Sioux '24

Time goes you say,
Ah, no!
Alas, time stays,
We go.

1924 Sioux
Vol. XXIII

Published Annually by The Junior Class of
Morningside College
Sioux City, Iowa

Dedication

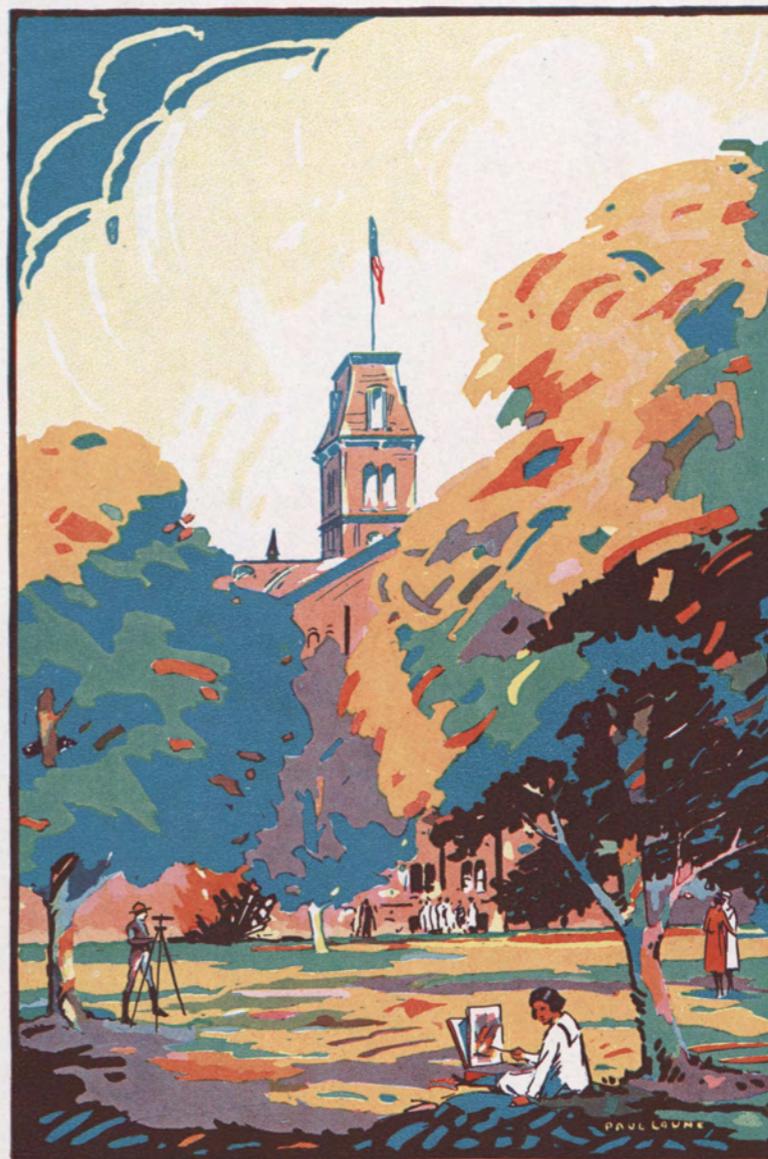

We, the class of nineteen hundred twenty-four, dedicate this book to the president of our college, Frank E. Mossman, a son of Morningside.

As students, we have felt the touch of his good influence and it has meant much to us.

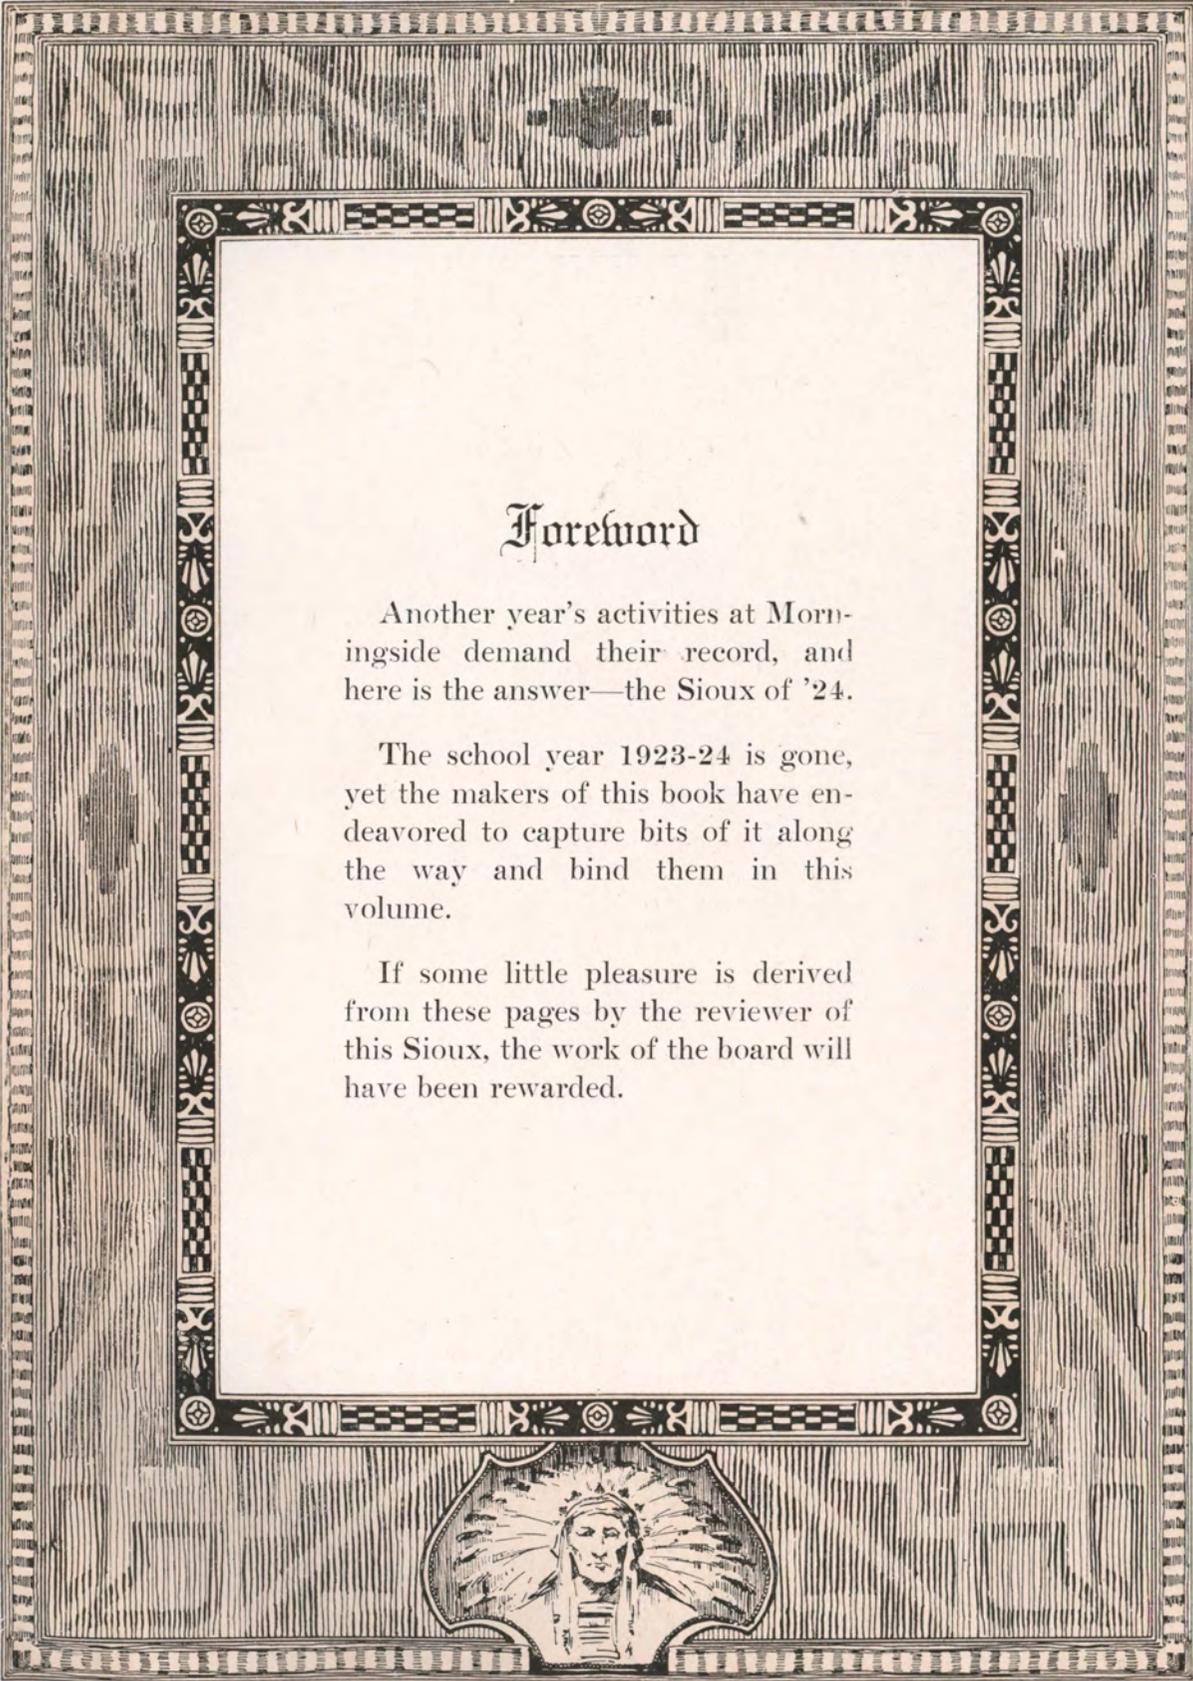

President Mossman has piloted the institution through a period of storm and now, under his capable leadership, a "Morningside" of which the founders dreamed, is becoming a reality.

