The President's Pen . . .

It has been said a college is many things to many people. In my Christmas message to you I would like to relate some of the many activities which have taken place just within the first few weeks of December which precede the Christmas holiday.

On the second day of December, Dimmitt Hall girls held their annual Hanging of the Green ceremony. This is a tradition dating back many years to the time when President Roadman's wife read the Christmas Story, and the girls caroled through the resident halls. Today the President's wife continues to read the Story of Christmas as the senior girls, singing carols, hang their Christmas wreaths.

On the first Sunday of December, fifty members of the Religious Life Council gathered at the home of the President. There was a special Christmas reading by members of the group, a supper, and caroling — depicted in the cover photo — before students had to hurry off to participate in a special Christmas Concert.

During December Christmas decorations and trees appeared throughout the campus buildings. Small groups caroled at the various living groups and at the homes of nearby faculty. One member of the administration (who shall go unnamed) played Santa at three sorority gatherings; the Drama Department presented a polished and hilarious play, "The Menaechmi"; a student art show was hung in the foyer of Eppley; and a display by budding ceramists was in evidence.

On Sunday evening a most memorable and inspiring Messiah was presented at Eppley. Under the direction of Dr. Larry Edwards of the Music Department, the Sioux City Choral Union, the Morningside Oratorio Choir, and four soloists from our Music Department performed before over 900 members of the Sioux City community.

The men of Roadman Hall held an Open House, and the decorations were original and magnificent.

The final week of the semester, December 13 to 17th, was filled with examinations plus a few outside activities, such as the presence of a controversial speaker sponsored by the History Department and underwritten by the student government. It would seem that an incongruous note is present in this pre-season activity. Yet, this is all part of the college scene if a college is to continue to be a forum for discussion and exchange of ideas.

"It is our mission to work with young people, to sensitize them, humanize them, educate them, liberate them from their ignorances and prejudices".*

Our course can become at times even hazardous in spots, yet, it is the only course we can follow if there is to be brought about peace on earth and good will among men. The Scripture tells us that "we can do nothing against the truth." After two years my confidence is greater than ever that the students of Morningside College are capable, sound in reasoning and in judgment.

Faculty Profile / Dr. Leonhard Baak

by Cheryl Tevis, '72

Editor's note. . . .

The article below is written by a student about a professor. Cheryl Tevis, a senior from Hornick, Iowa, is a member of the Collegian Reporter staff and has used her writing skills in producing feature stories for use by the College's public relations and sports information departments. An English major and an outstanding student, Cheryl is a member of three academic honorary societies and was elected to membership in LASS, the Women's scholastic honorary last year.

"If I had it all to do over again, I would still choose to be in the field of education." These are the words of Dr. Leonhard Baak, Chairman of the Foreign Language Department at Morningside College. In his twelfth year as professor of German and head of the department, Dr. Baak can look back over his career in education with a sense of satisfaction.

Born on a farm near Denison, Iowa, Dr. Baak moved to the small town of Ricketts when he was five years old. His parents, like the majority of the community residents, were German-Americans, and the German language was spoken almost exclusively in the home.

Dr. Baak attended a parochial one-room country school until he finished eighth grade, when he went to live with his grandparents while attending high school in Ute, Iowa. He describes the transition from a one-room country school to the high school in Ute as one of the most radical changes in his life. It was at this time that Dr. Baak became acquainted with such innovations as the "honor roll" and "tube" fire escapes.

Completing a four-year high school course in three years, while holding down a part-time job at the local store, he graduated as valedictorian of his class.

Those were the depression years, and there was no money available for Dr. Baak to go on to college. Job opportunities were severely limited, and it was during this time that he worked in the general merchandising store at Ricketts, sold life insurance on the side, acted as correspondent for four county newspapers, directed home talent church plays, and played the saxophone and clarinet in a band and orchestra.

But during those years, he never lost sight of his ambition. "I always wanted to be a teacher," he declared.

After several years, Dr. Baak was able to attend Buena Vista College at Storm Lake, on a valedictorian scholarship. At Buena Vista, he was discouraged from entering the field of German. "German teachers just weren't in demand at that time," Dr. Baak related. "You'll never get a job, they told me."

At Buena Vista, Dr. Baak was recognized as a member of the Buena Vista Honor Society and was initiated into Sigma Tau Delta, the national honorary English fraternity.

