Choir Returns From Southland Tour

Two chartered busses left Sioux City Sunday, Jan. 25, bearing members of the 60-voice Morningside College a cappella choir on a two-week concert tour of 18 cities in seven states.

The choir presented its opening program Sunday evening, Jan. 25, at Shenandoah, Iowa, and completed its circuit with a performance at Atlantic, Iowa, Feb. 8. In the interim, the organization sang in Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas.

Cities in which concerts were scheduled at schools and churches were Nebraska City and Falls City, Nebr.; Fort Scott, Kan.; Bartlesville, Muskogee, Henryetta, and Oklahoma City, Okla.; Dallas, Greenville, and Texarkana, Tex.; Hope and Little Rock, Ark.; and Joplin, Nevada, Conway, and St. Joseph, Mo. High points were the appearances in huge auditoriums at Oklahoma City and Dallas.

The current tour is the first long one to be made since the recent war. Outbreak of hostilities necessitated discontinuance of the trips, which finally were resumed with a short tour last spring.

Morningside's choir occupies a unique position as one of the pioneer units to specialize in unaccompanied singing. After a fire had destroyed the organ in the college chapel more than 30 years ago, Prof. MacCollin was obliged to direct the choir without accompaniment. Since then the choir has been a recognized leader in the field of a capella singing. Leading music critics throughout the nation have for years given high praise to Prof. MacCollin and his work as a conductor and vocal teacher. His technical mastery of the art of a capella singing is exemplified in the superb performances of the Morningside College Choir.

As a climax to the tour, the choir presented its annual Home Concert on Wednesday evening, Feb. 11, in the Orpheum theater to a large audience, which received the selections offered with great approval. The concert throughout set a high musical standard and was acclaimed as one of the finest ever to be presented by a Morningside choir.

Campus News

Dr. Roadman and Dr. Price, President and Vice-President of Morningside, respectively, are on an extended business trip for the college in the east. They are making New York City their headquarters for the trip, and are expected back at Morningside about the first of March.

Mrs. Lois Grant Palches, poet and humorist, presented a program of her own poems in Grace Methodist Church on the evening of Feb. 12. She also entertained the students with her poetry at chapel in the morning, giving stories of the incidents that form their background. Mrs. Palches, wife of a Methodist minister in Osterville, Mass., is a sister of Mrs. Paul Johnson, whose husband was formerly Dean at Morningside.

A daughter, Ruth Frances, was born to Prof. and Mrs. John Winston on February 6. Prof. Winston is an instructor in the Physics department and Mrs. Winston formerly was assistant in the biology laboratory.

John R. Mook, former Director of Admissions, a representative of the University of Chicago, has been on the Illinois Wesleyan campus some time conducting a study of the individual group relationships. Mr. and Mrs. Mook conduct interviews and examine college records, in order that they may make a study of life on a college campus, from which comparisons can be made between various aspects of the college as a social aggregate, and those of other types of communities. Mr. Mook, a representative for Wesleyan in the Chicago area two years ago, taught at the Pestalozzi-Froebel teachers college, and served as vocational guidance counselor at the Columbia College Veteran's Administration guidance center.

A faculty of 28 persons, 13 regular faculty members and 15 professional men from Sioux City, are instructors for an enlarged list of night classes offered the second semester for students at the college. One of the newest courses added to the evening curriculum is a class in subatomic physics, which is being taught by Prof. Myron Graber, head of the physics department.

The Faculty Women's club sponsored a valentine dinner Saturday evening Feb. 14, at Morningside Presbyterian church for all members and their husbands. Follow-community singing, Leo Kucinski entertained the group with a number of violin selections. Informal games concluded the entertainment.

McIsaac; Frank Mossman (deceased); Hans Nissen (deceased); Dr. Alexander Ruthven; D. M. Simpson; Lorne Smylie, A. R. Toothaker, and Mrs. E. M. Buchner (Pearl Woodford). One tree was planted for each member of the class. An earlier planting was financed by the class several years ago but the trees died during the drought years of 1936 and 1937.

