performances which have been given recently by college personnel.

The program is broadcast over station KDVR-FM which is owned and managed by Jack Wolff, '53. The station has a broadcast radius of up to 100 miles from Sioux City.

Dr. Willis M. Tate of SMU Addresses Graduates

A formula for success in a changing world was presented by Dr. Willis M. Tate, president of Southern Methodist university, Dallas, Tex., in his commencement address to 105 Morningside seniors at commencement exercises June 4.

Dr. Tate listed five "tools in the graduate's crash kit for survival" which he said will help them:

(1) Independence of thought and action, (2) joy and satisfaction in hard work, (3) enthusiasm, (4) capacity for tension, and (5) recognition and acceptance of eternal values.

Emphasizing the changing nature of today's world, Dr. Tate ticked off a number of events which have changed the complexion of the times in the last 15 years.

The most important event, he said, was the launching of Russia's first sputnik October 4, 1957. He pointed out to the graduates that this event happened during their college careers and may prove to be the most significant event of the century.

Honorary degrees were granted to Dr. Harvey H. Potthoff, '32, doctor of humane letters; Rev. Floyd L. Hinshaw, doctor of divinity; Dr. Horace DeWalt, doctor of science, and Miss Marcia McNee, doctor of pedagogy. Miss McNee is going into partial retirement after 25 years' service to Morningside.

Dr. Harvey H. Potthoff '32 Baccalaureate Speaker

Dr. Harvey H. Potthoff, a graduate of the class of 1932 and now professor of Christian theology at Iliff School of Theology in Denver, was the speaker for baccalaureate services Sunday morning, June 4, in Grace Methodist church.

Rev. Dr. Potthoff listed knowledge, vision and commitment as three capacities of man that make God's human experiment worthwhile.

The speaker took his subject—God's Human Experiment—from a quotation by the alumni >

Thomas Mann, "I believe that man was meant as a great experiment."

"It is painful to be human, because we are called both to pain and to splendor. It is easier to become an essential cog in a machine or to play God, but it is to miss the mark of what we want to be.

"If the great human experiment of God is to make sense, it will be only as we learn to exercise our greatest powers when the temptation to do otherwise is great," Dr. Potthoff said.

Class Of 1911 Celebrates 50th Anniversary

Alumni Day, June 3, reached a three-fold climax when the class of June 1961 was initiated into the Tribe of the Sioux, Donald Walton addressed his fellow graduates of other years, and four men were presented alumni distinguished service awards.

All three events occurred at the annual alumni dinner at the Sioux City Municipal auditorium.

Rev. Mr. Walton substituted as the speaker for Jack Halloran, '38, who had been scheduled to speak but was forced to cancel because of unforeseen business obligations in California.

The initiation of the new graduates was carried on as usual with Craig Croston, son of Alumni Director Louis Croston, '30, representing the graduates. An innovation in this year's ceremony was the inclusion of the presentation of distinguished alumni service awards.

Recipients of this year's accolade were Rev. Mr. Walton, Frank D. Leamer, Myron Insko and Rev. Cyrus Albertson. Their citations were for outstanding service to mankind. Mrs. Minnie Fry McBride, chairman of the awards committee, made the presentation.

Earlier in the day members of the class of 1911, celebrating the 50th anniversary of their graduation, were guests of honor at the annual reunion luncheon in Lillian E. Dimmitt hall on the campus. Members of the class present were Vivian McFarland McGee, St. Paul, Minn.; Miss Maria Wiese, Hull, Ia.; J. H. Berkstresser, Honolulu, H. I.; Ida Brown McClelland, Fremont, Neb.; Forrest and Frances Horn Chandler, Dennison, Ia.; Bessie Wenbourne Dunbar, Meckling, S. D.; Paullina Hanner Smith, Hornick, Ia.; Edna Randolph, Sioux City; H. H. Hudson, Titusville, Fla.; Lloyd Johns, LeMars, Ia.; and Laura Shumway Mitchell, Cedar Rapids, Ia.

