ON OUR COVER:

The Master's Melodiers have become a Morningside tradition, representing the college before church, civic and youth groups in Iowa and on occasional tours elsewhere in the Midwest. The 1973-74 Melodiers posed for this official picture by John Lawrence, chairman of the Philosophy Department.

Dave Lieder (left) is the latest representative of a family which has had a long and close association with Morningside and the Melodiers. His brother, Mark, and sister, Debbie, were members of the group when they were students. Dave, a junior from Mason City, Iowa, is the group's leader and plays guitar.

Cheryl Andrews, sophomore from Sloan, Iowa, is enjoying her second year as a Melodier. A music major, she is active in Concert Choir, the Morningside Band and Oratorio Choir.

Dan Oakland is one of Morningside's busiest students. As president of Student Government, he presides over the Student Senate and is a member of the college's Executive Council and Board of Directors. Dan is a senior from Canton, S.D.

Alumni Report . . .

Alumni from the Omaha area gathered at Domenico's on South 72nd Street for a business meeting, social hour and dinner Nov. 30. It also was a fine opportunity to talk over basketball, business and old times with a contingent from the college, in town for the Chiefs' season opener with UNO.

A variety of classes were represented, ranging from 1925 (Lucy Wallace) to 1973 (Bob Showers and Ed Johnson). Dr. Dale Dunn, '47, who retires as president this year, presided at the session. His successor for the 1973-75 term will be Gary McConnell, '62, who has served as vice president of the organization.

Morningside's new basketball coach, Dan Calahan outlined the strong points of the 1973-74 team and promised that win or lose there was exciting basketball in the months ahead for the Chiefs' cage fans.

There was a report from President Thompson and members heard Dr. William G. Phillips, chairman of Business Administration, discuss new programs which have and will be introduced by his department. Progress on the Robert M. Lincoln Center for Business Administration, Economics and Continuing Education—now under construction on the Morningside campus—was also reviewed.

Others from the college at the meeting included Al Buckingham, Jim Walker and Bob Miller.

Following the gathering, the groups watched as the Chiefs were unable to overcome a cold night at the basket and fell before UNO's superior height, 89-58.

Winter Hill

Three sophomores—Mark Heath from Mount Vernon, Iowa; Jan Hinrichs, Lytton, Iowa; and Harry Buss of Sioux City—offer a wide variety of music.

Morningside's Good-Will Ambassadors

Raising voices in song, wielding a hammer or paint brush... whatever the occasion demands, you can usually find a group of Morningside students who will eagerly oblige. They're the ambassadors of good will for the college, an asset as valuable as its excellent faculty and physical plant.

For many outsiders, students represent the only contact with the institution, and though the curriculum may be outstanding it's through the image presented by the student body that a college or university is often judged. And Morningside is fortunate to have so many who are anxious to offer the best possible image for the college.

Consider the singers, for example. Two groups are pictured in this issue of The Morningsider.

The cover photo presents the latest group to carry on the name and the spirit of The Master's Melodiers, a Morningside tradition familiar to alumni and friends of the college. Many of today's students recall that their association with Morningside began when a Melodiers group performed before the youth group to which they belonged. Other people who had never heard of the college before and have had little association with it since recall the name now with warmth—thanks to the Melodiers.

We hope you'll take time to read the brief sketch that's carried under the heading, "On Our Cover:" on page 2. They're young people who deserve a great deal of recognition.

And so are the three students pictured at the top of this page, who form another campus group under the name Winter Hill. Revealing a dedication that is typical of many of their fellow students, the Winter Hill sophomores have performed without charge when others might have declined.

There are others to be recognized. "Tomorrow's Sunshine," composed of nine students under the direction of the Religious Life Council, offers a full worship celebration featuring the music of new composers, including Ray Repp and Ralph Carmichael. For family nights or Sunday school gatherings, they're fully prepared with the children's musical, "Mary Poppins."

The RLC also sponsors for off-campus production The Readers Theater, whose members present dramatic skits posing moral questions which, combined with an invocation, hymns and a benediction, compose a complete worship service.

