CLASSES

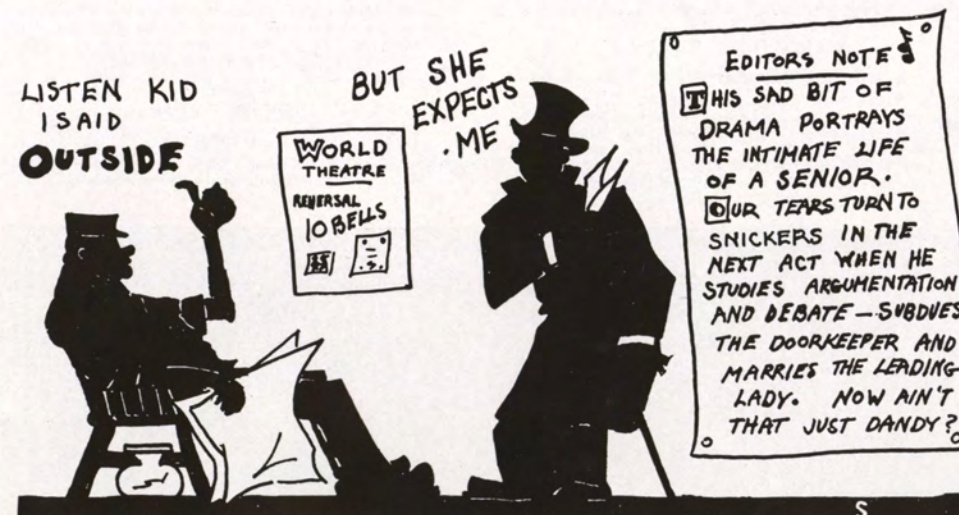

Senior Student Assembly

The supremely choice part of every season of senior activities is the far-famed and long-awaited assembly, wherein the soon-to-be-graduated members of the school don and adopt garments and gestures indubitably connected with the members of the faculty and conduct the day's chapel program in an individualistic and often startling manner. The outstanding presentation of the group here depicted was Red Berkshire's glowing and glorious interpretation of friend Natrass—the bane of all those desirous of parking their vehicles in comfortable proximity to headquarters ere the fateful hour of four has been tolled.

GRACE ABEL

Grace is one of those damsels who get places and meet mortals—her studies refuse to deter her but seem to care for themselves.

DOROTHY ANDERSON

Quiet scholarship seems to be the motto of this Zet; unobtrusively the score of her A's mounts higher. Dorothy helped the editor of this book much in her capacity as assistant editor. And at the concert course she blossomed out with—

IONE ALLMAN

Ione is one of those girls who are really worth having for friends. She's been with us since we were freshmen, and has made a place in girls' athletics.

LAVERNE ANDERSON

"Andy" is a rather quiet specimen around the Tau Delt house but of the sort that leaves a big hole when he is missing. We're glad to announce to the waiting world that "Andy" is a member of the class that's supposed to graduate in '31.

DORIS BADDELEY

Doris is the English member of our illustrious class, adding a little international spice. In addition to her proficiency in dramatics, she is being considerable of an athlete. (For definition of last word see author).

RUTH BAILEY

Observers find Ruth seriously engaged in the pursuit of knowledge, which is thought by some to be the real purpose of college. Be that as it may, the facts remain that she is conscientious, serious, rotund, and studious.

VERA BIERMAN

Vera is one of the beacons of our class, at least tonorially speaking. She seems to function as one also in W. A. A. With this description, she ought to be at once recalled to mind.

VERL BEALL

How ever could the Phi Sigs laugh and grow portly if Beall weren't around? Perhaps "her" great charm lies in her keen sense of appreciation for said humor.

GERTRUDE BALE

Gertrude is the presiding official of the "Con" office when she's there. Her conservatory activities are not limited to the clerical end either; we remember that she accompanied the Men's Glee Club this year. She was very sleepy when she got back from the trip.

NELLIE BERVIN

The course of Nellie's existence now runs smoothly and unperturbedly—her future career as cook for the "one only" is now assured.

MARVIN BURGESS

"Marv" is our chorister, if the number of vocal organizations that he is affiliated with proves anything. We wish to congratulate him on not having acquired the idiotic habit of voice students—bursting forth with a line or two at odd moments when there are people about who value quiet.

JESSIE BLEECKER

This Pi is very prominent in Women's Athletics, either playing on the team or at it in all sports. Her economy as Pi treasurer was most thorough; during her reign the hall motto was: "Here comes Jessie; turn off the lights." Oh, yes, quite incidentally of course, she is considerable of a scholar.

LOIS BOYER

Lois has a place all her own at Morningside. We always like to have her smile to us across the reserve desk in the library, or as she helps us find some of these so important outside reading books. But we've found she wears just as bright a smile wherever we meet her.

W. C. BLACKBURN

"Blackie's" quiet persistence is well known to those who have had classes with him. Not so well known is the fact, for instance, that he is circulation manager of the Des Moines Sunday Register for Sioux City.

JOSEPH CASTLE

This gentleman showed forth in his full brutality in the Grand Public that the Sigma Thetas, etc., staged this winter. His frat pin is gone—gone—gone, no going about it; so we suppose that he was just getting in practice.

LILLIAN EDLUND

Lillian is really an outstanding student, earning her reputation particularly in the way she made up work after being forced out of school for a long time by an auto wreck. That is to say, she was sufficiently damaged to escape from school and not sufficiently lazy to take advantage of it.

LUCILLE DALLENBACH

Lucille seems to go in for M's; ever since we first knew her, we knew her as Marilla's roommate; around college, Music seems to be her special interest; and then there's Marion!

MARTENA DE RUYTER

Martina is one of our luminaries. The Con. faculty quit using those little cards on the doors of the practice rooms stating who had what time and where, because they gave the impression that the Con. had just one student, Mlle. DeRuyter.

MARILLA CONLEY

Now that Al. Williams has graduated, Marilla ought to be bothered, but no signs of distress appear through her dignified mien. She is one-half of our photo editors, and she is one of the few who pay some attention to grades besides after final exams.

CARYL ENGELKEN

Is any one trying to find some one to take part in a program? Ha! Caryl's the one, to be sure; for we're all familiar with the way she makes her fiddle sing.

ART FOREMAN

If the reader turns enough pages in this annual, he will find that Art was its business manager. Also on turning pages, if he doesn't know already, he will find "our hero" to be a charter member of the Pre-Medic Club and a Delta Theta.

MILTON FELDT

When Milt lounges around the Tau Delt house with that old outfit on, he looks almost as if he might earn half his salary—not while lounging though. We understand that he does give some consideration to the extra curricular activity known as studies.

OLIN DOANE

Once this winter we thought Olin was giving vent to his artistic impulses when he wandered about school with one of those blue visorless caps that are supposed to be the thing for studio wear; but no, it was during the cold spell when a person would wear anything to keep his ears warm.

NEUMAN GRUNSTAD

"Grunstad" enjoys ice skating, which we deduct—no, deduce—from the fact that he is willing to carry such a large pair of skates clear across the city in order to cavort around on the Gilman Terrace pond. While waiting for the streetcar he was in male company; this, however, proves nothing about him while skating.

ELSIE GURNEY

Elsie is one of those phenomena of college: she always has her lessons. But we know she has other interests, too, and is always ready to use her abilities to help others not so gifted.

MARJORIE HALL

Who doesn't know Marjorie, of the brown curls and clear laugh? It seems that she is well appreciated, not only for these two marks of distinction, but for her own self.

IRENE HARVALIS

Irene is one of those pianists who emanate disgust when they think they are not doing well. She is the kind that gets where she wants to go or does what she wants to do in spite of difficulties.

MARJORIE HARVALIS

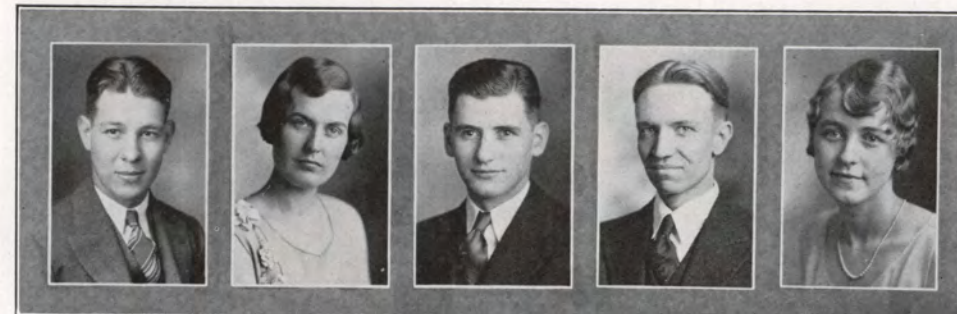

We imagine that Marjorie drives their car from the left side and Irene from the right; however, we admit that we are too lazy to confirm this report. Marjorie is a conspicuous Con. student.

VERNON HANCER

Vernon is probably our leading hash juggler—when "Rogers" serves hash; otherwise he juggles something else. He represents us well in athletics too. His brother attends Western Union, but Vernon has more sense; so he is with us.

MURIEL HARRINGTON

Muriel is one of the few members of the Pre-Medic Club. Hence her membership in the latter organization is doubly appreciated.

ROLAND HUFF

"Rollie" is our star shoe purveyor. Girls, he may now be met at Miller Wohl's, but we'll warn you that it is useless, because Barbara is well established. However, he'd like the sale anyhow.

MARIAN HUGHES

Marian is one of our mainstays in music, playing the violin very well. In addition this Ath meets General Approval (no, this is not a militarist).

MAYNARD HEACOX

Maynard steadfastly refuses to join a frat, preferring to be one of the great sixty percent (Brotherhood of the Unwashed). And how he can get us to read the paper! His most gracious characteristic, however, is that he gives the boys a "break" occasionally with his monitoring in chapel.

HAROLD HOTCHKISS

There are very few of us who don't know Harold. With him at least, we can say that the Junior Class is not lacking in serious intentions which have determination behind them.

VIVIAN HULTMAN

Small and blonde, with blue eyes. That's Viv! One doesn't have to know Viv long to realize that she is much more than that. We know, having seen some of her work on costumes, decorations, and almost everything.

INEZ HUTCHINS

As this is the first year we've known Inez, we don't know her so well—just well enough to want to know her better! We've seen something of her acting ability and are anxious to witness it further.

FLETCHER KETTLE

"Fletch" had the misfortune to be out of the game most of last season when he was football captain. As we remember it, his chief football job was kicking a pigskin off the top of the Orpheum building into a crowd of school kids below to advertise some picture. He's liable to be ruled out next season for this bit of professionalism.

WILLARD KRAMER

During the first semester the well-known Mr. Kramer deserted the Chem. lab. and during the second deserted the Chemistry department. However, he says that one must earn a living in some way and agreeably works on.

DOROTHY JOHNSON

Here is another fine student in our Junior Class, one who likes English and is in one of Miss Mills's classes constantly. She has become so used to having her themes read in class that she doesn't even blush any more. Many of the annual pages are from this Zet's pen.

NORA KRUSE

We don't see Nora as often as we'd like, for she spends a good deal of her time as a capable stenographer. But Nora finds time, although she is a business woman, to add to the fun at Ath spreads and teas.

WILLIAM KUCERA

Bill is a quiet chap who knows what he is about and confines himself thereto. From the fact that he belongs to the Pre-Medic Club we assume that he has the intention of making a doctor out of himself.

HELEN MALLORY

Because Helen is thoroughly engaged to a young man by the name of Horace Koch—at least she was at the time of writing—she spurns our M. C. men. Some wish she were not so thusly.

MARK McLARNAN

Mark was the Junior representative on the North Central team which played at Denver on New Year's. He acquitted himself well. (See also under Paulson).

DOROTHY MAHLUM

For artistic decorations, like nut cups and place cards—hers—are artistic, really—many turn to Dorothy. More important, however, is the rumor coming from some quarters that the articles she turns out are no better looking than their constructor.

LORENE MARVEL

We heard Lorene play the sax, and hold up very well against the scene shifters of Rip Van Winkle. She proved deservedly popular. Incidentally, her abilities are by no means confined to this one instrument.

GLENN MASTERS

Glenn is one that we inherited from last year's Junior Class. He is the kind that gets places—even if he must walk—and meets people, mostly feminine in gender. To put it in a very ancient manner, he never lets studies interfere with his education.

GLENN MILLER

We have pointed out several mixed couples in our beloved class, but have not said much about inseparables of the same half of humanity. May we then present Glenn of the Miller-Kramer combination, and assure you that he is a really good fellow and an addition to our class.

RUTH MILLER

If you know Ruth, you're sure to love her. She returned from the Y. W. C. A. camp at Geneva last summer with all kinds of ideas which she has used to good advantage in our Y. W. work. Among Ruth's other interests, we must not neglect to mention the manager of a certain shoe store in our city!

GENEVIEVE METCALF

We venture to say that perhaps Genevieve has more to say about the running of the student council than anyone else, for according to report she has considerable to do with the running of Bill Danforth. However, her activities do not seem to be confined here, for we note that she is a popular Ath and held down the job of Winter Queen this year.

