EDITORIAL COMMENT

This Alumni News Letter is the last one which I shall have the pleasure of editing. During the three years which have passed we have had the pleasure of seeing the Alumni News Letter grow from a small two-sheet affair to the twelve-page magazine that it is now. This growth has been made possible through the cooperation of alumni and ex-students in sending in material and their dues. Just these few lines are necessary to express my appreciation for the way in which you as former Morningsiders have cooperated in sending information regarding those in whom the readers are interested. Last year the Register of Graduates was published as nearly complete as was possible to get it. We have endeavored to correct the files so that each alumnus and ex-student would receive a copy of the paper. If your address is not correct, send us the correction so that we may place it in our files. We are anxious that as these papers continue they may grow into one of your most popular reading magazines.

Fellow Alumni and Ex-Students:

Perhaps you have missed the Alumni News Letter the last few months. We hope you have. At the outset of our program for the year we definitely decided that we were going to operate within our means. We opened our year with a deficit in our alumni treasury of approximately three hundred dollars. This deficit has been carried over for years. In order to eliminate the deficit and the possibility of another deficit in our alumni treasury, we chose to omit two issues of the News Letter. Frankly, we hope you have missed them,—missed them to the extent that next year, or better yet—this spring, each one of you will send in your dollar for your Alumni dues.

Much speculation has been going on as to the future outlook of Morningside. Permit me to say that in view of the retardation of general business thruout the country, Morningside College is doing a splendid job. Although the old school has certain pressing obligations which must be met, a condition prevalent in most businesses today, the financial situation of the college has never been in as healthy condition as it is at present. A strong attempt is being made to wipe out all current indebtedness before the new President takes office. This can be done, provided every Alumnus, Ex-student and Friend feels his responsibility to do his best for Morningside.

Here's our slogan for the coming months—"Every Alumnus to Secure a New Student for Morningside!" The importance of this cannot be overestimated. If this were actually done, a sufficient working capital would be made available. Our obligation is to get that young fellow, that young girl in our respective communities to go to Morningside. Sell them the idea and ideals of Morningside College—so that when fall rolls around we shall have the finest dormitory in the country filled to capacity, enthusiastic fraternities packed with fine men, and a general student body radiating the "old Morningside spirit."

C. E. EERKES,
President of Alumni Association.

Busy Athletic Season This Spring

TRACK PROSPECTS BRIGHT

Track prospects at Morningside College were somewhat dimmed last year when three of the "Four Horsemen" graduated, which left the dashes more or less in the hands of Kettle and his alternate, Herbert Bones. Both these men are making good time in the short dashes. Van Wyngarden, hurdler, and Smith, hurdler, joined the relay team to help take a first place at Drake in the Iowa College section. The relay time placed them in third place in the finals. Kettle ran the 100 yards in 10 seconds flat to nose out Jarrett, fleet North Dakota runner, at the Drake Relays. Captain Gotlob took a second in the javelin throw. In the distances the Wilcox brothers have made some pretty good time and should place in the next meet with South Dakota University. Garber, pole-vaulter, is expected to make several points in the next two meets, as he vaulted over 11 feet and has continued to better his height each week. The University of South Dakota meet is an annual affair and will be held some time this week. A wet track has postponed the meet several days. Coach Saunderson will enter several men in the annual North Central meet the last Saturday in May. Coach Honie Rogers has scheduled several meets including one with the Western Union College varsity. Several Frosh runners have shown class in the dashes including Fritts of Sheldon, Goodman of Correctionville, Gill of Merrill, and Weinheimer of Merrill. Venson of Chicago is also one of the outstanding speedsters. Several men have shown ability in the distances. Frosh track material looks good with prospects for a great varsity squad for next year.

FOOTBALL COMMENT

It is just a trifle early in the season to predict what may happen out on College Field next fall in the way of football victories, but as we look over the candidates for the varsity it may be seen that there are some very fine prospects ready to don the moleskin. A rather successful season last year give Maroon hopes a boost; nine of the thirteen lettermen are returning for another season. Coach Saunderson will find a veteran first team lined up for him with a group of reserves that should see lots of action next fall. Captain Mark McLarnan, ex-Captain Fletcher Kettle, Eldred Raun, and Albert Vander Wilt are the four lettermen receiving sheepskins in June.

