The National Intercollegiate Baseball Story

By John J. Knight
Past President, NAIA

The only justification for a national athletic organization must be found in the service it can render its member institutions. Because of the keen awareness of the leaders of the problems of the small colleges in promoting a good program of intercollegiate athletics under the banner of NAIA, the services of the organization have been greatly expanded over the past few years.

In the expansion program of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics a broad national events program began to take shape. Track and field, tennis, and golf were first promoted with the national tournament in each at Abilene, Texas in the spring of 1952. By 1956 there was a great demand for football to be included in national competition and this demand was met. Swimming, baseball and cross country were included in the national competition in 1957. The next year wrestling came into the picture as a sponsored event. The last sport to come under the sponsorship of NAIA was soccer in the fall of 1959, with the meet conducted at Slippery Rock, Pennsylvania.

The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics has encouraged its member institutions to broaden their sports programs so that they may give an opportunity for more students with diversified interests and special abilities to compete in intercollegiate athletics. It has been the aim of the organization to encourage the development of athletic programs on a sound educational basis. Only on the principle that athletics makes a contribution to education can the intercollegiate program be justified.

To assist in bringing athletics into proper perspective it has been necessary to adopt certain standards and pass rules to guide the individual programs. These have been generally accepted as a means for equalizing competition and not as a way of curtailing competition.

Much effort has been exerted to bring athletic coaches and directors professional recognition. This has resulted in rather general recognition of athletic personnel as responsible faculty persons. Acceptance as members of the college educational staff has brought with it educational responsibilities. It has become increasingly necessary for the intercollegiate staff to recognize these responsibilities and exert every effort to fulfill them.

An outstanding example of an effort to bring better understanding among persons responsible for institutional control of athletics was the Workshop on Intercollegiate Athletics held February 16 and 17, 1960 at Indiana, Pennsylvania. This workshop was largely the result of the labor of Dr. Will Orr, Chairman of the Presidents Advisory Committee, Al Duer, and Ross Merrick. Through their excellent planning and effective leadership the workshop was most successful. It proved invaluable in explaining the philosophy of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics. Presidents, trustees, deans of instruction and athletic personnel from 28 institutions came together to discuss common problems and the results of their deliberations was a general acceptance by each institution of its responsibility for a just administration of the athletic program. It is hoped that the Pennsylvania workshop will serve as a model for other districts to emulate.

From the early days of NAIB, when Emil Liston was able to run the affairs of the organization from his "vest pocket" to today when there is ever increasing need for most detailed organization to furnish the service essential for the program, great administrative changes have been made. To meet the demand of the rapidly expanding organization the office was moved to Kansas City in 1957, personnel was added to the headquarters staff and more persons became involved on the various committees. The staff in the national office is under the able leadership of Al Duer, Executive Secretary-Treasurer and Ed Garich, Director of Public Relations. Much of the detail of the office is conducted by Madeline Ramsey, the very efficient secretary.

Many persons render invaluable service to the organization on a part time basis. Without the service of the Executive Committee members and the members of many standing and special committees the work could not be accomplished. The association is deeply indebted to these men for the great service rendered without any thought of remuneration.

The annual meeting held at the time of the national basketball tournament in Kansas City furnishes an opportunity for the district representatives to meet, discuss and pass on issues considered essential to the program of NAIA. The understanding gained from meeting with district chairmen and the various national committees forms the basis for most Executive Committee action.

It is the responsibility of the national organization to create a program at the national level which is in conformance with the desires of the majority of the membership. It is only through the active participation of the membership in the program and the presenting of ideas and suggestions that this can be accomplished. Much has been done in the past. More remains to be done in the future.

Morningside College

Proudly We Host the 1960 NAIA National Baseball Competition

Morningside college accepts the premise that intercollegiate competition can have a positive value for higher education in general. We believe the principles on which NAIA is based and for which it stands offer the best promise for making this potential value real. We are proud to be host to the 1960 National Intercollegiate Baseball Championship.

A top-flight faculty, a Christian educational purpose and the backing of a solid municipal constituency have made Morningside college one of the leading independent institutions of higher education in the midwest. Between 300 and 400 freshmen begin their college careers here each year. They are becoming part of an increasingly select student body.

What Kids Baseball Means to Sioux City

Millions of people can't be wrong, at least, not about baseball being the national sport.

Baseball stands for a mushrooming phenomenon that is more than a college or professional sport, as parents all over the nation ameshed in it's toils have become to know through the various baseball programs.

The official rule book states: "Baseball is a game between two teams of nine players each with sufficient substitutes and coaches under the direction of a manager played in agreement with these rules under the authority of an umpire and umpires on a regulation field." Is that all there is to baseball, or is it a professional team playing under the lights or before a T. V. Camera, or is it a farm boy throwing a ball against a farm building or is it a small boy and his father playing catch in the backyard.

Baseball is all of these and more.

In Sioux City the beginning of baseball is the Sioux City Kids Baseball Program (probably better known as Little League). This program was organized in Sioux City in 1954 under the sponsorship of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The Little League program has steadily grown from 10 teams with 125 boys ages 10 through 12 in 1954 to 40 teams with 750 boys in 1960. The number of teams this year had to be limited to 40 due to the lack of available playing fields. During the week only five diamonds are available: two at Leif Erickson Park, and one each at Morningside Lutheran Church, Kelly Park and Sioux City Air Base. On Saturday afternoons double headers are played on all of these fields plus Gilman terrace, Hedington Park, Hubbard Park, Morningside Athletic Field and Lyons Park. This allows each team to play two games per week. The City Council has recognized this inadequacy and are in the process of building nine Little League diamonds and four Babe Ruth diamonds, which should be ready for use about the 1st of July this year.