Graduating from college with majors in German and history and minors in English and social studies, Dr. Baak found that there were indeed no jobs open for him. He was able to secure a teaching assistantship at the University of South Dakota, where he taught second year German while earning his master's degree in German.

After obtaining his M.A., Dr. Baak learned of an opening for a high school German and history teacher in Selby, South Dakota. He applied for the position, was accepted, and remained at Selby for four years, until the outbreak of World War II.

As a member of the army, he attended Army War College at Fort Leavenworth, where he learned "how to fight battles on paper." From there, he completed his basic training in Arkansas, and was sent to Camp Carson in Colorado. Later transferred to Military Government School in Michigan, he was trained to be a special investigator in the Office of Internal Security.

After the war ended, Dr. Baak returned to Colorado College at Colorado Springs, where, on his G.I. Bill, he earned his M.A. in educational administration and guidance. For the following four years, he was a high school principal in Minnesota.

His career in college teaching began at St. Olaf, in Northfield, Minnesota, where he taught German for four years. It was at St. Olaf that he met and married Odella Solheim, who was working in the college library. Today, Mrs. Baak teaches in Morningside's library science department.

Sports Recap . . .

FOOTBALL

The 1971 edition of the Morningside College football Chiefs, using a 37-15 victory over Wayne State as the icing on the cake, finished a record-setting 7-3 season with the finest record in 14 years.

The Chiefs opened the season with three straight easy victories over the University of Nebraska—Omaha (39-14), Missouri Western (50-7), and Augustana (43-7). They closed with wins over Missouri Southern (26-21), South Dakota State (21-12), and Wayne State.

In between came losses to North Dakota State U., the U. of Northern Iowa, and the U. of North Dakota and a forfeit win over South Dakota. The Coyotes were found to be using an ineligible athlete.

Morningside finished the season with a 3-3 North Central Conference record and a fourth place finish in the rough eight-team league.

The chart was the best since 1957 when the Morningsiders rolled to a 6-2-1 record under Coach Dewey Halford. The victory total was tops for a Morningside team since the 1949 team of George Allen recorded a 7-3-1 record.

Sparked by the running of tailback Dave Bigler, the Chiefs set 18 school records. Bigler was directly responsible for six of those marks.

Bigler surpassed his own single game marks of 31 rushing attempts and 186 yards when he rambled for 190 yards in 37 carries against Missouri Southern. He collected both the single-season rushing attempt mark (258) and the single-season rushing yardage mark (1,325 yards). The last record was broken in the final game against Wayne State. He finished his career at Morningside with 587 attempts rushing and 2857 yards, both school marks.

Dave Bigler was named to the Associated Press Little All-American Football Team's second unit at the conclusion of his record-setting year with the Chiefs. Bigler is the first Morningsider to be named to a wire service team since Truman O'Doherty was cited in 1956. Earlier Bigler was named to the all-conference team of the North Central Conference and was recognized as the league's most valuable back. Wide receiver Bill Asprey received honorable mention on the Associated Press team.

Other individual marks include the five touchdown passes thrown in the Omaha game by quarterback Mike Junck, breaking the old record of 4; the four TD passes caught by Dan McClannahan against UNO; the five interceptions thrown by Junck in the win over Augustana; and the 1497 yards caught via the air by Bill Asprey over his three-year career. Mark Brosamle and Bill Mathers tied a record for the most interceptions in one game, catching three against Augustana and South Dakota State respectively.

As a team, the Chiefs broke or tied seven marks. The 478 rushing attempts for the year set a new mark as did the 1733 yards rushing, the 785 total offense attempts, and the 178 first downs. Augustana picked off five Morningside passes to set a new record for stray aerials in a game. The two records tied included five TD passes thrown in the UNO game and the five interceptions Morningside defenders made in the UNO game and the five interceptions Morningside defenders made in the game against South Dakota State.

Injured quarterback Mike Junck, despite playing only three and one-half games, still completed 65 passes, more than twice as many completions as any other Morningside quarterback.

The Chiefs rolled up more total yards during the season than the opponents, averaging 328.1 yards per game to 317.3 yards per game. Morningside rushed for 173.3 yards each contest and added 154.8 yards in the air. The Chiefs intercepted 18 enemy aerials, just one shy of a school record. In perhaps one of the most revealing statistics, the Chiefs scored an average of 22.9 points per game while the opponent scored 25.3 points each contest.