New Series of Broadcasts Inaugurated

The Morningside College Chapter of University Professors, in cooperation with radio station KTRI (Sioux City), is inaugurating a series of weekly broadcasts designed to help clarify current developments in the economic, political and scientific fields. Our modern civilization has become so complex and the parts thereof so interdependent, that it is impossible for any one man to fully understand the various actions and reactions of its laws and customs. It becomes more and more necessary to listen to, and trust in, the beliefs and opinions of men who have made a career of specialized learning in the fields of economics, of science, of sociology, of national and international political thought and action.

It is in an effort to widen the circle of influence of such men that the Morningside Chapter of the American Association of University Professors is sponsoring this series of informative and explanatory discussions of current problems. You, your family, and your friends are cordially invited to listen to these programs every Sunday evening at 7:45, over station KTRI, Sioux City, Iowa.

Rubinstein Concert Musical Treat

True passion coupled with old world dignity and charm stood out as marked attributes of the playing of Arthur Rubinstein, Polish born American pianist, whose every movement on the keyboard seemed to be of definite finality bespeaking knowledge and love of music. Mr. Rubinstein presented a concert at the Orpheum theater on Monday evening, Feb. 2, as a number on the Sioux City Civic Concert Course.

Favorite Professor Is E. S. Richards

In the February, 1948, issue of the N. E. A. Journal, under "Our Readers Write" column in response to the question "What college teacher meant most to you in your professional preparation?" the following answer from a former student was printed:

"E. C. Richards of Willamette University, Salem Oregon, was a professor of English whose precision in subject matter was tempered but not weakened by an unflinching expectation of the best from his students. His example is my daily guide in my own classroom.—Louise Anderson! Professor Richards graduated from Morningside in the class of 1899.

Building Named For Dr. Insko

Paying tribute to the long-time services of Dr. Myron Insko, Goodwill executive-secretary and a graduate of Morningside in 1914, Richard A. Nelson, president of the Industries, officially named the new edifice the "Myron Insko Building."

ALUMNI WHO'S WHO

The "Cited for Service" page in the January "Construction Methods" was devoted to an account of Dwight Winkelman's far-flung construction activities. Now, as president of the Associated General Contractors of America, he will be busier than ever.

Dwight's interest in his Alma Mater was shown in a constructive way when he presented a $10,000 gift to Morningside College in 1944 to be used as a scholarship and loan fund. This Alumni Scholarship Fund, as it is now designated, provides the funds for the Alumni Scholarships which are given each semester to the outstanding graduates of Sioux City high schools.

The following article is reprinted from the article in "Construction Methods."

"Polo-Playing Contractors are scarce, so Dwight W. Winkelman head of D. W. Winkelman Co., Inc., Syracuse, N. Y., is in a class by himself in this respect. He not only plays polo but he rides to the hounds, hunts, wields a wicked iron in the fairways, and maintains two big homes at Lake Skaneateles, near Syracuse, and at Southern Pines, N. C. Just a playboy? Far from it, for he is one of the most successful, hardest working and most conscientious contractors in business today. Being elected president of the Associated General Contractors of America, to take office at the Dallas convention in February, is indicative of how he rates in the contracting industry.

"Winkelman was born at Lohrville, Ia., of Dutch-English parents, which early qualified him for the nickname of "Dutch." Upon graduation he went to work for Minder & Cain, Minnesota contractors, on jobs way down South.

"In 1927 Dutch struck out for himself by taking subcontracts for paving, sewers and water lines on Palm Island, off Miami's shores in Biscayne Bay. Work soon folded up in Florida, so he struck North, eventually settling down in Syracuse, where he formed his present company in 1934.

"Dutch has a passion for good equipment well maintained and well balanced. Thus, when the war construction program broke, he was in good shape to handle a big share of it. His wartime jobs ranged from the big bomber base at Syracuse southward to an airport at Natchez, Miss., and landing strips at New Orleans. Most interesting, however, was his work at the atom bomb plant at Oak Ridge, Tenn. Here, under some 30 separate contracts, he did general grading, built roads and railroads, operated a quarry, and installed utilities. Despite the uncertainties of construction during this period, he did all work on a straight contract basis, scorning fixed-fee arrangements.