Frank E. Mossman

THE COLLEGE

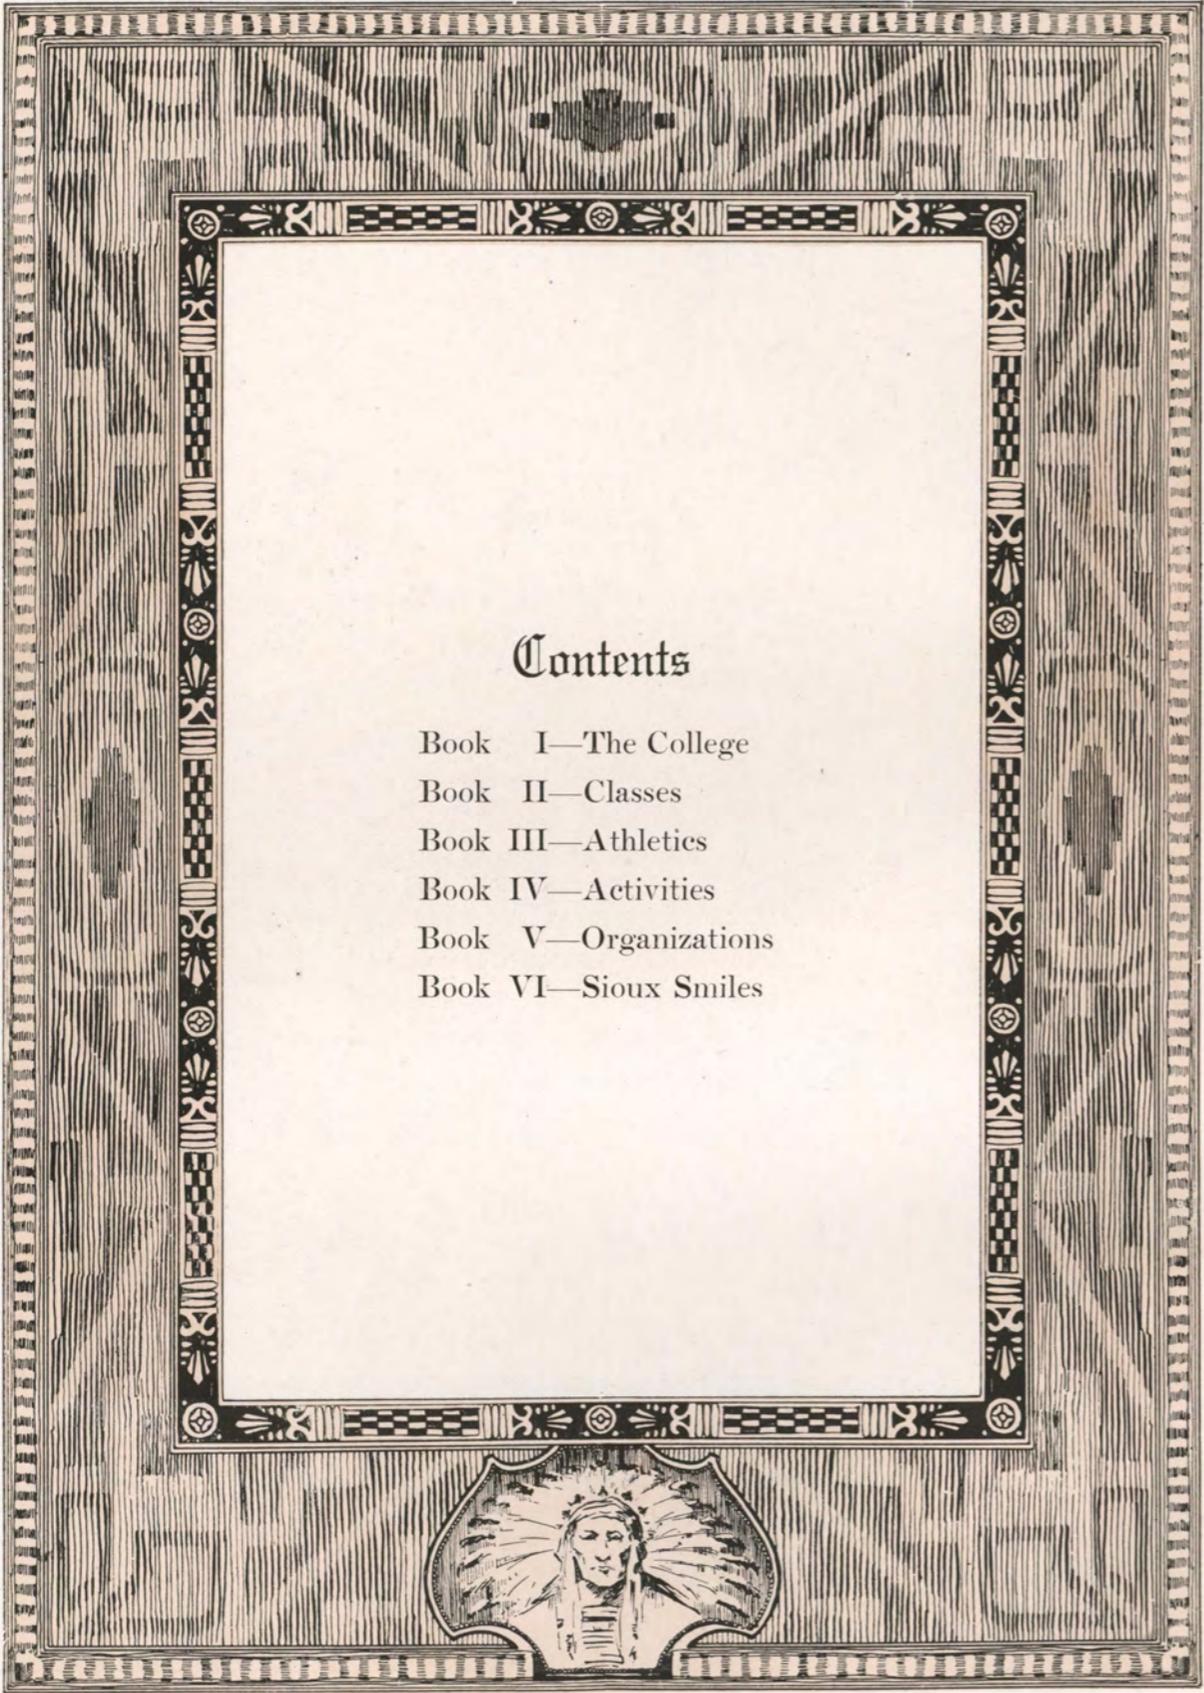

Foreword

Another year's activities at Morningside demand their record, and here is the answer—the Sioux of '24.

The school year 1923-24 is gone, yet the makers of this book have endeavored to capture bits of it along the way and bind them in this volume.

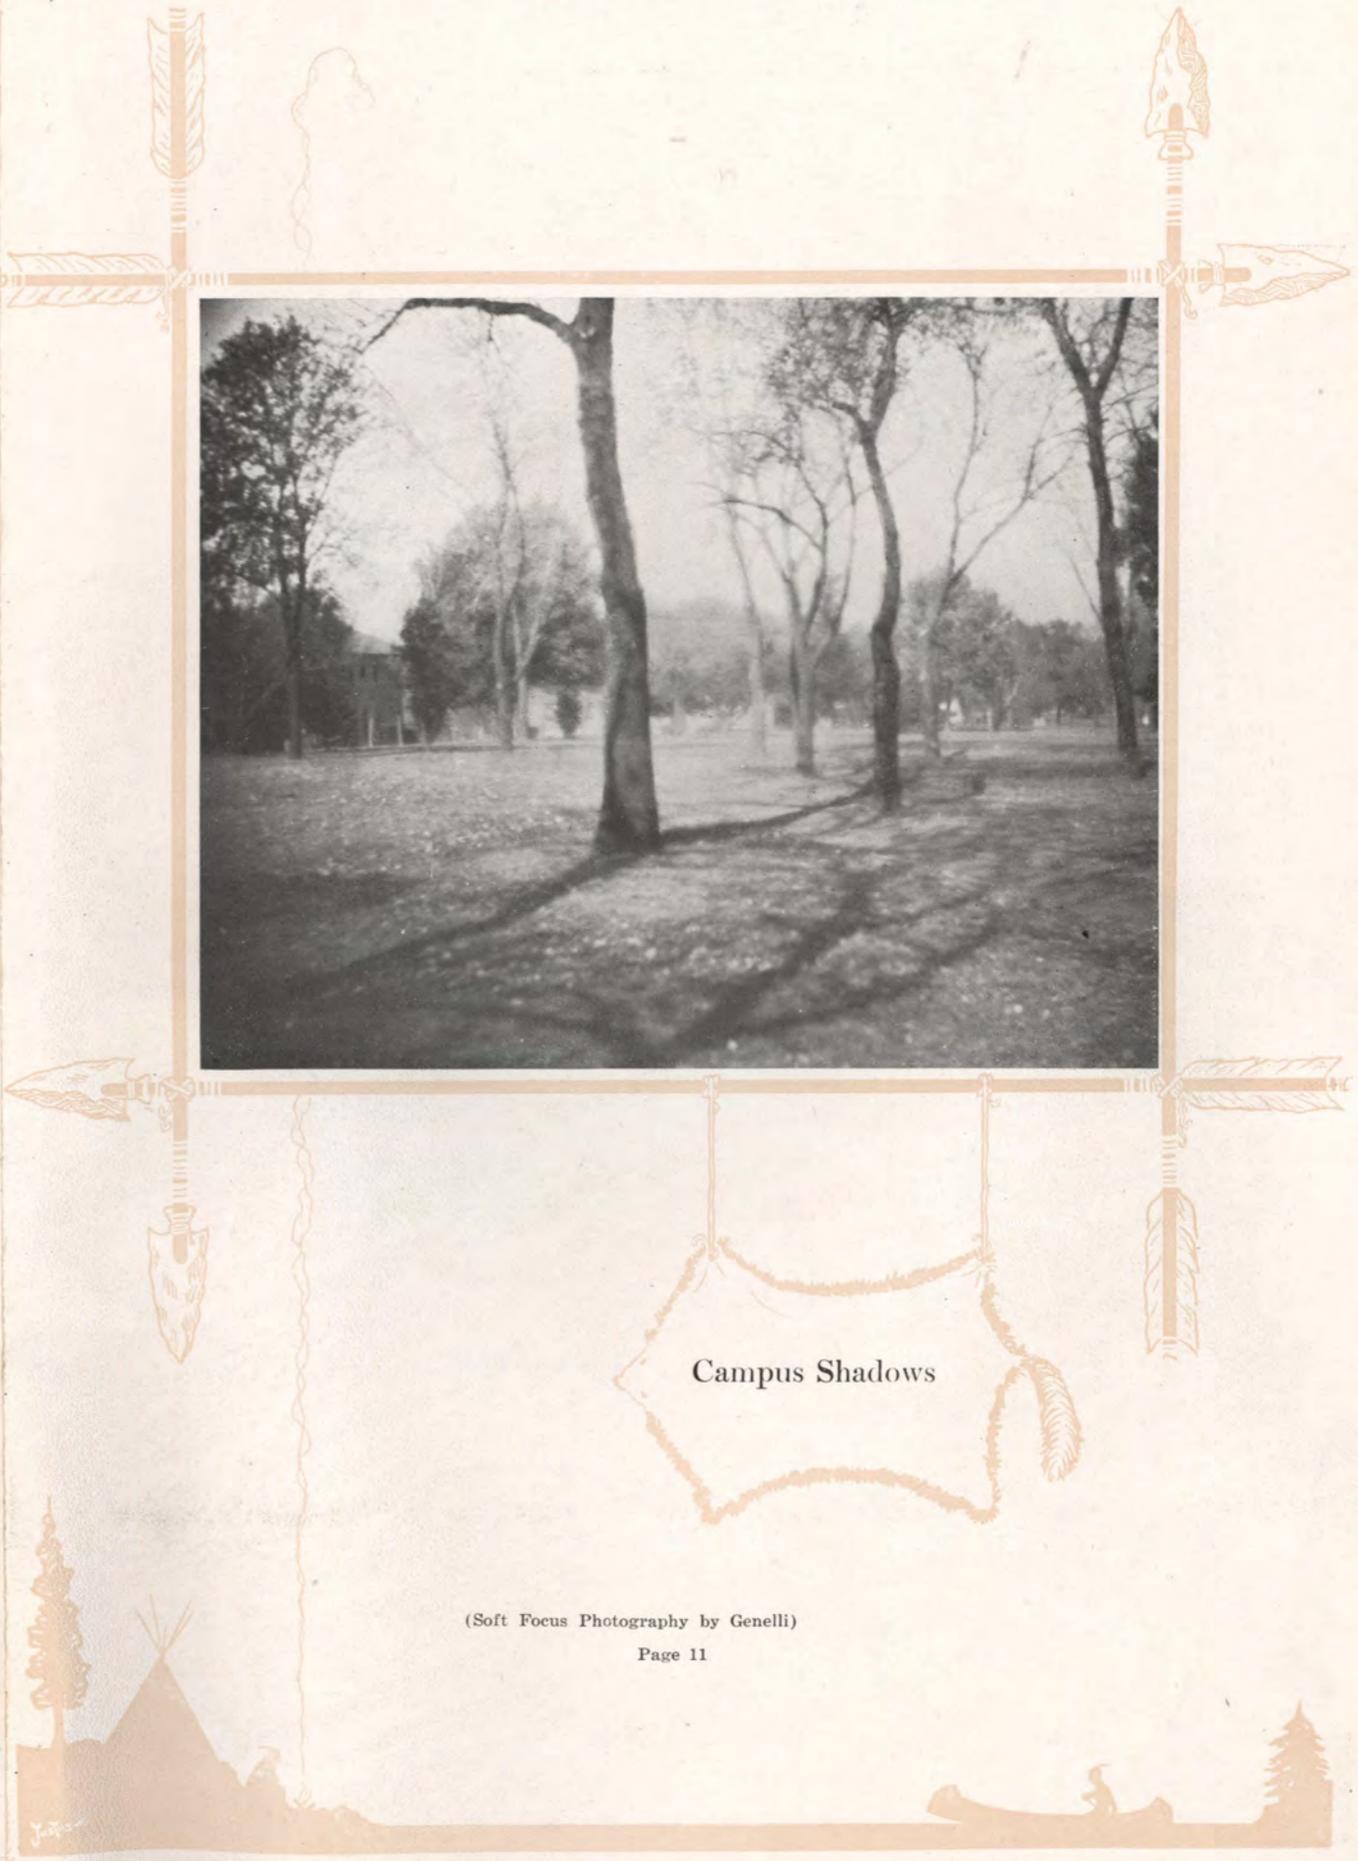

If some little pleasure is derived from these pages by the reviewer of this Sioux, the work of the board will have been rewarded.

HARRY BILLIARDS Flora, Ind.

In college to get all he can while he can, and with this objective he spends more time on his studies than most of our athletes. He is a star basketball player, and is also a member of the Maroon football squad. Harry is an all-around college man with a genius for math, and athletics that warrant success.

WINFRED DAY Sioux City, Ia.

"It's a whole lot easier to make excuses than to make good." This used to be Red's motto, but he is becoming real studious and at times is seen in the library alone with a book. But this isn't his only good trait—he has a wonderful disposition and a heap of humor. In football he is far famed and we say that "if all days were like 'Red Day' what an interesting year."

GEORGE LEAZER Sioux City, Ia.

Whom we cherish because he has had so many narrow escapes—in his experience in the army and also it is said that he was almost killed once by a train of thoughts passing through his head. George always has a jolly and clever remark to pass to those about him. You simply can't help but like him.

DONALD PETERS Sioux City, Ia.

"Don" waited to graduate with a good class and we are glad he did, because we need such a pleasant, easy-going fellow to balance with our many whirlwinds. With an equal mixture of good humor and sensible, sound thinking, Donald is able to make and hold many friends. He believes in the old adage, "By saying nothing you may pass as wise."

GIFFORD ALT Sioux City, Ia.

Called "Giff" but he should be called "Gifted", for this he certainly is. In debate and oratory he has ranked high throughout his college course. He always has an earnest opinion upon the latest topic of the day and is not afraid to express it. His straight-forward, pleasant manner has placed him among the leaders of the class of '24, and these qualities warrant his success in his chosen field of law.

CLARENCE AMES Sioux City, Ia.

A man who is ever busy doing something worth-while. Clarence really thinks it is terrible to miss a class, and such a student, of course, pulls A's. He also has a wicked serve in tennis. Thoroughness is his hobby and we expect much of him as Y. M. president for next year.

MYRNA BARRETT Alden, Ia.

A lass with such a soft voice and gentle ways, we wonder if they are magic. Endless patience and kindness are her possessions; a loyal Morningsider bent on right doing.

WILLIAM BARTLETT Ireton, Ia.

Although Bill has been with us but a year everybody knows and likes him. They call him "Willie Oh"—but he's no "Willie" boy. Besides playing a wonderfully smooth game of basketball, he finds time to pull grades and to shine in social affairs.

CHARITY BEKINS Sioux City, Ia.

Such a good scout is Charity—a popular and conscientious student, with friends on all sides. She is one of our fresh air fiends and spends much time on long hikes or picnicking. Although her main interest is not in school this year, she still is loyal to Morningside.

LEOTA BERGESON Sioux City, Ia.

Look once, and you must look twice at this beautiful maid of gentle manner. Leota may never do anything spectacular in the world, but she has a magnetism that would attract any man. At the present it is a member of the Junior class that is the most attracted. Whoever the man may be, he can always be proud of "Bergy."

ALLAN BILLMAN Sioux City, Ia.

A man of splendid principle and practice. Continually busy with his Riverside charge or his studies, but not so busy he can't pass a pleasant good-day to his fellow students in the halls. He makes friends easily and we Juniors need such as he.

MILTON BROWN Hinton, Ia.

Although this slick looking chap has been with us only a short time, the fellows already dub him a "prince". Milton saw a good thing and joined it—the Junior class. We are glad he did because we want all the princes we can get.

CECIL BURNS Hornick, Ia.