"The Three in One," another RLC group, was organized early in 1973 and has led worship services in various parts of the state. They sing both folk and contemporary music. Its members are Larry Webb, junior from Leon, Iowa; Monte Albert, junior from Atlantic, Iowa; and Ron Sumpter, freshman from Grinnell, Iowa.

Time and space limitations make it impossible to list the many students who have helped the college in other ways—through speaking engagements, by visiting with and performing for the sick and the elderly. It should be noted, however, that the campus service clubs, Circle K for men and Special K for women, each of the sororities and fraternities, dormitory students and the Religious Life Council are helping others off campus on a regular basis.

The faculty, administration and alumni of Morningside have every right to be proud of these students.

Potpourri A Summary of Campus Events

FUEL SUPPLY BETTER, COLLEGE 'COOLS' IT

Thanks to additional storage tanks installed in the summer, the supply of standby fuel for heating Morningside's buildings was a great deal better at the end of the first semester than in December of 1972.

An increase of 100,000 gallons of storage capacity indicated there was little likelihood of a repeat of a crisis which gripped the college last winter. Then, as the era of shortages dawned in America, the college was forced to close down for a week when local suppliers were unable to furnish adequate fuel.

But the emphasis remains on conservation. In a memorandum to faculty and staff in November, President Thompson announced a series of measures to comply with state and national requests, yet designed to keep the college's academic calendar on schedule.

In addition to lowering thermostats to 68 while classes are in session, the Thanksgiving and Christmas and New Years holidays were extended for staff members. Offices were closed Nov. 21-25 and Dec. 21-Jan. 6 while temperatures in the buildings were allowed to drop to near freezing. Special provisions were made for married students and those who were unable to go home for the holidays.

The college quickly returned to near-normal, however—the administrative offices reopened on Jan. 7 and registration for the second semester proceeded as planned on Jan. 14. For the college community, the second winter of the nation's fuel crisis appeared less ominous than the first. The interruption of natural gas service—the college's primary fuel—over a prolonged period posed a rather nebulous threat to the academic calendar for the second semester.

EVALUATION TEAM VISITS MORNINGSIDE

A periodic review of the Morningside College program was conducted by an evaluation team of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools on Nov. 26 and 27. Education institutions accredited by NCA are evaluated at regular intervals to assure high standards.

The six-member contingent examined the Morningside curriculum and operating procedures, and interviewed faculty, administrators and students.

While an official report is not expected until spring, the team members in informal remarks were extremely complimentary toward the college and its program in general.

Serving as chairman of the evaluation team was Dr. Thomas Smith, president of Lawrence College. Other members were Dr. Rosemary Cowler, professor of English at Lake Forest College; Ms. Doris Crozier, dean of Lindenwood College for Women; Dr. Wilson Thiede, professor of curriculum and instruction at the University of Wisconsin-Madison; Dr. Kevin Ryan, associate dean for training programs in the graduate school of education, University of Chicago; and Dr. Wendell Johnson, chairman of the mathematics department at Hiram College.

REV. JACK NASH DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Rev. Marion "Jack" Nash, an admissions counselor at Morningside since 1967, died at a Hamburg, Iowa hospital Oct. 28 following a lengthy illness. Representatives of the administration and faculty attended the funeral services and burial rites at Hamburg on Oct. 30.

A native of Nicholas, Iowa, Mr. Nash was graduated from Simpson College and Drake Divinity School, and was a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He received a master's degree in counseling from Drake in 1963.

From 1947 to 1967, he served churches in a number of Iowa communities, including Hamburg, Manning and Dedham, and joined the Morningside staff as an admissions counselor in 1967. He later was appointed assistant director of admissions.

He was a member of St. James United Methodist Church in Sioux City and was active in Siouxland Prayer Fellowship.

In addition to the widow, Berniece, he is survived by two sons, Jack of Marshalltown, Iowa and Paul of Des Moines, and one daughter, Mrs. Ray (Marian) Hoddey of Hamburg, one sister and six grandchildren.