Spring football practice smoothed out some of the defects which are often found in developing new men and will develop a winning eleven for next fall. Backfield candidates who will return for the fall campaign are Bones and Smith, halfbacks; Haenfler, fullback, and a list of reserve material which includes Barker, Sherwood, Venson, and Haviland. Bolstered with a lot of line material, Saundy should have both a great defensive and a great offensive team. Three tackles, Wyant, Hutchinson, and Gottlob; two guards, Popevis and Lewis; two centers, Nash and Asmussen; and one end, Hall, are the experienced men returning. From the Freshman teams there will be a host of good material, some of which will become varsity caliber. The North Central schedule will be complete, the Maroons meeting every team in the circuit.

EXTENSIVE AND SUCCESSFUL FORENSIC SEASON DURING 1931

Forensically this has been a great year for Morningside College. Among the one hundred thirty-two Pi Kappa Delta schools that are located in all parts of the United States, Morningside ranks first in total honors won at the last three national conventions of the organization. This fact was published in the "Forensic," the official publication of Pi Kappa Delta; so wherever Morningside forensic stars went this last year, they were confronted with an excellent reputation. The caliber of the work, however, not only maintained but improved the reputation that had been previously established, and the Morningside speakers gave all their opponents some real competition.

The debate schedule this last season was one of the biggest that Morningside has attempted in recent years. The usual number of debates was held, and many of these were conducted in a different manner. Some of the debate teams were mixed, having one speaker from each school on a team, and some were co-educational. The Oregon plan of debate was tried, and the debate plus open forum plan was also used. The Pi Kappa Delta question concerning the adoption of a policy of free trade was used for most of the debates.

The second week in March a group of four debaters accompanied by the coach, Prof. John W. Parlette, journeyed into Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Ohio, where they waxed eloquent on the Unemployment Insurance proposition. While on this trip the speakers met representatives from seven different colleges and universities, and traveled more than two thousand miles.

As a fitting climax to the forensic season, Morningside acted as host to the biennial Provincial Convention of Pi Kappa Delta, March 26, 27, and 28. Over eighty students and coaches from the twelve colleges of the Sioux Province were officially registered, and the entire third floor of the Main Hall was used for convention purposes. Debate, extempore, and oratorical contests were the main events of the three-days meeting. Morningside was ably represented in the men's and women's debate and extempore contests and in the men's oratorical battle. While Yankton College carried off the convention honors, Morningside placed in the men's oratory and the women's extempore contests.

Much of the credit for Morningside's successful forensic endeavors should go to Professor Parlette, who not only ar-

Fraternities of Morningside College

By Dr. M. E. Graber

The fraternities of Morningside College were organized in the fall of 1924. Three of them existed previously as literary societies, but they had ceased to function as such for many years. In 1926 a fourth fraternity, the Sigma Theta Rho, was organized. All four fraternities have made significant contributions to the social, artistic, forensic, and athletic life of the school.

During the early years of their existence pledging was postponed until the first part of the second semester, and an average grade of C was required for fraternity membership. This year a new plan was put into operation which seems to have worked out very satisfactorily. All four fraternities have voted its continuation for next year. According to this plan the freshman men were pledged at the opening of the first semester and initiated into their respective fraternities early in the second semester. The advantages accruing, according to the fraternity men themselves, were: (1) A saving of time for both the fraternity men and the pledges. (2) A material reduction in the cost of stags and rushing. (3) The giving of more emphasis to scholarship and the maintenance of closer supervision over the scholastic standing of pledges. (4) A greater activity in student promotion for the personal advantage of fraternity members as well as for the welfare of the school.

Another phase of fraternity progress has been the gradual reduction of the severity of the informal initiations. Secretaries of the best national fraternities now characterize the old-time procedure as "archaic" and as "belonging to the kindergarten." They advocate complete elimination from the informal initiation of such activities as are familiarly known among students as "horse play" and "roughneck technique."

The Interfraternity Council under the Dean of Men, has enacted some very constructive legislation governing fraternities, and the prospects for the future are for a much improved status. The Dean of Men has proposed and initiated a program of revision of present practices in initiatory procedure, fraternity regulation, scholarship, and finance plans of the fraternities which promises to be thoroughly modern, constructively social, and sanely educational. The Board of Trustees and the faculty, through their committees on Fraternities, are working with the Dean of Men and the Interfraternity Council on the inauguration of these plans.

The next step in the line of progress will be the nationalization of our local fraternities, which has been duly sanctioned by the administration and the Board of Trustees to occur at such time as each fraternity is entirely free from debt. The past year has been an especially difficult one for these organizations because of the general financial stringency and consequent lack of work for students. We hope for better days ahead in this respect.