Mid-night oil? Yes, burns mid-night oil, for he is just that industrious. He is a steady, unassuming sort of a chap; always busy and always cheerful. You might think him too serious until you saw his rare smile, then you would know that underneath the surface is a strain of quiet humor that helps him win friends and hold them.

MILDRED BUSER Sloan, Ia.

Often called Mildred Buzzer, and rightly called, too. Woman-like, Mildred does love to talk anywhere, any time, any how. Unlike other talkers, Mildred gets by with it and has time on the side to make friends. Once in a while she "quits the narrow path of sense for a ramble through impertinence." But we all admire Mildred, for good talk is an art.

DONALD CADY Alden, Ia.

If speech were golden he would be a millionaire, for Donald does add his bid of advice and opinions on everything whether solicited or not. Whatever he offers, however, is always good and in accordance with the bigness and generosity of his nature. He is one of those busy pre-medics, but if given a task he goes after it like a whirlwind.

FRANCIS CHANG China

One of our little friends from the Orient. An inspiration and example to us American students, is this miss, with her cheery smile and gracious manner. Continually we marvel at her excellency in scholastic work; even in English she could shame some of us. We congratulate her people in China for having such a genius to send to Morningside.

TIEN CHEN China

A regular hustler—always in a hurry, probably because he wishes to finish his scientific course in America as soon as possible, so that he can return to his wife across the waters. Unlike some of his kinspeople, this man is always ready to express his frank opinion on modern subjects. He is full of fun and we have enjoyed his three years spent with us.

NEVA COATES Sioux City, Ia.

Neat and capable is Neva, with a bit of class and adaptability that gives her distinction. When asked to do a thing she always consents to do her best, and her best is usually the best. A splendid girl, loyal to her class in every respect—even in stepping.

GLADYS CRAWFORD Webster City, Ia.

A girl who slipped through school thus far without making much commotion. Nevertheless, as an earnest student she is unequalled. Gladys lives close to the Morningside ideals, and we admire and envy her staunchness.

BOYER CRIDDLEBOUGH

Noted for his tenor voice and his ability to sell oil. He is one of the most ambitious students. You could never imagine his hanging on the hall radiator. Whatever he does he puts his whole heart and soul into it. With this trait he cannot help but be a success.

LILLIAN CURRY Sioux City, Ia.

A capable girl whose spontaneity and pep have "put across" many a campus enterprise. Lillian can do everything—just everything. As a palmist and fortune teller she startles everyone with her accuracy. Her hobby is writing and directing plays, which she does quite professionally. In fact, the success of any promotion is assured if Lillian directs it.

VIVIAN DE WITT Correctionville, Ia.

Vivian not only plays her cherished violin, but she also belongs to the band—that is, the Student Volunteer Band. She is also an active member of the Preachers' Kids Club. She is always happy and strives to make others so.

MURIEL DE WITT Correctionville, Ia.

That pretty girl with sparkling blue eyes that flashed right toward the Senior class, and then fastened upon one man. Then flashed back a Philo pin. We congratulate this Senior man for his excellent choice. A capable girl with a genial disposition and magnetic ways.

ARTHUR DOEKSON Hull, Ia.

"Duke" is one of those fellows whose excellency goes unlauded, simply because he is so unassuming. But in basketball and baseball he is anything but quiet. He spends much time in the Chemistry lab—but finds time to step occasionally. He just joined the Junior class this year, but we have discovered already that Hope College lost a good man.

ROBERT DOLLIVER Sioux City, Ia.

"Hello, Bob," is just the way everyone greets him, and then they must go some in order to return as jovial, good-natured smile as they receive. A real fellow among the fellows, a real gentleman with the ladies. A tennis shark, a track man, and a prominent Y. M. worker. We think Bob is just about right.

SARAH DRURY Early, Ia.

"Sally" is one of our most popular Juniors, and it is fitting that she be chosen as the May Queen. Although young in years, she is old in thoughts and capabilities. Hosts of girl friends flock about her, but men dare not, for when Sally was but a Freshman a worthy Senior found he could not resist this winsome, brown-eyed lass. To see her is to love her, to know her is to adore her.

WINONOA DUNCAN Sioux City, Ia.

A typical coed. Any where, any time—just so it's a good time. Nona loves her music and is faithful to the Glee Club. She is also interested in athletics, not only women's athletics—but men's—that is, one man's. Nona is a zealous friend and "one wonderful girl," so Shorty says, and we certainly agree.

CORNIE ERKES Orange City, Ia.

Our immaculate Junior—always so slick looking, and yet "Connie" goes out for track. But, unlike other fellows, he never gets mussed up. He is one of our best debaters and one of the steadiest steppers. He is generally humming "Peg o' My Heart."

MARGARET ELLIS Dunlap, Ia.

"Of whom the wonder grows that one small head can carry all she knows." Margaret is among our most brilliant. She is gifted with thoroughness and efficiency and all the good traits that belong to an "A" student. She is an active member of the Preacher's Kids Club and the Student Volunteer Band.

PAUL ELLIS Dunlap, Ia.

Paul is one of our surprises. When Paul was a Freshman little did we think that this book-worm would ever be a long distance runner, but now he ranks second to only one in the school. Besides his extensive track work, Paul is also an industrious worker and a good student.

CHRYSTAL ENGBERG Sioux City, Ia.

She is truly the Junior "crystal"—bright and attractive on the exterior, mysterious within. There we catch glimpses of future dreams and ambitions that are never revealed to the world. There we see fathoms of untold ideals—a long line of friends waiting to pour forth confidences. A popular student and a Glee Club member. We prize her as a Junior futurist.

LEILA FOWLIE Rockwell City, Ia.

"Is as constant as the northern star." A quiet girl, but firm in her beliefs and she never falters in accomplishing her purpose. To know her you must get below that surface of reserve and there you find a heart of gold. Leila is a slave to her friends and has won the admiration of her classmates, especially one, from whom she has won a precious jewelry—a society pin. Anyhow, she is loyal to the Junior class—even in this matter.

Classes

HAROLD BRYAN Rolfe, Ia.

Who believes that by saying nothing you may pass as wise. To his friends he is a real friend and always the same friend, to his enemies—he has none. Harold is no relation to William Jennings Bryan, but he is the type of fellow who surprises the world by doing something of real value for it, and we are going to watch him.

LESLIE DAVIS Linn Grove, Ia.

"Lard" ranks among the best of the school athletes. A man with much conviction and a power to live true to it whether it be in accordance with those about him or not. His steady way and genial smile make fellows think the world of him—well, at least one Junior girl, too. We say, "Long live Lard!"

PAUL FREEBURN Sioux City, Ia.

"With too much quickness ever to be taught; with too much thinking to have a common thought." In choosing our editor we were looking for a man with perseverance, tact, originality, organizing ability, and management. All these we found in Paul, who has no equal. In stature he is small, in purpose, capabilities and wit, a giant. The flip of a coin alone would have to decide whether "Shorty" could debate or razz—jazz on that humming banjo—the better. He is an excellent student and a firm friend.

LESTER GREEN Iowa Falls, Ia.

Oh, no, not so green—quite to the contrary, he is world-wise and informative. As for looks, he is always as "slick as a whistle." He is a steady stepper and a good mixer.

Classes

HARRIET GALMAN Hospers, Ia.

Harriet has a merry twinkle in her eye which just can't help but have a meaning. Whether it is Bud she is thinking of or some new trick to play on the "Sunshine Kids," we cannot guess. Harriet is a practical girl with a real different personality that attracts.

GLADYS GUSTAFSON Sioux City, Ia.

One who possesses as much humor as avoirdupois, and that is quite a bit. "Glad" is one of those downtown girls who has to get up early in order to make an eight-twenty class, but we are glad she has the ambition to do this because we Juniors crave her jollity.

MARGARET HARADON Early, Ia.

"Peg" has a quiet poise and personality that not only fascinates one member of our class but all of us. Oh, the things she could tell if she would, for she is the Dean's secretary. We believe Peggy is an Egyptian goddess because—well, she looks like a goddess, and she plays "mum" all the time so the secrets of room 107 won't leak out. We admire her reserve and integrity.

MYRTLE HAWLEY Belmond, Ia.

A bashful sort of a maid, ever so faithful. She is always in her place at the right time, doing her duty without a complaint. The Junior class would be unbalanced without sensible, conscientious students such as Myrtle.

Classes

RAY HAWLEY Belmond, Ia.

Ray is in college not so much for a good time, not so much to win praise, as to do real work—to improve himself so that the world may hear of him later. His quiet, industrious way is bound to win him favor with greater heads than mere college students.

ODES HILTON Sioux City, Ia.

Odes is the same today, tomorrow and always. Steady and easy-going, with a cheery greeting to all. Odes divides his time between school work and running the popular Park Theatre. Success marks his business ventures as well as his school work.

CORNELIA LUEDER Cherokee, Ia.

Don't think because she doesn't date that she doesn't. Her heart is at S. D. U. Unsatisfied unless she receives A's in all her classes, she ranks A in independence, also. Her winning smile and her charming personality have won her many friends.

BEATRICE MOSS Sioux City, Ia.

When she is among her close friends, she is certainly a good scout—always ready for a lark. She isn't a book-worm, nor is she frivolous, but she is a real practical person. She completes the two-year normal course this year with high standing and we know that when she goes out to teach next year she will surely stir things up. "Bea" is one of our most loyal Juniors.

Classes

BERNICE HOFMASTER Nora Springs, Ia.

"Pep" we call her, and "pep" she is. She works while she works and plays while she plays. She always seems so care-free, but surprises those A Club "kids" real often by using some of her surplus pep in studying. She is the kind that has depth you cannot at first see, if you don't believe it, ask a certain red-haired Junior.

MAYME HOYT Wall Lake, Ia.

The typical Morningside woman for this year, with high ideals and executive ability that help her to hold her many offices. Mayme came to college with the hope of development, and she certainly has achieved her end already. She possesses a certain poise and dignity that few present-day coeds have, and the Junior class is lucky to have such as Mayme.

CHEN FUANG China

We Americans call him "Joe" for short. Another ambitious friend from the Orient. Trustworthiness is his outstanding characteristic of all his good characteristics. He is always anxious to serve and please his friends. He is specializing in Chemistry and the profs. say he is a wonder.

MABEL JACOBS Correctionville, Ia.

We all love "Jakey," whom silence suiteth best. She possesses that sympathetic understanding such as we rarely find. Most people think she studies all the time, but at least the A Club knows what clever pranks she does pull. "Jakey" will always be missed when not present, no matter where her future takes her.

DONALD GOODWIN Kingfisher, Okla.

Shakespeare said, "There is nothing in a name," but surely this doesn't apply to Donald, for he "Good"-wins where ever he goes—in studies, in tennis, in business. Besides that, he has a winning smile which radiates his good nature and friendliness.

GEORGE STEVENS Sioux City, Ia.

Our musical wonder—produce any musical instrument from a jews harp to a bass viol and he can play it. He can play jazz for the gay ones and classical for the sedate. Besides his music, George is a good student, a faithful friend, and an A No. 1 Morningside booster. He is our George the First, at least he ranks second to none.

MAURICE STUCKER Little Sioux, Ia.

"Stuck" left our class once but he knew we needed his championship and athletic ability, so came back with us again. He could not miss the spring season of baseball and we sure wouldn't want him to. Maurice is popular on the campus as well as on the baseball field, and we are glad this "Babe Ruth" is a Junior.

ROY JUSTUS Avon, S. D.

Truly a man of many talents. He draws wonderfully, debates convincingly, and writes authoritatively. One minute he is a clown, the next a tragedian. As president of our class last year he experienced many harrowing experiences, but he proved to be a capable leader. Of late business has claimed much of Roy's time, but he remains a staunch booster for his class and college.

ED JAMISON Sioux City, Ia.

A prince among fellows and a question mark among women! Very few coeds can boast of a date with this Sioux City hot, for rumor has it that his interests are claimed elsewhere. "The better half of his college education has not been found in books," so authorities quote. For all that, however, his sincerity, coupled with his willingness to work, mark him as an outstanding member of the Junior class.

ARTHUR JOHNSON Ottumwa, Ia.

One of those fellows you must know well in order to appreciate and understand. He once claimed to be immune from women, but certain feminine blue eyes have held his attention most a year now. Art is a fellow of firm convictions and finds expression for them by preaching. On one occasion he was reported to have said, "Had I been present at the creation I could have given some useful hints on the better ordering of the universe."

TILLIE JOHNSON Morris, Ill.

A lithe, slender miss, with an especial fondness for tennis and basketball. Also a diligent student and a splendid classmate. A "math" shark whose words are theorems and thoughts are problems.

MARGARET JORDAN Sutherland, Ia.

Generally quiet but occasionally she lets it be known she is among us. Margaret is indeed a conscientious student and is in college to make each moment count. She believes to do a little and do it well is doing a great deal. A girl of sterling qualities and one whom we Juniors hold in high esteem.

FRANCES KELLOGG Sioux City, Ia.

"Why worry!" says Fran, "the folks will pay the bills and you only live but once." Frances has an over abundance of pep, and this, accompanied by a heap of wit and individuality, places her among the most interesting Juniors. We are glad she left Iowa to join our class this year.

ALICE KITTOE Sioux City, Ia.

A lass of gentle manner and affectionate ways that charm even the mightiest of men (?). Spanish and aesthetic dancing are her specialties, with a bit of music thrown in to break the monotony. Alice has an art of making close friends that can scarcely be equalled, and she certainly claims such a friendship with her classmates.

JENNIE KLEVER Sanborn, Ia.

Industry and perseverance mark this young woman's career. Jennie has an interesting spirit of friendliness to all she meets. She is popular in the religious circles of the college and a special leader in the Student Volunteer Band. We have no fear for Jennie's success.

CYRIL KRAMER Remsen, Ia.

This fine "chap" has won high favor among his classmates because of his adaptability and congenial nature. He is fond of stepping and, incidentally, he studies. He adds not only in looks, but in worth, to the class of '24.

RUTH McBURNEY Onawa, Ia.