The Chiefs have already started plans for their nine-game slate in 1972. The Morningside schedule includes Southwest Minnesota State and the U. of Nebraska—Omaha as non-conference games with a seven-game conference slate including the newest member of the NCC—Mankato State. The Chiefs will play five home games and four away contests.

BASKETBALL

Morningside College's basketball fortunes are on the upswing. The Chiefs opened the 1971-72 season with victories over Buena Vista (90-80) and Westmar (87-75).

Much of the success of the team will rest on the shoulders of the eight returning lettermen from the 1970-71 year. All five starters return to the Morningside team, Coach Chuck Obye's 15th. Despite this obvious wealth of experience, the Chiefs are tempering their outlook for the coming North Central Conference race with the fact that four other league teams return all five starters and every team can claim at least three top returning players from a year ago.

The backcourt appears to have plenty of talent and depth with senior All-North Central Conference guard Rick Weaver heading the cast. Weaver led the team in scoring with an average of 16 points per game last season. His running mate is 6-2 senior Von Bornholtz who hit at a 12.2 mark. Sophomore Tom Polt (6-0) is also available.

The front line has veterans Doug Nelson, Bruce Jenkins, Russ Overaas, and Scott Burgason back. Nelson (6-1) was the second-leading scorer on the squad with a 13.5 mark while Jenkins and Burgason were the leading rebounders, both standing 6-6. Overaas at 6-9 is the big man, and his ability to learn fast after missing much of the past two seasons due to injuries is vital. Also available is 6-5 senior forward Denny Pederson who started the last 12 games of the season.

It promises to be an exciting campaign and a very good North Central Conference race. The Chiefs should be in the thick of the action.

WRESTLING

An optimistic outlook has settled in the Morningside College wrestling camp for the 1971-72 season. Much of that optimism comes from the fact that eight lettermen are in camp including NAIA All-American Larry Bolanos.

Bolanos finished second in the nation at 126 lbs. last season and charted an outstanding 22-8 record. He has a fine supporting cast of seniors Bill Enockson at 150 and Lindsay Eckerman at 158; juniors Jerry Sherwood at 177, Craig Schutte at 142, and Rick Nuss at 126; and sophomores Mike Pickford at 126 and Steve Readout at 190. Eckerman, Nuss, Sherwood and Pickford all finished with 11 or more victories.

Top help has come from JC transfers and good freshmen. Dave Roder at 118, Frank Thompson at 150-58, and Steve Newhard at 167 are transfers who have top billing. The best of the freshman crop includes Randy Thomas at 118, Craig Thiessen at 142, and Chris Hickman at 177.

With a tough schedule that includes a record 19 dual meets, the Chiefs are cautiously optimistic.

CHIEFS' SMOKE SIGNALS

... Morningside's star quarterback Mike Junck, injured in the fourth game of the year, has signed a professional football contract to play with the Saskatchewan

Roughriders in the Canadian Football League. The Canadian League is a very tough league with many American players. The Roughriders played for the national title last month... Morningside running back Dave Bigler was not the only Chief football player to gain special recognition. Teammate Bill Asprey (6-1, 191) was named along with Bigler to the All-North Central Conference football team... Tight end Dan McClannahan (6-3, 230), guard Doug Huitink (6-0, 215), and Center Ron O'Neal (6-2, 255) were named to the All-District 15 NAIA team along with Asprey and Bigler. Morningside dominated that team... Morningside College has unofficially been named as the site of the 1971-72 NAIA National Wrestling Tournament. Final arrangements and details are still being worked out but this promises to be one of the biggest events ever on the Morningside campus.

MANY VISIT PRESIDENT'S RESIDENCE . . .

The residence of President and Mrs. Thomas S. Thompson is being visited by many people—both from the campus community and the Sioux City community.

The president's residence was one of five homes selected for visitation on the annual tour of homes sponsored by the Women's Committee of the Sioux City Symphony Orchestra Association.

On November 11, some 600 to 700 prominent Sioux Cityans visited the Thompsons on the tour. Proceeds from the sale of tickets for the tour went to help in financing the program of the Sioux City Symphony.

Students are finding that the president's home is really an extension of the campus, even though it is situated several miles from the college. Students are always welcome — individually or in groups. In fact, the Thompson home was the site of a fraternity-sorority party in mid-November.