Beautiful Residence Quarters For Women

The Women's Residence Halls located one block west of the Athletic Field on Peters Avenue is one of the most beautiful and complete homes for students in this section of the Middle West. Alumni and ex-students who have not visited the structure have no idea what this addition means to Morningside College. Naturally it has eliminated all boarding clubs, making an entirely new environment for girls. One of the most completely modern kitchens makes it possible for members of the group living there to receive the highest quality of food. Dining-room service that competes with the best of hotels is a feature, groups of eight girls sitting together at the meal, with a hostess for each table.

The rooms are equipped with single beds, rocking-chairs, a study table, a dresser, large closet room, and lights. Service of a registered nurse is available at all times, a part of her duty being the inspection of rooms and a checkup on the girl's health each day. The girls furnish their own towels, curtains, and bed covers. Pressing rooms are available for the girls, giving them practically all the services of their own home. Reception rooms are provided where company may be entertained. A large drawing-room is used for house-meetings and social events. Vesper services are held twice each week in this spacious drawing-room near the beautiful fireplace. Parties and social events are directed by the Social Director of the Dormitory. Several formal events are held each year which give the students an opportunity to be at home in every possible event. Teas, dinners, parties, formals, and social affairs make an interesting social program for the girls.

Regulated hours for the students make it possible for concentrated study in the rooms. Quiet hours are enforced during the afternoon and evening. Student government has been worked out effectively so that any disturbance is taken care of by the Women's Governing Association. House meetings are held each week where announcements of coming events are given. General business of the dormitory is taken care of at these meetings.

Much of the social life of the girls is built around the Dormitory, but the three societies of the school maintain their halls on the third floor of Main Hall. These groups are one of the strong features of student organization in Morningside College administer to the happiness of the girls.

Athletics, forensics, music, and social life of the college are represented by members of the Dormitory. Many of the leaders of the school have become so because of the leadership and possibilities the Halls give them. The girls that live in the Residence Halls are truly represented in all the activities of the school, with the average of grades of girls living there on a par with all those living outside.

Alumni and ex-students of Morningside College can help the College materially if they will pick out girls of the caliber that are representative of the type now living in the Dormitory. They are the typical Morningside girl.

Dr. Frank E. Mossman Resigns Presidency of Morningside College

President Frank E. Mossman, head of Morningside College for the past thirteen years, has handed in his resignation to take effect the first of September. The Board of Trustees has accepted the resignation, but has chosen no successor. Vice-President F. W. Schneider will be the acting-president until someone is chosen to fill the presidency of the College. President Mossman has had a very successful presidency, the College having been forging ahead in spite of difficult times and depressing conditions during the many years. A program of building and remodeling has been carried along with the increase of student enrollment and with a successful program of activities and curricula.

President Mossman has built a strong group of professors that rank with the best in the land. During the years, Morningside College has ranked with or above most institutions of its enrollment in classwork, musical affairs, athletics, forensics, and organization.

Morningside College has been built by continued effort and organization which has been working through the years and for this particular series of years has been under the direction of the presidency of Dr. Mossman. Morningside College will continue to grow under the direction of the new administration as long as each alumnus, ex-student, and friend does his part. The Alumni News Letter wishes Dr. and Mrs. Mossman a happy and most enjoyable time in their new location, whatever that may be.

Chicago Musical Critics Laud the Morningside Singers

Alumni and friends of the school will be happy to learn of the recent successes enjoyed by the sixty-voice a cappella choir of Morningside College. Professor Paul MacCollin has been working for eight years with groups of singers, each year developing greater organizations until this year critics in Chicago ranked the choir as one of the finest of its kind in the country. A twelve-day tour, which included Storm Lake, Cherokee, Estherville, Algona, Charles City, Britt, Fayette, Chicago, Oelwein, Eagle Grove, and Lake City, was the most pretentious tour taken by college representatives. While in Chicago the choir presented four concerts, one in Kimball Hall, one in St. James Methodist Church, one in Thornburn Methodist Church, and one in the Methodist Book Concern. During their stay in Chicago members of the choir visited many places of interest, were guests of the management of the new Civic Opera association, and were invited to broadcast over the National Broadcasting chain.

The choir won unusual distinction in the city by having four distinguished musical critics attend concerts and by winning praise from them all. A few of the critic reports are listed in the next few paragraphs.

"Among the items having a share in building up the music of the future, it is necessary to include college choirs, or at least some of them. One of the good ones is the Morningside College Methodist Choir, which appeared at Kimball Hall last night. It consists of youthful voices which have not learned yet how to be anything but pleasant in tone, it is balanced, and it is disciplined.