A maid tender, fair, and happy. One whose face ever shows her mood. Ruth is a faithful member of the Glee Club and very conscientious about her studies. However, she would rather read Sam's letters than study, and would rather answer them than write themes. She counts the days, hours, seconds until she graduates, for then—well—diamonds will tell.

EDITH McCABE Sioux City, Ia.

Edith is one of those plain, but practical, girls whose interest in life remains on the par whether she be studying or having a good time. She is able to do well what few can do, and that is to get enjoyment out of simple living. A faithful student with well directed ideals.

PAUL McMASTER Spokane, Wash.

A man quite too busy to be seen on the campus. He is seldom seen studying, and yet the startling fact is he is a good student. Mac divides his time between school life and his work at the Journal office, but he manages to do both very well. Faults? Yes, one—he loves the ladies, but few men can be as gallant as he.

RUTH MILLER Flandreau, S. D.

With a tinge of red in her hair which indicates a bit of humor and meriment that brings her popularity. She is one of those tactful, quiet girls who bothers no one and interests everybody. In class affairs she is noted for her committee work, for she has those qualities which make things go. She is a real Junior worker.

BERNICE MONROE South Sioux City, Nebr.

Bernice has a bit of class and friendliness which attracts immediate attention. She is a jolly good mixer and adds much to her social group. This is the third year that Bernice has come all the way from South Sioux to Morningside, and we Juniors are glad for her perseverance, for we need just such pleasing personalities.

LILA MONTGOMERY Sioux City, Ia.

Lila lives across the campus. She artfully divides her time between her work, friends and fun so as to have a well balanced college career. Lila is a constant friend and a true disciple of the doctrine, "If you do a thing at all, do it well."

PAUL MOODY Merville, Ia.

Hail to our smartest man! We are proud to claim Paul as one of us not only because of his attainments in scholarship, but because of his friendliness and good humor. He exemplifies the fact that a good student need not be a grind. If you see Paul armed with spy glasses, a spade, and a bundle of traps, you will know that he is on the trail of some new specie of rodentia cantspellit.

LILLIAN MURRAY Sutherland, Ia.

An athletic type of girl with plenty of pep, especially in basketball and volley ball. Lillian came to Morningside with a high scholastic rank and she still retains it. She has a determination and ability "to do" that are sure to make her successful as a future pedagogue.

CECIL MUNSON Estherville, Ia.

"In spite of all the learned have said I still my own opinion keep." "Cec" is a tower of strength to his class—he is not only lofty in stature, but in ideals and accomplishments as well. Vigor and enthusiasm are born in him. He is that "good Indian" in the Morningside College Glee Club. Whatever the task he puts it over with a bang!

HAROLD NISSEN Milford, Ia.

"Shorty" is an old stand-by, not only as a friend, but also in class affairs and in athletics. He is a prominent member of the Maroon eleven and he is also one of the chosen five on the Drake relay team. He is indeed an ideal athlete and Nona says he is ideal in every other way.

RUSSEL PECAUT Sioux City, Ia.

"Russ" is the good-looking trombonist who leads the singing at student chapel. He is certainly one of our high aces. He can do anything on the stage from comedy to tragedy. He was chosen as the business manager of the '24 Sioux because he has the mind to direct and the hand to execute. He shows much metal (Steele) in all he undertakes and we are sure proud of "Russ."

CYRUS POPPEN Sioux Center, Ia.

"Poppen" all the time after more knowledge, for "Cy" has plans that demand future consideration. He has a law course mapped out to complete before he settles down with—we all know who. "Cy" has a famous bass voice, in fact, he does many famous things—plays football, debates—and well, he is a real college man.

RAY OLSON Sioux City, Ia.

Red hair is always an indication of something worth while. Ray is a popular student who mixes reason with pleasure and wisdom with mirth in such a way as to win countless friends. He has a million dollar smile and a heart of gold. He is noted for his business ability and also his frequent display of "pep". He is the golden "ray" of our glass.

ELWIN OZIAS Ionia, Ia.

"Nature has framed strange fellows in her time." Here is one, a man who comes to Morningside because he believes education is necessary in business. He has a dogged earnest way that can be found in few men. The future will reveal what a college education can do for this sturdy man.

RUTH PACKARD Sioux City, Ia.

"All gold does not glitter"—and this is Ruth; pure gold all through, but always so plain looking you would never guess it unless you have watched her active college career. Outspoken and frank is Ruth, with a demand for fairness and justice in everything she has to do with. She has always been a central figure in Y. W. C. A. Her abundance of common sense, coupled with her wit, brings Ruth high esteem from the entire college.

GEORGE PARADISANOS Sioux City, Ia.

One of the immortal names, not born to die, a name which bears only one substitution, that is "power"—power of thought, word, and deed—that's George. In oratory and debate alike he is invincible. His is a nature of a prince of old from tender to terrific. This man from Crete is a friend of everybody and to his friends he bows his mighty will to be their slave. Though filled with a set purpose and conviction, still he retains much subtle humor and understanding that few men possess. We would call him the Demosthenes of our class and the Socrates of our time ere it would limit his greatness too much.

DANIEL PETERSON Emmetsburg, Ia.

Quite a bashful fellow it would seem at first, but not so after you know him, for he really "has much wit, but he is very shy of using it." Dan is a punctual fellow in both his class work and track training. He has a spirit of good will that radiates to others and commands admiration.

EDWARD PIRWITZ Rock Rapids, Ia.

Of whom many good things may be said. A popular student, and a very famous athlete. If noses were character builders Ed might be called a crook, but we Juniors are glad to claim a man who has broken his nose so many times for the honor of Maroon. The football captaincy for next year is a small token of the school's appreciation of Ed's fight and spirit. Those who know him longest like him best.

BERNADINE POST Onawa, Ia.

Such a striking looking girl is Bernadine with her unusual saphire hair and dark eyes. However, she is not only attractive looking, but she has a lovely manner. She dabbles a little in music and has a weakness for Swedes.

HELEN ROGERS Sioux City, Ia.

Is as brilliant as she is tall; she has a faculty for making A grades, especially in French. Although Helen is quite verbose she generally has something interesting to say. A girl with a generous and sympathetic nature with which she strives in every way to please her friends. Helen has always been loyal to her class.

KENNETH SALMAN White Lake, S. D.

In spite of "Kenny's" marcel and his cupid smile, he is a hustler. Ask him to do a thing either for his class, his school, or his society, and the next moment he is doing the task assigned him. If you wish to know all about the fourth dimension ask "Ken" for he is a "math" shark. We are sure this industrious Junior will make a mark in the world.

CLARK SCOTT Sioux City, Ia.

Maybe we should say "Great" Scott. He is the boy with the big car, and when he isn't driving this you can expect to find him either strolling—or perhaps studying. A glance at his grades would indicate that he spends enough time on his studies, for they are excellent. Clark cares more for books than looks anyhow, and we respect his choice.

ELSIE SHERWOOD Wall Lake, Ia.

An English shark who belongs to the Loveland gang. Elsie says, "In spite of the prosy atmosphere we have a real poetical time." Elsie is almost a fanatic on faithfulness and punctuality. A splendid girl who goes to college for the intellectual development.

GLADYS SHROYER Sanborn, Ia.

"Glad-is" what she always is. She greets you with an airy, breezy manner and a wide open heart. Another Glee Club warbler, and one whose tone and thoughts are ever changing. All seas have bubbles, all classes the'r mirth makers. Here's to Gladys!

LUELLA SMEBY Sioux City, Ia.

We chose "Lue" as our president because we felt she could ably fill this office. She is active in forensics, Y. W. work, and especially in athletics. She possesses keen powers of observation and is always observing that something is "too dumb for words." "Lue" adds her bit of advice and help to nearly every school activity and is, indeed, a very successful class pilot.

WAYNE STAUFFER Sioux City, Ia.

A living spirit, and firm convictions mark this man's career as a minister. He grasped the vision of a future without a college education and he was not satisfied. We admire the perseverance and grit he has shown in being able to remain with the class of '24.

JOSEPHINE STEELE Sioux City, Ia.

"Jo" is so refreshing and care-free—that is, so she seems when you meet her, but she studies regularly, and besides does much cramming before exams. She can certainly play the jazz—and her favorite melody is "Oh Peek Oh" (Pecaut). "Jo" has a special brand of friendship which ranks her as a class favorite.

MYRTLE SWANSON Sioux City, Ia.

"Blessed are those who say nothing for they shall not be quoted." In this maid's soft, blue eyes is expressed the lovely sort of bashfulness which charms. A conscientious student, a consistent character, and a Morningside booster.

LUCY TAN China

An only child from across the waters—yet she isn't spoiled. She is sweet in disposition, deep in thoughts and reserved in all her actions. A friend to all, but a chum to only one, and that is Francis Chang, with whom she has palled for eleven years. We have learned to love and respect "Lu."

IRENE TRUCKENMILLER Sibley, Ia.

Here we find the personification of sincerity. Irene goes quietly about her studies and quietly among her friends with the same gentle demeanor and amiable way all the time. She is a girl with a high moral standard and she lives true to it.

MAUDE WAGNER Sioux City, Ia.

Maude not only looks attractive and sensible, but she is. She speaks, behaves and acts just as she ought. Nevertheless, she is right there when fun and merry making hold full sway. To her friends Maude is constant and true and for this reason she has hosts of them. Maude adds much to her social group and to her class.

CARL WEGNER Carroll, Ia.

"Bud" is another of those popular "M" men. A first class athlete who plays on the football squad, and also made the famous Drake relay team. Everyone feels free to talk to "Bud" because he is just that good natured. He is planning to be a lawyer, not so much because he wants to, but—well, as he says, "Disguise our bondage as you will 'tis woman, woman rules us still."

GWENDOLYN WHITE Sioux City, Ia.

Such a sweet and sensible girl we find in "Gwen". She is neither too loud nor too quiet—but just right. If you want to know anything about Latin, in Latin or with Latin, just ask this classical shark. She is an excellent student and a real asset to her class.

GRACE WICKENS Avon, S. D.

"The friend among friends." A sweet and gentle "grace" with unassuming mein. Grace certainly is the confidant of her host of friends. You just cannot help but confide in Grace and you are sure that only two know your secrets. We all love Grace and we are glad she came back to be with us Juniors this year.

DWIGHT WINKLEMAN Lohrville, Ia.

With his never failing fountain of cleverness, "Dutch" is always in demand when the Peters Park gang wants to pull something. We all like him because there isn't anything in him not to like. He has the good looks, the good nature, and the good heartedness. Raving, he was once heard to say, "All great men are dying, and I don't feel very well myself." We are surprised he lived.

FRANCES BELLE WOOD Sioux City, Ia.

"Belle" is an ambitious sort of girl who is fond of blowing her own horn or we should say cornet. A faithful member of the college band and orchestra. She is most too busy to waste time socially. We shall watch Frances Belle's future because she has high aspirations as a musician.

PAULINE BETZ Sioux City, Ia.

A college girl is either a student or a social butterfly—Pauline belongs to the former class, and her choice is undoubtedly the best. She keeps Prof. Hoffman awake nights trying to think of something new to teach her. Her hobbies are dark-haired men and mice. She is known to be an industrious and sound thinking girl by all who know her.

THOMAS CAMPBELL Sioux City, Ia.

The man with a huge mustache and mighty vision. This man discovered the value of a college education a little late, but he is working hard to make up the lost time and his profs claim he keeps them guessing with his questions. He possesses an earnest purpose which makes for the better things in life.

ROSE MARY EVERY

A "rose" she is — sweet and refreshing. She is one of those dark-eyed girls who possesses depth and interestingness. Rose joined the Junior class only this year but we hope she stays with us next year so we may become better acquainted.

LALLA GERKIN Corwith, Ia.

Neat as a pin and not much bigger. Lalla is neither a book-worm or a social lion, but she is an all around girl. We expect Lalla to do much in her chosen avenue of teaching.

CRAIG WEATHERS Pierson, Ia.

"I was not born for great affairs, I eat and sleep and say my prayers." He is not the dashing kind, but the faithful, steady kind who believes that the college is the place to develop the mind more than anything else. We can see Craig in the future leading people in the ways of right living.

"Coach Saunderson of Morningside"—Those words are respected everywhere. As a coach of athletics and as a physical director, Jason M. Saunderson is ranked with the best in the west. He is president of the North Central Inter-Collegiate Athletic Association.

But here at Morningside, with the men, it isn't "Coach Saunderson," but "Saundy," and when that word is spoken by athletes you can just sense the warmth of feeling behind it. Ask any man who ever took any training under "Saundy" his opinion of the coach. They are all ready to fight for him.

Athletics mean much to Morningside, and "Saundy" means everything to Morningside athletics.