LOUISE MARVEL

Louise is the accompanist half of these popular twins entertainers. We are intimating nothing, but we wonder whose sheet music around the Conservatory presents such a fearful and wonderful mixture of the classics and popular music.

MILES MOORE

The Delta Thetas seem to have a monopoly on the small men of this class—here's another. Perhaps it is his smallness, plus that curly hair, plus those rosy cheeks that make the women think he's cute.

FRANCIS MOSSMAN

Really, we found this gentleman worrying about his grades—after he had got them on registration day. Otherwise his chief worries seem to be personified in the form of "the wearer of the pin."

MILDRED MOSSMAN

Last summer Mildred worked out in Estes Park—working tourists for tips, I suppose. The main point, however, is this: she came back with a most startling brilliant Indian jacket. We'll forgive her—she makes atonement in being a W. A. A. enthusiast. Take that any way you want to.

HOBART MOSSMAN

And here's our salesman! We present him against all comers. Last summer he made his footprints in flower-beds selling magazines. Verily, verily, we believe that he could sell a straw hat to an Eskimo. In fact, we know he could, for didn't he star at getting rid of tickets for the Men's Banquet?

CHALICE MOORE

Chalice certainly can't be said to ignore the boys, but at that "it wouldn't hardly be fair" (quoting Prof. Gwinn) to say that any have got under her guard at all. Investigators find her catalogued as a pleasant, quiet Ath.

HELEN PARROTT

Helen is the vivacious and hard-working editor of this annual. Much aid was forthcoming during the Christmas vacation. Somehow or other she also finds time to be a leading Pi, and a fine debater—fine talker at least, for one must admit that she has quite a line.

DOROTHY PAULSON

"Dot" certainly deserves honorable mention, both for her pleasing self and for her intimate connection with a certain football player. As to the first reason ask Mark in particular, and as to the second, ask any collegiate person who is not over half-asleep.

CLARENCE NASH

"Clarey" does visit class occasionally, strange but true, and his time otherwise is profitably spent in the football field or merely "dizzing" about.

ERMA PETERSON

Erma is one of the sort that helps balance the scholastic iniquities of the rest of the Junior Class. Not making any undue motion, she seriously tends to business.

LESLIE RASMUSSEN

"Les" may be registered as living in town, but no one noticing the frequency of his attendance at the Tau Delt house would guess it. When he plays bridge, he plays four hands, by sight if possible and, if the opposition is too careful, by deduction. He also plays basketball, but he couldn't make his living at it.

DOROTHY ROBINSON

Dorothy is a versatile individual—she delves into debate, dramatics, and studies with an admirable energy and success.

ELDRED RAUN

This year "Tiny" won the honor of being allowed to perform for us in "M" Club chapel. Until "Tiny" carried him on the platform, we never realized how small Goldberg was.

LOIS SCHAMP

As one member of the annual staff to another, I should give "Shorty" a nice write-up, but who could have missed observing the way that she and Johnny Bottom enjoy each other? Yes, when a girl sacrifices high heels because her accompaniment is too short, we'd say that something was doing.

HOMER SCHAPER

We can't wholly claim Homer, although we should like to, since he was a Junior only during the first semester. He must appreciate being one of us, however, for he could just as well have told the photographer that he was a Senior—it's a half-truth in either case.

CHARLES SEAMAN

"Chuck" is an ardent Pre-Medic and Tri Beta, who has accomplished quite a reformation this year. He is really making a serious attempt to study. However, he has developed into a recluse. Oh, no.

MABEL SPRINGER

Prof. Campbell: "What do you associate with Springer?" (Meaning a person who jumps). Observant pupil: "Joe Castle." Which is perfectly correct—and she has his Sigma Theta pin too. If Joe didn't have such a monopoly, perhaps some of the rest of us might enjoy her personality.

EDWARD SIBLEY

Yes—Ed rates an occasional A. If dubious, ask him. He functioned nobly in this volume, but undue modesty forbade his self-commemoration therein.

CONSTANCE SNYDER

"Connie" has made herself a rather well-known figure, during these three years of standing about the halls of the Administration building, with or without George. (Mostly with). George, let it be defined, is the solution of her transportation problem.

EDLA SMITH

It's just a shame that Carl didn't return this year, but Edla shouldn't let a little thing like that bother her. We regret to say, however, that she does.

LAURA STONEKING

Most of Laura's time is spent within the walls of the Con. and, if we may believe all reports, to good advantage.

MILTON THOMPSON

Milton is a man without mercy when he is with a paddle. He felt poignantly when he was a pledge that the actives did their heaping best with him, and he is now emulating their example. So far we haven't been able to unearth any delicious love affair concerning him, however.

OPAL VAN DYKE

Last year we thought we had an example of color schemes in romance—"Auburn" Van Dyke and "Red" Berkshire, but "Red" graduated. Perhaps her absent-mindedness has caused her to take the blow so lightly, for the editor says that she and Opal can together forget more in five minutes than most persons can in five days.

ALBERT VANDERWILT

Our smashing fullback will long be remembered for his Dutch skit with "Beans" Boone in "M" Club chapel last year. He certainly seemed to know how to act with those wooden shoes on. Once he determined to show his brother Tau Deltis that he was as "hot" as any of the rest—he put "Piccolo Pete" on the phonograph.

LOIS UTTERBACK

In Lois we find another scholar: at least she writes the kind of essays that Miss Mills reads in class, with a transparent guise of anonymity. We also find that she is a well-liked Ath—Lois, of course.

FRANCES SULSBERGER

Verily, verily, will paradoxes never cease? Here is an agreeable young lady who is known as always being decidedly well-dressed, and who is by choice immune from the masculine element. That's not saying that the same is true with the spurned ones, however.

GLADYS WILLIAMS

Lo, a girl who knows how to cook! Together with Dora, Gladys has attained quite a reputation for preparing "feeds." But her ability in this respect is of much less importance than her capacity for making friends.

EDITH VAN PEURSEN

Edith is a conscientious pianist who is recognized around the Con. as knowing how to make the instrument behave itself. This year she was selected to be the one to try to keep within approximate time of the Madrigal Club.

ROBERT VAN HORNE

The institution is running smoothly again now that Bob and Lucile are in comfortable proximity. Of course absence makes the heart grow fonder in this case, and we wish them continuation of their readily apparent happiness.

LUCILLE VOGEL

We understand that Lucille divides her time between the Pi Hall and her books, the latter getting her heftier part. Now, I believe that this makes us enough students to count somewhere on the fingers of the second hand.

INEZ WATERMAN

Inez's hearty laugh has helped to make her well-liked among dormitory girls. She may often be seen over at the conservatory or up in the Zet Hall. If you know her, you'll agree that you couldn't find a better "sport"!

VIRGIL WILLIAMS

Virgil is one of our bright lights, tonsorially speaking. Last year we missed him, but he is now very much in evidence. Our only fault to find is that he's a monitor.

RUBY WILSON

A member of our more serious ranks is Ruby. She applies herself assiduously to her numerous duties, and the result is highly satisfactory.

COACH J. M. SAUNDERSON

Coach J. M. Saunderson is recognized not only by us Morningsiders but by the whole country as being one of the best coaches in the game. Morningside owes her place in the athletic sun almost wholly to him—not only her reputation for her teams far superior to those of other schools of her size, but for teams that play the game as it should be played, in a clean sportsmanlike way. We believe Saundey has done what he has because he has his heart in the work and in the school. Saundey has received many tributes to his ability and has the respect and admiration of the best men coaches. Let none of these tributes outshine our own, and let us give him our whole-hearted support and individual loyalty in his efforts.

E. C. WENIG, Assistant Coach

Obe serves in the capacity of freshman football coach, head basketball coach, and assistant track coach and is certainly qualified for the position. While an athlete at Morningside he participated in football, basketball, track, and baseball, scintillating in all sports. A man with a quiet unassuming manner, with an effective personality, and with a slow drawn-out manner of speaking, Obe has gained the confidence and respect of the student body. Obe is Saundy's right-hand man and has proved himself an efficient coach.

G. H. ROGERS, Freshman Coach

Glen "Honie" Rogers is another one of our graduates who has returned to his Alma Mater as coach. During his collegiate career he participated in football, basketball, baseball, and track, and was a shining light in each, having been placed on several all-teams.

Since graduation "Honie" has been coaching at Eldora and Cedar Falls and owing to his success was brought to Morningside as Freshman mentor, last fall. In the short time "Honie" has been here he has proved his ability as a coach and an organizer.

DR. G. W. KOCH

Dr. G. W. Koch deserves a great deal of credit for keeping Morningside's athletes in playing condition. He has given much of his time to "doctoring" the quad's injured lists. We all appreciate his efforts in supporting our college sports.

The Men's Athletic Committee

The Men's Athletic Committee directs all of the Morningside activities and intercollegiate athletic relationships. The committee has been enlarged this year to one of five members—Professor R. N. Van Horne, Coach J. M. Saunderson, Professor F. H. Gane, Professor J. J. Hayes, and Professor V. E. Stansbury. These men work for the welfare of Morningside above everything else, and as a result athletics have been placed on a high plane. They give unstintingly of their time and energy for the advancement of Maroon sports.

VARSIITY

1929 Football Season

Morningside ushered in the 1929 football season on the afternoon of October 5 against the eleven from Augustana College of Sioux Falls. The Maroons, a heavy but inexperienced team, severely trounced the lighter outfit from Dakota with the impressive score of 40-7. The game, the opener of the season, gave many indications that the team had much to learn in the course of the season, for the lack of experience showed in several instances. An array of Morningside halfbacks showed up well, passing and running their way for 40 points, and provided thrills for the crowd when they broke loose on several occasions to dash for a touchdown. Coach Saunderson substituted many times during the game, giving the Maroon gridders a chance to show their wares.

The next Saturday brought the team before the strongest team probably in the conference judging from comparative scores. Our scrappy group, a team of experienced football men, were looking forward to a conference pennant. The Maroons put up a good fight, but Wert Englemann and his cohorts were too much for them. The final score 38-9 indicates that the game was loosely played and did not do our men justice.

The Sioux Day affair brought one of the largest crowds ever congregated on Athletic Field. North Dakota furnished the attraction and led by Burma, the hard-hitting fullback, and his teammate, Jarrett, the Flickertails wandered up and down the field to take opportunity to score 26-0 against the Maroons. Burma brought the crowd to its feet twice when he leisurely jaunted down to the M goal from the 61-yard line for two touchdowns in succession from practically the same position in the field. The game, however, was not as one-sided as the score would indicate. Aside from four or five instances when the Maroon defense seemed to weaken momentarily, the game was played on comparatively even terms. For Morningside "Rabbit" Goldberg stood out both defensively and offensively in the backfield and in the line Allen showed to an advantage.

We tern Union invaded the Morningside camp on October 26 with one of the hardest hitting teams they have ever had. The Sioux, however, led by "Rabbit" Goldberg, finally won from the Telegraphers by a 12-0 score. Saunderson's men scored in the first and the last quarters of the game. Goldberg, spectacular Maroon halfback, figured prominently in both touchdowns. The first touchdown came when "Rabbit" took the ball and loped 30 yards around Western Union's right end for the first marker. Again in the fourth quarter it was Goldberg who intercepted a Western Union pass and ran 50 yards for the second touchdown. For Morningside, Hall, who recovered a couple of fumbles, looked good in the line, and Andrews and Goldberg were outstanding in the backfield. Kettle, the Maroon captain who had been out on account of leg injuries, performed well in his first game of the year.

The following Saturday Coach Saunderson took his team out on the field, a determined eleven, and walloped the Nebraska Wesleyan team by a score of 26 to 13. Smith, the hard-hitting fullback from Hawarden, spent the afternoon running up a total of 24 points by making four touchdowns against the downstaters. Hutchinson, who was shifted from the backfield to the line, was outstanding at tackle. "Saundy" did considerable substituting, with the result that the Nebraskans were able by long passes to score two touchdowns in the fourth quarter. In the Sioux backfield Captain Kettle, Smith, Goldberg, and Kingsbury played stellar roles.

The next game on the schedule was with the strong outfit from Indianola. The annual Dad's Day was shifted this year to November 16 so that the dads could see their sons in action, but the day was ruined by the powerful offensive of the Simpson team, which took the long end of a 34 to 14 count. The Wildcats proved to be a powerful aggregation in every department of the game. Their stalwart line successfully stopped the offense of the Maroons, and only by passing did Morningside gain any ground worthy of mention. The locals brought out their pass attack in the last half with the result that two touchdowns were scored. The first one came as a result of a 36-yard pass from Crippen to Hall, who made a remarkable catch, and then ran the remaining few yards to score. The second Maroon touchdown was from a pass, Crippen to Kettle. For Morningside, Hutchinson, right tackle, and Smith, halfback, were outstanding.