STAN GREIGG NAMED DIRECTOR OF CENTER

Stanley L. Greigg, a 1954 Morningside graduate and former dean of men at the college, was recently appointed to a post at Dag Hammarskjold College in Columbia, Md., as director of the Lawrence F. O'Brien International Center for Study of the Political Process.

The O'Brien Center was established to provide an international perspective to the study of the political process. Its first undertaking was a seminar during January for college undergraduates from across the nation.

Greigg is a former mayor of Sioux City and has represented Iowa's Sixth Congressional District in the nation's capital. He was deputy chairman of the Democratic National Committee from 1970-72. He and Mrs. Greigg (Cathryn Thomson, '64) and their three daughters live at 5300 Wriley Road, Washington, D.C.

GREEN, WOOD BEGIN SABBATICAL LEAVES

Two faculty members, Dr. Robert Green and Dr. James Wood, will be on sabbatical leave during the second semester.

Dr. Green, chairman of the Physics Department, will conduct research at Iowa State University into alloys of rare earth compounds and their magnetic transitions, an area of research in which he has specialized.

A 1943 Morningside graduate, Dr. Green first served on the college faculty from 1950 to 1955 and rejoined it after teaching at Iowa State University from 1955 to 1960.

Dr. Wood, voice instructor and director of the concert and oratorio choirs at Morningside, will study in England. His projects will include an attempt to trace early American folk music to its English origins.

Dr. Wood was appointed to the Morningside College faculty in 1958 after teaching at Colorado A & M, Bethany College, Duke University and Southern Baptist Theological Seminary.

He will be accompanied to England by Mrs. Wood and two of their three sons, Bruce, a Morningside freshman, and Tom, 10.

While students and staff members watch, President Thompson signs charter designating Morningside as a world college, recognizing its obligations to the world community. Internationalism is Morningside's theme for the academic year.

WHO'S WHO AMONG VISITORS TO CAMPUS

Noted statesmen and lecturers who visited the campus during the first semester of 1973-74:

Lord Caradon, foreign minister of Great Britain and ambassador to the United Nations from 1964-70. He chided the international community for failure to exert influence in the Middle East and called on students and faculty to declare world citizenship.

Mladen Soic, Yugoslav diplomat who represented his country in Moscow and Tokyo and now is director of the Yugoslav Information Agency in New York City. Soic delved into his nation's history and outlined its potential for progress.

Rear Adm. Gene R. La Rocque (USN, Ret.), formerly associated with the strategic plans division of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and currently director of the Center for Defense Information (associated with the Fund for Peace). The United States, La Rocque maintained, enjoys weapons superiority over the Soviet Union and can afford to "cool" military spending and curb the introduction of new weapons.

Bishop A. J. Shaw, United Methodist churchman who retired in 1972 as bishop of the Bombay and Delhi areas of India. As a guest of the Sioux City district of the church, he visited the college and explained the religious, political and economic problems confronting his countrymen.

REVIEWERS WELCOME JEWETT'S NEW BOOK

Dr. Robert Jewett's latest book, "The Captain America Complex, The Dilemma of Zealous Nationalism" (Westminster Press), was greeted warmly by book reviewers and political leaders at its publication in October.

Jewett, professor of Religious Studies at Morningside, traces the biblical influence on foreign policy, especially during times of conflict. The U.S., he warns, must abandon zealous nationalism and an American penchant for equating the national mood with the will of God.

"His research has been extensive and his eye for the telling quote is sharp," wrote Eric F. Goldman in a two-column, favorable analysis in the New York Times Book Review. Congratulations reproduced on the bookjacket come from Eugene McCarthy, Mark Hatfield and others. Coming up soon on Jewett's schedule: lecture tours in various parts of the country.

HALFORD REASSIGNED TO LEWIS HALL POST

R. D. "Dewey" Halford, head football coach for 19 seasons and the college's athletic director since 1969, was appointed assistant to the academic dean, President Thompson announced Nov. 28.