TENNIS, 1922

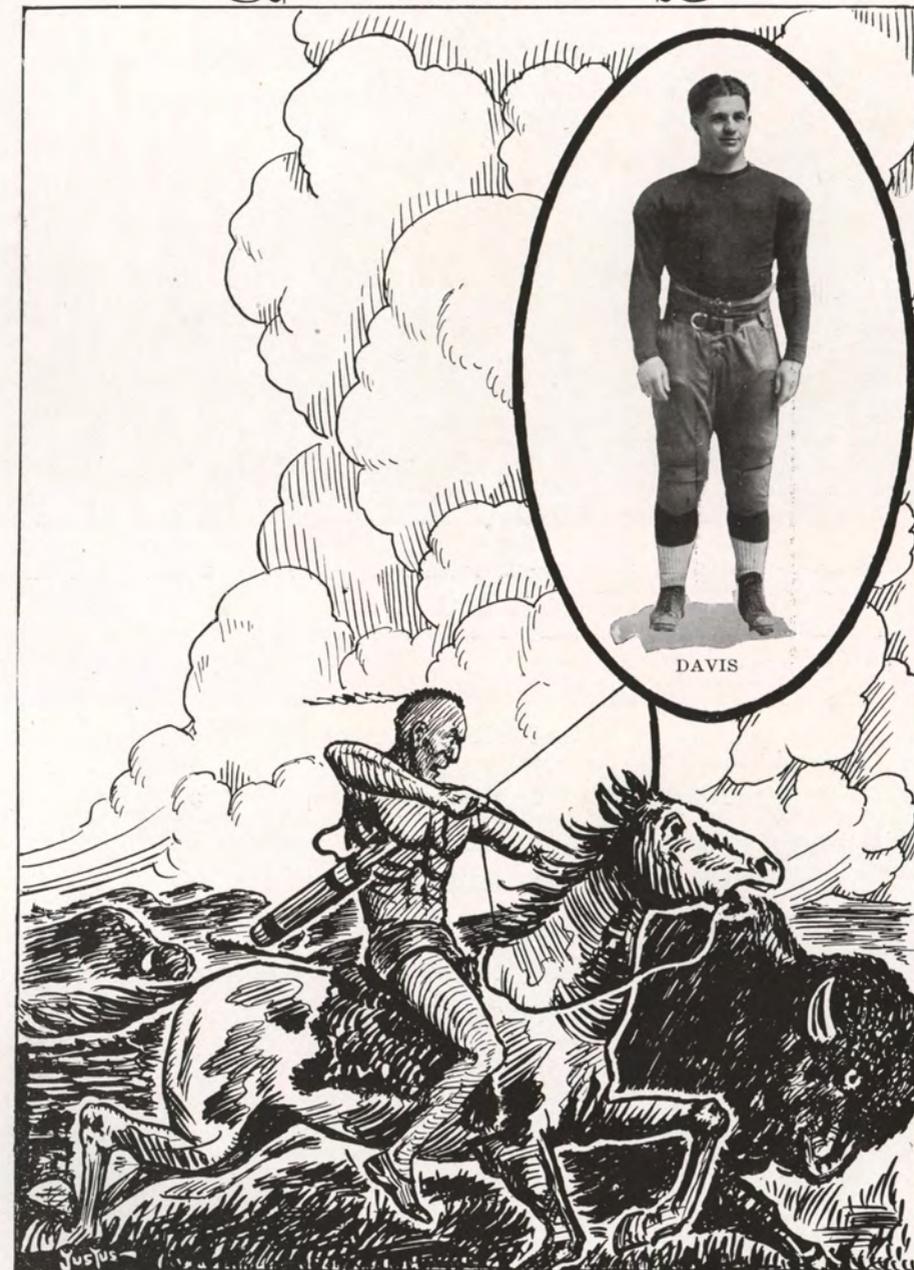

Nearly fifty racquet wielders entered the annual spring tennis tournament. Franklin Rolston and Glen Rolston were the survivors of a week's play, and in the final match, Franklin Rolston was the winner, earning the championship for 1922.

On May 28, a dual was held with Western Union College, of LeMars, on the Morningside courts. Morningside's doubles teams, made up of F. Rolston and Bedell, and G. Rolston and Goodwin, each turned in a victory. In the single matches, Morningside's representatives, Roland Bedell and F. Rolston, were defeated.

Tennis is rapidly becoming more popular at Morningside. More inter-collegiate contests are contemplated for 1923.

SEASON

When the first call sounded for Morningside grid warriors, on the twentieth of September, fifty men, including old timers and aspirants, appeared in suit to start the intensive training. By the end of the first week, seventy men were reporting daily to Coach Saunderson for practice.

With one of the toughest grid cards ever scheduled by Morningside, and with the first game less than three weeks away, there was plenty to be done and the coaches and men realizing this were soon down to intensive and systematic work so necessary to the building of a winning football team. A glance at the material on hand revealed eight letter men who had played on Morningside gridiron teams before. These men, Captain Davis, Day, Munson, Wegner, Nissen, Parsons, Pirwitz, and Rogers, together with Diebert, Harris, Griewe, Metcalfe, and Priest, who played on the second team the year before, constituted the nucleus around which "Saundy" had to build his team. New men who soon developed and showed they had the right "stuff" were Yeager, Fountain, Hoesch, Leitch, Rolston, Johnson, McMaster, Marsh, and Smith.

One handicap which caused the Maroons a great deal of trouble throughout the entire season was the lack of weight in the squad as a whole. The candidates for positions were unusually small, and with this in mind, Coach Saunderson and Assistant Coach Northup had a big problem on their hands. They were not daunted, however, and soon had the entire squad working at top speed. The end of the first week saw two teams engaging in scrimmage. New combinations were constantly tried as few men seemed sure of a varsity berth.

The first game of the season, with Western Union College, of LeMars, was near at hand, and the lineup still in doubt. And to add to this uncertainty, "Red" Day, veteran end, received a broken nose and "Chub" Parsons, giant tackle, received injuries, thus keeping both these men on the side lines during the first encounter. Harris, Hoesch, Yeager, Johnson, Griewe, and Fountain were the new played players finally decided upon to start in the first game, which was played in Sioux City, the seventh of October. Harris started at end, Hoesch at left tackle, Yeager at left guard, Johnson at right tackle, Griewe at right guard, and Fountain at full back. Morningside was doped to win the Western Union game with little trouble, having never lost a game to the LeMars school.

But, contrary to dope, Morningside dropped the first game by a score of 3 to 0. Kock, the hard hitting Western Union full back, booted the ball between the uprights in the first quarter for the only counter of the game. Morningside repeatedly advanced the ball to within scoring distance, but each time lacked the necessary punch to put it over. Added to this, six letter men were taken out of the game, due to injuries, before the first half was over. In the last half, due to the weakened condition of the Maroon eleven, Western Union made a number of long gains as a result of passes and end runs by Kock. The visitors failed, however, to convert these gains into counters. The final whistle found the Maroons staging a desperate rally to score. However, their efforts were in vain. The first practice following the initial game found several varsity men on the side lines because of injury.

The Yankton game came next on the Morningside schedule. The game was to be played in Sioux City, the fourteenth of October. With many shifts in the lineup, and after a week of gruelling practice, a very different lineup was started in the Yankton game from that which started the Western Union fray. Again the Maroons seemed to be battling with hard luck in the Yankton game, and the mere margin of a drop kick gave the visitors a victory of 3 to 0.

With these stinging defeats in mind, and in games which before the season started had been considered as only practice games, Morningside saw that a radical change was necessary. Consequently, a week of the most gruelling type of practice followed in preparation for the contest with the powerful Kalamazoo college eleven, from Kalamazoo, Michigan. The game was played at home on the twenty-first of October.

Morningside hit her stride in this game and won one of the hardest fought battles seen on Bass Field for a number of years by a score of 13 to 6. Fighting a team which outweighed it fifteen pounds to the man, the Maroon eleven outplayed the Michigan team in every department and in every period of the game, with the exception of the first quarter. Kalamazoo got away with a flying start and, before the Morningsiders were fairly started, had scored a touchdown. Undaunted by this lead, the plucky Methodists soon buckled down to work and, under the leadership of Captain Davis and Quarterback Rogers, played an exceptional game.

Kalamazoo kicked off to Morningside who returned the ball twenty yards, Rogers punted. Taking the ball from this point, the visitors marched down the field to the ten-yard line where the Maroons put up a stone wall defense. Kalamazoo lost the ball on downs and Morningside kicked out of danger. Taking the ball again, the Michigan eleven worked it to the ten-yard line and then by the use of a trick play, crossed Morningside's goal line.

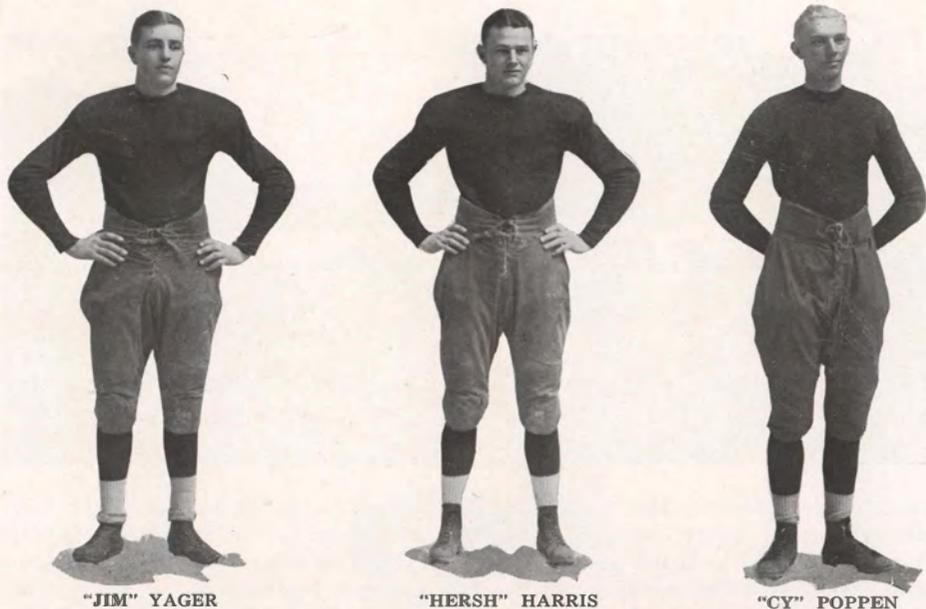

Receiving the kickoff, Morningside placed the ball on her opponent's seven-yard line by a series of passes. A pass from Rogers to Day netted forty-five yards alone. At this point, however, a fumble lost the ball for Morningside. Another opportunity to score was missed immediately following this when a place kick missed by inches.

The Methodists' first touchdown came in the second period when, after another series of passes, Rogers to Day and Fountain, the ball was worked to the five-yard line. Rogers called on Captain Davis to carry the ball on a straight line buck and the stocky Maroon halfback, playing true to form, punched it over. Davis added the extra point by making a place kick.

The second Maroon counter came in the last period when, after working the ball to the five-yard line by passes and end runs, Metcalf, who had been substituted for Davis, smashed across the Kalamazoo line. Rogers failed to kick goal. A good deal of the credit for the victory is given to "Honie" Rogers, at quarter, whose passing was fast and accurate, and whose punting was the best seen on Bass Field up to that time. He also made several long gains by end runs. Captain Davis played his usual stellar game at halfback and was responsible for stopping a number of trick plays at critical points in the game. Day and Pirwitz, at ends, also starred.

The second week end, following the Kalamazoo game, found Morningside doing battle with Des Moines University, at the capital city, on the third of November. This battle, for such it was, will go down as one of the hardest fought contests in the history of the two schools, with neither team a winner, as the score stood 7 and 7 when the final whistle brought the contest to an end.

Again battling a team which far outweighed them, the Maroons displayed a rare brand of football and, according to a large number of critics, should have won. Taking the ball in the first quarter, the Maroons soon placed it on the Des Moines ten-yard line with a series of line bucks by Davis and Nissen. Here, due to the slippery condition of the field, the ball could not be advanced and a drop kick was tried by Rogers, but failed by a narrow margin. Des Moines punted out of danger and Morningside, receiving it midfield, again started her smashing brand of football which soon found the ball on the Tigers' eight-yard line. Three attempts, however, to make a touchdown failed, as did another drop kick.

Des Moines then, apparently coming to life, took the ball from the shadow of her own goal posts and did not stop until she had shoved it over the Morningside goal line. The extra point was made via the drop kick route. In the third quarter the teams were more evenly matched and neither scored. In the last period, however, the Maroons threw discretion to the winds and opened up with a series of passes and trick plays which soon placed the ball far into Des Moines territory. Then Rogers, standing on the twenty-yard line, hurled a pass to Day who caught it behind the Des Moines line. Rogers kicked goal and the score was tied. The game was rough and several men were knocked out. No serious injuries resulted however. Des Moines was a team which had been doped by a great many to beat Morningside, but the fighting Methodists proved the equals of their heavier opponents in every department of the game.

The Nebraska Wesleyan game turned out to be another tie contest, the final score standing 21 to 21. The game was played on Bass Field, Armistice day. This game seemed to be a repetition of the Des Moines game, as the Nebraskans far outweighed the Maroons. This, however, only seemed to spur the Morningsiders to greater efforts. The heavy, yellow line of the visitors made the Maroon forward look like a prep school team, but the "old fight was there" and, although the score was a tie, the Maroons really lost the game through costly errors which the visitors were able to snatch up.

Nebraska Wesleyan made her first counter in the first period. After working the ball to the ten-yard line, she lost it on downs. Davis, kicking for Morningside, punted and the ball struck Nissen, which gave the visitors the ball on the five-yard line. Advantage was taken of this opportunity and a touchdown was made. Goal was also kicked. The second counter for the visitors came when they ran back a kickoff for a touchdown. This play was well executed and had perfect interference. However, it should not have been made. Goal was missed. A safety in the second quarter and another touchdown in the third period constituted the scoring done by the visitors.

Morningside's scoring consisted of three touchdowns and a drop kick. The touchdowns were the results of series of passes and end runs, with the backs taking the ball over on straight line bucks. Due to the absence of Rogers during the largest part of the game, the Maroon aerial attack was greatly hindered as he was the starting point for all of the team's passes. With his injection into the game near the last half, the Maroons seemed to take on new life and would, no doubt, have annexed several more scores with a bit more of time.

The South Dakota Staters and North Dakota Aggies had things pretty much their own way and, although Morningside displayed a brand of football far above her head, the question of men was the determining factor, and the team having the heaviest and most experienced men had little trouble in coming out at the long end of the score. The South Dakota State game was played here November 18, and the North Dakota game, on Thanksgiving day, closed the season.

With the season ended it is only natural that a glance be taken into the future and see what the 1923 prospects will be. Only two men will be lost via the graduation route. They are Griewe and Deibert. This leaves a total of thirteen letter men eligible to play next season. This list includes Captain Davis, Rogers, Day, Wegner, Pirwitz, Parsons, Nissen, Harris, Metcalfe, Fountain, Munson, and Yeager. With this amount of material and a bright outlook among the 1922 scrubs, Morningside will have a strong nucleus around which to build the 1923 eleven. Also one of the heaviest grid schedules ever arranged by Morningside will give Morningside fans an ample opportunity in 1923 to see the team in action against some strong elevens. The strongest schools engaged for games next fall are the University of South Dakota, Kalamazoo College, North Dakota Aggies, Des Moines University, Nebraska Wesleyan, and South Dakota State. These schools are all members of the Big Nine Conference, with the exception of Kalamazoo.