As long as Morningside football enthusiasts gather in fraternity houses, society halls, and where not to recall and replay the greatest Maroon triumphs which color the gridiron history of the Sioux, they will look back with greatest delight to that memorable Thanksgiving day in 1929 when a bloodthirsty band of coyotes descended upon a supposedly harmless camp of Sioux warriors, only to be driven back to their lair victims of a 6-0 defeat, after one of the most ferociously fought battles ever waged on historic Athletic Field. With the scalp of Carleton College hanging at their belt, and the distinction of having held the North Dakota Flickertails, conference champions, and South Dakota Jackrabbits to a 6-margin, besides holding the Army to a scoreless tie the first half, the Montgomery horde entered the fray doped to take an easy victory. Certainly, Morningside's record was nothing to write home about, especially in loop competition. However, the Sioux clearly demonstrated that football games are not won on paper but on the gridiron. Registering twelve first downs to six for their opponents, and gaining 174 yards from scrimmage and passing to 84 for the Coyotes, the Methodists were the aggressors throughout. To name any individual stars on the Morningside eleven would be unfair. The entire forward wall was almost impregnable with McLarnan and Hall, ends; Hutchinson and Raun, tackles; Popevis and Allen, guards; and Nash, center; all played well. In the backfield Captain Kettle and Smith gained consistently, while the kicking and passing of Kingsbury accounted for a good many yards. Vander Wilt, although carrying the ball on a few occasions, played a great defensive game and produced the drive that put over the winning touchdown.

1931  SIOUX

LOWELL CRIPPEN

Crip is a senior this year and a veteran of three years' standing. He is a three-letter man in football, and his ability to run a team won for him much honor last fall. Crip could hold his own with any of the punters, passers, or runners of the opposing team.

ARTHUR ALLEN

Art is also a senior this year, and his position at guard will be hard to fill next fall. This is the first year that Art won his letter. We shall need more men next fall to fight as he did.

JEROME GEHRT

Jerry finished his football career last fall also. He was the largest man on the squad and used his bigness to good advantage.

1931  SIOUX

MARK McLARNAN

Mark has one more year of competition left, and it should be a brilliant one. He is our regular end and a smasher. Mack was chosen on the selected conference team that played a post-season game with the Rocky Mountain team at Denver. In addition he will captain the 1930 crew.

FLETCHER KETTLE

Fletch has been a varsity half for two years now and has one more season left. Because of a leg injury he was kept out until about mid-season, but from then on he was a hard halfback to bring down, being extraordinarily fast and shifty, and a good pass catcher. Much is expected of him next fall.

MERLE KINGSBURY

This was King's last year and also his best. As quarter he could run, pass, and kick equally well. He is a two-letter man and played on the All-Conference group in Denver, giving a good account of himself. It will be a long time before we forget him in that South Dakota game.

1931  SIOUX

ARLO KOBERG

This was Arlo's first year in varsity action. Koberg missed getting his letter by one quarter on account of a bad arm injury that failed to heal rapidly. When he was in, his opponents knew it. Arly will be back next fall as one of Morningside's fighting tackles.

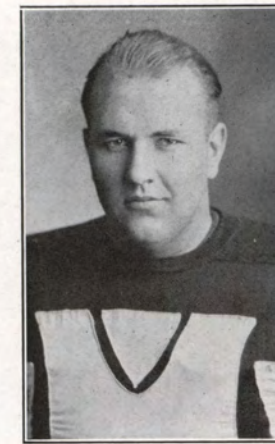

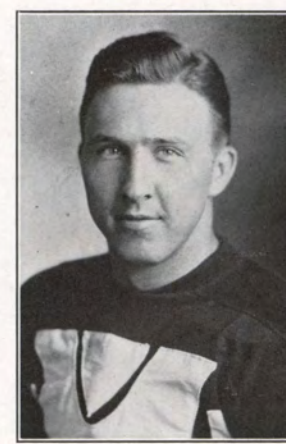

LAWRENCE SMITH

One of the slipperiest, cleverest, and most evasive halfbacks that the Maroons have had in some time. He was the third member of the Sioux quartet that went to Denver. Smith made one of the two touchdowns that won the game. He made his M this year and will be back for two more seasons.

JOHN POPEVIS

Johnny was another of the sophomore additions to the team last fall. He was a fighter and could sift through any line. He proved his worth and will be back for two more seasons and two mors M's.

1931  SIOUX

NATHAN GOLDBERG

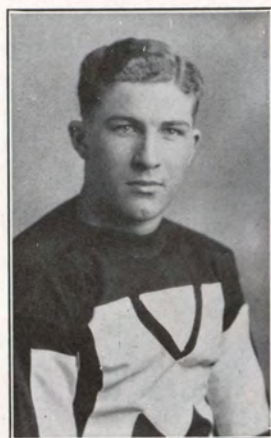

Rabbit really showed us just what that name of his meant this year. When we would see someone with a maroon shirt weaving, dodging, and plowing through the opponents we would know that it was Goldberg. Rabbit won his M last fall.

ALBERT VANDER WILT

The hard-hitting Dutchman from Orange City who played his second year as varsity fullback. Van could hit the line with his smashes and block and tackle well. He made his second football letter this year and has one season left to display his wares as a plunger.

ELDRED RAUN

This was Tiny's second season in varsity action and a good one. Being the biggest man on the team Raun could stop a great many plays on his side of the line. When a man was hit by Tiny he knew it. He made his M this season and will be back next fall to make another.

BURTON HALL

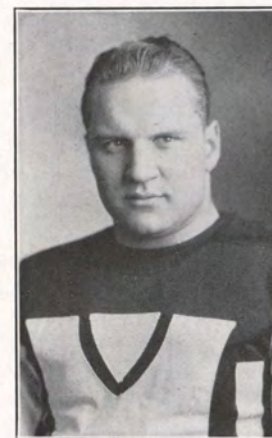

Here is a sophomore who played senior style. Pete played the end opposite McLarnan and played it well. He was tough and did not mind letting his opponents know it. He could get down under punts fast and was a good pass catcher. Hall made his letter this fall and will be back for another next year.

KENNETH LEWIS

Louie is another first-year addition to the team. At the guard position he proved his ability and showed that he will be in the game for the next two years. He will be out to win two more letters and to do his stuff.

WILLIAM DANFORTH

Bill was in a majority of the games this year, but because of an injury to his knee he was unable to participate in any of the last games. He could play either at half or end with equal ability. Danforth will be lost to the squad this year.

CLARENCE NASH

Clary played in the capacity as either center or guard last fall and did well at either. He had a knack of guessing plays that made it hard for opponents. He made the trip to Denver with the North Central team and played as guard on the All-Star team. Nash will be back to show his stuff for two more seasons. He made his first M this season.

HERBERT GOTTLÖB

Herb played his first season on Saundy's eleven last fall and gave a good account of himself at tackle. He was at a disadvantage having only half an outlook on life, but he didn't need any more. When he hit them they stayed hit. He made his first M last fall and has two more years to show his stuff.

SHELDON HUTCHINSON

This was Dutch's first year in varsity competition and a good one. He started the season at the fullback position but was changed to a tackle about mid-season. The change proved a good one, and when he hit them they knew they were hit.

1928-1929 Track Season

The track season of 1928-1929 was perhaps one of the most successful in the history of the institution. The squad participated in a great number of meets and succeeded in winning many honors. Coach Saunderson was not blessed with an abundant array of material but was rather forced to depend on a few individual performers to gather points.

Chief among the consistent point winners was the relay team composed of Kettle, Bale, Hansen, and Menter, which can honestly be classed as the greatest relay quartette ever to represent the institution. The team won seven first places during the season and were responsible for the creation of four new records. Not content with confining their activity to the relays, these men specialized in other races with Menter and Bale in the quarter, Hansen in the half-mile, and Kettle as dash man.

Other men who enjoyed great success in the specialties were Brinkman in the pole-vault and broad jump; Clarence Johnson, distance; Williams, distance; L. Johnson, pole-vault; Kingsbury, javelin; Hutchinson, weight man; and Strong and Ferguson, quarter-milers.

The squad participated in the following meets:

IOWA CONFERENCE INDOOR

Kettle, Bale, Hansen, Menter, Neir, Brinkman, and Johnson made the trip to the Indoor, which was held in the Drake Fieldhouse. The team took third place in the meet through the work of Brinkman, who placed in the pole-vault, Neir tying for first in the high jump, Johnson taking third in both the mile and two-mile runs, and the relay team winning first in the mile relay and establishing a new meet record of 3:40.5. Hansen won the 440.

MINNESOTA INDOOR RELAYS

The Maroon relay team journeyed to St. Paul, where they competed in the special North Central mile in the University of Minnesota Relays. The team was the victim of hard luck when Kettle, leadoff man, tripped over a South Dakota State man who had fallen on the first curve. Kettle resumed the race about 40 yards in the rear of the leading North Dakota University team. The Maroons fought doggedly on making up one yard after another but were forced to take third two yards back of the winners. The team had made approximately 38 yards and had made one of the greatest comebacks ever seen on the Minnesota track.

Bale

Hansen

DRAKE RELAYS

The relay team composed of Kettle, Bale, Hansen, and Menter, with Strong as alternate, made the trip to Des Moines.

On Friday the team entered the Iowa Conference half and mile relay races. In the half-mile relay they battered the existing mark of 1:31.6 by running the distance in 1:30.9. Just an hour later the same four men won the mile relay by 50 yards in 3:26.4 to establish another record.

The next day the team entered the open college half-mile and medley relays competing against some of the best teams in the country. They succeeded in placing fourth in the half-mile, which was won by Oklahoma Baptist University in 1:2.

SIOUX FALLS RELAYS

On Friday the Maroon relay team went into action and emerged a winner in the half-mile relay in the University section. It was a thrilling battle from start to finish with Menter barely nosing out Sand, North Dakota State anchor man.

On Saturday Morningside came back with the same relay team composed of Kettle, Bale, Hansen, and Menter to win the mile relay by 60 yards from the University of North Dakota 3:26.4 to establish a new meet record. This victory was sweet revenge for the Maroons for their defeat by North Dakota at the Minnesota Relays a few weeks previous.

Brinkman succeeded in placing second in the pole-vault.

The medley team composed of Bale, Strong, Williams, and Johnson placed third in a thrilling race which was won by the University of North Dakota with South Dakota State a close second.

The 1929-1930 Maroon Basketball Season

The 1929-1930 basketball season was a marked success considering the fact that the team may rightly be termed one of the "Hard Luck" teams of Morningside's history. The season opened with a likely appearing squad of potent and flourishing basketball players answering the initial call. It was soon learned, however, that Co-captain Danforth, stellar forward and high scorer of last season, would be unable to resume his position owing to a knee injury received in football. This was the first casualty of the season and was soon to be followed by others.

After the second game of the season the Maroon camp was again given a terrific blow when "Pete" Hall, star sophomore forward, was taken ill with appendicitis. As if this were not enough heartaches for a coach in one season, the end of the semester brought the news of the ineligibility of Sheldon "Dutch" Hutchinson, all-state center and one of the greatest performers ever to wear the colors of the Sioux. Such losses show very clearly the reorganization necessary, and much of the later success of the team is due to the untiring efforts of Coach Wenig as he labored in endeavoring to find working combinations which would bring results for the Maroons.

THE SEASON

The season opened with the Maroon squad seeking conquests in foreign territory. On Thursday, December 12, the team chalked up their first victory at the expense of Midland College of Fremont, Nebraska. Although facing one of Nebraska's foremost college fives boasting as their star, Nordstrom, who scored 14 points, Morningside emerged a 30-25 winner. A star was uncovered in the person of "Pete" Hall, who scored four field goals in his fifteen minutes of work. Hutchinson, Kingsbury, and Crippen also played stellar ball.

The following evening the Maroons journeyed to Wayne, where they engaged the Wayne Normal Wildcats. Owing to the smallness of the floor a battle royal resulted with the winner doubtful until the final whistle. However, Coach Wenig's proteges managed to eke out a 20-17 victory. Hutchinson, Hall, Kingsbury, and Crippen starred for the winners.

The first home game of the season was held the following Wednesday, December 18, with Sioux Falls College furnishing the opposition. The Northerners presented a very formidable quintet in a game which was anybody's from the opening tipoff to the final gun. Although Morningside was forced to play without the services of three regulars, the opposition was sent back home on the short end of a 28-24 count. VanderWilt, Kingsbury, and Hutchinson scintillated for the Sioux.

The Maroons' first dip in North Central waters was on January 6, when the team invaded South Dakota State stronghold and lost a heart-breaking 27-22 battle. Playing without the services of "Dutch" Hutchinson or "Pete" Hall, the Sioux warriors fought doggedly on only to lose in the last few minutes by some sensational basket shooting by Hamann, Nicholson, and Herting.

The mighty Flickertails from the University of North Dakota settled down on the Sioux camp for the second conference game of the season the next week. This was perhaps one of the most thrilling games of the entire season with the lead seeing-sawing back and forth, settling finally, however, on the side of Morningside, a 30-29 victory in which honorable mention goes to Hutchinson, Crippen, and Kingsbury, with Brown and DuChene starring for the "U."