The reassignment of the 54-year-old "dean" of North Central Conference coaches closed a lengthy chapter of Morningside gridiron history. While dovetailing his new duties with teaching some physical education classes, he will no longer serve as coach of the Chiefs.

He fills a post that has been vacant for several years; Dr. Raymond S. Nelson, the college's academic dean, has been without an assistant since his appointment as vice president for academic affairs in 1972.

During his years of coaching at Morningside, Halford compiled an overall record of 73 wins, 92 losses and 3 ties. His 1956 team won the North Central Conference crown and he subsequently was named coach of the year by the NAIA.

A number of his players were all-conference selections and several have played professional football.

Born in Manning and raised at Jefferson, Iowa, Halford attended Morningside and won three letters each in football and basketball. He was named all-conference quarterback in 1941.

Following graduation he was a teacher and coach at Linn Grove, Iowa high school. He served as a naval officer in World War II, then returned to teaching and coaching, first at Rock Rapids and later at Sac City, Iowa. During 10 years of high school coaching, he compiled a record of 65 wins and 21 losses.

Halford received a Master of Science degree from the University of Illinois in 1950 and left the Sac City post in 1955 to join the Morningside staff as physical education instructor and football coach. He recently has held the academic rank of associate professor of physical education.

EX-CHIEF DORNON NAMED GRID COACH

John R. Dornon, a former Chiefs quarterback and highly successful coach at Ellsworth Community College, was named to succeed Dewey Halford as head football coach on Dec. 21.

The appointment, announced at a campus press conference, climaxed a two week review of applicants by a 10-member selection committee after Coach Halford was reassigned as assistant to the academic dean. Dornon began work immediately by contacting prospective junior college recruits to bolster the squad returning from the 1973 season.

As a Morningside player, Dornon lettered three years as a quarterback and in 1960, his junior year, he was ranked nationally in passing.

In four years as head coach at Ellsworth (located at Iowa Falls) he compiled a record of 26-10 in the Iowa Community College Conference, which is nationally recognized as one of the strongest two-year college conferences in the country.

Dornon's teams recorded three-second-place finishes and won the conference championship in 1971. Ellsworth was invited to the El Toro Bowl in Yuma, Ariz. that year but lost to Arizona Western, the No. 1 ranked "ju-co" team in the country.

As a high school coach, Dornon directed teams at Akron, George and Clarinda, Iowa to a seven-year record of 34-16-1. His Clarinda teams in 1967, '68 and '69 were 27-1-0 and he was named Southwest Iowa Coach of the Year in 1969 and was a strong contender for Iowa coach of the year.

Dornon attended high school at Harlan, Iowa and was graduated from Morningside in 1962 with a bachelor's degree in mathematics and physical education. He received a master's degree in P.E. from the University of South Dakota in 1969.

His wife, Sharon, was a physical education major at Morningside and also graduated in 1962. The former Sharon Reinke, she was freshman queen, a cheerleader and honor student during her years at the college.

She is now a member of the faculty at Ellsworth.

The Dornons have two children, Kelly, 11, and Kerry, 3.

Serving on the coach selection committee were four Sioux Cityans, Donald Kelsey, Dean Harrington, Duane "Buck" Miller (Morningside graduates) and Jim Yanney. Representing the administration and faculty were President Thompson, Dean Nelson, Lowell Brockman and William Spornitz. Stan Hamann, a senior from Sioux City and a member of the 1973 football team, was the student representative.

Brockman, chairman of the Physical Education Department and former track coach, will also serve as athletic director, the other post left vacant by Halford's reassignment.

COMMITTEE STUDIES ATHLETIC PROGRAM

A special committee to study the athletic program at Morningside was named Nov. 30 by Bruce Crary, chairman of the college's board of directors.

Crary said the committee was formed to study and review the entire athletic program in order to make recommendations to the board at the spring meeting in April. He stressed its role will be strictly advisory and that ultimate decisions will be made by the board and the administration.