Morningside placed two men on the Big Nine all-conference team chosen by coaches of the respective schools—Captain Davis and Day being the men so honored. Davis was also placed on Zec Taylor's all-state second team.

In summing up all is not said and done until credit is placed where credit is due. The team should come in for its share of credit for the hard work it put in, and also the scrubs who, without a word of protest, served as a battering wall for the first eleven during the entire season. They received all the knocks, but glory, honor and encouragement all passed over their heads.

Last, but far from the least, let us pay tribute to the coaches who gave all they had that we might take our place among the upper schools of the Big Nine Conference and win a name and place among athletic teams of the middle west. Coach Jason M. Saunderson and his able assistant, Carol Northup, not only gave their time to develop a team, but they were heart and soul in their work and did everything in their power to develop a real grid machine. These coaches worked with the men—not as bosses, but as man to man with members of the team, and each man when called upon to play was ready to give his all first for his Alma Mater and second for his coaches.

SEASON, 1923

Immediately following the football season, Coach Saunderson issued his call for basketball players. Thirty players responded to this call and worked every night until the Christmas holidays, when they were granted a five-day vacation. Weeding his squad down to a working number, "Saundy selected twenty men to continue practice and from which to select his varsity quintet.

On January 19, Morningside College five, playing the Creighton team at Omaha, opened one of the toughest cage schedules ever entered into by the Maroon and White team. The schedule included games with the fastest teams in the Big Nine Conference and marked a new era in the college sport of basketball.

Creighton, displaying an exceptional brand of basketball, annexed the first two games from Morningside, at Omaha, on January 19 and 20,

The second team met by the Maroon five was the rangy North Dakota Aggies team from Fargo, North Dakota. This proved to be a fast and hard played game, with the North Dakota team winning, however, by a score of 37 to 17, on the Morningside floor. Throughout the first half Morningside displayed a better brand of basketball in all departments than the visitors, but in the second half the Dakotans hit a terrific stride and piled up a large score.

Creighton, playing the Methodists in Sioux City, on February 3, won another victory. This was a hotly contested game with the victors exhibiting a high grade brand of basketball.

February 9 and 10 found South Dakota University in Sioux City, playing Morningside in the first athletic contest between the two schools for three years. This friendly relationship was brought about by the Big Nine Conference, of which organization both schools are members.

The age old rivalry between these two schools was not lacking, and the two games proved to be two of the closest and hardest fought games on the Maroon schedule. Morningside's players seemed to realize the extreme importance of these games and, as a result, won both by easy margins. The first game ended with the Maroons holding the long end of a 30 to 20 score, while the second contest gave the Maroons a 35 to 24 victory.

The smooth teamwork of the Morningsiders was largely accountable for their winning. Also this, coupled with the ability to shoot baskets, enabled the Maroons to outclass their opponents.

In the next three games Morningside played with hard luck and lost all three. The first one was played in Sioux City against the fast North Dakota University five, on February 13. The other two games were with Des Moines University, at Des Moines, February 16 and 17. The Des Moines quintet, although having one of the strongest teams in the conference, was pushed throughout both the games.

In the following game with Nebraska Wesleyan, on February 19, here, the Maroons found their stride and, even though they were playing a larger and more experienced team, took the measure of the Nebraskans and won by a 29 to 24 score. The first half of this game ended with a tie, and not until the last period did the Maroons take the lead.

The final two games on the Morningside schedule were with South Dakota University, at Vermillion, on February 23 and 24. Nearly one hundred Morningside students attended these games at Vermillion, some driving there and others taking the train. Their rooting and cheering proved an impetus for the Morningsiders, who won the first game of this series, but dropped the second game.

The score of the first contest was 33 to 25, while the second game ended with South Dakota holding a one point lead, the score being 18 to 17.

The Maroon basket tossers, although pushed in the first game, had little difficulty in winning. With the score see-sawing back and forth in the second game of the series, the winner could not be picked until the last whistle blew. In fact, the Morningsiders, with one point behind and one minute to play, had the ball under their baskets and, although they made several shots at the baskets, seemed to be playing with fate and could not drop the leather sphere through the iron hoop for the winning count.

Captain "Honie" Rogers, playing at forward, and "Jack" Rogers, playing at center, and both veterans from last year, proved to be strong scoring combination for the Maroons. Time and again these fast Maroons would work the ball down the floor, through the defense of the opponents, and drop the ball through the basket for counters.

"Bill" Bartlett, guard, was the "dark horse" of the season. His all-around ability both on defense and offense places him on a par with the best basketball men ever turned out at Morningside. A strong guard, fast on floor work and a good shot, his playing was the sensation of the season. Metcalf a veteran guard and teammate with Bartlett, was a valuable cog in "Saundy's" machine. He played a steady and consistent game.

A freshman "find" of the year was Hauff. Hauff played at forward as running mate with "Honie." This fast player was a valuable point getter and a good man on defense.

Peterson, although entering school at the start of the second semester, soon won a place on the varsity squad and alternated with Hauff. His shooting ability and strong defensive and offensive playing made him a favorite with Morningside sport fans.

Other men who played during the season, but not enough to win the basketball "M," are Billiards, Stucker, Harris, Doeckson, Rolston, Miller, and Croston.

THE SEASON

The Morningside College 1922 baseball season was one of the most successful ever enjoyed at the Methodist school. Seven victories were registered out of a possible eight.

Starting the season with but a few letter men, Coach Saunderson soon weeded out the poorer material and with a squad of "rookies" and using the few letter men he had, developed a smooth working ball club. The team was composed of fast and heady men who played with clock like precision.

The Maroons got off to a flying start in the first game of the season by defeating Western Union College, 25 to 0. In this game "Saundy" had an opportunity to try out his new men.

Nebraska Wesleyan was the next victim of the Maroons and went down to defeat by the close score of 6 to 5.

The only game of the season which Morningside lost was the one with Iowa State Teachers College, which ended in a 7 to 5 victory for the pedagogues.

Western Union was next, and again lost to Morningside by a 6 to 4 score. The next four games after this were played with Des Moines University. All four games were won by Morningside. The respective scores were 4 to 2; 7 to 6; 6 to 1 and 17 to 12.

Eleven men won baseball letters during the season. The men who won the coveted award were Captain and Captain-Elect Leslie Pritchard, Robert Brown, Ed Williams, Orville Balentine, Jake Gamerdinger, Leslie Davis, Myron Thoreson, Glenn Rogers, Maurice Stucker, Gaile Stucker, and Merle Hanson. Herschal Harris played within a few innings of the necessary time to win a letter.

Out of the eleven letter men only one was lost by graduation, leaving the remainder eligible for the 1923 ball team. With six out of the eligible men certain of returning to school for the 1923 season, and with a wealth of new material on hand, Coach Saunderson's opportunities for a winning Big Nine Conference team are good.

Fast competition is expected in the 1923 season due to Morningside's association in the Big Nine Conference. This association will bring to Sioux City some of the best college ball clubs in this section of the country, thus giving Morningside fans an exceptional opportunity of seeing some of these teams in action.

CAPTAIN DAMEROW

THE SEASON

Success cannot always be measured by the number of contests won, nor by the number of contests entered, though this is the customary method by which we measure success in all forms of athletics.

At the beginning of the track season for the near 1912, an abundance of long distance material was on hand taking daily workouts for the two-mile relay team, but there were no weight men or any dash men, and it was "Saundy's" job to develop men in these latter classes. Most of the coach's time was spent on men who showed promise of development in these events. Should we consider the material which turned out at the call for track candidates we must certainly admit that the season was a success, due to the development which a large number of men obtained.

Most of the men who reported were Freshmen and Sophomores, and to develop this raw material into real track men was plainly the task before the coach. Thus, success in one of its many views was attained, for Morningside may well be proud of the material which was developed last year and which will return to add to the honor of M. C. on the track during the coming season.

JONES

HOON

The first meet on schedule for the team was the Drake Relays. At the end of the Christmas holidays several men commenced preparing themselves for that all important event, "The Two-mile Relay at Drake." Led by Captain Damerow, these men, each afternoon, were found in the gym or on the campus. For weeks they trained trying to round into form that they might represent Morningside at Drake.

So it was, that one day in April, the team of four men left for the capitol to do their best. Captain Damerow, V. Rouze, C. Eerkes, and "Shorty" Nissen had proven themselves fit to represent their Alma Mater. They brought great credit to themselves for running against some of the best college relay teams in the country, they brought home third place. The record for this relay, which was made by a Morningside team several years ago, was broken by the team representing Michigan Aggies, and our own team beat the former record.

Now our attention is focused on the Iowa State Conference Meet for colleges. To this meet Morningside sent a strong team, and again our fleet-footed warriors placed their school in third position. "Shorty" Nissen, fast half-miler, jogged around the half-mile track in 1:59½, leading the nearest man by more than five yards. At the same meet, Captain Damerow showed his class as a miler and two-miler by easily winning both events. Jones, our phenomenal pole-vaulter, had little difficulty in winning his event, not being pressed at the height of 11 feet 5¾ inches.

"ED" WILLIAMS

"BUD" WEGNER

About this time our team went out into faster company, in the form of the State Meet. Here men from the universities and colleges vied for honors and our men brought home again a prize in the form of fifth place. The outstanding event, from our viewpoint, was the fact that Jones tied with Devine, of Iowa, for first place in the pole vault, neither man being able to clear 11 feet 6 $\frac{3}{4}$ inches.

Our last event was the Big Nine Conference Meet, at Brookings, and although the number of men sent there was small, nevertheless a creditable showing was made. Jones, Damerow and Nissen again proved the outstanding men on the Maroon squad.

Not a little of the victories that came to our school were due to the efforts of others who, though they didn't bring in firsts, were able, by hard work, to bring the total of points upward. Among these men who did much to make the team what it was were Williams and Diebert, who handled the hurdles for us. Also Hoon, who was our best man in the dashes, though Rolston and Eichman showed up to good advantage. For the quarter we had several good men as Evans, Eerkes, Nissen, Rouze, and Wegner. The half was well taken care of by Nissen and Wegner, while in the mile we had Captain Damerow and Nelson. Both of these men also ran the two-mile. In field events the team was decidedly weak. Our strongest man was Jones, who could always be depended upon for five points. For the weights, javelin and jumps we were represented by Funkhouser, Haakinson, Fowler, Ives, Johnson, Davis, Munson, Evans, Simmons, Nichols, Feddersen, and Peskin.

Thus ended the season, leaving for the coming year a host of men who should be the foundation for an excellent team.

THE CROSS COUNTRY RUN

Morningside won the first annual Big Nine Conference run, which was held over the Floyd Monument course, November 11. Damerow won first place—time, 17:56½. Griffith, of Nebraska Wesleyan, nosed out Nelson, of Morningside, for second place. Zilm was Morningside's third representative.

Teams composed of three men from South Dakota University, South Dakota State, Des Moines, University, Nebraska Wesleyan, and Morningside, participated.

DRAKE RELAYS

Morningside's representatives at the Drake Relays, the track classic of the west, brought great credit to Morningside by winning third place in the two-mile relays.

Harold Nissen, Verle Rouze, Cornie Eerkes, and Captain Damerow ran in this event.

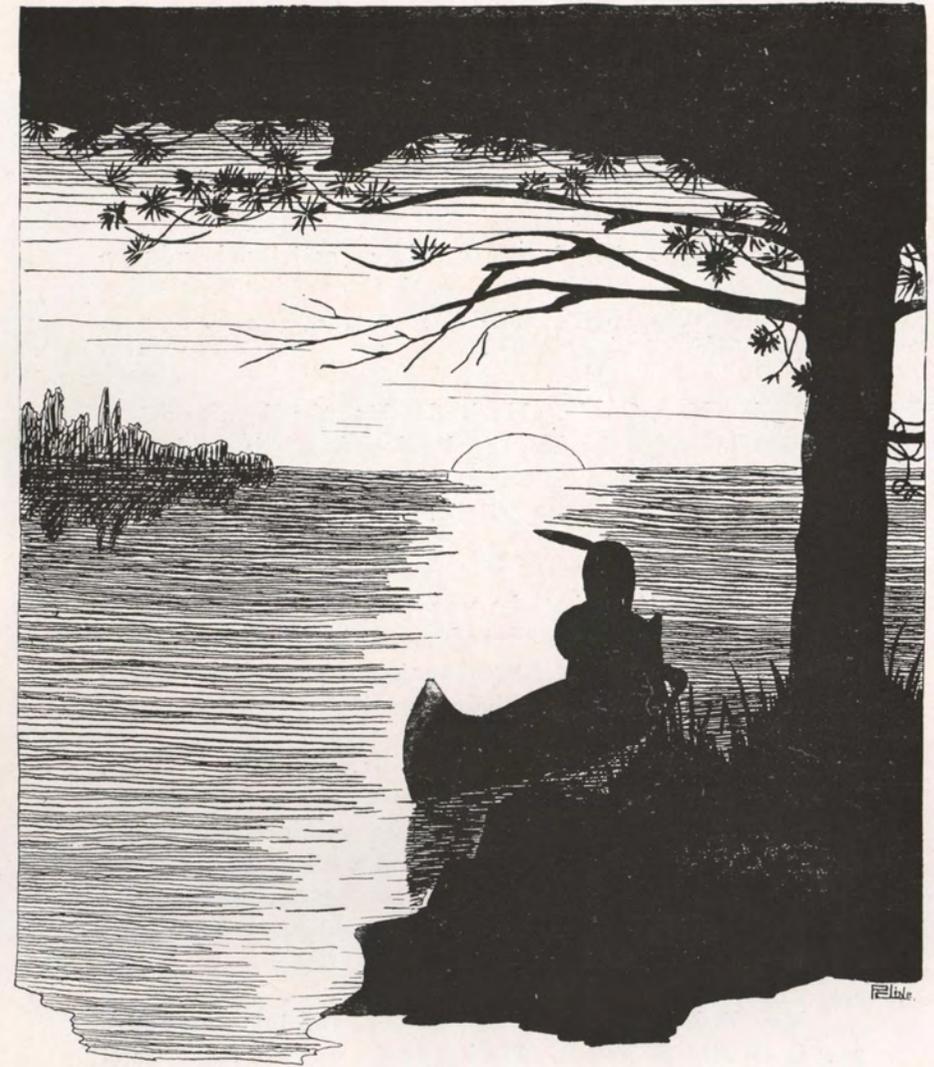

THE MONUMENT RUN

PAUL ELLIS

The Monument course comprises a distance of approximately three miles. Each year, on the twenty-second of February, the Annual Monument Run is contested.