"Busy as he was during the War, he found time to serve on the Industry Advisory Committee, WPB, and later went to Europe to investigate German construction operations at the request of the Chief of Staff. His president of three affiliated construction firms in Syracuse, and his outside activities include that of a bank director and a trustee of Syracuse University.

"Winkelman has long been interested in A. G. C. affairs. He is a director of the Carolinas Branch, where he does a lot of road work, served for two years as president of the New York State Chapter, and is a member of the Mississippi Flood Control at Memphis. For the national association, of which he is now vice-president, he has held numerous official and committee jobs.

"Dutch is constantly fighting for the betterment of construction, especially through closer cooperation between engineers and contractors. He advocates clear and fair specifications, and a sane interpretation of them by field engineers, in interests of better and lower cost construction. Also, he has little patience with design frills that add nothing but cost to a project.

"This smiling little Dutchman from Syracuse is a great asset to construction, and the A. G. C., will be stronger because of his leadership this coming year."

He completed his junior year at Morningside in 1924 and was graduated in Business Administration from the University of Iowa in 1925.

The name of Winkelman is familiar to a legion of friends and classmates at Morningside, for Dwight's two sisters, Eleanor and Frances, and his brother, Ewart, attended Morningside.

It would seem that the same spirit of friendliness and initiative which characterized Dwight in college has made him highly successful in business. "Dutch" was everyone's friend, as is proven by the statement from the college annual of his time: "We all like him because there isn't anything in him not to like."

Schwarz Dinner Promotes Fellowship

As a practical example of what the Cosmopolitan Club, an international organization existing in all parts of the world, is trying to do on our campus, the news-gatherer, in the guise of Prof. Van Horne, sent the Alumni Office the following account of the Thanksgiving dinner at the Schwarz Cafe. The purpose of this club is to further friendship, harmony, and understanding among students of all nations. Today more than ever before, we are realizing that being cosmopolitan minded is the only solution to remedy the world's crises.

A casual passerby would have thought the Schwarz restaurant closed on Thanksgiving day, but if he had been inquisitive enough to peep through the key hole he would have seen a bee hive of culinary activity.

The fact is that every Thanksgiving day since Mr. and Mrs. Schwarz have been in our midst they have reserved this day as a very special occasion. The foreign students and others far from home have been their guests and have enjoyed the hospitality of a traditional American family get together.

Abundance of turkey with trimmings for the physical well being, deep spiritual grace, timely speeches, music and sleight of hand performance made for that heart warming feeling of "We Belong."

This year Mr. Miguel Kourany acted as master of ceremonies. Grace was spoken by Albert Goh; Yosindo Shibuya, Gabriel Kourany, and Bob Kail furnished Spanish music; Mr. Merlin Willis gave a sleight of hand demonstration. Mr. Kourany spoke of the wonderful spirit of Mr. and Mrs. Schwarz that prompted them to bring together those of different races and creeds.

Mr. Schwarz was called upon and said that many different kinds and colors of flowers made a beautiful flower garden and that all mankind, working as a unit could make this world like a flower garden. However, just as a storm can destroy a flower garden, so can the clouds of hate destroy the peaceful and spiritual progress of mankind.

Over 25 guests thank you, Mr. and Mrs. Schwarz, for the wonderful feast and the spiritual uplift.

AGORA DINNER HELD AT MAYFAIR

The annual formal Leadership dinner of the Agora Club was held in the Banquet Room of the Mayfair Hotel, Feb. 12, under the direction of Miss Alva Tolf, Dean of Women.

Every year Agora Club selects a woman who, in the opinion of members, is a community leader and has achieved distinction in her own field. This year, Mrs. Louise Freese was the honored guest and speaker. Her talk on "Essential Qualities of Leadership" impressed upon her audience the need for capable women leaders today. Then, stating that the world at present is "all too much as man's world," she proceeded to illustrate that universal needs today—charity, kindness and understanding—can more easily and should be supplied by women.