Sweet revenge for the stinging football defeat was experienced when Simpson paid us a visit and was sent back to the tune of 40-27. Two new men, Koberg and Mosman, "found" themselves and together with Hutchinson contributed 30 points. For our down-state rivals, Ulrich and Anderson fought it out for scoring honors.

Our ancient rival, the South Dakota "Coyote," left his lair on January 25 and came to Sioux City to win a thrilling battle 32-26. The intense rivalry always produces great combats, and this game was no exception. The "Conference Champions" surely received a scare, however, when the Maroons fought them on even terms throughout with the tide turning to the University in the last few minutes.

A return game with Wayne Normal was held on Wednesday evening, January 29, on the home floor. The entire Nebraska student body was present to see its team gain a 26-22 triumph. Andrews and Alexander for the Wildcats were "sizzling hot," accounting for 24 of their team's 26 points. Van, Eberly, and Koberg bore the brunt of the Maroon attack.

The thundering Bison from Fargo was the next foe for the Wenig men and resulted in a gruelling defensive battle. The two teams started very cautiously and remained so throughout. From the spectators' standpoint it was a very uninteresting encounter to witness, but scientifically it was well played. The final whistle found the Bison ahead 15-11.

The following week the Maroon warriors packed their suits and entrained for an invasion of the north. Their first encounter was at Grand Forks, where they battled against North Dakota University. The Flickertail obtained revenge for her first defeat by trimming the Sioux 31-19. The following evening the team met the Bison at Fargo and were defeated 29-19. In both encounters Morningside fought their opponents on even terms for three quarters only to lose in the closing minutes.

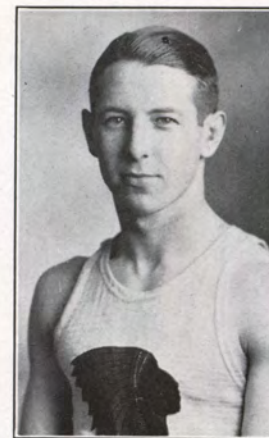

The next Friday evening the Maroon quint journeyed to Vermillion to play a return engagement with the Coyotes. Outclassed but not outfought, the Maroons made the game a battle throughout. The lead changed hands five times and was knotted a like number of times with the first period ending 18-14 for the "U." The Conference Champions had great difficulty penetrating the Maroons' zone defense but were very consistent on their long shots. For Morningside, Mosman, Johnson, and Crippen showed up well, while Adkins, Stewart, and Walker looked best for the winners.

The Maroon basketball quint brought the 1929-30 season to a close by dropping a 30-29 decision to the South Dakota State cagers on the Morningside floor Saturday, February 22. Morningside held a slight advantage over the Jackrabbits throughout most of the game and was leading by one point with just a few minutes left to play when South Dakota scored twice to give them a 30-29 advantage.

The seniors to be lost by graduation are Croston, Johnson, Crippen, Kingsbury, Danforth, and Gehrt. Honor was bestowed upon two Maroon warriors when Mossman was given a forward position on the mythical All-Conference second team and Kingsbury, star guard for two seasons, was given honorable mention. Next year's captaincy will rest on the shoulders of VanderWilt and Mossman, who will be playing their last for Morningside. With a majority of the varsity returning and the influx of many freshman stars, prospects for a successful season next year are exceedingly bright.

WILLIAM DANFORTH

Co-Captain William "Bill" Danforth, who hails from Blencoe, was the leading scorer of last season, but owing to a knee injury received in football, was forced to drop from the squad. His absence was a distinct loss to the squad and was felt very keenly throughout the season.

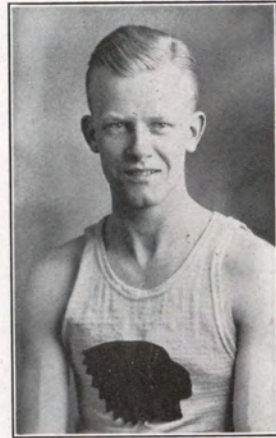

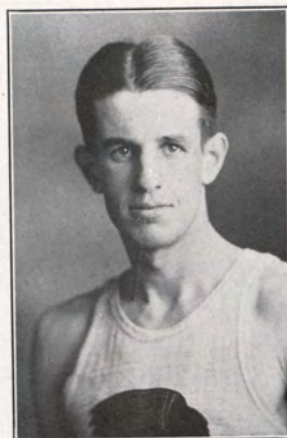

MERLE KINGSBURY

Co-Captain Merle "King" Kingsbury of Ponca, Nebraska, has been a stellar guard for two seasons. Although somewhat smaller than the average, he made up for the lack in fight and aggressiveness, being especially adept in getting the ball off the board and down the floor. He was mentioned on several "All" teams and will be lost by graduation.

HOBART MOSSMAN

Co-Captain-elect Hobart "Mossy" Mossman of Sioux City, playing his first year on the team, developed into one of the smoothest working forwards seen here in recent years. His floor work was remarkable and with another year of experience he should be at his best.

1931 SIOUX

ALBERT VANDER WILT

Co-Captain-elect Albert "Van" VanderWilt of Orange City, has played brilliantly at a forward position for two seasons. His size and speed enable him to do more than the average, and he has shown great improvement from year to year. He will be back next season and we wish him success.

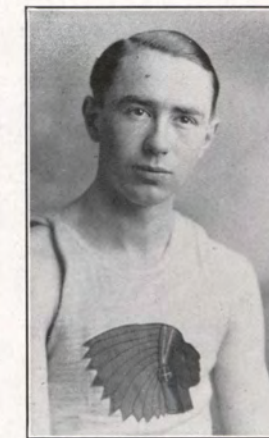

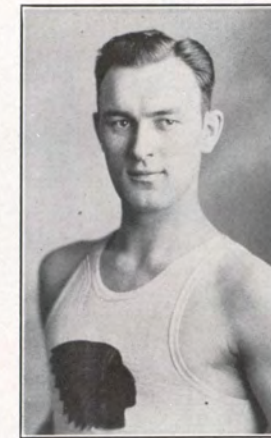

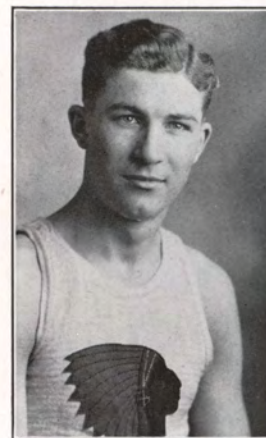

LOWELL CRIPPEN

Lowell "Crip" Crippen, former Maroon captain and stellar Central High basketeer, has played his last for the Camp of the Sioux. Crippen has performed at a guard position for three seasons and was a very steady and dependable player with a great "eye" for the basket. He will be missed greatly next year.

LIAL JOHNSON

Lial "Johnny" Johnson of Dayton, who for three years has worked consistently, contributing brilliant work yet only to miss his letter by a few minutes, came through and won the coveted "M." Lial performs at a forward position and does it creditably; although handicapped by height he is very quick and hard to guard. Johnny will also be lost by graduation in June.

1931 SIOUX

BURTON HALL

Burton "Pete" Hall of Correctionville, started brilliantly at a forward post and gave evidence of developing into a star. He was taken with appendicitis, however, after the second game, and his loss was keenly felt. "Pete" still has two years left.

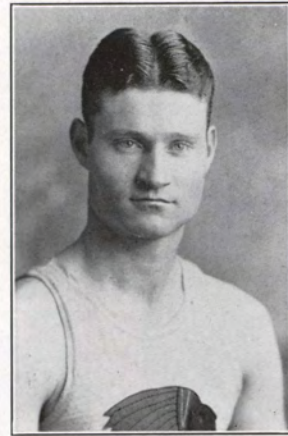

JEROME GEHRT

Jerome "Jerry" Gehrt of Mallard, completed his last year for the Maroons at a guard position. His extraordinary height and reach mark him a great guard, and he never fails to get the ball off the board and into play.

VICTOR JONES

Victor "Vic" Jones of Holly Springs, played his first year for Morningside and, although he did not make his letter, he was in the game fighting consistently. He has two seasons left, and much is expected of him.

1931  SIOUX

SHELDON HUTCHINSON

Sheldon "Dutch" Hutchinson of Sioux City, and former All-State high-school center, is perhaps the greatest court performer ever to represent Morningside. His height, speed, and uncanny eye for the basket make him a dreaded player at all times. Although closely watched in all games he never fails to come through. He will be back again next year to do battle.

ARLO KOBERG

Arlo Koberg of Sioux City also played his first year on the Maroon team and proved his worth as a regular guard. Arly got a bad start on account of his injured shoulder from football, but on its gradual recovery he showed in his playing that he would be in line for a regular berth before long, and he was. Arlo has two more years left and will be back to win two more letters in that sport.

PERCY EBERLY

Percy "Perk" Eberly of Lawton finished this year his third year on the Maroon court as a star performer at the forward position. "Perk" was absent for a season but came back to finish his senior year on the Sioux quintet as a forward and a center, playing either equally well. We shall certainly miss him next year.

VERNON HANCER

Vernon "Hans" Hancer of Merrill has been a steady performer on the squad for two seasons. Although unable to win a letter, he has shown steady improvement. "Hans" will be back next year.

FRESHMAN ATHLETICS

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

This was an exceptionally good year for the freshman football team. Coach Obe Wenig was blessed with a large and likely group of future varsity material that should prove to be a great asset in the moulding of the varsity next fall. This squad of comparatively green material improved greatly and before long was a match for the varsity, at times proving pretty tough for them.

The freshmen played the South Dakota freshmen in their annual game, and for the first time in history won. The score was 7-0 in favor of the Maroon pups. The game was well played by all of our freshmen.

Those who won freshman numerals are:

	Ed Haenfler, Honorary Captain
Paul Perry	William McElrath	Donald Birkett
Norman Barker	Harold Asmussen	Norman Knutson
Marvin Wyant	Melvin Williams	Martin Kronick
Herbert Bones	Prentice Shaw	Harold Berndt
John Bedient	Eugene Sherwood	Wayne Dennis

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL

This year brought to Morningside one of the best freshman basketball teams that the school has ever had. With a very creditable record, this team, composed of some former high-school stars, completed their season under the tutelage of Coach "Honie" Rogers. The Maroon pups after some practice became very good competition for the varsity.

Varsity competition was not their entire work of the season. The yearlings encountered the South Dakota Frosh on the Sioux City floor, losing by a 10-point margin. In a return game at Vermillion they did decidedly better, but lost in two overtime periods. They came back, however, to even the count by taking wins over Weatherwax Clothiers, and over Olson's Sporting Goods, both of this city.

Those winning the freshman numerals are:

	Wayne Dennis, Honorary Captain
Marvin Wyant	Alvin Montgomery
Norman Knutson	Prentice Shaw
Norman Barker	Martin Kronick
Clifford Coonrod	Herbert Bones
John Bedient	Donald Birkett

INTRAMURAL ATHLETICS

Intramural Athletics

There have always existed in Morningside athletics of some kind or other, but they have been on the order of all-college competition. Only a small percentage of the students have been able to participate because of the small number on each athletic team. Only a few then get the privileges of the gymnasium for basketball, etc. There has been instituted this year for the first time the system of intramural athletics. This is a plan for athletic competition among the fraternities, the non-fraternity groups, and the freshman groups. There have been thus far three tournaments in this new activity, which have been extremely successful. The plan has given competition to those who do not desire the varsity. It has been the rule that only those who are not out for the varsity are eligible to compete.

Intramural athletics have been tried in other schools with success, and with the start that they have thus far in Morningside there is no reason to think that they will not be a permanent thing here. There has been a great deal of interest expressed in them, and competition is certainly great. There are from eight to nine groups participating now, and next year there will undoubtedly be more.

Much of the credit for the establishing and success of this type of athletics in Morningside is due to the efforts of "Honie" Rogers, who has come to us this year as the new freshman coach, and "Obe" Wenig, coach. "Honie" is a graduate of Morningside and has been coaching since his graduation. "Obe" was also a star on Morningside athletic teams and has been at his Alma Mater as head of basketball since then.

Intramural Basketball Tournament

This is the first year that an intramural basketball tournament has ever been held, and it was a big success. The tournament was run off during the regular basketball season, three or four games being held each week. There were eight teams in the competition this year, and more will probably be added next season. The list of teams includes the four fraternities, the two freshman houses, and two other teams composed of non-fraternity men and those out-of-town men who did not reside in the freshman houses.

The tournament was divided into two sections. The first was to run for a certain length of time and each team to play two games with each of the other two teams. The teams would then be divided into two brackets, the higher four in the upper bracket and the lower four in the lower bracket.

The winner of the first basketball tournament was the Phi Sigma fraternity, which lost only one game in the first round of competition. In the final round, which was a round-robin affair, it won all three of its games. The tournament was exceedingly interesting, however, for all of the teams were comparatively equal in strength and the games were most of them quite close. All of the teams are looking forward to next year's tournament.

Intramural Volley-ball

Volley-ball followed basketball in the intramural program and proved to be a decided success. The art of playing such a sport is a science in itself and, although this was the first year for this game on our campus, a goodly number of teams became quite proficient at the game.