Paul Ellis, contrary to the dope, won first place in remarkably fast time. Lorimer Nelson placed second, Peter Lloyd, third. Beck, a sub-freshman, won the medal given to the first academy man to finish.

GIRL'S ATHLETICS

FOREWORD

Morningside girls, in every field of activity, keenly regretted to learn, after the Christmas holidays, that Miss Good, "their" Miss Good, had decided to leave one Gym for another "Jim."

Under Miss Good's able leadership, the department of Physical Education for Women developed rapidly, and every girl in school was glad to come out for volley ball, base ball, track, and all of the other activities, just for the privilege of working with her.

During the time that she was with us, Miss Good (now Mrs. James Potter) created and maintained on the campus an annual May Day Fete, a program that creditably portrayed the originality and dability of its sponsor.

Mrs. Potter's place has been taken by Miss Marjorie Fish, a graduate of Wisconsin University. Miss Fish has inaugurated an entirely new system of conducting physical training, having student captains assist with the work. The girls are enthusiastic in their praises of the new method and are working hard to make higher standards of personal efficiency.

Miss Fish has an abundance of pep, and takes an active part in all athletic games. She has easily won the respect and admiration of the girls, and has shown a determination to make girls' athletics of foremost importance on the campus.

The object of athletics for women at Morningside College is to care for the physical welfare of the girls and, furthermore, through the corrective and recreative value of sports, to build a foundation for development—physical, mental, and moral.

Our aim, therefore, is to provide those forms of recreation which will reach all the girls.

M. C. CLUB

Fowlie, Duncan, Smith, Smeby, Bond, Murray, Bondhus.
Lyman, Mueller, Lowery, Bekins, McCabe.
Drury, Mercure, Montgomery, Johnson.

Membership in M. C. Club is a goal eagerly sought by all truly athletic Morningside girls, and fifty-five honor points in gym activities are the only requisites. The club has functioned for three years, and has grown during that time from a small group of five, to an organization with sixteen wide-awake, energetic boosters.

OFFICERS

President.....Happie Smith, Frances Mueller
Vice President.....Ruth Montgomery, Charity Bekins
Secretary-Treasurer.....Ruth Bond, Lillian Murray

M. C. WEARERS

Frances Mueller, Ruth Bond, Hortense Mercure, Happie Smith.

A clever looking, serviceable, heavy white sweater is the reward for every girl who has the perseverance to stay out for athletics four years. Seventy points are required for the sweater, and not more than twenty points a year can be counted towards it. Thus far only nineteen girls have won the right to an M. C. sweater. They are: Aurelia Sturdevant, Ruth Mahood, Hazel Bergeson, Flossie Day, Gladys Knapp, Bernice Radley, Lorene Williams, Zella Baldwin, Irma Stevens, Berenice Scoville, Dorothy Skewis, Nona Moss, Golda Kane, Zazel Kane, Ada Long, and the four young ladies pictured above.

BASKETBALL

Bondhus, Lyman, Burns, Duncan.
Haskins, Rogers, Woods.

With two crack basket shooters on their team, the Sophomore class group had little trouble in taking this year's inter-class tournament. A combined team of Seniors and Juniors was eliminated by this aggregation, after the former had taken the yearlings into camp.

VOLLEYBALL

Packard, Smeby, Bekins, Fowlie.
Drury, Montgomery.

After defeating the Seniors in a loosely played contest, the heavy hitting Junior team walked off with first honors by decisively beating the Freshmen in this year's tournament. The first year girls had piled up a twenty point lead when the Junior captain succeeded in adding twenty-four tallies to the score sheet.

YALE-HARVARD

Lond, Burns, Murray, Duncan, Ralston.

ANNUAL ATHLETIC CLASSIC "FOR WOMEN ONLY"

After the Class Basketball Tournament, the best players in each group were chosen by Miss Good, to play on the Yale and Harvard teams. Competition for places on these teams is especially keen and more excitement arises over their selection and practices than is created at any other time during the athletic season. The contest this year was more closely fought than any other for several years, and the outcome was uncertain until the final whistle blew. The score was 20-18, in Harvard's favor.

RUTH BOND

Ruth has been a Harvard player every year that she has been in Morningside—an enviable record.

VEO BURNS

This lively Sophomore enters every branch of athletics, and is a star in all of them. She is a center that is hard to beat.

LILLIAN MURRAY

Lillian's antics while guarding are a terror to every forward who plays against her. Her work was a big factor in the game.

WINONA DUNCAN

"Nona" is a good player who works just as hard as she can when given a chance. A sub this year, but a mighty active one.

LEILA RALSTON

A high school star who has already established an enviable position here.

YALE-HARVARD

Rogers, Johnson, Mercure, Lowry, Haskins.

CATHERINE ROGERS

Catherine is another guard who keeps her opponents guessing. She also keeps them away from the basket.

TILLIE JOHNSON

A fast and furious little forward. Tillie has played basketball ever since she was in the grades, and she has always starred.

HORTENSE MERCURE

She is little, but oh my! One of the best running centers that has ever played at M. C.

HARRIET LOWRY

Although she only played for a few minutes this year, Harriet has shown that she is a mighty good shot and a steady player.

DOROTHY HASKINS

Dot is the "original" little running center. She and Hortense had a little track meet all their own during this year's contest.

YALE-HARVARD

Monroe, Bondhus, Pohlman, Newmark, Woods.

BERENICE MONROE

Harvard was indeed fortunate to have such a capable girl for jumping center. A versatile player who knows the game.

LEONE BONDHUS

Rockford must indeed have been proud of Leone. Due to her accurate eye, Yale nearly turned tables on Harvard.

ERMA POHLMAN

A forward who plays with the determination to do her very best. A dandy forward, and a mighty good scout to have on a team.

ROSA NEWMARK

This speedy little center gave Dot mighty strong competition for first honors. She looks good for Hortense's place next year.

EDNA WOODS

The heroine of the Harvard camp. Edna made fifteen of Harvard's points. Her leadership is never-failing.

WILLIAM O. MOORE

Professor Moore shaped Morningside's 1922-23 forensic policy so as to allow a greater number of persons to participate in inter-collegiate debate and oratory. Twenty-three students won medals for participating in inter-collegiate forensics—more than ever before.

The majority of Morningside's platform artists were selected outside the Senior class, hence prospects loom bright for winning teams next year.

IN CONCLUSION

It has been a real task—but a pleasurable one—to set forth here a year of Morningside life. There have been errors, probably inexcusable, but mistakes will creep in despite all the effort that is taken to minimize them. Although the work is far from perfect, the board has no apologies to make, for it has done its best.

This Sioux would have been impossible had it not been for the co-operation extended to the staff by numerous firms and individuals, and in recognition of this service the editor wishes to make the following acknowledgements:

To the Verstegen Printing Company, of Sioux City, the makers of the 1924 Sioux, we wish to express our thanks for the helpful suggestions and the excellent service rendered by the company.

To the Bureau of Engraving, of Minneapolis, and to Mr. J. J. Sher, of that company, we are indebted for the co-operation that was continually extended, and for the fine quality of work that was produced.

To the David J. Molloy Company, of Chicago, the makers of the covers for this Sioux.

To our advertisers whose generous subscriptions met more than half the cost of production of this volume.

To the Student Body of Morningside College, which loyally supported the entire enterprise.

It is the sincere wish of the editor, and his staff, that this Sioux will meet with approval.

—THE EDITOR.

FACULTY—OR LACK OF IT?

AN UNCENSORED WHEEZE COMPLETE IN THIS ISSUE

Time—Somewhere between sunrise and sunset.

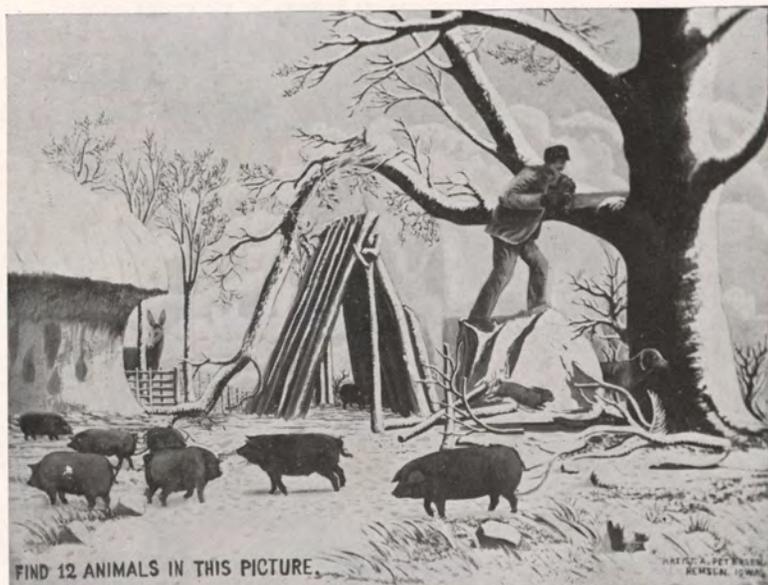

Place—A luxuriously furnished classroom in the "Barracks."

Characters—Prof. Hoodwink, Prof. Kauffman, Prof. Bays, Prof. Harker, Prof. Less, Dr. Catsup, Prof. Peavick.

- Prof. Harker (acting as chairman): "Now that we are comfortably arranged in these—Ahem! you must pardon me as I have a terrible cold—in these luxurious quarters which have become so dear to me, we may as well take up the business of the day."
- Prof. Kauffman: "Mr. Chairman, in view of the fact that Thomas Jefferson once remarked that he didn't know which was best—government or newspapers—I think we should take up at once the matter of deciding the motto this association should adopt." (Cries of "Hear!" "Hear!") (General nodding of heads).
- Prof. Bays (uttering a shrill cry followed by the words "Ugh!" "Ugh!"—Indian symbol meaning "attention"): "Gentlemen, we all desire a motto that will be expressive of the aims and purposes of this group and I sugg—" (Interruption).
- Dr. Catsup (crying excitedly): "Hold! Hold! Prof. Bays, methinks I heard the dropping of a bean—no doubt some prowling stude lurks overhead!"
- Prof. Harker: "Cease your fears, Dr. Catsup—t'was not the rattling of beans you heard, t'was the rattling of the P's on these accounting papers on my desk."
- Prof. Less: "Of course as far as that's concerned the remarks of Prof. Bays' were full of glittering generalities. His voice was too strong, his gestures too pronounced, he contradicted him—"
- Prof. Peavick (interrupting): "To business, to business, Mr. Chairman. The expressions of Prof. Less make me more or less mortified."
- Dr. Catsup (rising hastily, as in a panic): "Gentlemen, I must be excused. I completely forgot to set the bear trap inside the inner door of the safe in which the chapel attendance books are kept."
- Prof. Harker: "You are excused, Dr. Catsup, meanwhile I will stoke the furnace—I believe I detect a slight draft." (Prof. Harker goes to rear of room—stokes fire—and returns). "Now, gentlemen, surely one of you, by this time, has settled upon a thought that can be incorporated into an acceptable slogan." (Notices Prof. Hoodwink engrossed in deep thought in contrast to other profs.)
- Prof. Hoodwink (rising excitedly): "Ah! my word! I have it! Let us go back into history—select some famous slogan, and adopt it as the motto of this august essemblage." (Cries of "Hear! Hear!") (Profs lean forward with hands at ears to drink in the report).
- Prof. Harker: "Yes, yes, go, on, Prof. Hoodwink, what is this slogan?"
- Prof. Hoodwink: "I am sure that you will agree that it sets forth our cherished purpose and—"
- Chorus: "Speak, speak, Prof. Hoodwink, what is it?"
- Prof. Hoodwink: "They Shall Not Pass."
- (Meeting ends in a riot amidst cries of "Bravo" and "Nobly Spoken" as Prof. Hoodwink is borne away by the throng).
- Prof. Harker (soliloquising): "Now that I am alone I can enjoy to the full the rugged beauty of my surroundings."

EXTRA! EXTRA!
EXTRA!

After years of research Professor Don Cady presents to the world his epochal discovery, "Makem Young Again." A group of Morningside students immediately expressed their desire to take the remarkable rejuvenating treatment which pushes back the hands of time 15 years. Your little task is to identify the persons below who submitted to the treatment.

THE YALE-HARVARD GAME AND THE FOOLISHNESS
OF WOMEN

By a Mere Man.

Much as the Nineteenth Amendment and the rule of the rolling pin inconveniences some men and disturb the "peaceful tenor of events" in their lives, the fact remains that men are the lords of creation, especially in college. Of course, there are a few "spaghetti-spined" individuals who permit women to tell them what time they may come and what time they may leave, and there are some, in whose spines the spaghetti is of unusually poor consistency, who have even quit smoking cigarettes at the dictation of a woman. These exceptions, however, only serve to prove the rule that college men come and go as they please. For instance, if there is a football game in Des Moines which they want to see, they go to Des Moines by the traditional box-car route. If any of our fair coeds should do such a thing, the resulting sensation would make the famous eruption of Vesuvius seem like a rest cure for nervous patients.

In view of these evidences of masculine superiority, it is hard to understand why the women of Morningside should try to hold an important affair and not only have no men present, but use every means within their power to keep all men out. Most of the "sweet young things" who flit about our halls of learning cannot even put on their "goulashes" without at least one man to help them, and three or four others to stand around and envy the fortunate one. Surely, then, no great event could possibly occur without the aid of men. Yet the women actually attempted just such a thing. Their valiant efforts to succeed and their humiliating failure form the "theme of my lay," so to speak.