Past honored women, student leaders and members of the college faculty also were guests at the formal dinner. Miss Myrtle Geake of Wall Lake, senior and president of Agora, was toastmistress.

PETERSON SIGNS WITH NEW YORK GIANTS

Howard Peterson, all-conference tackle in 1946 and recently elected president of the Morningside student body, signed last week to play for the New York Giants of The National Professional Football League. "Big Pete" will be one of six "rookie" tackles to report to the Giants for tryouts when fall training opens in mid-August. Four of the six stick during the season and the Giants are confident Peterson will make the grade. So are all of his friends at Morningside.

Les Davis, who coached Howard both at East High and Morningside, commented, "He's exceptionally fast for a big man, and that's what they want in pro ball." Big Pete is 6 feet 3 inches tall, and weighs 240 pounds. He had 3½ years service with the Marines, including 13 months overseas. He will graduate from Morningside this June.

Maroons Find The Going Rough

It was North Central conference victory No. 2 when the Maroons defeated the North Dakota State Bison 59 to 47 at Alumni gym on January 17. The game was a tight spiningling battle all the way to the automatic timeout. The Bison faded at that juncture, and the Maroons stretched a fourpoint lead into a 12-point victory. Forward Henry Langstraat was the big gun in the Morningside attack, punching in seven baskets and five free throws to total 19 points, high for the evening.

The Maroons' hopes for a second consecutive loop crown were blasted by a red hot Iowa State Teachers team who defeated them 71 to 49 on January 24. Traveling at breakneck speed and hitting from all angles, the flashy visitors simply overpowered the Maroons. Although never in the lead, the scrappy Maroons remained in the game until the half when they trailed by only seven points, 30 to 23. But the second stanza proved a decidedly different tale with the tiring hosts relinquishing 41 points to the Panthers. Center Clayton Bristow was the leading scorer for the Maroons with six field goals and one free throw for 13 points.

The Maroons returned to the victory column on their home floor by turning on a third period spurt and then weathering a fourth stanza rally to whip a visiting Buena Vista Beaver quintet 53 to 44 on January 31, and avenging an earlier defeat. The tilt was a seesaw affair during the first half with the game changing hands 11 times before guard Bob ("Red") Norris canned a one-hander to push the host club into a 23 to 22 advantage, a lead Morningside never relinquished. Again it was center Clayton Bristow who was high point man for the Maroons with 16 points.

A newcomer to the Maroon ranks, Dick Wiedenfeld—6 foot 5 inch center who transferred from Creighton university at the beginnig of the second semester, made his debut against the University of South Dakota on the Coyote home floor on Feb. 6. Despite this additional height and scoring punch, a blazing Coyote team swamped the Maroons 79 to 52 for the first conference basektball victory over the Maroons since 1943. The Maroon quintet held its own during most of the first period when the North Central rivals traded baskets, but slowly fell behind while the Coyotes continued burning the nets with unbelievable shots. The Maroons lost two of the heavies in their attack via the foul route. Clayton Bristow, whose 13 points sparked the Maroon scoring, and forward Bob Downing, another consistent scorer, fouled out in the third and fourth stanzas, respectively. Wiedenfeld scored 11 points in his first game for the Maroons and received the praise of many Maroon followers.

The Maroons lost their fourth conference game of the season as the Jackrabbits of South Dakota State trounced them 62 to 49 on the maples of Alumni gym on February 10. The Jacks seemingly scored at will and although the deficit sometimes mounted to 14 points against them, the Maroons narrowed the Jacks' lead to one point early in the fourth quarter, but their aspirations were dashed on quick fielders by Jim Schmidt. Outstanding performance of the evening was turned in by the Maroons' guard, Bob Norris, who held the league's leading scorer, Jim Schmidt, to 14 points, the least he has scored in any conference game this season. The Maroon's Henry Langstraat was back in uniform after missing the Coyote game due to an injury suffered in the Buena Vista tilt. Usually high scorer for the Maroons, his timing was off and he missed many shots at the cords. Dick Wiedenfeld, skyscraping center, was high point man for the Maroons with 13 points.

