AN APPRECIATION.

The Christmas season is here. The glorious star of hope and promise has finally led to the achievement of a great event, the successful closing of the campaign for $900,000.00 for Morningside College. Our hearts are filled with joyful enthusiasms, and the Song of Victory is upon our lips.

The Christmas spirit of self sacrifice and service which the College has tried to teach her children has truly been made manifest. For in answer to the urgent appeal for help at this critical time, the Alumni and ex-students have promptly and generously responded, and have brought for the use of their Alma Mater worthy gifts of time, of money and of talents. They have been eager to do the harder things, and at a great personal sacrifice have helped make possible the dawning of a great day for Morningside, the realization of a long-cherished dream.

For these gifts so lovingly brought, Morningside College wishes to thank her many children, to acknowledge her grateful appreciation, and to extend to each and every one best wishes for a Happy New Year.

THE CAMPAIGN.

The largest accomplishment in the accumulation of funds for Morningside College, thus far in its history, was brought to a successful conclusion on December 15, 1919. This was a campaign for $900,000.00. As a result Morningside will have a permanent endowment of one million dollars, and two new buildings on the campus.

The story of this campaign may have some points of interest for the friends of the College.

There seems to be no written record as to when and by whom the first thought of such a campaign originated. But it is generally conceded that it was a long-cherished thought of President (now Bishop) Lewis to celebrate the quarter-centennial of the College by raising a large fund for the endowment.

So far as the records show, the first definite step was taken by the Executive Committee on September 7, 1916, during President Craig's administration. From the minutes of this meeting the following extract is taken:

"Moved by W. T. MacDonald, seconded by D. A. McBurney, and unanimously carried, that the Executive Committee authorize a campaign for $600,000 additional endowment for Morningside College, to complete a $1,000,000.00 endowment fund, and that a formal application for $200,000 be made to the General Education Board."

"It was moved by E. M. Corbett, seconded by D. A. McBurney, and unanimously carried, that the chair appoint a committee of five, of which the chairman shall be one, to prepare the application to the General Board of Education, and to have full charge and control of all matters pertaining to the campaign for raising the balance of the $1,000,000.00 endowment. The chair appointed E. M. Corbett, A. E. Craig, W. P. Manley and J. B. Trimble."

The application was prepared and submitted to the General Education Board, which in turn sent a representative, Mr. Brierly, to investigate the standing of the College financially and scholastically. Mr. Brierly expressed himself as being highly pleased with everything excepting the one matter that much of the last endowment was still in the form of promissory notes, which was not in accordance with the board's requirements. Further steps were then postponed until these promissory notes could be converted into proper securities.

This was attended to, and in a letter dated January 30, 1918, Mr. Sage, of the General Education Board, wrote that the College had met all the requirements of the board, as previously mentioned, and that the board would give "sympathetic consideration to any specific request made by the governing board of Morningside College."

Thus the way was opened for more definite plans, although even at this time, with the war in progress, the actual campaign seemed some distance away. And we find that in the president's address of February 13, 1918, Dr. Craig states that, owing to war conditions and the difficulties being experienced by other institutions in closing up their campaings, the "Campaign Committee, appointed in the June meeting, decided that in any case we would not attempt to complete this campaign before August 1st, 1920."

With the close of the war attention was directed to the matter with renewed energy. At the mid year meeting of the Board of Trustees it was decided to open the campaign at once and to fix the closing date as September 1st, 1919. At the same time it was decided that in addition to the $600,000 for endowment two new buildings should be included; so the campaign objective was thus increased to $900,000.00.

In order to raise this large amount nothing could be left to chance. And, in order to have a working basis, the amount was divided into four units, to be sought from the following sources:

Northwest Iowa Methodist Conference.....	$425,000
Northwest German Conference.....	100,000
Sioux City	225,000
General Education Board.....	150,000

To secure these units various methods were employed. The date for closing the campaign was September 1, 1919, but it was found that the whole amount could not be raised by that time and it was agreed to extend the closing date to December 15, 1919. This extension of time did not conflict with the contract with the General Education Board.

Of the amount raised in Sioux City $100,000 was apportioned to the suburb of Morningside, in which the College is located. This amount was successfully raised in a "whirlwind" campaign in the spring of 1919. This campaign was handled by a large local committee under the leadership of Dr. J. B. Trimble.