He identified the following as specific areas which the committee will examine:

(1) Effects of changing enrollment and student participation in intercollegiate athletics; (2) financial aid and subsidies to intercollegiate athletics and comparative programs of other members of the North Central Conference; (3) programs requested for women's intercollegiate athletics; (4) Morningside's continued participation in the North Central and financial support and funding of its participation.

Serving as co-chairmen of the committee are James Gerkin, '51, a Sioux Cityan and a director of the college, and Dr. Sharon Ocker, chairman of the Education Department and faculty representative to the NCC.

GRID SEASON ENDS ON WINLESS NOTE

It was a long season for the Chiefs football squad. After dropping the first four games of the season (see October Morningsider), the team lost to University of South Dakota, 60-7; University of Northern Iowa, 28-14; Mankato State, 52-7; Augustana, 33-7; and South Dakota State, 52-12.

The Chiefs gave UNI a battle to the end in a spirited homecoming game at Roberts Stadium. But a Morningside fumble and a blocked punt gave the Panthers the ball deep in Chiefs' territory and the additional 14 points on the score board.

The 0-9 record marked the first time since 1935 that a Morningside grid team has recorded a winless season. With the 1973 season now a part of history, the Chiefs are preparing for better fortunes in 1974.

'M' CLUB HEARS HUPKE AT HOMECOMING DINNER

The annual dinner of the Morningside "M" Club Oct. 20 attracted some 100 members of the organization and guests from the news media.

Featured speaker was Leo Hupke, '63, athletic director at Cherokee (Iowa) High School and 1972 Siouxland Coach of the Year. Hupke outlined the role athletics have played in his own life and the lives of others.

The organization presented its coveted "M" Club blanket awards to retiring president Leon Shortenhaus, '49; C. H. "Chuck" Obye, '46; Webb Fowler, '23; and Hupke. The awards are presented annually for service to the Morningside athletic program and its ideals.

Presiding as officers during the coming year will be Denver Birkhofer, president; Mike Caldwell, vice president; and Nathan Goldberg, secretary-treasurer.

Homecoming- Fall Festival '73

Morningside's Fall Festival-Homecoming Week in October was a rousing followup to the previous year's introductory affair. Student and staff participation in on-campus and off-campus service projects was even more enthusiastic than in 1972. The Women's and "M" Club luncheons, class reunions and Alumni Dinner were marked by warmth and fellowship among those who attended.

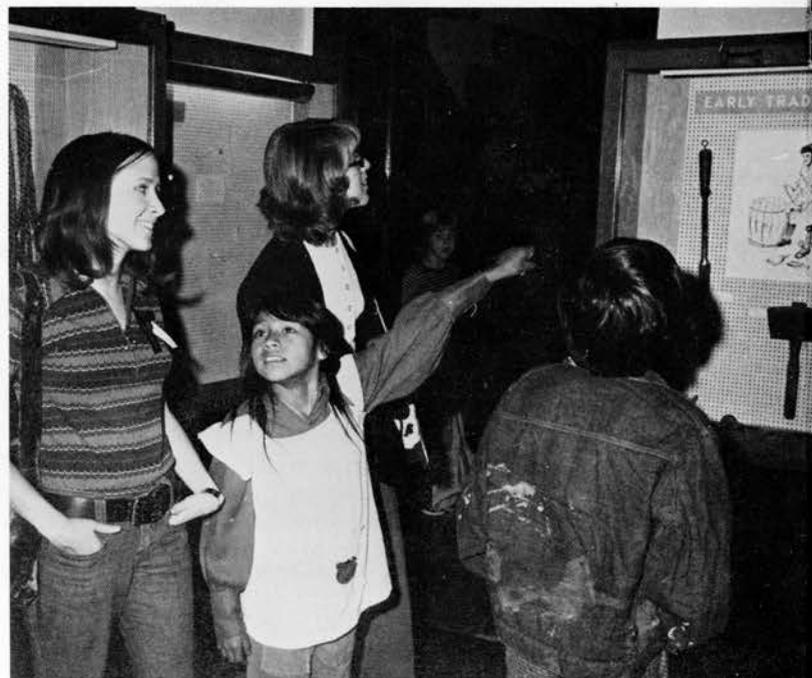

With a goal of 2,543 hours of service to others (some 400 greater than the 1972 target), students launched the activities on Oct. 14. During the following seven days, they installed new sidewalks on campus, entertained children and the elderly in local hospitals, escorted youngsters from a neighborhood center through the Sioux City Museum, did clean-up, painting and repair work at community buildings and homes of the poor and elderly.

