Retired Professor of Biology Dies

The death of Dr. Thomas Caldwell Stephens on Wednesday, November 24, 1948, in Sioux City, Iowa, brought to a close the life of a remarkable scholar, teacher and friend. Two years ago he was retired from his work at Morningside College. Although he was comfortably situated in his little home at 2024 South Royce Street with Mrs. Stephens, he constantly yearned for his place in the college. The mention of his class room brought tears to his eyes. Teaching was his life, and it was ever calling him.

A brief resume of his scholastic attainments might help to explain how he was able to make his life count for so much.

He attended college in Adrian, Michigan, where he was born March 9, 1876, and where he grew to manhood. Later he attended Kansas City University where he received his B. A. degree in 1901. Following this graduation, Dr. Stephens had summer courses at the Marine Biological Laboratory at Woods Hole, Massachusetts, in neurology at the Illinois Medical College, and taught in Kansas City University in 1901 and 1902. He next took a post graduate course at the University of Chicago, after which he returned to Kansas where he enrolled in the College of Physicians and Surgeons of the University of Kansas from which he was granted an M. D. degree in 1904. Following this graduation, Dr. Stephens was a fellow in the University of Chicago, and also assistant in embryology from 1904 to 1906.

It was indeed fortunate that when the noted Dr. Wylie left Morningside College for the University of Iowa, Dr. Stephens accepted the call to head the Biology department at Morningside. The writer had the rare privilege to have sat at Dr. Stephens' feet in the class room, and later to have assisted him in the class and laboratory both at Morningside College and at summer sessions of the University of Iowa at the Lakeside Laboratory, at Lake Okoboji.

With such a background, educationally, it is understandable that Dr. Stephens would be satisfied with only the most thorough study of all scientific facts at his disposal. His students quickly learned to appreciate that he loved to dig deeply and enrich known facts with new knowledge. In his class room he was not content until he had filled his students with a love for and a desire to know enough about plants, animals, and their environs, to enrich their lives. Perhaps his most outstanding achievement was his ability to inspire his students to be satisfied only when they could discover scientific facts for themselves. It was his love for teaching and his success as a teacher, along with the opportunity it gave him to continue research, that influenced him to stay in educational work rather than take up the practice of medicine. Everything about him encouraged study and research. His very office, lined on three sides with books, and with the motto, "Frove all things; Hold fast that which is good", which hung above his desk, encouraged his students to put forth their best.

Besides being a remarkable teacher, Dr. Stephens distinguished himself in other fields. Ever anxious to promote interest in scientific knowledge, he tried hard to keep such organizations as the Academy of Science active. He said, "There are many men of science and lovers of science in and around Sioux City who should know each other better. They are doing fine work individually but could accomplish so much more if united and encouraged by the Academy."

Probably the Sioux City Bird Club is the most active of the organizations that he established. Much of its work has been published in the Wilson Bulletin while Dr. Stephens was its editor. This was for about ten years, starting with 1930. In addition to writing on ornithology, he published many articles on Conchology (snails and clams). He also wrote a biology text book and manual. Because of lack of funds, the text book was never published, but the manual was and has been widely used.

Family ★ President and Mrs. Earl A. Roadman

His manual on bats, and his history on pioneer men of science in Sioux City, were not ready for the printer at the time of his death. The latter contained a very complete record of Talbott's trips studying birds and nature in general.

Besides Mrs. Stephens, a son, Stubert of Kansas City, and a daughter, Mrs. Nicholas Murphy of Teaneck, N. J., survive.

In Mrs. Stephens, the Doctor had a wonderful helpmeet. She was ever interested in his work. We appreciate how deeply she will miss this companionship. Yet his presence will live on. He did so much more than teach that he will live in the hearts and deeds of those he has touched while with them, and he will be, therefore, a blessing to them and to coming generations.

An excerpt from an editorial in the Sioux City Journal on the passing of Dr. Stephens, pays tribute to him as a fine friend. To quote Mr. Allen: "Whether in the classroom or at home or outdoors, Dr. Stephens always was one who was ready to share with his friends and associates the fun he had out of life. An exceedingly friendly, warm hearted, sociable man, he was delightful to know. He always had the respect of everybody who knew him, his students, his associates at the college, his many friends and intimates. His death ended a highly useful, interesting and purposeful career. And from far and wide today as the news of Dr. Stephens' passing reaches these former students they will mourn his loss to this community and recall the years they spent with him in the classroom."