Each fraternity was represented by a team, and in addition teams from the non-fraternity and faculty groups took part. Interest ran high as the tournament progressed, and some closely contested games resulted. The Phi Sigma team, seemingly not satisfied with the basketball championship, stepped out and captured the volley-ball championship without losing a single game. The results of the tournament are as follows:

TEAM	W	L	Pct.
Phi Sigma	4	0	1.000

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS

Director of Women's Athletics

Miss Lillian B. Murray, alumna, has been director of the department of Women's Athletics for three years. She now has a leave of absence to attend Columbia University next year, and though we shall miss her snappy brown eyes and laugh, we wish her much success and happiness, hoping that she will return again with as many more brilliant ideas as she has given us in these last three years.

W. A. A. rose magnificently this year under her sponsorship. It put on its second Play Day, May Fete, Winter Festival, and Yale-Harvard. In each and every event Miss Murray was a helpful adviser.

"Bigger and better than ever" might be the slogan of W. A. A. this year owing to the fact that the membership was increased by fifty-eight, and it would not be unkind to say that some were bigger and others better—would it?

This year Margaret King and Miss Murray represented Morningside at the Drake convention November 22 and 23. They came back with b and b ideas. (What's a little thing like repetition between the article and the few who read it?) A direct result was much enthusiasm for intramurals—and, needless to say, most of us are glad they went to the convention.

A "more magnitudinous" and "more magnificent" Play Day was sponsored this year for the high-school girls in neighboring towns.

It was a most enjoyable year, and, as a mere suggestion, we offer elephantine and angelic for adjectives next year.

Yale-Harvard

Yale-Harvard, the annual women's basketball classic, was played on March 28. The girls on both teams were chosen by being the outstanding players in the interclass tournament. The personnel of the Harvard team was as follows: Bertha Dieckmann and LeClaire Engelken, forwards, Verona Fuller, sub; Louise Marvel, jumping center, Vera Pfundheller, sub; Crystalle Dasher, running center, Elenore Quinn, sub; Doris Baddeley and Shirley Lilly, guards, Beatrice Schrank, sub. The Yale team was composed of Audrey Lilly and Grace Stoops, forwards, Muriel Batho, sub; Ellen Ballachey, jumping center, Beulah Outhouse, sub; Jane Faragher, running center, Mildred Mossman, sub; Lois Muilenburg and Clarice Nicholaisen, guards, Ardis Bergeson, sub. The game was well played, and the teamwork was well demonstrated by Harvard the first half and by Yale the second half. The latter's teamwork must have excelled, however, as they were the victors, the score being 24 to 17.

Lucille Dallenbach and Helen Down were in charge of the program between halves and the ticket sale. Four farmerish girls, farmerish in costumes only, clogged; namely, Helen Hoyt, Frances Shepard, Marjorie Hunter, and Virginia Latcham. Winifred Small gave a picturesque Spanish dance.

HOCKEY

The interclass hockey tournament was undertaken with much enthusiasm. The upper class turned out a team of veterans, almost. Of course the regular gym girls were up on practice and skill; consequently, or so we'll say, the freshmen were victorious.

BASKETBALL

Basketball was a most popular sport this year. There were the interclass games and the intramurals. All the classes were well represented, and the sophomores were the victors. The spirit evidenced, however, made it seem less a tournament for victory, and more a tournament for play.

In the intramurals, Didaska came out on top, winning every game they played, namely four. Agora came a close second, winning three of their games. The intramuralites were as follows: Didaska, Agora, Pieria, Zetaethean, Athenaeum, and Ishkoodah. Again, the hilarity and geniality of the players made skill barely an enviable possession.

INTRAMURAL VOLLEY-BALL

Various and sundry gym outfits were dug up by the illustrious upperclassmen to defend themselves against the daintily clad freshmen and sophomores in blue. There were six teams: namely, Didaska, Ishkoodah, Zetaethean, Pieria, Agora, and Athenaeum. On some teams there were players, and on others—merely members of the team. The spirit evidenced by those contesting made up, however, for the lack of skill possessed by some. Didaska came out victorious with a percentage of .655; Ishkoodah was a close second with .645. The remaining teams closed the tournament in the following order: Zetaethean, Pieria, Agora, and Athenaeum.

M. C. Sweater Winners

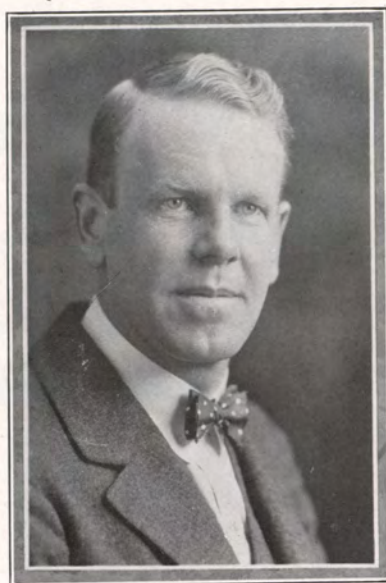

There will be four "M" sweater winners in W. A. A. this year. One thousand points are necessary for the ownership of one of these prized articles of apparel. Elsie Birkett and Ardis Bergeson are the two seniors receiving the aforementioned sweaters, while Doris Baddeley and Mildred Mossman uphold the prestige of the junior class. This is really a significant honor, showing that the girls have perseverance and fortitude.

Last year five girls won "M" sweaters, one junior being rather overwhelmed by four seniors. This junior was Carol Larsen, while the seniors were Helen Empey, Winifred Share, Sara Fowler, and Benita Mossman.

MUSIC

The successful achievements of the Morningside College Conservatory of Music students have been due to Professor Paul MacCollin, director of the Conservatory. In addition to his regular teaching, Professor MacCollin directs the Chapel Choir, an organization which has won praise from outstanding music critics. Under the direction of Professor MacCollin, Handel's Oratorio, "The Messiah," is presented during the Christmas season by the Choral Association, Sioux City Community Symphony Orchestra, and concert artists who appear as soloists. The "Music Festival," which is presented annually during the month of May, is under the management of Mr. MacCollin. Through his efforts the Sioux City Concert Course, which features prominent artists, is made possible, and he is also a leader in all civic events which tend to promote music.

During the past year Mr. MacCollin was instrumental in bringing to Morningside College Conservatory a chapter of Mu Phi Epsilon, National Honorary Music Sorority. Since requirements of Mu Phi Epsilon are especially high, both scholastically and musically, the establishment of Phi Zeta chapter on our campus places Morningside Conservatory among the leading conservatories and music colleges in America.

The Sioux City Community Symphony Orchestra

The Sioux City Community Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Professor Leo Kucinski, head of the violin department of Morningside College Conservatory of Music, is composed of many professional musicians of recognized ability as well as talented and experienced amateurs.

The concerts given by the symphony include symphonies and overtures by the greatest masters. The first concert this year was given in the Central High School Auditorium, November 21, 1929. Elaine Canalos, violinist, appeared as soloist in the second concert given February 13, 1930. Felix Mendelssohn's Concerto in E Minor for Violin and Orchestra was included in Miss Canalos's program. Her thorough mastery of the difficult technical problems and her artistic interpretation proved her exceptional merit as a violinist. The third concert was given April 3, in Central High School Auditorium.

In addition to the concerts given in Sioux City by the symphony many concerts are given in other cities. Each year during the Music Festival a concert is given by the Sioux City Community Symphony Orchestra.

The Symphony Orchestra has been a great factor in the development of music in Sioux City. The concerts are enthusiastically received. With the marked progress made by the Symphony Orchestra, the people of Sioux City have progressed in their appreciation of music.

Morningside String Quartet

Leo Kucinski First Violin
 Douglas Reeder Second Violin
 Samuel Sherr Violo
 Carol Parkinson Violoncello

The Morningside String Quartet, which was founded in 1923 by Leo Kucinski, is rapidly becoming known as a chamber music organization of outstanding merit in the Middle West. Each member of the quartet is an artist both in technique and interpretation.

Press comments and critics speak very favorably of the quartet. In addition to giving a series of concerts in Sioux City each year, the quartet has numerous out-of-town engagements.

An extended tour of the Orient was made by the Morningside Quartet in 1927. During this highly successful tour, concerts were given in all the larger cities of China, Hawaii, and the Philippine Islands.

The College String Trio

Since its organization in September, 1929, the College String Trio, which is composed of Arnold Kvam, cello; Marian Hughes, violin; and Margaret Propp, piano, has been in constant demand. Numerous concerts have been given to capacity audiences both in Sioux City and Northwest Iowa.

The trio has been booked with concert engagements every Sunday evening since September, and has a full schedule for the remainder of the season.

The Messiah

The grandeur and sublimity of Handel as a musician and composer are well portrayed in one of his famous oratorios, "The Messiah," which for several years past has been given under the direction of Professor Paul MacCollin, head of the Morningside College Conservatory of Music.

The thirteenth annual presentation of "The Messiah" was given Thursday evening, December 19, 1929, at the Sioux City Auditorium, by the Festival Chorus, accompanied by the Sioux City Symphony Orchestra, and Miss Faith Foster Woodford, pianist.

Soloists

Elizabeth MacCollin	Soprano
Gertrude Darsie	Contralto
George Darsie	Tenor
Carl Norrbom	Bass

Fifth Annual Music Festival

One of the outstanding musical events of the year 1929 was the Fifth Annual Music Festival, which was given May 15, 16, 17, 18, under the direction of Paul MacCollin, director of the Morningside College Conservatory of Music.

The Chapel Choir, a student organization which has become famous for its a capella singing, gave the opening concert of the festival on May 15. The masterpieces of sacred choral numbers were sung with almost perfect ensemble and harmonic effects.

"Martha," one of Friedrick von Flotow's best known operas, was given on May 16, the second night of the festival, by the Morningside-Sioux City Festival Chorus, and the Sioux City Symphony Orchestra, Paul MacCollin conducting.

Soloists

Lady Harriet (Martha) Soprano.....	Elizabeth MacCollin
Nancy, her friend, Contralto.....	Lucy Hartman
Sir Tristan, Lady Harriet's cousin, Bass.....	Willis Fleetwood
Lionel, Tenor.....	Paul Althouse
Plunkett, a wealthy farmer, Bass.....	Carl Norrbom

Paul Althouse, leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company for nine years, and well-known artist, appeared as soloist with the Festival Male Chorus on May 17. Mr. Althouse is also noted for his interpretation of Wagnerian tenor roles. He was especially well received both in his solos and his work with the Festival Male Chorus. W. Curtis Snow conducted.

The concluding concert was given on May 18 by the combined orchestras, the Sioux City Symphony Orchestra and the University of South Dakota Symphony Orchestra. Leo Kucinski, head of the Morningside Conservatory violin department and director of the Sioux City Symphony Orchestra, conducted. This, the fifth concert given by the combined orchestras, proved to be very successful. The program included works of Beethoven, Wagner, Debussy, Jarnefelt, Massenet, and "Caucasian Sketches" by Ipalitoff-Ivanoff. Interest, enthusiasm, and appreciation of music have been greatly advanced by the combined efforts of these two symphony orchestras.

Music Notes

MADRIGAL CLUB

The Madrigal Club had a very successful concert tour this season. A new experiment, that of having the same business manager for all musical organizations, was tried and, as a result, Lee Strain, business manager, accompanied the girls.

A copy of the 1928-1929 "Sioux" was presented to the libraries of each of the twenty high schools where concerts were given.

A few of the girls decided to create some excitement, and proceeded to do so by fainting! After rushing madly for a doctor, smelling salts, and spirits of camphor, Lee Strain and a few of the "braver" members of the party were able to revive the girls. This method proved so brutally successful that the other girls decided that there would be no more fainting during the remainder of the trip.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB

The pledges to the Men's Glee Club were well taken care of by Pledgemasters Schultz and Gilbert. The pledges very kindly (?) aided by carrying around baggage and by running errands.

Some of the boys, including Moore, Allen, Haddock, King, and Strain, enjoyed the "local talent" of the girls, especially in Estherville, Spirit Lake, and Inwood.

The trio, composed of Gilbert, Dittmer, and King, gave some "well received" selections in the high schools. Several high-school girls decided to come to Morningside and study music next year, after hearing the trio. Good work, boys!

CHAPEL CHOIR

The ambition to sing in Omaha was finally realized by the Chapel Choir this year when a concert was given over Radio Station WOW and also in Omaha Church. A concert was also given from Radio Station KOIL, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Every year the Chapel Choir has some interesting experiences with the famous "Iowa mud," and this year was no exception. In spite of the mud and flat tires everyone enjoyed the trip.

DRAMA

Professor James Juvenal Hayes

Professor James J. Hayes
as "Rip"

Mr. Hayes is not only the nucleus of the dramatic activities at Morningside but also one of the mainstays of the Little Theater. He is admirably fitted to fill such a position, for he has studied under so many whose names are proverbial in the theatrical world that it would be almost futile to attempt to list them.

He is a master stage technician, working with equal ability as an electrician, a carpenter, a stage hand, or a prompter. As an actor his interpretation of Rip Van Winkle left nothing to be desired, and the four big plays he has produced give ample compliment to his expert directing.