And a drive among students, faculty and administration produced 200 pints of blood for the Siouxland Community Blood Bank during the week. When combined with several dozen other projects, the effort totaled 3,096 hours of labor donated for worthy projects by the college community, it was reported at week's end by Dave Fuchs, the Des Moines sophomore who spearheaded the service drive.

At the Alumni Dinner in the Commons, the association's retiring president, Ray Burnight, led the induction of new officers. Heading the association during 1974 will be Leon Shortenhaus, '49, president; Harold Poppen, '60, president-elect; Jo Ann Hammerstrom Fowler, '53, 1st vice president; Janet Durling Hansen, '53, 2nd vice president; Ione Prescott Morgan, '49, secretary; and Ira Gwinn, '22, treasurer.

Dave Mulder, '61, and Miles Patton, '54, were elected to terms on the association's board of directors.

The football game at Roberts Stadium with the University of Northern Iowa was a hard-fought match with excitement for the fans although the Chiefs finished on the wrong end of the 28-14 score.

Although the next Super Bowl game is a long way off, the girls of Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority are hinting early as to their aspirations for January 1975. Last fall's record consisted of a 12-0 loss to a team of physical education majors in a Powder Puff game, but there's always a next season.

U.S. SPORTS COUNCIL ELECTS BUCKINGHAM

The United States Collegiate Sports Council (USCSC) has elected Morningside's Al Buckingham as the organization's new president. He will serve a two-year term ending in September 1975.

Buckingham, vice president of estate planning at Morningside, has been a member of the USCSC board and its executive committee while representing the NAIA.

The USCSC promotes intercollegiate sports and cooperates with the International University Sports Federation (FISU) in sponsoring the biennial summer and winter World University Games.

The council's membership is comprised of the NAIA, the NCAA, the National Junior Collegiate Athletic Association and the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Buckingham will serve as the USCSC's chief executive officer and will work with the fulltime executive director in implementing the board's policies.

As a member of the board of directors of the U.S. Olympic Committee, Buckingham directed the food and housing program for the Olympic committee at the Pan American games in 1971, the Winter Olympics at Sapporo, Japan in 1972, and the Summer Olympics in Munich, Germany that year.

He also was chief of the USCSC contingent to the 1970 World Games at Turin, Italy.

INJURIES HOBBLE BASKETBALL DEBUT

The Morningside College basketball team enters 1974 hoping it will be a better year for the Maroon Chiefs than 1973.

Not that 1973 was all bad—it did bring an end to a 31 game losing streak and gave the Chiefs a 3-6 record. However, Coach Callahan's greatest losses were through injuries that crippled his young squad and kept it from maturing into the unit he had hoped to have at the beginning of the season.

The injury list is a long one, beginning before the season even started. Marv Munden, sophomore from Milford, Iowa, was sidelined with a hernia operation for the first six weeks of the campaign.

Next came 6-9 freshman Fred Evans with torn cartilage. Fred spent four weeks in a cast and is not expected to return to the squad this year.

Veteran senior forward and the conference's third leading rebounder Scott Burgason joined the list after four games with a torn knee cartilage, which resulted in surgery and brought Scott's outstanding basketball career to a quick end.

Freshmen Bill Lindgren and Bruce Lubach were next on Callahan's disabled list. Lindgren who was just beginning to find a home in the Chief's lineup broke a bone in his hand. Lubach, an outstanding out-shooter has torn ligaments and will undergo surgery in January.