"The director is Paul MacCollin. He led his uniformed group of young artists through a program of sacred music that ranged from Palestrina to R. Nathaniel Dett. Technically and in spirit, it was the kind of performance that proved the joint presence of highly able material and a highly able director." Edward Moore in the Chicago Tribune.

"If a desire for recognition brought the Morningside College Methodist Choir from Sioux City to Kimball Hall last night its sixty-five young members were out after something they well deserved.

"Professor MacCollin has trained them right up to the academic standards, and they made clear the structure, beauty, and style of the excellent unaccompanied choruses upon their program." Eugene Stinson, in the Daily News.

"In the evening another surprise came with the appearance of the Morningside College Methodist Choir at Kimball Hall. I do not remember ever having heard this choral organization before, but I shall never forget them for the simplest of reasons. They are one of the finest groups of a cappella singers I have ever listened to in my many years of concert-going.

"Sincere is my praise of their conductor, Paul MacCollin, who has trained these students into remarkable perfection of accomplishment. Their singing of works by Palestrina, Bach, and Mendelssohn was marked by faultless accuracy of pitch, attacks of rigid yet euphonious tone ensemble, and "musicality" of rare order. They are masters of nuance, and their diction is of impeccable correctness." Hermann Devries, in the Chicago American.

The arrangements for the tour were directed by Lee Strain, manager of the choir and glee clubs. The choir appears at Omaha on May 10, at the invitation of those who heard the organization last year. It presents its home concert in the East Junior High School Auditorium on Friday evening, May 15. A more extensive plan is under consideration for the next year, and it is likely that the organization will be booked in the West.

Another choir that attracted considerable attention and favorable comment this year is the Vesper Choir, which is directed by Lester McCoy. This group includes forty singers chosen at the fall tryouts. They have taken their part in the chapel services two weeks each month, alternating with the Methodist Choir. The choir made a tour of five days during April, offering concerts in Sloan, Anthon, Lake View, Sioux Rapids, Sutherland, Schaller, Holstein, and Mayflower Congregational Church in Sioux City. These two choirs, the Methodist Choir and the Vesper Choir, give students of the college a very unusual opportunity for study of music besides offering an interesting tour each year.

MUSIC FESTIVAL AT EAST JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL MAY 15-16

The annual home concert of the Morningside College Methodist Choir will be given in the East Junior High School Auditorium on Friday evening, May 15, under the direction of Professor Paul MacCollin. The choir has a membership of sixty-two singers, making it possible for it to offer a wonderful musical program. This concert is the only one offered in Sioux City for the public. The choir will make its initial appearance in a special concert to the East High School students on Friday night, May 8.

Another feature of the two-day musical program will be the combination of the Sioux City Symphony with the South Dakota University orchestra. This is the sixth year of the union of these two symphonies. The ensemble formed by the two orchestras totals over one hundred players affording both students and music lovers the opportunity of hearing an orchestra of true symphonic proportions. Development of the two orchestras into one great combination has been made possible through the cooperation of Dean Winfred R. Colton and his South Dakota University Orchestra with Professor Leo Kucinski and his Sioux City musicians. Each year these two orchestras exchange concerts presenting an annual concert in Sioux City and one in Vermillion.

This union of the South Dakota University orchestra with the Sioux City Symphony orchestra will give music lovers an opportunity to hear a symphonic combination complete in instrumentation, and unusual outside of the great cities. No one should miss this rare opportunity. This will be Mr. Kucinski's last appearance as director of the orchestra for a year as he plans to study next year in the East. Dean Colton will direct the appearance of the orchestra at Vermillion later in the month.

OKOBOJI SUMMER MUSIC CAMP IS POPULAR WITH STUDENTS

An institution which has become one of the popular summer music schools is the Okoboji Summer Music Camp under the direction of Professor Paul MacCollin, director of the Morningside College Conservatory of Music, and Leo Kucinski, head of the Violin department of the Conservatory. This summer camp was originated in 1929 and has now grown into a popular study for music students and instructors. Courses are offered in voice instruction, instrumental work including band and orchestra training, and actual participation in both chorus and orchestra ensembles. Opportunity for actual concert appearances as soloists and as groups gives the students invaluable experience before the Bible School and Epworth League Institute held at the Methodist Camp.

Individual practice houses have been built and a large building for group practice and a dining-hall. Students are housed in large privately owned cottages. The faculty this year is made up of Professor James Reistrup, head of the Piano department of Morningside College; Mrs. Paul MacCollin, voice instructor; Ethel Thompson Kucinski, piano instructor, and Kristine Kucinski, violin instructor. Professors MacCollin and Kucinski are the directors of the group appearances and of the music camp.