Freshmen students became better acquainted with the Thompsons during a series of visits at the start of the school year. Feeling that the president's residence would make an ideal setting for the president and freshmen to learn about each other, Dr. Thompson issued an invitation to all freshmen to pay him a visit.

Some structure was needed for these visits, and it was decided to entertain the new students according to their freshman seminar groups. Faculty members teaching the seminars arranged transportation for the students, and generally two seminar groups at a time went to the president's home.

The freshmen were met with a "banana split buffet" and were invited to whip up ice cream delicacies. Some truly monumental banana splits were created and some rather amazing appetites were unveiled.

The remainder of the evenings were spent in relaxed conversation, singing, or simply touring the home and grounds.

Summing up the effect of the visits, freshman Marsha Sims of Sioux City wrote these lines in the campus newspaper: "For being a freshman just beginning life here, I certainly reached the top in a short time. I found the people at the top as nice and friendly as those at the bottom."

STUDENT FAST AIDS PAKISTANIS . . .

Morningside students fasted on November 16 so that the cost of their meals could aid the starving victims of war and floods in East Pakistan. The fast, voted by the Student Council, netted $630 which was distributed by Project Relief, Inc. to aid in feeding millions of East Pakistani people left homeless.

The cost of the food that normally would have been eaten by students who gave up their meals at the college's food service was given to the fund by Taylor Food Service, operators of the cafeteria in the Commons Student Center. The number of meals served that day was about 1,000 less than the normal serving.

Adding to the fund were contributions of faculty and staff members and of students residing off campus. Many of these students bought their lunch at the Commons snack bar and then donated an amount equal to their lunch expense.

BOYKIN NAMED TO COLLEGE POST

George Boykin, a member of the Sioux City Board of Education and a man active in many other community organizations, has been named Minorities Counselor at Morningside. Announcement of Mr. Boykin's appointment was made in November by Dr. Thompson.

Duties of the newly-created position, Dr. Thompson said, would involve counseling of minority group and international students. Mr. Boykin will carry out his duties on a part-time basis while continuing in his position as program director of the Sanford Center in Sioux City.

Mr. Boykin, who will finish requirements for his Bachelor of Arts degree at Morningside this semester, is a member of the Planning and Zoning Commission of Sioux City, the Volunteer Bureau of Sioux City and the Siouxland Health Planning Council.

DEAN BECOMES DR.

Donald Poppen ('57) Morningside's Dean of Students since 1967, has earned his Ph.D. in student personnel management from the University of Northern Colorado, Greeley, Colo.

Dr. Poppen returned to his task of directing the student personnel services of the College this year after being on sabbatical leave during the previous academic year to finish work toward his degree.

An extensive study of the effect of the physical environment of residence halls upon student behavior was carried out by Dean Poppen in conjunction with his Ph.D. dissertation.

Campus News...

BUCKINGHAM NAMED TO NCC HALL OF FAME . . .

A man who has received many honors during his Morningside career as coach, professor and administrator, A. W. Buckingham, was inducted into the Hall of Fame of the North Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association in November.

Mr. Buckingham has been a player, coach and athletic director in the conference.

His induction was made "in recognition of your years of service, your significant and lasting contributions, your dedication and loyalty to the North Central Intercollegiate Athletic Conference."

Buck, a 1939 graduate of Morningside, is now a member of two Halls of Fame. The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics accorded him a similar honor earlier this year.

SIoux CITY ADMINISTRATORS BECOME TEACHERS . . .

As part of Morningside's effort to bring community talents to the College, two administrators in Sioux City area industries have become teachers of Evening Division courses. They are Peter Berglund, superintendent of systems control at Iowa Public Service Company, and Martin Lebus, a financial analyst for Iowa Beef Processors. Both serve as adjunct professors.

Mr. Berglund is teaching a course in computer programming languages at the Jacobsen Computer Center. The course is for advanced computer students and deals with the internal workings of the computer.

Mr. Lebus, a specialist in the area of managerial economics, is teaching advanced students in the area of business administration and economics. Mr. Lebus was a teaching assistant at Columbia University under Joel Dean, one of the nation's leading authorities in managerial economics.

The Master's Melodiers, pictured here, are again representing the College in area United Methodist Churches and before civic and fraternal organizations. Personnel of the Melodiers, all new this year, are (from left): Dennis Barrick, Debbie Lieder, and David Lieder. All are from Mason City, Iowa. Requests for booking appearances of the Master's Melodiers should be directed to Morningside's Public Relations Department.