Among the many students whom he inspired to continue advanced study in biological fields are Ira N. Gabrielson, '12, retired director of Wild Life of the United States in Washington, D. C.; Delmer C. Cooper, '16, Research Assistant, Dept. of Botany and Genetics, University of Wisconsin; and Arthur Ward Lindsey, '16, Prof. of Zoology, Denison University, Granville, Ohio.

According to the wish of Dr. Stephens, his body was cremated and the ashes sent to his former home in Kansas City, Mo. for interment.

We hope that many Morningsiders will avail themselves of the opportunity to hear the Choir on its January tour if any of its appearances are in your town or vicinity. A thoroughly enjoyable musical treat is in store for you.

Christmas events and traditions of the women's organizations of Morningside college began officially "after hours" Monday night, Dec. 6, when the Christmas tree decorating party at the women's dormitory was held. The girls, in housecoats and pajamas, raised the tree in the bay of the drawing room, strung popcorn and cranberries for decoration, and made wreathes for the windows.

Refreshments were served around the fireplace and the party concluded with the singing of Christmas carols.

MESSIAH IS MUSICAL TREAT

An audience, including many for whom no seats were available, was spectacular in that this percentage remained standing for the almost three hours of the presentation of the 30th anniversary performance of Handel's Messiah in Grace Church, Sunday evening, December 12, under the direction of Paul Mac Collin.

The 125-voice chorus was accompanied by the Sioux City symphony orchestra with Elizabeth Beckman as organist. Heading the solo quartet was Carlton Eldridge of Lansing, Mich., a remarkable tenor who has found that blindness is not an insurmountable obstacle in attaining musical distinction. The performance was an "encore" for him; he received an enthusiastic reception here last spring when he sang the lead role in Bach's St. Matthew's Passion. The other soloists, all well known to music lovers here, were Elizabeth MacCollin, soprano; Ruth Burnette, contralto, and Emery Stewart, baritone.

During the past thirty years, Mr. MacCollin's work has not been in vain, for the once handful of listeners is now a church packed so full that many stand throughout the entire performance. As Mr. Mac will tell you, it's been a long hard struggle, but finally people know and appreciate good music.

CHRISTMAS TRADITIONS AND PARTIES FEATURE HOLIDAY AT MORNINGSIDE

An old-fashioned Christmas party, with Santa Claus as a special guest, was the entertainment for the annual Christmas dinner party of the Faculty Women's club, on Saturday evening, Dec. 11, in Lillian E. Dimmitt hall. Members brought toys for Santa's bag. After the singing of Christmas carols by the group, Prof. Reistrup played Christmas music, including one of his own compositions, "Christmas Night."

On the following Monday evening, the women of the Lillian E. Dimmitt hall held a formal Christmas dinner party with Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Roadman, Dean and Mrs. Thomas Tweito and Miss Lillian E. Dimmitt as special guests. The first course was served in the drawing room and the guests later went to the dining room where the dinner was served in an old-fashioned holiday setting. After dinner, Mrs. Roadman read the Christmas story and the group participated in the singing of carols.

Ishkoodah, the organization of freshmen women, sponsored a Christmas party at the college Barn. The group sang carols outside the homes of faculty members and then returned to the Barn to hear Miss Mirah Mills read a Christmas story.

Friday morning, Dec. 17, the women residents of Lillian E. Dimmitt hall were awakened by sophomore women students singing carols and hanging holly on their doors. The girls then met in the dining room for a Christmas breakfast at 6 o'clock before leaving for home on their holiday vacation.

AGORA HONORS MRS. ROADMAN

Mrs. E. A. Roadman, wife of Dr. Roadman, president of Morningside College, was honored by Agora Club by being named Woman of the Year, as a leader from both the community and surrounding area. She was guest speaker at the sixth annual dinner at Agora, Tuesday evening, Dec. 7, at the Martin hotel. Miss Ann Barrett, president of Agora, presided at the dinner and program.

Mrs. Roadman traced development of women's rights, responsibilities and opportunities for leadership from the days when men and women students on campuses had to maintain a distance of 20 paces between them.

"Leadership today," she said, "must be in the realm of faith, based on the new freedoms and opportunity of this era." She listed five types of faith vital for sound leadership: One must have faith in the democratic way of life as we have it in America; faith in ourselves; faith in others; faith in God, and faith in a philosophy of love that will rule the world.

Miss Lillian Dimmitt, dean emeritus, past speakers at similar occasions and women members of the college faculty were special guests of honor. The five women who similarly have been honored are Miss Mary Treglia, Miss Mabel Hoyt, Mrs. Editha K. Webster, Mrs. Charles B. Hoeven, and Mrs. Louise Freese.