In October 1959 the Little League changed it's name to the Sioux City Kids Baseball Association, and became an independent organization no longer under the sponsorship of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Little League or Sioux City Kids Baseball program in Sioux City owes its existence to the team managers, parents, and business men who sponsor the teams.

The team managers are the backbone of the organization. The managers and coaches are men and women who donate their time to teach the boys the fundamentals of baseball, the discipline of baseball and knit the boys together as a team instead of individual ball players. Many boys have to be taught the art of losing as well as winning, using the old adage, "It is not whether you won or lost that counts, but how you played the game." The managers also double as League Officers. The managers job is not an easy one and is not over in August, but continues through the winter months as there is always a great deal to be done between August and May of each year in order to have a successful program. Many managers have given up their vacations to be with their teams and keep the program going. The managers wives also play a big part in this program and a lot of credit must be given to them as they help out as assistant managers, score keepers, etc. or become baseball widows during the summer months.

The parents part in this program is more than washing dirty uniforms. They must get the boys to practice and games on time, drive the boys to the games and support their teams.

The sponsors are business men who pay a fee which buys the uniforms for the teams. In return they not only receive the advertising by having their names on the uniforms, but also receive the satisfaction that they have a part in making this program for the boys possible.

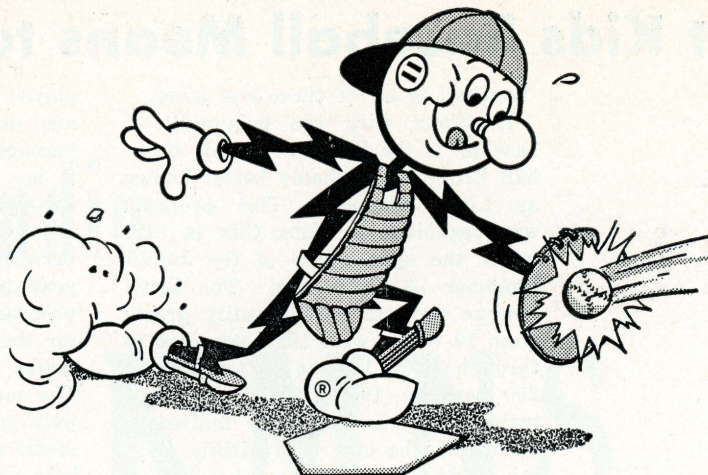

All of these people together not just the teams, managers, coaches and umpires make up the Sioux City Kids Baseball program.

If you have had a part in this program no matter how small someday when you are watching a T. V. broadcast of a major league game you may be able to point to one of the players with pride and say, "I had a part in making him a big leaguer. I sponsored his team where he learned to play baseball, or I drove him to several ball games, or I did my part in building a ball park in Sioux City for him to play, or I was the manager of the team where he learned to play the game." You can say this with just as much pride as a parent in the stands says, "That's my boy".

That to us of the Sioux City Kids Baseball Association is BASEBALL.

A Sizzler!

That's the story of your growing use of gas and electricity and why it's necessary to invest another $25 MILLION in the next 5 years to keep up with you!

Every time you buy a new appliance and plug it in you are ordering extra electricity! The same is true for gas. And everyone, it seems, is buying more and more help-giving appliances.

Our records show the use of electricity has actually DOUBLED in the last ten years. But that's nothing compared with the future. In another ten years you'll be using TWICE AS MUCH ELECTRICITY AS YOU USE TODAY. That's why we at IPS must continually plan ahead and build for your gas and electric future . . . to the tune of about $25 MILLION in the next five years!

The N. A. I. A. Baseball Championships were inaugurated in 1957 on an invitational basis. Sul Ross State College in Alpine, Texas, was host to the first tournament and has continued to render this service to N. A. I. A. each year since.

Century Club, Inc.

A club to be known as The Century Club was incorporated March 10, 1960 for the purpose of underwriting the N. A. I. A. National Baseball Tournament. R. G. "Honie" Rogers was elected president of the newly formed club. Joe Weir, Treasurer, and A. W. Buckingham, Secretary.

Some $16,000 in pledges were signed by business and professional men. These pledges were $100.00 each or multiples of $100. It is hoped that the tournament will be a success so that none of the money pledged will have to be used.

Greetings from the National Association

The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics and its 460 member Universities and Colleges wishes to extend its greetings to Sioux City, its Junior Chamber of Commerce, and its Century Club, along with the other leaders and workers who have done so much to make it the wonderful city it is. We have been looking forward with keen anticipation to this N. A. I. A. baseball tournament and to the associations attached thereto. N. A. I. A. is grateful to the civic-minded citizens of the City for their interest in our organization and in baseball as a sport.

Changing the site of the tournament has resulted in greatly increased interest in baseball, and this should have the effect of raising even further the quality of the teams entered, giving the people of Sioux City an opportunity to witness some of the best baseball played at the collegiate level in the United States.

N. A. I. A. hopes sincerely that this event will mark the beginning of along and mutually beneficial relationship with Sioux City, the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Century Club. We feel that your people share with us the desire to promote amateur athletics on a sound basis for the young men of the United States, and we hope that this N. A. I. A. Baseball Championship Tournament will become an even more effective tool in the accomplishment of this most worthy objective. Play ball!