Many high school students, instructors, and college students take advantage of the camp for training during the summer months, with the opportunities for a great summer outing.

Commencement Activities Keep Ser

Banquet Plans Announced

Commencement exercises will begin with the annual Final Chapel, which will be the awards chapel and moving-up day for the lower classmen. Athletic awards, forensic medals, scholarships, Zeta Sigma elections, and the History Medal will be presented by the various departments. The Seniors will appear at the Chapel services in their graduation gowns, the chapel being the last that the class will attend as a group. President Gerald Beebe, Senior Class head, will present the class, and some member of the faculty will receive it according to tradition. Following the awards the Seniors will leave the chapel, and the other classes will proceed to move up to the places vacated by the former classes. On Wednesday evening, members of Zeta Sigma Honor Society will be announced and initiated. The Zeta Sigma oration will follow.

The Baccalaureate Service takes place on Sunday, May 27, at Grace Church, at which time President Frank E. Mossman will make the address. In the afternoon Lucy Dimmitt Kolp presents her annual organ recital at Grace Church, this concert coming at four o'clock, followed by a reception for the Senior Class by President and Mrs. Mossman in their beautiful garden back of the presidential residence. Sunday evening, Alvah Miller, '09, of Delhi, India, is the speaker for the World Interest Service in Grace Church. Mr Miller has been in India for several years in missionary service and has a remarkable story to tell.

The planting of the Ivy, a traditional feature of Commencement Services, will take place at 9:45 A. M. on Monday morning. The meeting of the Board of Trustees has been scheduled for 10:00 A. M. Monday morning. In the afternoon a public reception honoring President and Mrs. Mossman and the Reverend and Mrs. Spence is to be held at the Women's Residence Halls.

Alumni Banquet in Evening

President C E Eerkes, head of the Morningside College Alumni Association, announces that the annual banquet for the alumni and ex-students of the College will begin at 6:00 P. M., with preparations for the largest crowd ever to attend the dinner, in the Women's Residence Halls. The annual report of the officers of the association will be presented to members of the organization. Officers of the group will be chosen to take the places of President C. E. Eerkes, Vice-President Henrietta Squaires, Secretary W. C. Wolle, and Treasurer Ira Gwinn.

Committee in Charge

The Committee in Charge of the Alumni Dinner includes Mrs R. H. McBride, Vesta Taylor, Mrs C. E. Eerkes, Ethel Murray, and Mirah Mills. Following the banquet the annual Commencement Play will be presented on the beautiful lawn of the Women's Residence Halls. Mrs Jane Smith has charge of the production offered by the Senior Class. "The Piper" is offered as the final play to be given this year. Prominent characters have been chosen from the Senior Class, including several of the outstanding actors of the school. Maynard Heacox, prominent in dramatic activities during his two years of residence in Morningside College, will play the part of the "piper," with Fletcher Kettle, versatile members of the class, taking one of the juvenile leads, and Miss Doris Baddeley, another of the leading dramatists, taking the other juvenile lead.

Tuesday, June 2, Commencement Day

Dr W. H. Spence, pastor of First Methodist Church in Mason City, Iowa, has been chosen by the class as the speaker for the Commencement Exercises. He has chosen for his subject, "The Art of Living in a Crowded World." Following Dr Spence's address Dr Frank E. Mossman will confer the degrees on the class.

Members of the committee in charge of arrangements are very anxious that a large group of Alumni and friends attend the various parts of the Commencement season.

There will be seven aspirants for the degree of Bachelor of School Music at the Commencement exercises, June 2. This is the first time that such a degree has been offered by Morningside College, but the popularity of the School Music work offered at the Morningside Conservatory has made it necessary and advisable to offer such a degree. Five of the graduates have been placed in high-school positions for next year. The candidates for the music degree are Mildred Mae Bliven, Sioux City; Lucille Dallenbach, Rockwell City; Martena De Ruyter, Sioux Center; Mildred Thelma Moore, Sioux City; and Almyra Ferne Peters, Hornick, who will receive their diplomas at the June Commencement. Campus Clippings

Annual Walkout

Morningside College students tossed their books aside, opened the classroom doors and proceeded to stage the annual walkout to Floyd Monument, Friday, May 1. (Just a little secret, some of you Alumni: the walkout is truly a rideout as there are practically as many cars as students.) A program of stunts was arranged followed by several speeches by prominent members of the Junior class. Professor Hayes added his bit of humor by staging one of his far-famed stunts. Harvey Potthoff, of Morgan, Minnesota; Harvey Nelson, of Klemme, Iowa; and Paul Haviland, of Merville, Iowa, were the speakers. Hobart Mossman, president of the Student Council, was in charge of the arrangements.