When talking about his squad, Callahan points with pride to 6-11 junior college transfer Dave Schlesser. After an early bout with blood poisoning, Dave is rapidly improving with each game. The big center is averaging 20 points and 17 rebounds a game. He also was the leading scorer and rebounder in the North Central Holiday Conference Tournament in Sioux Falls.

Callahan has been excited over the tremendous support given the Chiefs by the Morningside student body and faculty; also the alumni who were fantastic substituting for the students on alumni night against SDU. "This kind of interest and enthusiasm is essential to the success of any program," commented Callahan.

Coach Dan Callahan's first season at the helm of the Morningside Chiefs no doubt will be one he will remember for a variety of reasons. But to the Morningsider, it will be the start of something new, exciting and entertaining. Something fans won't want to miss!

WRESTLERS LAUNCH PROMISING SEASON

The Morningside wrestling team returned to action with two a day practice sessions Monday, Jan. 7th. Just ten days remained before action with their next opponent, Augustana College, for the first North Central Conference action of 1974 in Allee Gymnasium.

The Chiefs started fast in 1973 winning five straight December duals. The Maroon grapplers have been led by Mark Montange, 118 and Mike Pickford, 134 both 5-0. Kelley Greene, 177, Jim Yount, 126 and Tom Meyer, 158, follow closely with 4-1 records. Greene, as the Omaha Invitational Champion, and 3rd place finisher Mike Montange were the bright spots in the December tournament action.

The January dual schedules provide the strongest challenges on this year's chart. USD has its best squad in recent years and perennial national power UNI follows Augustana. Iowa Conference powers Wartburg and Luther round out the month's action. Brandt commented, "If we can win three of the next five duals, we will have wrestled well."

STUDENTS ATTEND SEMINAR AT U.N.

The long holiday-semester break means vacation to most collegians, but for five upperclassmen from Morningside College it was studies as usual. The group participated in a special seminar, "United Nations in Action," at U.N. headquarters in New York from Dec. 31 through Jan. 11.

Included in the group were two coeds—L. B. Anderson, senior from Gunnison, Colo., and Debbie Matthias, junior from St. Cloud, Minn. The men are Dan Oakland, senior from Canton, S.D., Marc Burkhart, junior from Humboldt, Iowa, and Scott Sorensen, senior from Minneapolis, Minn.

Each chose a topic to research during their stay. They spent the days interviewing delegates and their staffs, and evenings and weekends were absorbed by further research and working on project papers. They each will receive three hours credit if their campus advisor for the project, Dr. Albert Sellen, chairman of the history and political science department, judges the papers worthy.

The seminar is sponsored by the Association of Colleges and Universities for International, Intercultural Studies (ACUIIS). President Thompson is a member of the prestigious body's national board of directors.

The ACUIIS program is one of several international and national study opportunities available to Morningside students. Jan Callison, a junior from Sioux Falls, S.D., is back on campus after three months under the Washington semester program, which provides a study of American government in action in the nation's capital. Jan worked as an intern in the office of Sen. James Abourezk of South Dakota.

Overseas programs in which Morningside students have participated recently include ones at Paris and Nantes, France; Graz and Vienna, Austria; Goethe Institute at Liblar and Neuss, Germany; Guadalajara and Sattillo, Mexico; and American Friends of the Hebrew University, Israel.

1925

BERNICE TRINDLE McCOY, '25, continues as executive director of Musical Youth International, a chorus and concert band organization of approximately 100 young people who annually tour a foreign country under the People-to-People Program. MYI was formed in 1964 by Bernice and her husband, LESTER, '25. He died in 1969. The organization's membership is selected following auditions of talented high school juniors and seniors seeking places in the group. Bernice is now living at White Acres, Saline, Mich.

1928

Mrs. M. E. Graber (MARTHA BUCHER, '28) celebrated her 93rd birthday Nov. 26 at Sunrise Manor in Sioux City. Her husband, Dr. Myron Graber, was dean of men and head of the Physics Department at Morningside for many years. He died in 1964.