An aggressive band of Coyotes from South Dakota university came from behind in the fourth quarter to blast an equally ambitious Maroon quintet 60 to 47 in a wild and exciting North Central conference game at Alumni gym on February 17. The fourth quarter stamina of the Maroons, who led most of the way, lagged and the Coyotes singed the nets with 19 points. The best in scoring that the Maroons could offer was Clayton Bristow's 13 points. Guard Wally Piper, a new addition to the varsity from the "B" squad, won the praise of the crowd for his outstanding defensive playing.

The Maroons with victory in sight and almost in hand fumbled away their lead in the closing seconds of the game with Omaha university on February 20 and suffered a 44 to 42 scalping from the Indians. The Indians staged a spectacular home stretch sprint to erase a 13 point deficit and rush in the winning basket with 13 seconds remaining. Clayton Bristow, who alternated at the forward and center positions, collected 14 points for individual scoring honors for the evening. Basil Brock, who has shifted to a forward post from his guard position, scored 11 markers.

ATTENTION!

All Morningsiders in or near Chicago are cordially invited to attend a Morningside reunion on Tuesday, March 2. Dr. Roadman, now in the East, plans to be present. If anyone fails to receive notice of the meeting, call Mrs. Fern Black, 6033 Woodlawn Ave., for the time and place.

Two Members Added To Faculty

Two additions have been made to the staff of Morningside's English department. Robert Earle Graham, from Liverpool, New York, and Miss Ethel Rasmussen of Flassmoor, Ill., assumed their duties in the English department at the beginning of this semester.

Mr. Graham attended Saint Lawrence University, Canton, New York, in preparation for his work at Syracuse University, Syracuse, New York, where he was awarded his Bachelor's degree with a major in English and psychology. After serving three years in the Army, he returned to receive his M. A. degree in 1947.

Miss Rasmussen graduated from the University of Chicago in 1944 with a B. A. degree in history. She received her M. A. in Medieval and United States History from the same institution in 1947.

MORNINGSIDER DIRECTORY

Addresses of some alumni and many ex-students, especially of those students in the early classes, are unknown or incorrect. If you know the address of any of these "lost" students, you will be doing your friend and us a favor by sending the correct information to the Alumni Office.

Ex-students are listed below the alumni in each class and designated by Ex before the first name.

NEW SCIENCE HALL NOW OCCUPIED WILL BE DEDICATED MAY 31

Fundamentally, the New Jones Science Hall is completed. There are several finishing touches yet to be added, but the new building is in use. The date of final completion is indefinite, but it is hoped that all construction will be finished in the near future.

Commencement Day has been designated as the time of Formal Dedication and at this time the New Science Hall will be open for public inspection. It is anticipated that Mr. A. W. Jones, the donor for whom the Science Hall was named, will be present at the dedication.

The first week of February found the three major sciences, biology, chemistry, and physics, in the process of moving into their new quarters. The Biology Department has completed the major portion of its moving and is at present holding all of its classes and laboratories on the second floor of the new building. At some date in the near future the Physics Department will complete its moving. However, at the present time only part of the physics classes are being held in the New Science Hall.

Dr. Black, professor of Chemistry, and the chemistry department are doubtful as to the date when they will be able to occupy their new quarters on the third floor. The delay of the chemistry department's occupancy of the Science Hall is due to a delay in delivery date of laboratory desks.

Lectures are being held in the Chemistry Lecture Hall of the new building. However, Dr. Black states that unless unforeseen circumstances occur, the Chemistry Department will be moved into the Science Hall by the time of Formal Dedication.

Miss Smith, professor of Home Economics, said that while her department is not completely equipped it is now in practical operation. The Foods Laboratory and Clothing Laboratory are in classroom use, and Miss Smith expects that with the delivery of minor equipment, the department will be completed. The only major sections of the Home Economics Department remaining unfinished are two rooms which will be used and decorated as "home living and dining rooms."