If a good name is to be valued above riches, then "Jimmy" has that which is invaluable.

Jane Lewis Smith

Mrs. Smith, besides being a homemaker and the mother of three charming youngsters, is the director of the Studio Theater. She has been in the Studio for only a comparatively short time, but she has now one of the largest departments in school, and she works all hours with students and inspires them towards an understanding and appreciation of all that is good in drama.

She is a graduate of Cornell, a student of Leland Powers School, a student of Theodore Irwin, and she has a master's degree from the University of Iowa.

In addition to her full twenty-four hours a day schedule she finds time to correct defective speech among the students and be a friend to all who wander through the studio—and their name is Legion.

She is known by many as the most charming woman in Sioux City, and no one who has had the privilege of working with her will question this title.

A mother, a college professor, and an actress, an unusual combination filled by a most talented woman—Jane Lewis Smith.

In December, 1927, the Alpha Gamma chapter of Alpha Psi Omega was organized under the leadership of Miss Mabel Elizabeth Brown, and since that time has existed as one of the active honorary fraternities on our campus. This fraternity is one of national repute, being the national dramatic fraternity with chapters from coast to coast.

Alpha Psi not only produces plays, but also exists as a nucleus for the dramatic groups of the college in which the chapter is located. Here the Cloak and Rapier are sponsored by Alpha Psi Omega.

Under the auspices of Alpha Psi Omega a new system of organizing a dramatic club was tried and has been a big success. Everyone interested in dramatics bought a ticket which not only admitted him to five big three-act plays and all the one-act plays, but also made him a member of the dramatic club.

The purpose of the dramatic club is to create interest in the best drama, to train students to express themselves through acting, and to promote a form of mixed social life.

The dramatic club, under the name of Cloak and Rapier, has a membership of 104.

THE PLAINT OF LITTLE MR. SLOT

I'm just a tiny opening in the Collegian Reporter box, but the reams of paper that are thrust through me approach the hundred mark. Some reporters are very polite and kind to me, while others scratch me by wadding candy wrappers and gum papers through me.

For one semester Mr. Harold Johnson reigned supreme, but the combination of wife and studies was too much, so he gave me up.

You can't say I'm not an enticing character to inveigle the prodigal son, Lyle Strom, to return. He vowed he would not be back this year, but the call of the Collegian was too much for him to resist. Upon Harold Johnson's resignation, Lyle came to the rescue.

Just preceding February 14, everything seemed strange to me. A vernal (green) atmosphere surrounded my box. Not comprehending my capacity, Freshmen continued to stuff sheet after sheet of paper into my box until finally I could hold no more. Elenore Quinn, editor of the Green Sheet, came to my rescue when I was near suffocation. Prentice Shaw, with his taking ways, ran around town getting ads to pay for the printing of my Freshman contents.

My heart went pit-a-pat and thump-thump when the women began to pay so much attention to me around the second of May. Coeds were putting out the Agora edition. Alice Anderson, whom I attracted because I'm such a good little Scout, was responsible for my popularity. Business manager, Jessie Bleecker, although a devoted Scotchman, had the happy faculty of getting business men to part with their money, as shown by the number and size of the ads in the coed paper.

Previous to April First I was filled with such queer news that I scarcely knew whether to laugh or cry. Perhaps I was made a fool, but anyway not a Bamboozler.

This is the end of my story for today.

The Sioux

Each year the Junior Class of Morningside College compiles and edits a record of the year's activities and accomplishments in the form of The Sioux. The editor and business manager are elected by the class, and they appoint their staff members.

The Journalism Fraternity was organized last fall under the au pices of the Board of Control for Student Publications. The members of the Collegian Reporter staff, at that time, were designated as charter members, and the members of the Board of Control were given honorary membership. The purpose of the organization is to promote journalistic interests on the campus and to become a particular asset to the Collegian Reporter by holding discussion meetings on topics of importance to it. Such meetings are held every two weeks.

Alumni News Letter

Editor, Lee Strain

The official publication of the Morningside College Alumni Association is published in Sioux City by a representative of the association under the auspices of Morningside College. The Alumni News Letter is a source of information which gives news of the alumni and ex-students along with the activities of the college group. This News Letter has grown from a four-page affair to a twelve-page, three-column magazine whose growth has been made possible through cooperation of alumni and ex-students who have sent in letters and news.

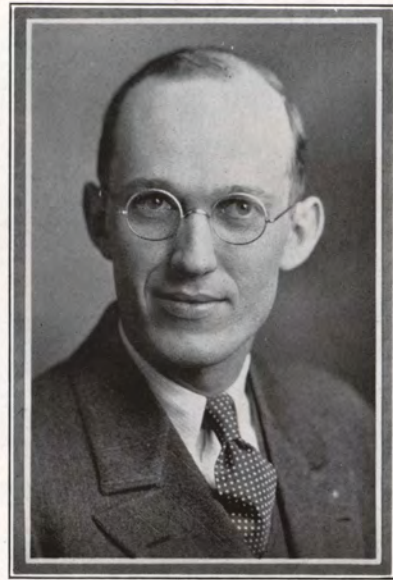

The publication is sent throughout the world to about three thousand alumni and ex-students.

FORENSICS

JOHN W. PARLETTE

Debate work at Morningside quite naturally centers around our coach, Mr. Parlette.

The 1930 debate schedule with its twenty-four debates, including contests before church congregations, high-school assemblies, and business men's organizations, as well as assemblies of college students and the general public, is a testimony to his efforts, and is also the creditable record of Morningside's representatives at the National Pi Kappa Delta convention. Those who know him through class or debate work cannot fail to appreciate his wit and sense of humor, witness the aspiring debaters who have adopted his "Yeah." Morningside can look forward to a debate season of interest during 1931 with Mr. Parlette as debate coach.

1930 Debate Season

Debate is far from being a dead word on Morningside campus. During 1930, twenty-two students, chosen on a competitive basis, from the interfraternity and intersociety contests and the general tryouts, have been active in debate work. The schedule for 1930 included twenty-four debates prior to the Pi Kappa Delta National Tournament this spring. The National Pi Kappa Delta question, one which is of interest not only to debaters but to all whose thoughts include world problems of today, was used in all the debates: "Resolved, That the nations should adopt a plan of complete disarmament, excepting such forces as are needed for police purposes." Most of the debates were non-decision, and several concluded with an open forum, thus giving the audience an opportunity to question the debaters.

The opening guns (if one can speak of guns in a dispute concerning disarmament) were fired by Shuminsky, Potthoff, and Thornton when they upheld the affirmative against a team from Augustana College before a Hawarden High School assembly. Day, Potthoff, and Thornton met "fair opposition" in the persons of three blondes when they upheld the affirmative against

Drake University at Des Moines. Hoffmann, Rixman, and Schuldt journeyed to Eagle Grove, where they engaged in a non-decision expert criticism debate with Iowa State Teachers' College before a high-school audience of about three hundred seventy-five. This trip also included a debate with Buena Vista affirmative team. Upholding the affirmative, Day, Potthoff, and Thornton met Western Union at LeMars. Among interesting statements made was one to the effect that "Starving Chinese don't have chewing gum." A debate trip into Nebraska included debates with Doane College at Crete and the University of Nebraska before a Jackson High School assembly. The strange thing was that Mosier and Thornton, the debaters, returned safely in spite of their visit to the penitentiary at Lincoln. The debate between Schuldt and Thornton before the Interprofessional Men's Institute at Sioux City had its tragic side: the debaters had to watch their ice cream slowly melting as they talked on and on. Mossman, Hoffmann, and Schuldt, upholding the negative, met Western Union before the Foreign Relations Club at Sioux City. For once the teams agreed and practically advocated the same thing. Down, Baddeley, and Anderson opened the women's debate season when they upheld the affirmative against the University of South Dakota in a debate at the First Congregational Church, Sioux City. A Doane College affirmative team of three women met Otto, Rixman, and Mellquist at Salix High School. Rixman rather delayed the departure of the Doane debaters by a little stroll with one member of the team. At the First Congregational Church at Vermillion, Snyder, Utterback, and Hickman met an affirmative team from the University of South Dakota. Rixman and Hoffmann, feeling that not enough debating had been done, staged a little debate of their own with the Vermillion debaters during the open forum. Broadcasting over KSCJ, Mosier and Schuldt met a negative team from the University of North Dakota. What a quantity of gesticulations were wasted on one little microphone! Down and Potthoff on the affirmative, and Mossman and Hickman on the negative, met Missouri State Teachers' College in a dual debate in the college chapel. Naturally, natives from Missouri are hard to convince. Freshman debaters met the University of South Dakota freshmen in a series of three debates, the last of which was on the Oxford plan. Johnson, Quirin, Thornton, on the affirmative, and McCarthy, Hughes, Otto, on the negative, represented Morningside, Thornton and Otto debating in the last debate also. A dual debate with Nebraska Wesleyan was staged at the college, in which Johnson and Anderson upheld the affirmative and Snyder and Hoffmann the negative. Mossman, Utterback, and Hickman, on the negative, opposed Dakota Wesleyan before a Sunday evening service at Grace Church. The women's teams closed the season with two trips into South Dakota. Utterback and Mellquist journeyed to Sioux Falls and met an Augustana College affirmative team, while affirmative debaters included three debates in their trip. Baddeley, Johnson, and Anderson met South Dakota State debaters at Brookings; Baddeley and Down debated Dakota Wesleyan before a student assembly; and Down and Anderson met Eastern State Normal before a student assembly at Flandreau High School. In the last debate the students awarded the decision to Eastern State Normal. The girls who made the trip and Mr. Parlette agreed that Geraldine has a wide acquaintance, to say the least, in South Dakota.

Women's Intersociety Debates

Four representatives from each of the campus societies engaged in a series of two debates conducted on the Oxford Plan, whereby each team is composed of one representative from each society. These debates were also a means of tryout for membership on the varsity debate squad. The national Pi Kappa Delta question was used in the following schedule of debates:

January 15—Affirmative (Jane Faragher, Gladys Thompson, Margarita Wendel) vs. negative (Helen Down, Dorothy Robinson, Constance Snyder). Decision: Negative.

January 15—Affirmative (Mary Baker, Gladys Blair, Doris Baddeley) vs. negative (Alice Hickman, Lois Utterback, Joyce Woodford). Decision: Negative.

Men's Interfraternity Debates

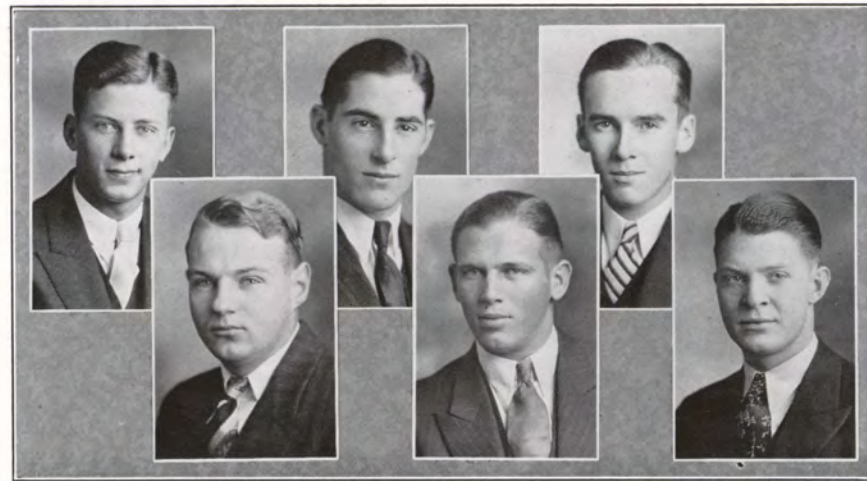

Prior to the opening of the intercollegiate debate season, the annual interfraternity contests took place, from which the Sigma Theta Rhos emerged victorious. The National Pi Kappa Delta question was used in these debates, which served as tryouts for membership on the varsity debate squad. Following is the schedule of debates:

January 13—Phi Sigma affirmative (John Bottom, Donald Derr, Morton Pickersgill) vs. Delta Theta Pi negative (Claude Stewart, Harvey Potthoff, Chester Fluhrer). Decision: Negative.

Pi Kappa Delta Convention

Morningside sent four debaters to the National Pi Kappa Delta tournament at Wichita, Kansas, where one hundred seven schools were represented. Wichita, known as the "air capital of the United States," became the hot air capital as arguments waxed hot and hotter from March 31 to April 4. The Morningside women's team, Helen Down and Alice Hickman, succeeded in passing five out of a possible nine rounds. The girls were defeated in their first and fifth debates. The men's team, George Thornton and Victor Schuldt, completed seven out of a possible ten rounds. They won five debates and were defeated in two. Morningside's opponents included teams from all parts of the United States. Alice Hickman and Victor Schuldt represented Morningside in the extemporaneous speaking contests. Mr. and Mrs. Parlette accompanied the debaters on the trip.