In addition to members of the 50-year class, a number of graduates of prior years attended the reunion. Among them were Harry Chipman, Spring Valley, Minn., and Frank and Florence Clark Heilman, Anoka, Minn., all of the class of 1908; A. R. Toot-haker, Fort Dodge; H. H. Sawyer, Des Moines, and Lorne Smylie, Rock Rapids, and M. F. McDowell, Sioux City, all 1903; Ross Brown, Sioux City, and Guy Frary, Vermillion, both '02; Miss Berthemia McCarthy and Gertrude Crossan Kindig of Sioux City, both '06; Corwin and Nellie Blood Taylor, Fort Dodge, both '07; Mathila Olson Smylie, Rock Rapids, '09, and Mildred Cheesbro Brown, Sioux City, '17.

Another event that added color to the graduation festivities was the presentation of a one-act play titled Impromptu by the college drama department. Four graduating seniors composed the cast. The play was presented Friday evening and Saturday afternoon, June 2 and 3, under the direction of Prof. Robert Quinn.

Morningside Couple Conducts Musical Tour of South America

Lester and Bernice Trindle McCoy, both '25, are conductor and counselor respectively of the Michigan Chorale and are in the fourth year of a unique program dedicated to international understanding among youth.

The Michigan Chorale, one facet of the program, is a 69-voice unit of Michigan high school seniors which tours abroad to interpret America to people of other countries through music. The Chorale will travel in South America this year as it did in 1960. Tours of Europe were taken in 1958 and 1959.

Formal name of the program is Youth for Understanding, and it is undertaken in cooperation with the International Education Exchange of the United States department of state. In addition to the chorale the program currently has 165 European teenagers finishing a year of residence in Michigan, and 220 youngsters from Michigan now living in Europe.

Mr. McCoy has been on the staff of the University of Michigan since 1947 and is now conductor of the university Musical society. He conducts the annual performances of Handel's Messiah with the University Choral Union soloists and orchestra.

Research Award Honors Memory of S. Stouffer, '21

Four awards for urban research in 1961-62 have been made in honor of the late Samuel Stouffer, '21, Harvard university sociologist, who died about a year ago.

The Stouffer Fellows are two students from Massachusetts Institute of Technology and two from Harvard. They will work in the joint center for urban studies of the two colleges.

The April 29, 1961 issue of the Harvard University Gazette carried a lengthy tribute to Prof. Stouffer by four eminent colleagues—Gordon Allport, Paul H. Buck, Frederick Mosteller and Talcott Parsons. An especially significant passage follows:

"He became an eminent statesman of social science and of the American intellectual community generally.

"Such a record is possible only with a rare combination of personal qualities. In addition to the obvious high intellectual ability, perhaps three should be noted. First was his unshakable integrity, perhaps rooted in his small town religious background. This was manifested in his almost fierce devotion to intellectual honesty and his scrupulous fulfillment of the many major obligations he assumed.

"Second was his outstanding flexibility and openness to understanding, his ability to take account of the complexities of situations and opportunities; in such contexts he was preeminently a man both of high initiative and of balanced and subtle judgment. Finally, he was a man of unusually outgoing friendliness and of transparent kindness and good will; it was a cold and misanthropic person indeed who did not respond to Sam Stouffer's radiant human warmth."

In Memoriam

Miss Edith Eicher, a graduate in the class of 1911, died in April. She was retired in 1954 from Western Michigan University where she had taught English for 29 years.

Miss Eicher received her master's degree from Columbia University. Her chief interests were English literature, drama, and travelling. She combined the three in several trips to Europe which generally included visits to drama festivals and college study. She attended Oxford University in 1932, and the University of London in 1937.

Interment was at Jefferson, Iowa.

Mrs. William F. Grandy of Sioux City died May 14, after a short illness. She was the former Bonnie Brandt who attended the Morningside academy in 1927 and 1928.

Bequest

The will of Miss Edith Eicher '11 (see above) stipulates that Morningside College is to receive $7,500 from her estate.