Both adjunct professors receive only small honoraria for their services, and both have the endorsement of the top management of their companies in their teaching endeavors at Morningside.

STUDENTS PRODUCE CHILDREN'S CLASSIC . . .

Morningside co-eds Cay Ringquist of Jackson, Minn., and Mrs. Joyce (Norman) Pratt of Lake Crystal, Minn., combined talents to write and produce a stage version of "Hansel and Gretel" in the college's Klinger Forum.

The play, with an all-children cast, was presented to enthusiastic audiences of children on November 11 and 12.

Miss Ringquist and Mrs. Pratt wrote the script and music and selected their cast from sons and daughters of Morningside faculty members and their school friends.

The cast members helped in designing and building the sets.

The project was carried out as part of a joint Student Initiated experience, a popular feature of the New Curriculum. Prof. Lyle Fisher was the faculty advisor for the project.

SUPERINTENDENTS CONFERENCE A SUCCESS . . .

School superintendents from a four-state area attended the eighteenth annual Conference for Superintendents of Schools at Morningside in October.

Dr. Sharon Ocker, chairman of Morningside's Department of Education, co-ordinated the conference, and Howard L. Borchard, superintendent of the Hartley, Iowa, Community Schools, served as general chairman.

Featured addresses were given by Dr. LeRoy Nelson, chairman of the Department of Educational Administration at the University of South Dakota, and by Donald Kaul, popular columnist of the Des Moines Register.

The variety of Homecoming/1971 is depicted in the pictures displayed on these pages.

Special honors came to several members of the College Community. These are the honored:

LINDA BONES, a senior English major from Fremont, Nebr., was named Queen of Homecoming in a vote of upperclass students who made their choice from among ten candidates.

Miss Bones excels in the classroom and in extra-curricular activities. She is an honor roll student and a member of LASS, the women's scholastic honorary. She is a counselor at Dimmitt Hall and has been active in the work of Project Awareness, the student operated drug information program. She is a member of Morningside's Religious Life Council and is listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Linda is the daughter of Mr. ('33) and Mrs. ('34) C. H. Bones.

DAN McCLANNAHAN, outstanding performer on the Maroon Chiefs' football squad, was named Homecoming King by vote of the student body. Dan is considered one of the finest tight ends in the midwest region and is hoping for an opportunity to play professional football.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene McClannahan of Mondamin, Iowa, Dan is majoring in physical education and economics.

R. G. "HONIE" ROGERS and A. W. BUCKINGHAM were named parade marshalls for the homecoming parade. Both were cited by the Homecoming Committee for their long association with the College's athletic program.

Mr. Rogers ('25) coached his alma mater's basketball team in the 1930s and early 40s. Currently a member of the College's Board of Directors, Mr. Rogers has been prominent in the work of the Sioux City Chamber of Commerce and the Greater Sioux City Athletic Association.

Mr. Buckingham ('39) has been a coach, professor and administrator at Morningside College over a period of 26 years. He now serves as Vice-president for Estate Planning. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the United States Olympic Committee and was recently inducted into the Hall of Fame of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

PROF. BEATRICE TIFT, Associate Professor of English and staff member since 1957, was named Honorary Homecoming Queen by the student committee in charge of homecoming events.

Prof. Tift was cited for her outstanding teaching abilities, her personal concern for her students, and her involvement in the extracurricular life of the College.

Most of you who read this are interested in some aspect of a project I have been working on since June: the preservation of Morningside College's history through the reorganization and expansion of her archives.

However, my roots in this project don't extend only six months; they go back about six years.

Shortly after coming to Sioux City in the summer of 1965, I started conducting research into the history of the large chunk of the city's real estate known as Morningside. (The name was suggested by a Scotsman who grew up in a section of Edinburgh which bore that name.)

When I started at Morningside College the following year, my research became limited to the history of this institution. This research resulted in the presentation of a paper to the Historical Society of the North Central Jurisdiction of the (then) Methodist Church in 1967 at Mt. Pleasant, Iowa; the publication of an article relating the history of the University of the Northwest in the Annals of Iowa in early 1969; and three hours credit for independent study in history at Morningside.

At the time I was doing that research, I enjoyed using the archives because of the wealth of material involved, but I was considerably slowed by the lack of organization—especially of the materials in the two file cabinets.