Walkout—1929

On May 1, 1929, the annual cries of "Walkout" shattered the usual scholarly silence of the main building. Some of the students were loyal enough to tradition to hike to Floyd monument; the most believed in modernism and held a ride-out.

Paul Brinkman, student body president, was toastmaster, chairman, or whatever label the fastidious reader may prefer. At any rate, he produced the following program: Ray Soderberg representing the freshmen; Paul Haviland, the sophomores; Miss Lucille Claerbout, the juniors; Lisle Berkshire, the Seniors; and Prof. James J. Hayes, the faculty. Music was furnished by the Tau Delt trio and Stan Dittmer. The refreshments were practically annihilated.

May Fete

On the evening of May 24, 1929, we found ourselves in Sherwood Forest, where we watched a merry gypsy band lead in their queen and gleefully crown her. Then the gypsy dances were abruptly interrupted by the arrival of Robin Hood and his Merry Men. Of course, Little John and Friar Tuck were there. As the hours grew late, we saw the forest change into a magic world. Fairies, sprites, and elves danced for us; the yellow moon, a gaudy butterfly, the mists of evlent enchantment. Ah, you have guessed! This was our May Fete; and the gypsy queen was none other than our May Queen, Flordora Mellquist.

Faculty Reception

No school year would be complete without our annual faculty reception. Whether hesitant freshmen, experienced sophomores, confident juniors, or distinguished seniors, we all are anxious to meet our faculty on an occasion different from the usual one. With due formality we fall into line and are introduced by our student body president to President and Mrs. Mossman, Vice-President and Mrs. Schneider, Dean Dimmitt, Dean Graber, Mrs. Graber, and the rest of the faculty in long succession. The Faculty Reception is one of the annual events of the college year which we should be sorry to miss.

Freshman Mixer

On Saturday evening, September 14, the freshmen, with but little of their traditional greenness worn off, were first introduced to the social life of the college; for this was the evening of the annual Freshman Mixer, sponsored by the Y. M. and Y. W. Carefully slicked heads, ties just so, perfect waves—all these bore witness to the importance of the event. Entertainment was furnished by our experienced puppeteers, Doane, Heacox, and Taylor; by Charles Chase and Orville Paulson, accomplished violinists; and by Professor Hayes.

All-College Party

We'll be in no hurry to forget the novel all-college party which the Y. M. and Y. W. sponsored last fall. With our curiosity aroused by the announcements, we attended the party on September 20, and discovered that it really was a Chautauqua. While a burly policeman attempted to keep order, the company entertained us with music and speeches. There was even a magician to intrigue us with his skill. Not of least importance were the clever refreshments, for what would a Chautauqua be without pop! For originality we'll have to hand it to Grace Gordon, the chairman, and her committee.

Big-Little Sister Walkout

By no means the least important of the activities of Agora Club is the designation of a big sister for each freshman girl who enters Morningside. How anxious each big sister is to meet her little sister and help to make her feel at home, and how happy each little sister is to know she already has a friend among the upperclass girls. Annually Agora Club sponsors a walkout for the big and little sisters. On October first big and little sisters alike forgot cares, donned gypsy garb, and hiked to South Ravine, the scene of the afternoon's entertainment and weiner roast.

Freshman-Sophomore Tee Party

Freshmen and sophomores abandoned the spirit of competition on the night of November first and met at the dormitory for a friendly party. The popular sport of the past summer and fall suggested the theme of the evening, for it was a Tee Party. When timid freshmen and confident sophomores had at last been lured to the regions below—the dining-room—we teed off together and proceeded with the game. Musical numbers, speeches, and skits marked various stages in the game. Our advice to golf fans is: If a game of real golf is impossible, try a Tee Party!

See Sioux City Trip

In order that entering freshmen and upperclassmen might become familiar with their new surroundings, the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. sponsored a "See Sioux City Trip" last fall. Quite conveniently, this grand event was staged the same day our football team left for one of its out-of-town games; and those desirous of seeing Sioux City had the privilege of escorting the team as far as Leeds, where they joined in some real yells for our grid warriors. The tour then proceeded back to the city proper to introduce the students to places of interest—for example, the Orpheum, Capitol, Paramount, and Bishop's—but you're familiar with them. It's really a good policy to "See Sioux City first!"

"M" Chapel

Every year the student body looks forward to the initiation of some of our outstanding athletes into "M" Club as an occasion for entertainment of a rare sort, and every year at said time said athletes lay aside customary attire and manner to assume the roles of fish vender, announcer, reader, dancer, musician, or almost anything impossible. This year's crop of "M" pledges displayed no ordinary ability as performers. Who could resist buying with Fat Nash exhibiting his ability as salesman? As an emotional actor, we recommend Tiny Raun. Some talent in these "M" Club pledges, we'd say.

Frosh-Soph Day

On October ninth the competition between freshmen and sophomores finally reached its climax in the contests of Freshman-Sophomore day. So important was this event that classes were dismissed after chapel, and interested upperclassmen gathered on Athletic Field, in a cold drizzly rain, to watch the frosh "do their stuff." In every conceivable way, the two classes matched their strength: wheelbarrow race, monkey and crab relay, peanut-pushing contest, sack race, singing contest, football, cane-rush, and last of all that most important tug-o'-war over the Floyd. And when points had been duly counted, the frosh were declared the winners. Congratulations, Class of '33!

Flunkers' Frolic

Our annual post-exam jubilee this year was a Jubilee of Hearts. Such a theme could not fail to be universally appealing; so, oblivious of recent disasters, we joined the other flunkers on February seventh at the gym. A mysterious fortune-teller revealed the secrets of our hearts while entertainers sought to increase the rapidity with which said parts of our anatomy palpitated. The confetti no doubt had its purpose of intriguing certain hearts, too. As an appropriate climax, a large heart opened and forth stepped the King and Queen of Hearts, Alvin Montgomery and Muriel Batho, who had been elected the most popular members of the Freshman class.

Men's Banquet

On Saturday evening, November 16, 1929, the men omitted their regular date "which after all doesn't amount to much," according to the illustrious Bill Danforth, and took their dads—at Dad's expense, directly or indirectly—to the annual Men's Banquet. During the dinner the waitresses and the Men's Glee Club entertained.

The theme of the evening was "Touchdown," over which the before-mentioned President of the Student Council presided. Wallace Hatter, Freshman, started things with "The Kickoff"; Richard Hodaway, Sophomore, continued with "Line Smashes." Fletcher Kettle, Junior, advanced toward the evening's goal with "Forward Passes," and then "between the halves" we heard from the Madrigal Club and the Three Steps Trio. When the game recommenced, Andrew Mosier, Senior, presented that other student angle, "From the Bleachers." Judge Robert H. Munger, a dad, spoke on "Reports of the Game," and Ralph Prichard, alumnus, completed the toast with "Touchdown."

Honors of the cup were presented to men whose fathers had attended Morningside, and they in turn gave these tokens to their fathers. After the program we hurried over to the chapel to see Rip Van Winkle, starring Professors Hayes and Smith as Rip and Mrs. Rip, respectively.

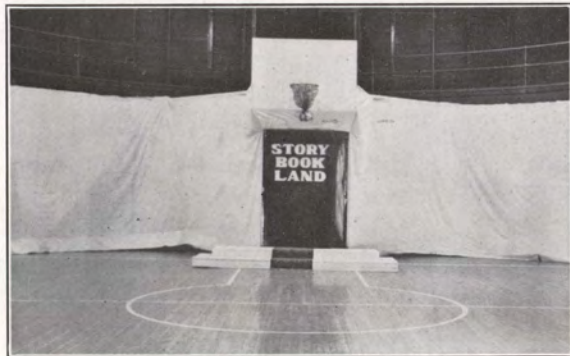

Women's Banquet

About three hundred and seventy-five mothers, faculty members, and coeds attended the women's banquet at the dormitory on March 16, 1929. The toast program of the evening centered around the theme "Roads." Mrs. Hayes, who testifies to a wealth of experience with roads and a flivver, was the witty toastmistress. Helen Bond, representing the freshmen, toasted to "Choosing the Road." Marilla Conley, a sophomore, toasted to "Blind Alleys." "Detours" was the subject of the junior toast, given by Emma Shore. For the seniors, Anne Aalfs toasted to "The Branching of the Road." We were especially fortunate to have with us our distinguished alumna, Dr. Ida Belle Lewis, whose toast was entitled "Milestones." Mrs. Hoyt, one of our mothers, gave a toast to "The End of the Road." Musical numbers were furnished by the Men's Glee Club. Honors for the most beautiful table decorations went to the seniors, the class of '29.

Winter Festival

Our Winter Festival this year was an interesting visit to the land of nursery rhymes and fairy-tales, realms we thought we had long ago forsaken. While we waited anxiously, our lovely Winter Queen, Genevieve Metcalf, accompanied by her court, stepped forth from a large story-book. When she had been crowned, famous characters from Mother Goose rhymes and fairy-tales performed before her, while little Betty Lou Saunderson read the appropriate lines. There were Mother Goose herself, and saucy Miss Muffet, and mischievous Jack Horner, Simple Simon and the Pieman, good old King Cole and his court, and all the rest. Red Riding Hood and Cinderella appeared, too, and even Peter Pan! The ability of the performers and—shall we confess it?—former fondness for these characters, made the Festival a real success.

The Iowa Alpha Chapter of Alpha Kappa Delta was organized at Morningside in 1926. The fraternity has two fundamental purposes: the stimulation of research in the social sciences, especially sociology, and aid in the improvement of the quality of service rendered the social order in which we live. This aim is represented by the Greek name, which means "Investigating humanity for the purpose of social service." Professor Overton, head of the department of sociology, is the faculty adviser for the organization.

Regular meetings are held twice each month, and, besides regular business, programs acquainting the members with Greek and Roman customs are presented. The membership is elected from major and minor students with high scholastic attainments. Some of the functions which furnish variety in the year's program are the Saturnalia Festival in December, the classical play, and the reunion banquet in the spring.

The Iowa Delta Chapter of Pi Gamma Mu was organized in Morningside College May 29, 1929. Its purpose is the inculcation of the ideals of scholarship, scientific attitude, method, and social service in relation to all social problems. Its motto is, "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." It aims to occupy a position in the field of literary studies and of Sigma Xi in natural science. Social science is used in the widest sense to include sociology, anthropology, economics, commerce, business administration, law, political science, history, geography, ethics, religion, education, psychology, philosophy, and biology.

Student Council

The Student Council is that august body of "student" personages and notables whose duty it is to act in behalf of the interests of their constituents, the student body. They meet once a month to consider policies and affairs of student government, and to settle any disputes or complexities which have arisen. No problem is too great for this assembly of intellectuals, and they settle each important matter with solemnity, dignity, and finality—unless the faculty takes exception. In that case, the council can very easily change its mind and humbly concur in the opinions of its worthy superiors. The frequency of the meetings of the council is an indication of the number of weighty problems which confront it during the year. Since there have been but few meetings in the course of the past year, the evidence points to harmony among the students and to a general satisfaction (we hope) with the 1929-30 Student Council.

The Women's Self-Governing Association of the Dormitory has expended great effort this year in trying to create a happy home. It aimed to keep all girls contented, to keep them busy and thus ward off homesick pangs, and to help each girl develop nearer to her ideal of womanhood. This aim was attempted in various ways. Happiness was sought, in part, through social activities. Every month the Dormitory girls held a formal dinner. To several of these, gentlemen guests were invited; others were kept strictly feminine. There were innumerable teas, spreads, slumber parties, kitchen raids, and "dates," to say nothing of the pajama breakfast and the Hallowe'en masquerade.

Some of the happiest memories of Dormitory girls center around the hearth-fire. Here they hold every year a dedication service, special Christmas services, and twice each week a lovely vesper or devotional service. Inspiration, joy, and peace attend such moments.

Perhaps the greatest of all the joys are the friendships formed. Many of these, inextricably lined with memories of happy school-time days, will last throughout life.

The year 1930 has seen some trying times in the Dormitory over such things as petitions, minors, lights out, and campuses; but such disturbances will soon be forgotten in the haze of the past. It has really been a happy year.

CLUBS

OFFICERS

- President Charles Seaman
- Vice-President Robert Johnson
- Secretary and Treasurer..... George Scott
- Librarian Ethel Hackett
- Adviser Dr. Stephens

The aim of this organization is to bring unity to the pre-medic students of Morningside College for the purpose of study and closer connections with the medical world. We have had several good lectures this year.

Dr. G. R. Albertson, Dean of the University of South Dakota Medical School, Dr. Harrington, and Dr. Stephens have given us very interesting talks.

The aim of the Pre-Engineers Club of Morningside College is to unfold the problems of engineering to its members. The club meets bimonthly, times at which reports on engineering projects are given by various members of the club. The members study and discuss the programs of numerous technical schools so that they may gain a deeper insight into modern engineering situations other than those revealed in text-books. In addition to luncheons, the club sponsors an Engineering Night and a Pig-Roast. Dr. M. E. Graber, head of the Department of Physics, is the club adviser, and Professor Gwinn, instructor in Physics and Mathematics, is the club critic.