During the spring and summer of 1919 about $225,000 was raised in the territory of northwest Iowa, mostly in large sums. At the beginning of the fall there was yet a shortage of $200,000 in the Conference, and little or nothing had been done in the campaign in Sioux City proper. It was then planned to make a drive for both of these units.

For work in the territory a "central working council" was organized. This consisted of the five district superintendents; five laymen, one from each district; and three members at large. The personnel of this council was as follows: District Superintendents, Rev. Herbert Clegg, Algona District; Rev. O. M. Bond, Fort Dodge District; Rev. C. K. Kamphoefner, Ida Grove District; Rev. H. E. Hutchinson, Sheldon District; and Rev. J. B. Trimble, Sioux City District. The laymen were: Mr. E. H. Morling, of Emmetsburg; Mr. Charles Beacham, of Farnhamville; Dr. E. C. Heilman, of Ida Grove; Mr. R. G. Webb, of Spencer; and Mr. E. M. Corbett, of Sioux City. The three members at large were: Professor R. N. Van Horne, of Sioux City; Mr. D. P. Mahoney, of Sioux City; and President F. E. Mossman, of Sioux City. President Mossman was made chairman of this body. This council was made responsible for raising the balance of the apportionment in the Conference.

A committee of fourteen was raised now in Sioux City to direct the canvass in the city. This committee delegated the details of the work to a sub-committee consisting of E. M. Corbett, Mr. M. F. McDowell and Mr. John Mitchell. Upon the shoulders of these gentlemen rested the responsibility of "putting over" the Sioux City unit.

The amount of time and work put in by the various committees and individuals in connection with a campaign of this magnitude can scarcely be realized by those who have not had similar experience. The whole campaign has been won because of the loyal support of everyone who was in a position to help. The College will ever stand as a monument to the love and self-sacrifice of its friends.

Having raised the full amount of the objective, a word as to expenditure may be of general interest. In a general way it has been apportioned as follows:

Additional endowment	$600,000.00
Liquidation	100,000.00
Science Hall	125,000.00
Dormitory for women.....	75,000.00

It was first estimated that $100,000 would be set aside for a science hall, but it is now conceded that it probably cannot be built for less than $150,000, with the cost of labor and materials as they are. There is no question as to the need of a building for the use of the science departments. The enrollment in the various courses in science has doubled in the last five years. This is merely a normal growth, largely in spite of the war conditions. Now with the close of the war, and many more young men released from service, and with the impetus given to science by the lessons of the war, there will be a still greater demand upon the science departments.

The amount to be used for a dormitory for women is for the first, or central, unit only. It has been a recognized fact for some time that the need for such a building is imperative. Young women who would naturally come to Morningside have been going to other schools because we have no dormitory, and those who have come have realized keenly the need. With the successful culmination of the campaign we are now assured of a home for our women.

THE THANKSGIVING DAY GAME.

One of the biggest events in the athletic history of Morningside was the Notre Dame football game this year. It came at the close of a brilliant season in which both teams had been undefeated except for the practice game Morningside lost to Vermillion early in the fall. Notre Dame had defeated the Army, and was a claimant in the eyes of the athletic world for the intercollegiate football title. It was a notable achievement for the athletic committee of as small a college as Morningside to secure so important a game with so nationally prominent a university as Notre Dame.

Almost all the tickets were sold the day before Thanksgiving, when the weather turned off so cold with a high wind and a violent snow-storm that we feared there would not be a large crowd at the game. Van Horne organized a band of some fifty students and townspeople with shovels and brooms and these, with the aid of a snow plow, cleared the field of the four inches of snow that lay on it Thanksgiving morning. The fans of Northwest Iowa proved better sports than we expected and by the time the game was called the new cement bleachers were black with people and the temporary wooden bleachers opposite them were almost as full.

The game opened in a light snowfall and after a few exchanges Notre Dame fumbled on her own 10-yard line. To the tremendous joy of the crowd the ball went over on the first play—a beauty of a play resulting in a big pile of both teams on the 10-yard line with the referee shouting for them to get up and give him the ball, which all the while rested neatly between the goal posts under a single Morningside man. That touchdown alone was worth the price of admission. Notre Dame scored later in the half, which closed with a touchdown apiece. In the second half Notre Dame had the advantage throughout, her superior strength showing. Morningside was only once within striking distance and failed to score. Notre Dame was three times on Morningside's 5-yard line and once scored, but twice was held for downs. The final score was 14-6.