This summer I sought and received permission from Librarian Vernon Martin to remedy the situation. The archives and rare book collections were moved to a new location in the library, and my job began.

Since June more than 120 hours have been spent in reorganizing file folders; filling out and bringing up to date collections of annuals, catalogs, brochures, etc.; and most important, maintaining an accurate card file which indexes everything in the archives.

Alumni Activities...

Chicago, September 23—Almost 40 Chicago area alumni met for dinner and an evening of fellowship at the Lake Shore Club. President Thompson was the speaker. Typical of the alumni response was this note from Mrs. LaVonne (Hansen) Flint, '38:

"It was my pleasure to have been included in your Chicago Alumni Meeting. I was impressed by President Thompson. His forward thinking, yet not elevating himself beyond his ever-present students, would, I think, make him loved by all."

A telephone committee, chaired by Roger Davis, '51, and consisting of Dan Davis, '68, Dick McLaughlin, '47, Al Hanschmann, '69, Mrs. Carolyn (Heikes) Florer, '61, and Tom Cale, '60, worked for two nights prior to the meeting.

Chairman of arrangements for the event was Ron Hileman, '35, with the assistance of Robert Miller, '55, Director of Alumni Relations for Morningside.

Omaha, November 11—Anthony's Restaurant in Omaha was the scene of the meeting of 37 alumni from the Omaha-Council Bluffs area.

The new slate of officers elected at the meeting are: Dr. Dale Dunn, '47, president; Gary McConnell, '62, vice president; and Georgia (Hix) Clay, '56, secretary.

Morningside students Cheryl Burmeister and Eugene Buccelli, representing Project Awareness, presented an informative program about drug problems and parent-child communication problems.

Tentative plans were made for the next meeting of Omaha area alumni to be held at the home of Dr. Dunn in September of 1972.

Sioux City, December 1—Over 160 alumni and prospective Morningside students attended a buffet supper and program on Prospective Student Night. The event was sponsored by the Alumni Association.

Remarks were made by President Thompson, admissions director Craig Croston, '61, and student body president Ed Johnson.

The high school students were guests of the Alumni Association and the College for the basketball game with Buena Vista which was won handily by the Chiefs.

Alumni Represent College...

WES BOLDT, '55, Des Moines, attended the inauguration of Dr. J. Leonard Azneer as president of the College of Osteopathic Medicine and Surgery at Des Moines on November 5.

RALPH EBERLY, '28, Summerville, South Carolina, attended the inauguration of Dr. Harry Pierson as president of Voorhees College at Denmark, South Carolina on October 22.

KENNETH H. BEENKEN, '58, Minneapolis, Minnesota, attended the inauguration of Dr. Harvey Stegemoeller as president of Concordia College in St. Paul, Minnesota on October 25.

COL. MORGAN HARRISON, '40, Duluth, Minnesota, attended the inauguration of F. X. Shea, S. J., as president of St. Scholastica College in Duluth on October 29.

MRS. HAROLD WRIGHT (DOROTHY JONES, '42), Blair, Nebraska, attended the inauguration of Robert Mezoff as president of Dana College in Blair on October 24.

BEN STOREK, '54, Tucson, Arizona, attended the inauguration of Dr. John Schaefer as president of the University of Arizona in Tucson on October 29.

MRS. W. J. VAN SCHREEVEN, '31, Richmond, Virginia, attended the inauguration of Dr. E. Bruce Heilman as president of the University of Richmond in Richmond on October 30.

W. JAMES HINDMAN, '57, Randallstown, Maryland, attended the inauguration of Dr. King Vergil Cheek, Jr. as president of Morgan State College of Baltimore on October 16.

The College is grateful to these alumni for representing their alma mater at presidential inauguration ceremonies.

Over 20 years of service to the College through the Alumni Association are represented in the three persons pictured here. They are retiring association officers Charles Ellison, '58, at the left; Mrs. Diana (Yancey) Warner, ex '50; and Donald Kelsey, '49.

The offices of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company in Sioux City are decorated with the Morningside banner as Sioux City alumni are involved in a telephone campaign to increase support for the Alumni Fund. Telephone campaigns co-ordinated by the Office of Alumni Affairs are also important forerunners of alumni meetings wherever they are held. Preceding the alumni meetings, a telephone committee makes contact with all alumni known to be residing in that area to give them details of the meeting and invite their participation in the Alumni Fund. Telephone campaigns played an important part in the marked increase in the percentage of alumni participating in the Alumni Fund in 1970-71.