Morningside College Hour

The Morningside College Radio Hour has become one of the very popular features of the radio station at the Sioux City Journal studio. Throughout the year members of the faculty and student group have presented half-hour programs. These will be continued next year as a regular presentation.

Noted Speaker

A welcome visitor to the Morningside College campus was Dr. Newell Edson, secretary of the American Hygiene Association. Dr. Edson spoke before the combined Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. her three years of residence, continuing a precedent begun by various other members of the family.

He has served as soloist with the organization for its appearances and has been a member of the college quartet this year. The glee club will continue its policy of visiting the high schools throughout the territory next year as it has become a vital part of the student promotion work.

Honorarium for Hayes

Each year the University of Iowa votes an honorarium to Morningside College, this being an opportunity to study at the University summer session with all fees and expenses paid. Professor James J. Hayes, head of the Department of English Literature, receives the honor this year by vote of the faculty of Morningside College. Professor Hayes has been a member of the faculty for fifteen years and in the meantime has become one of the best-known because of his ability to fit into any type of meeting or affair with his humor. He will continue his work toward his Doctor's degree.

They plan to study in Europe, leaving Sioux City near the first of September. Mr. Kucinski has been prominently connected with musical organizations of Sioux City, having directed the Sioux City Symphony since 1923, and was chosen conductor of the Monahan Post Band last year. Eugene Baker, of Lorrain, Ohio, has accepted the directorship of the Sioux City Symphony for the year and will take over the instruction of violin at the Conserva-

Miss Grace Stoops, assistant Physical Training instructor, was in charge and reports that the interest in this event is growing each year.

Various athletic events were worked out, each girl taking part in the contests as a member of the teams. A scholarship was awarded to the Senior girl winning the most points. This honor was won by a Vermillion High School girl, Miss Maxine Mahan.

A dinner at the Women's Residence Halls for the girls was one of the interesting events for them. Speeches by members of the Morningside Association and entertainment by the Men's Glee Club closed the successful event.

Fletcher Kettle upset the plans of North Dakota University in the 100-yard dash at the Dakota Relays last week by defeating Jarrett, speed merchant of the North Dakota school. The event was run in 10 seconds flat. Kettle holds the all-college record with 9.8 seconds as his time.

To the Students of Morningside College

My dear Friends:

My thirteen years of college presidency in Morningside College will be rounded out September 1, 1931. These years immediately following the close of the war and during the days of reconstruction have marked a period of readjustment. There have been many grave and difficult problems confronting society. Their solution has not as yet been entirely discovered, nor are we altogether certain of the future.

My years on the campus have been pleasurable ones. I have enjoyed the association with you. You are a new group of a new age, and you are a tonic to the thinking of any person of more mature years. I have learned to appreciate you. I believe in you tremendously and it will be with a feeling of regret that I shall say good-bye to you this Commencement season.

Morningside College is my Alma Mater. I shall ever love and revere the institution. Others may come and go, as Trustees, and Faculty members, and Presidents, and Students, but she is my Alma Mater. It was on this campus that I was reborn to a bigger and better life. New avenues of approach to life were opened to me. It was here that I learned how to find, and in a measure to appreciate, the thoughts of the great thinkers of all ages. It was here that I began the development of a philosophy for life: a philosophy which would serve in the hours of success and be a steady power in the hours of seeming defeat.

Make Morningside College your Alma Mater. Love her, cherish her, use her throughout the years. She may seem to be a bit harsh to you at times, but when you learn to know her you will love her.

I thank you for your kindness to Mrs. Mossman and myself during these years of administration. I bid you Godspeed and assure you that if at any time in the future, at any place in this great world, we can be of assistance to you, you may call upon us and we shall do our best to render you whatever service lies within our power.

Let us make this a great spring on the campus. Let us bring in next fall a great body of new students, and a return of the three upper classes. Let us build on this hill an institution of higher learning worthy of this great civilization, of this great Northwest.

Your friend and co-worker,
Frank E. Mossman,
President.

May, 1931.

To the Alumni of Morningside College.

My dear Alumni:

The sentiments of the foregoing letter to the students immediately after my resignation, February 18, 1931, express to you my desire for the future of our Alma Mater—namely, "A Greater Morningside." May the ideals of this number of the News Letter be symbolic of the future of the institution, with each of us doing his share toward making possible the achievement of the task.