Ishkoodah, a society of freshman girls, is organized for the purpose of acquainting the girls with each other and affording them an avenue of social training. The meetings are held bimonthly. This year a new activity was introduced in the form of monthly spreads and teas, which proved very successful. The spirit and fellowship of the organization contribute much to the social life of the freshman women.

The aims of Didaska are both educational and social. The first of the two meetings of the month is an educational meeting, at which Didaska members add to their fund of knowledge by listening to some speaker. The second meeting is a social one, at which Didaska "School Ma'ams" grow hilarious and indulge in teas, taffy-pulls, and parties. With Miss McCluskey as faculty adviser, the girls have spent a pleasurable and profitable year. Although not liking to leave Didaska and Morningside, all are looking forward to teaching the three R's to little Johnny and Mary next year.

Student Volunteers

OFFICERS

President Jerome Gehrt

The Student Volunteer Movement is one designed to aid the student devoting his life to Christian service in a foreign field. Its chief objective is to make acquainted students of different districts interested in attaining the same goal—a world-wide Christianity. Furthermore it attempts to relate qualified candidates to various agencies.

Our local group was left with four members after last year's graduating class had gone. This year about seven have expressed their desire to join the group, having quite definitely decided upon Christian work in a foreign land. Our present group and prospective members manifest a keen interest in their chosen field, and we expect much from them.

Cosmopolitan Club

OFFICERS

President Takuo Kobubo
 Vice-President William Shuminsky
 Secretary and Treasurer..... Margaret Stein
 Faculty Adviser..... Dr. F. W. Schneider
 Chapter Editor..... Wilson Taylor

The Morningside Chapter of Corda Fratres Association of Cosmopolitan Clubs is no doubt the most active organization on Morningside campus. The membership of the club is divided into equal portions. The season of 1929-30 has been very successful, including an oriental "Suki-yaki" dinner in November, a Christmas party in December, a German dinner in February, the International night in March, and an outdoor picnic in May.

The functions of the club are threefold: First and foremost, to serve as a medium for developing the cosmopolitan spirit in the college; second, to serve in the college as one of the unofficial means of developing personality, character, and college spirit; third, to serve as a means of creating close personal friendships between students of different nationalities. The motto is, "Above all nations is Humanity."

German Club

OFFICERS

President Alice Anderson
 Vice-President Milton Rixman
 Secretary Genevieve Metcalf
 Treasurer Weldon Baker

The German Club is one of the oldest and most active departmental clubs on our campus. It was first organized for the purpose of promoting further interest in the German language and customs through monthly meetings devoted to the study and social activities peculiar to the Deutschland.

The 1929 Christmas party will always be remembered by the students because of the delicious German cakes and cookies made by Professor and Mrs. Steinbrenner. In March we held our famous German banquet with the Cosmopolitan Club. In April the club presented for public performance two short plays, Ein Knopf (A Button) and Der Letzen Masken (The Last Mask). As a grand finale to a successful year, everyone obtained his fill of sauerkraut, pop, and weiners at the annual May picnic.

Spanish Club

OFFICERS

President Howard Strong
 Vice-President Miles Moore
 Secretary Mrs. Eleanor Robertson
 Treasurer Muriel Batho

The Spanish Club has progressed this year and is composed of those students who are interested in, or exposed to, a course in Spanish. The purpose of the "Club de Espanol" is to help those students who wish to learn a speaking knowledge of the language and who are interested in Spanish-speaking peoples and their customs. The attendance at the few meetings of the year showed that there were some students who believed that their instructors would be present. The meetings, particularly the refreshments, were great. A debate on the question, "Resolved, That we should have a longer Christmas recess," was the feature of the big meeting. Even though few understood it, all voted to have a longer recess.

Art Club

OFFICERS

President Ethel Hackett
 Vice-President Gladys Blair
 Secretary and Treasurer Margaret Warntjes

The Art Club of Morning ide College was organized in September, 1929, the opening address being given by H. Arry Stillman, one of Sioux City's famous artists. It is the purpose of this club to bring the students into a closer relationship and to give them a deeper understanding of the fine arts. This object is accomplished by a study and comparison of the old masters and their paintings through the different periods of the world up to the present day.

Readers' Club

OFFICERS

President Jessie Bleecker
 Chairman of House and Program Jane Faragher
 Secretary and Treasurer Lois Boyer
 Adviser J. J. Hayes

The Readers' Club began last fall as an interested group sponsored by Agora and formed by a committee of four, Alice Anderson, chairman, Elsie Gurney, Jessie Bleecker, and Jane Faragher. It is primarily for those who are interested in reading of any sort. At one meeting the members discussed mystery plays, and Professor Hayes, adviser of the club, read one of Edgar Allan Poe's plays. The club has read and discussed short stories, and Professor Hayes has read some very interesting and philosophical examples of modern columnists' writings. Membership is open to all who are interested, and, despite the fact that this is the first year that this club has existed, a good many members have shown literary tendencies.

International Relations Club

OFFICERS

PresidentVictor Schuldt
 Vice-PresidentRoland Huff
 Secretary and Treasurer.....Hobart Mossman

The International Relations Club is a voluntary organization of those who are interested in the subject of national and international affairs. Work has been in conjunction with the Pi Kappa Delta debate proposition for this year. It is difficult to give a great deal of time to club activities because of the rush of school work, yet the members feel that this study is of real value to those who find themselves interested in current events and world problems.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

 Ralph Baker

Following the visit to our campus of Mr. Paul Porter, field secretary of the League for Industrial Democracy, a local chapter of the Liberal Club was organized in Morningside College. The purpose is to study industrial problems in order to develop clear ideas and form rational opinions of the different phases of the economic order. The result is naturally a socialistic attitude, but related to the "new" socialism, minus bombs and false whiskers.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. on our campus this year has attempted to create situations in which all of the girls of Morningside might find themselves growing of their own accord into a fuller and more creative life. We have felt in the Y. W. C. A. that we had a "divine commission to work in the minds and hearts of girls." As we have worked out our program, we have attempted to fasten our minds and sight upon the "Girls-to-grow" rather than on the "Things-to-be-done." So, the aims of the program may be phrased as:

1. To give every girl in school a chance to attain further that quality of life which she really wants.
2. To provide for the fact that her life at its best necessitates God plus her capacities.
3. To provide an outlet of expression for all interests of girls which are not amply taken care of by some other organization in school.
4. To seek to put into practice Christian attitudes in ordinary incidents.

The worship services, social events, education projects, and so on have all been means to these ends.

"We are people adventuring on the road of life."

Agora

Agora, the Women's Self-Governing Association, was organized shortly after the Christmas vacation in 1912 by Miss Agnes Ferguson. At that time the chief aim of the organization was to promote women's athletics, but it has since widened its field in order to gain for the body of girls as a whole all the advantages and opportunities for development that should in the nature of things be obtained in the pursuance of college courses.

The Agora Club includes every girl in school and all women on the faculty. Among its principal duties is that of welcoming and assisting incoming students through the "Big Sister" movement and the various social affairs held from time to time. One of the biggest projects of this year has been the buying of the new pipe-organ for the conservatory.

The Agora Board is made up of officers elected by the entire club, representatives of each class, and committee chairmen.

Y. M. C. A.

Doubtless there have been many reasons for the fact that the association has suffered an untold amount of interest fluctuation this year. Despite the handicaps which at times seemed almost innumerable, the work has progressed in favorable form, and the association believes that a new application of real virile Christianity and its application to life has come to many through their earnest participation in the work in the various departments of the Y. M. C. A.

The weekly program afforded the most outstanding contribution to the school life this year in a religious manner, providing such speakers from leading circles of business and professional life as were available. Topics dealt with racial questions, social conditions, both foreign and domestic, problems of the immediate day, the oncoming church, and the like.

The social side of the association was taken care of with various mixers and parties, especially at the opening of school in the fall. A large group participated in the Gospel Team work, which took them into many of the churches of the city as well as those in the immediate community about Sioux City.

The Association feels that the year has been a most profitable one, but that it can only exist and hope to accomplish any work if the men of the college sustain and share their interest in the work. The tie is close, and the contribution to life-work is valuable.

There have been 1,368 graduates from Morningside College since its foundation. Morningside College Alumni are organized in clubs throughout the land, including organizations in Washington, D. C., New York City, Boston, Seattle, Des Moines, Chicago, and Fort Dodge. During February six new organizations were perfected in Iowa: at Algona, Ida Grove, Sheldon, Spencer, Storm Lake, and Fort Dodge.

Sioux Day was the official name given to Homecoming this year and will continue throughout the years. Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven was speaker at the Sioux Day celebration this year. The largest group of alumni ever to return to Morningside in the fall came in 1929. A new feature, a get-together in the Alumni Gymnasium, was added to the list of attractions.

NOVEMBER

- 14—Bill Danforth urged the boys to sacrifice the Saturday night date, which "doesn't amount to much anyway."
- 15—The campaign of the unwashed starts.
- 16—Dad's Day. At the banquet the toastmaster ended up all square with his incriminating stories. He was well prepared.
- 22—The Sigma Theta's featured Joe Castle in their Grand Public.
- 27—!!! Taxation without representation.

DECEMBER

- 12—Winter Festival—In M Club chapel featured May dance. There were also other acts. Clarey Nash and his fish meet much sales resistance. Only once did the pianist make a mistake and play in the same key as the soloist.
- 13—Winter Festival proper.

JANUARY

- 13—Talk, Talk, Talk—Hot air—Warm air—Cold air. Outpouring from the mouth and not the brain. Yes, debates.
- 15—The Sigma Thetas emerged from the verbosity with the cup. The annual "literary" attempt of the fraternities was again finished.
- 17—A committee, much too large for any danger of getting something done, was assigned to the Honor System problem. The organization thought about getting ready to start to commence to begin to set about a meeting. Further reports.

FEBRUARY

- 8—Open season on prospective pledges closed. Once again it was dangerous to say "Can I borrow your pencil?" for fear of being overheard.
- 14—The Green Sheet made its annual appearance to give the Collegian editor a week off. If the frosh told the truth, Morningside worries are over for three more years.

APRIL

- 30—As the book goes to press we note a startling divergence of opinion—Omar may laud "Wine, women, and song," but the juniors must steer their conversation in saner channels.

Capitalizing Education

In the gradual change of the times, a tendency has developed to spend money too freely.

Greater facilities for learning have helped to make keener minds; and with the proper kind of advice and encouragement, this tendency to be careless in money matters can be changed to one of great good.

The officers of The Toy National Bank are always glad to plan with young folks and they should always feel free to come in with their problems.

We . . .

take pleasure in extending our thanks to the Faculty and Student Body of Morningside College for the opportunities which we have had to serve them in the past.

The management of this business is determined to maintain an organization of men and the mechanical facilities necessary to adequately serve the growing needs of Sioux City and this territory for a thoroughly modern printing service.

As the students of Morningside College enter business and professional life in this community, we hope that we may be privileged to continue these business relationships.

TO A PAST ONE AND ONLY

You looked at me, waltzed with me, talked to me—all a part of your line.
 We do make mistakes pretty often, but I'm through the making of mine.
 It was an awful lot of nonsense, but only a kid that you told.
 Now it's been a whole long year, and we—why, I'm ever so old!
 You spoke soft and liquid Spanish—you made me wonder and dream—
 Was it vows and eternal endearments, or what on earth did it mean?
 Now I know that it's funny, for it's finally over and gone;
 Now I can laugh and play at love, for I am a looker-on.
 Yet I can't help but remember, with mingled laughs and tears—
 While your eyes were awfully loving—you had enormous ears.

Ted: "Your suit is beginning to look ru.ty."
 Johnny: "The tailor shop said it would wear like iron."

He (at the hop): "Why do you dislike that tune so much?"
 She: "It's the theme song for my roommate's bath."

The Referee in Bankruptcy: "When you arranged for that credit you said you and your partner had a hundred thousand dollars between you. Was that statement true?"

Claude Stewart: "Sure it was true. I lived on one side of the Morningside State Bank and Bayard Johnson lived on the other."

THE EDITOR'S LAST WORD

There is, after all, very little for an Editor to say as a "last word" in the book. The last word will come from you for whom it has been prepared. The Editor, rest assured, hands it to you with due trepidation. Perhaps there are parts you would have a bit different, but the staff has truly tried to give you a distinctive book and with your cooperation and aid has it completed for you. Everyone has been most helpful, has burnt, when necessary, the proverbial oil at midnight in order to get copy in on schedule; but, of course, there are those besides the staff who e services merit commendation: Dick Aeck for art work, Olin Doane for aid with the dramatic section, Irene Harvalis for the music section, and Miss Mills and Miss Price for their correcting of copy and general cooperation.

The Youngberg studios have made the finest of pictures for the book; Bierman Engravers have given us excellent service and cooperation; and Verstegen Printers have made every effort to get the book to you on time and bearing superior workmanship.

In finishing this book we sigh gustily in yearning for a few extra pages—but, shekels, where art thou? So please accept it "as is," enjoy it, and remember that you helped with your interest and sympathy to produce it. The staff can but say, "Thank you."