The event in question was the "Yale-Harvard" basketball game. To prevent any men from coming, a formidable guard of Amazons, armed with rolling pins, dish pans, and stove poker, trained in the gentle art of hair-pulling, and quick to detect any attempt to deceive them, was stationed at the gymnasium door. Grim determination was written upon their faces "They shall not pass" was their battle cry.

Some may wonder why the men were so eager to attend the game. The "Yale-Harvard" game, however, is more than a mere basketball game. From the masculine standpoint, basketball is entirely secondary, for no man in his senses would want to watch a girls' basketball game. After one of them, the milk wagon would seem like a fast express. The real show comes between the periods of play, and is supposed to rival the Orpheum, to say nothing of the Model. Anyway, the great possibilities of these "stunts" between periods, and the rare pleasure of violating rules, offer sufficient inducement to the men to brave the terrors of the guards and come to the game.

To proceed with our story—about six o'clock one evening in February, two people walked across the campus in a very agitated fashion and cautiously entered the "gym." One of them had hair that was not exactly auburn, nor yet was it yellow. It had a peculiar color, rather uncommon in human hair. That fact in itself need not have aroused suspicion, for a great many women accept contributions to their hair from other sources. There was something strange, though, about this "woman's" carriage. "She" walked as if "she" wanted to take longer steps than "she" did, but for some reason felt it unwise to do so. "Her" companion was a brunette, and had a lovely complexion, although it did not have the appearance of permanence, being somewhat streaked here and there. "Her" dress hung rather loosely, and "she" did not seem accustomed to it. Her hair, too, had a naturalized appearance.

After entering the "gym," the two "ladies" crept stealthily to an upstairs room, and tried to lock the door, but failed. They discovered, however, that in the gathering darkness they could easily hide behind a large tin can in the room over which some boards and old books had been placed. After removing the bulbs from the electric lights, they sat down to wait. Soon women began to arrive downstairs. The guards took their posts. At every noise, the two "ladies" upstairs dived behind the tin can. Once a half-dozen girls entered the room to practice a "stunt," and literally brushed the skirts of the unknown visitors, but suspected nothing. The hearts of the two "ladies," meantime, migrated to their throats, and they were sure their last moment had come. They dared not breathe until the caste of that "stunt" had left the room. (Very tense and dramatic situation, n'est-ce pas? Oh, very!)

At last the sound of yelling from the main floor of the "gym" indicated that the game was about to start. Amid the clamor of excited rooters giving strikingly original yells about the little red rooster on the mud fence (or was it a board fence?) that crowded for Yale because he had good sense, the two "ladies" sneaked out onto the track, and found seats on a plank among vociferous friends of Yale, climbing the plank with a speed and disregard for skirts quite unusual in women. From this vantage-point they watched the whole performance. They lived through it all, were not in the least shocked, not even when Mary Thompson appeared in men's clothes and actually danced (mark that horrible word) before their very eyes, and left with the crowd, wondering, "Why all the fuss about keeping men out?"

Several other "women" of unusual appearance were to be seen among the rooters for both Yale and Harvard. One enterprising freshman deceived even the lynx-eyed guards, and shattered dozens of boys' hearts after the game with a single glance from "her" flashing black eyes. A good many men did not even take the trouble to make these pretenses. Under the mats in the corner fifteen or twenty of them spent five hours of discomfort in order to see this widely-advertised game. From the lofty eminence of the rafters, his presence betrayed only by occasional supernatural movements in a tennis net, a well-known junior surveyed events on the floor below. Even the ventilators in the ceiling were occupied.

Thus ended the great attempt of the Morningside women to stage something without any men. They succeeded—like the whale succeeded in digesting Noah!

THE ENGINEERING CLASS

The Clubhouse

Motto—"Watch the Door"
Location—"Tareyton-on-Campus"

How pleasant it is to know that there are students in school who, besides following their regular courses, are interested in the practical sides of their chosen fields. Pictured above is the class room of a group of these admirable individuals. Almost any day, during vacant periods or between classes, the Class in Advanced Engineering and Combustion may be found in session.

Here, under the professorship of Thomas Roan, the boys gather and ask 111 questions spurred on by Pete Omar and Thomas Camel. They discuss such engineering problems as the smoke nuisance, ashes, dragging, etc.

The Imperial Puff, president of the organization, sits on a Velvet throne attired in a Tuxedo with a Red Belt. All the business sessions are private and a member is admitted only after he taps out three Strikes.

In the foreword the editor has told what the work of publication has meant to the literary staff. It should not be forgotten, however, that without a business department no book could be published successfully.

It is the purpose of this message, then, to bring to mind the fact that through the combined efforts of those connected with the 1924 Sioux on the business side, this book has been made possible.

It is mainly through the medium of advertising that we have been able to give the college this book.

The task of selling advertising is not an easy one, for few firms believe there is any value in telling college students of their offers. If, however, students bear in mind what part the advertiser plays in helping to publish such a book as the 1924 Sioux, they cannot and should not forget that these same people will assist in years to come if they are able to make their advertising pay.

Remember the advertiser and favor him as he has favored you.

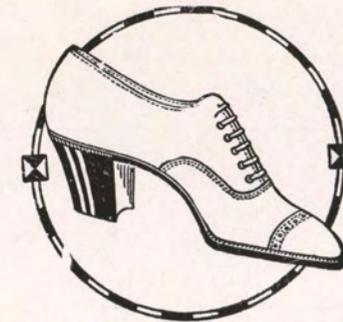

RUSSELL B. PECAUT, Business Manager.

How few really enjoy genuine foot comfort!

Yet Cantilevers are scientifically made to relieve the foot ailments of active women

You must have foot comfort when walking to and from school, in the classrooms and in your recreation hours—and you'll find it in wearing a pair of Cantilever Shoes.

Primarily, Cantilever Shoes are designed for comfort, to relieve foot ills, to bring ease and happiness to all women troubled with foot pains. Everyone who has worn them gives their opinion of them as being the most comfortable shoe they have worn, they are not bothered with stiff soles and high wiggily heels, but enjoy a freedom of foot ailments as before.

The makers in their inexhaustible effort to combine the "two in one" have accomplished wonders. Now your feet dressed in CANTILEVERS will be as stylish as "Miss Fifth Avenue's", yet, as comfortable as "an old shoe."

Try on a pair of CANTILEVERS at your earliest opportunity.

The initials of a friend

You will find these letters on many tools by which electricity works. They are on great generators used by electric light and power companies; and on lamps that light millions of homes.

They are on big motors that pull railway trains; and on tiny motors that make hard housework easy.

By such tools electricity dispels the dark and lifts heavy burdens from human shoulders. Hence the letters G-E are more than a trademark. They are an emblem of service—the initials of a friend.

10 Gallons of Hot Water for about 1c

TO heat water in furnace coils or kitchen tanks costs more than does Humphrey Automatic hot-water service.

With the Humphrey Automatic Gas Water Heater there is no expense for heating water over and over again. This wonderful device heats only as much water as is used at the time, at a cost of about 10 gallons for one cent. When a hot-water faucet is opened anywhere in the house the big Humphrey gas burners light automatically—not even a match to strike. But when the faucet is closed gas is shut off instantly; saving heavy cost of heating water that is not used.

In addition to a big saving of expense, the Humphrey saves time, delays and disappointments. It is ready to serve you at any instant, day or night—winter or summer—with an endless stream of piping-hot, fresh water.

Think of the delightful, daily comfort of having steaming, hot water always ready for the laundry, the bath, the shave, dishwashing, housecleaning, illness or emergencies.

Abundant and instant hot water is a necessity in any home. See that your supply is on a modern, dependable, economical basis. It will be if you install a

APRIL

- 18—Back to work after vacation. Ray Olson won 1922 laurels on Glee Club trip for having the most dates.
- 20—Annual home concert of the Madrigal Club.
- 21—Who is most popular? Everybody votes but returns are kept secret.
- 22—Downtown students start giving broken viaduct as excuse for tardiness.
- 23—Girls' debate team beats Bethany, 3 to 0. Gif Alt loses an eyebrow in farce debate which precludes the real contest.
- 29—M. C. third in two-mile relay at Drake. Girls' Reporter out. Esther Waterhouse, "Ed" Bekins, Ed Williams and Paul Jones win in popularity contest.

MAY

- 1—Bums start blowing in from Des Moines. Nebraska Wesleyan eats humble pie in tenth inning of an exciting game.
- 4—First cap and gown chapel. Juniors try to be smart and move up.
- 5—Annual H. S. track meet. Sioux City High is winner. New records are hung up in 120-yard hurdles, shot put and half-mile relay.

The canoe was drifting farther on into the lake. "Oh," she said, "don't you think we had better hug the shore?"

He (with intense interest): "Why the shore?"

Get the Fans

Miss Raymond: "I heard your k'd bawling last night."

Prof. Hayes: "Yes, and after four bawls he got his base warmed."

SEPTEMBER

19—Back again at the old stand, ready for business and pleasure, mostly pleasure. Resounding osculations and much pumping characterize most meetings.

20—Blue Books on sale. It is reported that more than one football star made magnificent profits.

23—"The shouting and the tumult dies; the captain and the kings depart," and each society welcomes a new group of members after two days of intensive rushing.

25—Y. M. and Y. W. joint. "Cec" leads a song and dance in Zet hall. Pig in the parlor is the most popular game.

28—Mr. Frazier, a Sioux Indian, speaks and sings in chapel.

29—First student chapel. More pep and "spizerinctum." Last rites for class of '26. Sophs are chief mourners.

30—First frosh party. After valiant efforts they hold much fought-over eskimo pies. Sophs apply a stretcher to Bakke. Some folks say the Monument also was the scene of a frolic.

OCTOBER

2—Faculty reception. Pedagogues smile and look pleasant. Students smile and look pleasant. Everybody goes home, glad the ordeal is over for another year.

5—Sisters of all sizes and varieties walk out to South Ravine.

6—"Our dumb sophomore brothers" are almost executed in chapel. Some faculty chairs and one of Chub Parson's ribs are broken in the melee.

7—Western Union wins. Nuff sed!

10—"We are the boys,
We are the boys,
We are the boys from George L. Smith, Sedalia, Missouri."
College quartet entertains us.

14—Morningside-Yankton tragedy. We hear that one of the Macs lost $25 on Morningside.

17—More ads in the Reporter. It must have been Alden who lost the twenty-five. Future business geniuses organize Commercial Club.

21—Homecoming! Greatest parade of the age. And we put Kalamazoo in the hole.

24—Y. W. C. A. inaugurates successful financial program by securing $775 in women's chapel.

27—The II K Ds present a good bill in chapel. It was fully proved on the authority of Miss Dimmitt that the Blue Book should be read. Ibsen plays!

have had a share in bringing you happiness and that the recollection of their goodness will come to you in reminiscences of Sioux City.

In a Wet Climate

Prof.: "What's the difference between a pint and a quart?"
Son of a Tipper: "A pint is what makes you happy; a quart is what makes you drunk."

All They Can

Stranger: "Rastus, do the people who live across the road from you keep chickens?"
Rastus: "Dey keeps some of 'em, sah."

M. Miller: "Girkin's wife simply worships him, doesn't she?"
M. Nichols: "Well, she places burnt offerings before him every day."

Doubling Up

"Willie," asked the teacher, "what is the plural of man?"
"Men," answered the small pupil.
"And the plural of Child?"
"Twins," was the prompt reply.

NOVEMBER

- 1—Our dear profs desert us to attend a teachers convention. Boo-hoo! Psych., Eng., Latin and Ed. classes are left to take care of themselves.
- 2—Jazz pep meeting. Russ Pecaut, our new song leader, starts, "We Are the Boys."
- 3—Morningside, 7; Des Moines, 7.
- 4—Amalgamated Bums return safely from their convention in Des Moines. Dickie swears he saw Prexy kiss his nearest neighbor when M. C. made that touchdown and tied the score. Gender?
- 6—Oh! that Farm Bureau Picnic! Those chorus girls! And Walker in the role of "Simpering Susy"! And the exhibits! Whopee! Everyone goes home broke but happy.
- 11—Armistice Day. Big parade. Morningside vs. Nebraska Wesleyan. Old M. C. fight ties the score in the last four minutes of play.
- 18—South Dakota takes long end of score. Phil duck feed.
- 27—Girls' volley ball tournament. Lue's mighty arm wins for Junior class. The Prom! Woods! Colonial room! Fairyland! Garden! And the Shiek's room! Even some of our faculty step out.
- 30—Thanksgiving Day. Aggies, 27; Morningside, 10. Here's to our team, anyway.

Why You Should Train for BUSINESS And WHERE

RICH or POOR, YOUNG man or YOUNG woman, business is easily the richest field in the world for you. Business offers you more and bigger opportunities to get ahead—to earn a big income—than all the trades and professions combined. Young people in business, with less than five years' experience, often earn more than college professors, lawyers, doctors, teachers and skilled tradesmen with twenty years' experience. And five years in business is just a start.

Just as soon as you have completed your college course you should plan for a business position by taking a business training at the

His Prize Lamp

Father (reading a letter from his son at college to mother): "Myopia says he's got a beautiful lamp from boxing."

Mother: "I just knew he'd win something in his athletics."

Fred Smith: "Say, did you know there was a murder at the hotel today?"

M. Leslie: "No, was there?"

Fred: "Yes, a paperhanger hung a border."

M. Leslie: "Maybe it was only a roomer."

Bobby: "Mama, am I a lad?"

Mama: "Yes, Bobby."

Bobby: "And is my new papa my stepfather?"

Mama: "Yes."

Bobby: "Then am I his step ladder?"

Make It Flowers!

There are lots of times when a fellow wants to kind of square himself and would like to know just what in the Sam Hill would hit her just right. Books are a bit formal, candy is liable to reach her when she has a lot on hand—really, it IS quite a task to decide.

If you'll take an old-timer's advice, fellows—send 'em flowers! Try it the next time you get in wrong!