As an alumnus of Morningside College I pledge you my heartiest cooperation in the fulfillment of the aims expressed in this number; for next year, an enlarged enrollment and the fealty and support of all the groups contributing to the institution.

Your friend and co-worker,
Frank E. Mossman,
President.

Dear President Mossman:

As President of the Alumni Association, I wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for your many years of devoted service and continued leadership. Your marked application, your enthusiastic effort, and your Christian character shall remain an inspiration to all.

C. E. Eerkes.

CHICAGO ALUMNI HOLD ANNUAL MEET

One of the busy Morningside clubs is the organization in Chicago, which met on February 14, at the Women's University Club of Chicago. A dinner was the means of getting about forty members of the club together. President George E. Wickens presided at the meeting, presenting the speakers, Royal H. Jurgenson, Dr. Samuel Stauffer, and Alvah Miller. Dr. Frank E. Mossman, president of Morningside College, was the guest of the club. He outlined the work of the College in a short address to the Morningsiders.

Election of officers followed the dinner, at which Evangeline Sletwold St. Germain was unanimously chosen president; Ewart Williams, vice-president; and Lucille Morgan Coombs, secretary-treasurer. Mr. and Mrs. Ewart Williams presented a double-piano number. A community sing closed the evenings' entertainment with Ralph Mahlum directing the singing.

The members of the club that enjoyed the dinner were: Gifford Alt, Gretchen Ames, Clarence Bakke, Mrs. Pearl Woodford Buchner, Mrs. Fern Barber Black, Eva Bangs, William Bledsoe, O. W. Brand, Jay F. Christ, Dr. Arthur Coombs, Gwendolyn Coder, Lily Damon, William Danforth, Clarence Johnson, Royal H. Jurgenson, Mae Wood Kixmiller, Dr. Paul McMaster, Alvah Miller, Dr. Frank E. Mossman, Ralph Mahlum, Robert Vernon, Allen Sterling, Dr. Samuel Stauffer, Mrs. Evangeline St. Germain, George E. Wickens, Ewart Williams, Lois Russell Williams, John Wedgwood, Dr. Buchner, Mrs. Jay Christ, Mr. Fleming, Mr. William Kixmiller, Mrs. Robt. Vernon, Mr. Tentley, Mrs. Andrew Thalhofer, and Mr. F. E. LIBRARY HAS INTERESTING COLLECTION OF BOOKS AND CURIOS

Morningside College library has a copy of the smallest dictionary in the world, 42 woodcut prints of unreckoned value, rare books that date back to 1864 for publication, and the very dainty volumes of Burns's poems and "The Lady of the Lake," bound in silk Scotch plaid. These are only a few of the interesting collections that the local school makes available to students, although restricted space for display prevents full appreciation of their value.

Lack of adequate space for shelving these volumes has been a great handicap to the librarian although additional shelving space has been added recently, thus making these books available to student use. There are 37,000 volumes in the library at present, and each year finds additional works added to the stacks. Besides departmental reference purchases, recent additions to the library have been made by Professors Kanthlener, Gwinn, Coss, and Hayes, Mrs. J. H. McMichael, Rev. M. D. Bush, S. C. Oathout, C. N. Ainslee, Mrs. Albert Staley for the Kriethe Estate, Mrs. Kate Burk, the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association, and the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, the Sigma Tau Delta and Alpha Kappa Delta fraternities, and students. The most extensive gift of recent interest is that of Mrs. John T. Pierce, which includes nearly one thousand volumes. In this group are encyclopedias, Bible commentaries, essays, poetry, fiction, and bound periodicals—in fact, a library in itself.

A fine collection of Buddhas and Chinese vases and pottery has been added to the increasing gifts toward a Library World Room. Several of these were given by ex-students and graduates, either missionaries or foreign students.

Miss Price, the librarian, extends to each alumnus and ex-student an opportunity to help in building a greater collection of books and manuscripts. The allotment for extension of the library does not permit the growth that she has hoped for, but the cooperation of givers has aided in accumulating a very interesting and worth-while collection of books.

The Morningside of tomorrow is dependent on loyal cooperation with, and faithful service to their Christian college built and developed by the vision, strength, and material help of leaders gone, of present administration, of faculty and of constituency. We are considered as alumni promoters of Morningside College. We shall fulfill our obligation at this time by giving a portion of our earning power to the school that is responsible for our success in meeting life's problems. Morningside College will continue to grow and produce men and women of tomorrow because of the hearty support given by the alumni of the institution that means so much to all of us.