My face is now known in most offices in Lewis Hall. When office personnel see me coming, they tie down valuables because they know I'm looking for another item for the archives.

The archives (and rare books) are now located in a room in the northwest corner of the basement in the Petersmeyer Library. Access may be obtained through the reserve book section. The reserve librarian will give you information on the location of materials.

All materials in the archives are to remain in that room. A large desk is available for examining the materials. The only exception to this rule allows materials to be photocopied with the machine on the first floor.

The archives now contains complete sets of annuals and catalogs; nearly complete sets of student and alumni newspapers and Methodist conference minutes; boxes of serial publications such as student directories, conservatory and summer school catalogs and student handbooks; large amounts of miscellaneous college publications; and files covering every aspect of college life. These files contain clippings, photographs, programs, letters, brochures and schedules.

Who Are Your Heirs If You Make No Will?

Most states have laws which control the method for distributing your property. Who will be the guardian of your children? Check to see what the laws of your state are regarding the manner of distribution of your estate if you do not have a will. Better yet—consult your attorney and have your will drawn up.

If you are a part of Morningside College—whether past or present student, teacher, administrator, staff member, trustee or just a friend of the college—the archives has something you'll be interested in seeing. Come down and look!

Moving to Emporia, Kansas, Dr. Baak taught German for nine years and was head of the language department for six years at College of Emporia. It was while he was teaching at Emporia that he received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Colorado, and was initiated into Delta Phi Alpha and Phi Delta Kappa.

During Dr. Baak's first year at Morningside, the language laboratory was installed as part of the language program. For four years he taught all of the German classes at Morningside. It was not long before Dr. Baak was recognized for his excellence in the classroom. In 1963, he was named the "Faculty Member of the Year" at an Honors Convocation. Dr. Baak is faculty sponsor for Alpha Mu Gamma (language honorary) and a member of the Teacher Education Committee at Morningside.

Seven years ago, he initiated a program of elementary German at St. Paul's elementary school. He explains that this program provides "outstanding experience" for four Morningside students each year, who teach the 3rd, 4th, 5th and 6th grade students German in order to earn 3 hours of academic credit in their major at Morningside.

It has been brought to Dr. Baak's attention (by Mrs. Baak) that he is listed in a number of publications, such as the "Director of American Schools," "Who's Who in American Education," "Personalities of the West and Midwest," "Dictionary of International Biography," "2,000 Men of Achievement," and "Outstanding Educators of America."

This year Dr. Baak is conducting a freshman seminar on "The German Cultural Influence in America". His interest in this area developed while he was a student at St. Olaf. Since that time, Dr. Baak has addressed both language and historical conventions on special areas of the subject.

Outside the classroom, Dr. Baak enjoys listening to classical music, reading, cooking and baking, and learning how to run a farm. A person who enjoys traveling, he has attended five World Fairs.

Dr. Baak is vice-president of the national Alpha Mu Gamma in the Midwest States, a member of the National Scholarship Committee, and belongs to the Board of Trustees for the Lutheran Academy at St. Louis. For several years he and Mrs. Baak contributed toward the support of a boy in Germany and they now support a Navajo boy in New Mexico.

Although Dr. Baak has taught at the graduate level for eight summers at Colorado College, he prefers undergraduate teaching. "I'm not research-oriented," he explained. "My interest is teaching." He takes a personal interest in his students, many of whom go to graduate school on teaching assistantships and participate in a semester's study program in Germany.

When asked about his ideas concerning education, Dr. Baak joked, "I wouldn't be a German if I didn't have ideas. No one believes in education more strongly than I do," he stated. "A person who has the ability and the motivation should get as much education as possible. The reason I've stayed in the classroom through the years is that there is nothing as exciting as working with young people, watching them develop their abilities, and knowing that you have played a little part in the process."

That Dr. Baak has played more than a little part in his students' lives is evident each year, about this time, when he can look forward to receiving Christmas cards and letters from many of his former German students, most of whom are now teaching in high schools and colleges.

Dr. James Coss, a chemistry professor at Morningside for 35 years, receives the best wishes of President Thompson on the occasion of Dr. Coss' 99th birthday. He and Mrs. Coss, both in good health, reside at the Billy Sunday Retirement Home in Sioux City. Dr. Coss retired from teaching in 1946.