After dinner Miss Tolf, dean of women, was hostess to special guests and women members of the faculty at a coffee hour at the Lillian E. Dimmitt hall.

SIoux CITY REUNION

Frank P. Johnson, '13, columnist of the Kewanee Star Courier, Kewanee, Ill., who returned to Sioux City Dec. 2 to be the speaker at a Truckers' Banquet, was the inspiration for a college reunion. Lottie Sanders Milligan, '13, classmate of Frank's, planned a luncheon for 25 classmates, friends and former faculty at the Green Gables at noon. Reminiscences and experiences of "the good old days" by Cliff Harper, Harry Chandler, D. Parnell Mahoney, Dr. Charles Berkstresser, Dave Loepp, Roy Garlock, '13, Judge George Prichard, '13, and Frank, provided gala entertainment for appreciative listeners. Others present included Georgia Wiseman Chandler, Helen McDonald Harper, Wini-fred A. Dutton, Sim Hickman, Hulda Kreutz, Mabel Hoyt, Mr. and Mrs. G. Vernon Green (Marie Wood, '13), in Sioux City on a visit from Alaska, Maude Kling Darling, Helen Giehm Barrett, Helen Wedgwood, '13, Lottie Milligan, '13, and Florence Montgomery Kingsbury, '13.

Faculty members attending were Prof. Coss, Prof. Kanthlemer, Miss Mills, and Miss Murray.

Frank was one of the few republicans who was elected to the state legislature in Illinois in the recent election. A humorist and lecturer of note, Frank addressed students at East High School in the morning. Those of us who were privileged to "listen in" agreed that he had lost none of the old eloquence which brought so many oratorical and debate victories to M. C. during his student days.

On a recent trip West, Dr. Roadman had luncheon with Pearl Woodford ('34) Penberthy, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Birney Blair (Marcille Bohn, '45) in Spokane, Wash. Another alumni group including Rev. and Mrs. Bruce Empey, Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Quirin, and Prof. and Mrs. Ernest Richards met in the Richards' home in Salem, Ore. with Dr. Roadman and recalled old college days.

FORMER MORNINGSIDE COLLEGE STUDENT IS HIGHLY HONORED

A high scholastic honor has come to a Morningside college graduate, Clarence L. Ver Steeg, who recently received one of six national fellowships awarded by the Committee on Research in Economic History of New York city.

Mr. Ver Steeg, a native of Orange City, Ia., has accepted the fellowship and now is studying at Columbia university, New York, where he plans to write a book which will serve as a thesis on which he will receive a doctor of philosophy degree.

The five other men who received the national fellowships were John H. Dales of Toronto university, who now is a candidate for a Ph. D. degree at Harvard university; Robert B. Johnson of the University of Michigan, who is taking advanced study at the University of Minnesota; Harold C. Fasser of Harvard; Jelle C. Riemersma, University of Delft, Holland, who is studying for a Ph. D. degree at the University of California, and Robert R. Staley, a graduate student at Stanford University.

Mr. Ver Steeg majored in history at Morningside college under Prof. Thomas E. Tweito, now dean of the college. Incidentally, Dean Tweito rates his former scholar as "a most prodigious student" and one who should go on to even higher honors. He received his bachelor of arts degree at Morningside in June, 1943. The degree was conferred in absentia, as Mr. Ver Steeg had entered military service in the spring of 1943. He became a lieutenant and served as a B-29 navigator in the Pacific war theater. On his safe return to the United States in 1946, he enrolled as a graduate student in history at Columbia University and in the spring of 1947 was awarded a Lydia Roberts fellowship, an honor reserved for students from Iowa. Later he was offered a renewal of the Roberts fellowship for 1948-49 with an increased stipend.

The national fellowship recently awarded to Mr. Ver Steeg entitles him to study wherever his research might take him. His projected book is a revolutionary war study, specifically covering the subject of the office of superintendent of finance held by Robert Morris during that historical period.

Clarence married a graduate of Morningside college, the former Dorothy Ann DeVries of Orange City. She received a bachelor of school music degree from Morningside in 1943 and now is on the staff of the teachers college at Columbia university, instructing in piano. The Ver Steegs have one child, John, about a year and a half old.

And if anyone desired to prove that brilliant students often come from large families, a case in point would be that of the Orange City Ver Steegs, for Clarence is one of 12 children. He is the youngest—there are seven older brothers and four sisters. The father died when Clarence was about 14. He continued his studies at Orange City, and was graduated with the highest honors from the Orange City high school and later from Northwestern junior college before matriculating at Morningside college.