1930

WALTER SIMONSEN, '30, a business executive from Sioux Rapids, Iowa, is continuing a hobby he began as a student on the Morningside campus. Simonsen wrote news stories for the Sioux City Journal in the late 1920s, spurred on by the $5 prize offered by the paper for the best "news tip" of the week. Following graduation, he returned to Sioux Rapids, married and continued in the iron business with his father. But 40 years later, Simonsen still serves as a special correspondent for the Journal, and was the subject of a feature story recently by Phyllis Person, Journal staff writer.

1937

Dr. JAMES A. COSS, '37, represented Morningside at the inauguration of Dr. Gerson D. Cohen as academic head of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America Oct. 23 in New York. Dr. Coss' address is 10 E. 90th St., New York 10028.

1938

ELWOOD H. OLSEN, '38, vice president and business manager of Morningside, was elected president of the Iowa Association of College and University Business Officers at a recent meeting on the Morningside and Briar Cliff campuses. He had served as vice president for the 1972-73 term. Mr. and Mrs. Olsen (GRACE TAYLOR, '38) live at 3226 Laurel Ave.

1949

DONALD D. KELSEY, '49, Sioux City CLU, has been named a member of Prudential Insurance Co.'s President's Club in recognition of outstanding achievements in sales and service during 1973. It marks the 15th time Kelsey has attained the honor since joining Prudential in 1957.

1950

Dr. ROGER L. BURGESS, '50, veteran executive of the United Methodist Church, was recently elected editor of United Methodists Today and designated editorial director of general church periodicals. Burgess, 46, has been associate general secretary, Division of Health and Welfare Ministries, Board of Global Ministries. Periodicals under his direction will include Today's Ministry (replacing Christian Advocate for pastors) and Newscope. His address is 1316 Davis, Evanston, Ill. 60201.

1955

TERRY J. WALKER JR., '55, is an account executive with Bozell and Jacobs in Los Angeles. He and his wife, Jean, were previously associated with the company's Omaha office. Their address is 1316 Rimpau Blvd., Los Angeles 90019.

Tourney Queen

Janet Fechter, Morningside sophomore from Jackson, Minn., reigned as queen of the North Central Conference Holiday Basketball Tournament at Sioux Falls. Janet was selected from a field of candidates representing each of the conference schools.

1958

JON L. CLARK, '58, was recently appointed national sales manager for Scotts Liquid Gold, a Denver-based wood preservative company. The Clarks and their two children, Jay, 9, and Kelly, 13, reside at 6364 S. Pontiac Court, Englewood, Colo.

1957

1911 GRAD MEETS FAMOUS 'PEN PAL'

(Sioux City Journal)

A Le Mars, Iowa octogenarian, LLOYD JOHNS, '11, recently spent a very pleasant 45 minutes in Boone, Iowa with a famous "pen pal."

The pen pal is Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower, who visited her uncle, Joel Carlson of Boone, as he celebrated his 93rd birthday during the holidays. Carlson told an old friend, Johns, of Mrs. Eisenhower's arrival.

Johns and Mrs. Eisenhower have exchanged letters since early in 1972, so he drove to Boone to meet the former first lady.

Johns first wrote to her because of a mutual friend. His roommate at Morningside in 1910 was VERNON PRICHARD, x'12, who was preparing to enter West Point. In 1921, Eisenhower was Prichard's assistant coach for the Army team, according to Johns. (Prichard, who later became a major general, was killed in 1949.)

Accompanying Johns on his visit were the Le Mars centennial queen, Marilyn Strickland, and Chief of Police Robert Brindle.

Johns also is proud of two notes of appreciation—one from President Nixon and the other from Mrs. Nixon. The messages on White House stationery were sent after Johns wrote letters of encouragement and support to the President and the first lady last November.

Dear Morningsider:

To the great number of you who replied to the December alumni mailing with your up-date card and Image Survey sheet, "Thank you very much!"

To those of you who have not replied, please do so as soon as you can. We need to bring the alumni records up-to-date so that we can better serve you. We appreciate your cooperation.