The game was reported in sport articles from San Francisco to New York and a great variety of excuses given for the low score made by the university. The hearts of Morningsiders swelled with pride at these articles and with very good reason. There is the best of feeling between the two schools, as there was between the two teams during the game, and we have every reason to hope that we may sometime have the privilege of playing Notre Dame again.

THE HOMECOMING.

On Thanksgiving Day occurred the first annual homecoming of Morningside College. For some days before information which came both directly and indirectly from alumni and ex-students led us to expect a large attendance, but when a hard snowstorm set in the day before Thanksgiving we had some misgivings. However, the attraction of home was strong; they came from far and near, representatives of at least sixteen different classes. There was Frank Hartzell, whose home is in South America, and Dr. Jastram, of the first class ever to be graduated at the institution, besides many others who travelled lesser distances and who represented classes dating almost to Dr. Jastram's.

And the alumni made their presence felt by the students of the present generation. When at the game the students found themselves suddenly showered with confetti, and when later a shower of corn followed they realized the presence of another force, strong, loyal, possessed of the same spirit as themselves, and not one whit less ardent in its enthusiasm.

After the game all gathered in the chapel for a program in charge of the alumni. There they certainly showed that they had not lost their keen enjoyment of college days and their appreciation of college jokes, but with it all there was comingled a tenderness which showed itself as they sang the old songs. Morningsiders of today will not soon forget how they sang College Ties Can Ne'er Be Broken. The program was closed by an earnest talk on the campaign by President Mossman. An informal reception and cafeteria supper in the society halls followed the program. Many found it impossible to remain, but those who stayed enjoyed two hours of delightful renewing of friendships.

The Homecoming was a decided success in every way. It did us all good. The alumni can not realize how much it has meant to the spirit within the school, and what a stimulus it has given us all. We are already looking forward to Thanksgiving Day next year, when the old boys and girls will come home again, we hope in even larger numbers.

PERSONALS.

Kindly forward changes in address and information of interest to the College, whether it is about yourself or other former students, to the Faculty Committee on Alumni and Ex-students, Prof. L. E. Dimmitt, E. A. Brown, or T. C. Stephens. This request is made both of the alumni and ex-students. CAMPUS NOTES.

The men's oratorical contest was won by Jacob Trefz, '20, who will represent Morningside College in the divisional contest to be held in February.

Arrangements have been made whereby Morningside engages in a dual debate with the University of South Dakota March 12, and with Coe and State Teachers College in a triangular debate.

The first women's oratorical contest at Morningside College was held December 5, in which eight women participated. MORNINGSIDE SCHOLASTIC STANDING.

Morningside College was placed on the approved list of colleges after a scrutinizing investigation into the finances of the college, scholastic attainments of the faculty members, number of graduates that had gone from Morningside College during the last five years into the graduate and professional schools, the undergraduate record of these students and the rating given them by the schools which they entered.

This signifies that Morningside's educational and financial standing has met the rigid requirements of the Association of American Universities and that Morningside graduates will be recommended by the Association for graduate work in foreign universities.

DEATHS.

For the last ten years Mr. Collins had been a Y. M. C. A. secretary in China. He received one decoration from the president of China and two from the governor of Yunnan for Red Cross service.

THE MORNINGSIDE TRAVEL CLUB.

The Morningside Travel Club again offers to the public a summer tour in Europe. It is the first opportunity of this kind offered by the Travel Club since the summer of 1914.

The itinerary is not yet definitely chosen, but present plans include Italy, Switzerland, France, Paris, the Cathedral of Rheims and the battlefields and cemeteries at Chateau Thierry, Soissons and the Argonne, as well as many other places in the devastated regions of France and Belgium. Opportunity and special aid will be given any one who wishes to visit the graves of friends or loved ones who fell in the Great War.

Plans also include the Rhine, Holland and England. The cost of the tour can not be definitely stated at present, but it will be approximately double what it was in 1914. The Travel Club is under the personal management of Prof. and Mrs. H. G. Campbell, both of whom recently returned from two year's war work in France and Germany.

Anyone who is interested in making such a tour next summer is asked to correspond with Professor or Mrs. H. G. Campbell,

Morningside College,
Sioux City.