POPULAR MAN GETS AWARD

Burton P. Hall, '32, principal of Bell Gardens Junior High School, Cal., has been selected as the Bell Gardens "Man of the Year" by a committee of jurors representing organizations affiliated with the Community Council.

Burton, widely known in the community as "Pete", won over his two opponents, after the jurors had debated the three candidates' merits for several hours. Orvan W. Leavell, chairman of the committee in charge of the selection, stated that several ballots were taken, but that at the end the choosing of Hall was unanimous.

Hall is president of the Community Council, a post he has held for the past two years, during which time the annual Community Fair was inaugurated, the Toy Loan building erected, the teen-age dances started, and plans drawn and committees selected for a large Youth Center.

He is a member of the Lions Club and was chairman of the last Lions parade. He is currently a member of the Lions board of directors and in 1947 was vice president of the board.

His participation in civic affairs began with the dedication of the Bell Gardens

Burton P. Hall

Park. He was marshal of the Memorial Day Parade in 1947 and speaker of the day for the dedication of the American Legion baseball park in 1947.

As principal of the Bell Gardens Junior High School, Hall has encouraged a busy calendar of study and events for the students including carnivals, plays, band concerts, flower shows and style and hobby shows. At present he is second vice president of the Junior High PTA.

His charity work includes acting as Community Chest chairman for 1947, and he is at present a member of the Los Angeles Community Chest budget committee, and a director of the local Red Cross branch.

Prichard, ex'12, brother of Judge George Prichard, '13, of the district court, will become chief of the army's public information division about February 1, according to the Associated Press. The army has announced that Gen. Prichard will succeed Maj. Gen. Bryant E. Moore, recently named superintendent of the United States military academy at West Point.

Gen. Prichard was director of operations, plans, organization and training for the European command, before returning to the United States about the first of December.

MAROON SQUAD HONORED

A special banquet honoring the Morningside college football team was held Wednesday evening, Dec. 15, at the Martin hotel. High spots in the evening's entertainment was the presentation of 23 varsity and 24 junior varsity awards recently announced for the 1948 season, along with introduction of the most valuable player and the 1949 captain. Ralph Weaver was noted the "valuable" award, which was announced at the Greater Sioux City Athletic association's dinner the previous week, and Bob Gregorvich recently was elected captain for next year.

Toastmaster was Les Davis, former Morningside college athletic director and grid coach. Other speakers were Coach George Allen and Assistant Coach Bill Pritula.

The affair was open to the public. Previously the college award dinner has been a closed event, with few representatives of the general public in attendance at the dinner in the school's student union building. The decision to move downtown and open the event to the public was made as a result of requests from "Fans" who desired to take part in an evening's festivities honoring the college team. It is planned to make the public banquets an annual affair, as the school's athletic aims move higher.

COLLEGE BASKET TOURNEY BOOKED

The first Morningside college holiday invitational basketball tournament will be held at alumni gym December 29 and 30.

Teams participating this year are from Peru State Teachers college, Peru, Nebr.; Huron college, Huron, S. D.; Sioux Falls college, Sioux Falls, S. D., and Morningside.

Peru will play Sioux Falls in the tournament opener, December 29, at 7:30 p. m., followed by Huron meeting the Morningside Maroons at 9 o'clock.

On December 30 the losers of the previous night's games will meet at 7:30 p. m. for consolation honors. The winners of the first-round games will square off at 9 o'clock to determine the tournament champion.

A trophy will be given to the winner of the tournament.

Athletic director Al Buckingham of Morningside college said that he hopes the tournament will develop into an eight-team affair of the top cage squads in the four-state area of Minnesota, Nebraska, South Dakota, and Iowa when the improved facilities of the proposed fieldhouse are available.

MAROONS WIN TWO ALL-CONFERENCE BIRTHS

Football season may be over, but Coach Allen is still a busy man. He is planning speaking engagements, teaching, traveling, attending conferences plus—work on new tricks for the spring training program. He recently returned from a conference in Chicago (also attended by Mr. Buckingham and Mr. Gwinn) where the future football season was planned. During the meeting the all conference football team was chosen and two of Coach Allen's gridiron lads were chosen among 17 throughout the conference. Bob Hooks was chosen for both defensive and offensive teams. Leon Shortenhaus was chosen for the offensive team. Only five men in the conference were chosen for both teams. This is Hooks' second year as all-conference.

The golf and tennis tournaments and the track and field meet for schools in the North Central Intercollegiate Athletic conference will be held next May 21 at Augustana college, Sioux Falls, S. D., conference athletic directors announced.