PLACEMENT BUREAU ANNOUNCES TEACH- ING POSITIONS

The Teachers' Placement Bureau, directed by Professor V. E. Stansbury, announces a very successful placing of teachers this year. The innovation of a complete practice-teaching plan has given students and graduates of the College even more desirable positions as teachers. The practice-teaching has become a part of the Liberal Arts course for those interested in entering the teaching field. Cooperation with the schools of Sioux City has given opportunity for practice-teachers to enter the problems of actual teaching in Joy School, in Longfellow School, and in East Junior High School.

Professor Stansbury has worked out the present plan of practice-teaching and teacher placement. The bureau announces that the following students and graduates have secured teaching positions for next fall: Doris Baddeley, Pocahontas; Jessie Blecker, Larchwood; Marilla Conley, Goldfield; Elsie Gurney, Bagley; Wayne Goodman, Bronson; Vernon Hancer, Smithland; Ruth Miller, Quasqueton; Gladys Thompson, Ute; Lois Schamp, Sergeant Bluff; Lucile Vogel, Paullina, and Muriel Harrington, Pipestone, Minn.

"In time of peace prepare for war." Likewise, in time of depression and pessimism prepare for prosperity and progress. There has never been a time when the college has been in so favorable a position to serve in this capacity. With work uncertain and wages on a lower level it is an auspicious time to spend a few years preparing ourselves to take advantage of the progressive years that are just ahead of us.

EXTENSIVE AND SUCCESSFUL FORENSIC SEASON DURING 1931

(Continued From Page Twenty-Seven.) ranged the year's schedule, but also trained and coached the speakers. His work has been a vital factor in securing and maintaining Morningside's fine forensic reputation.

For a Greater Morningside

Morningside College stands on the crest of a low hill from which can be seen the Missouri River and the rich farm lands of three states—Iowa, South Dakota, and Nebraska—from which the college draws its constituency. The rolling hills along the river form the most beautiful sections of these states, and Sioux City has provided in her magnificent parks the preservation of this scenery in its primal loveliness. The College stands on a campus of some thirty acres dotted with trees and crossed by cinder paths leading to the main buildings. On one side of the campus is Morningside Avenue, on which runs an excellent trolley service bringing one in twenty minutes to the heart of Sioux City. Morningside is just far enough from the city to be relieved of the disagreeable features of city life, but yet near enough to profit by all the advantages that Sioux City offers.

To Morningside's stately halls and attractive campus come young men and women desirous of learning the fundamentals of true living, as well as obtaining the knowledge and mental equipment essential to gain a livelihood. The aim of Morningside College is to develop the latent talents which lie within her students, to arouse in them discernment, originality, resource, and responsibility, and to hold up before them the ideals of an effective Christian life. No place is better adapted to accomplish this ideal. No spot is more pleasant in which to spend the best four years of a student's life than the beautiful environment of her campus.

The academic standards of Morningside have always been high. The faculty is composed of men and women who have been trained in the leading universities of this country and Europe, and are specialists in their respective fields. The excellent and, in some cases, distinguished records made by Morningside graduates in the graduate colleges and professional schools of many of our best universities have won for the College favorable recognition in the higher educational centers of our land.

Campus activities play an important role in the moulding of the students' character. Among the prominent organizations are: Pi Kappa Delta; the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations; three women's literary societies; four local fraternities; the "M" Club; the "MC" Club; the Student Council; the Dramatic Club; musical organizations including the Methodist Choir and the Vesper Choir; the Glee Clubs; the Symphony Orchestra, and the Band; departmental organizations such as the Biology, Commercial, Engineering, German, French, Spanish, and English Clubs; the Cosmopolitan Club; the International Relations Club; and the Forensic League. Each of these organizations has some definite goal toward which it works, giving opportunity for public appearance in many cases and an opportunity to hear famous lecturers, musicians, and characters.

Aside from the standard courses leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree, Morningside College offers a two-year Elementary Grade Teachers' Course; Pre-professional courses in Commerce, Engineering, Law, and Medicine; courses in Expression and Dramatic Art; and courses in Music, including the four-year Supervisors' Course in Public School Music leading to the degree of Bachelor of Public School Music.

ALUMNUS: Hand this sheet to some high-school senior or prospective student with the enclosed information, along with a good Morningside talk and that will do more toward getting a student than any pretty picture book or catalog can do in a month of Sundays. This is your part in building the Morningside College of tomorrow!
