ARGUMENT

The ancestral estate of Prince Chan is held in trust until the Feast of Little Lanterns, when it shall be given to any two children surviving. Princess Chan, having lost her brother and sister when they were children, sorrows at having to leave her home. Wee Ling, her maid, brings to entertain her a Japanese Juggler. Mai Ku comes from the place with the announcement that the Princess' sister is alive and near. A locket and half a coin are found belonging to Mai Ku, which matches one worn by the Princess, proving that they are sisters.
