HONORED BY MORNINGSIDE

COMMENCEMENT AT MORNINGSIDE

Commencement activities began Saturday morning, June 1, when members of the graduating class and several faculty members were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Roadman at a breakfast at 8:30 o'clock in the Roadman home. Dr. Roadman acted as toastmaster. One student from each of the nine tables told his most interesting experience in college.

Four members of the graduating class of the Conservatory of Music presented the annual concert in the Conservatory Recital Hall on Saturday evening. Taking part were Shirley Tapley of Newell, Ia., and Priscilla Crow of Sioux City, Pianists; Thomas Wikstrom of Sioux City, violinist, and Florence Wilken of Schleswig, Ia., soprano.

"Power" was the subject of Rev. Robert H. Dolliver, '24, of St. John's church, New York City, Sunday morning at Grace Methodist church at the baccalaureate service for the graduating seniors.

Rev. Mr. Dolliver asserted that we are living in an age of machine power as shown by the machine of war, our bridges and tunnels, our bulldozers and harvest combines. Man, he said, is proud of having learned to use such enormous machine power.

But there is a greater power than machine power, the speaker declared, and that is will power. Huge irrigation projects such as the Tennessee Valley authority, he explained, are good examples of machine power, but such projects would not exist had it not been for the will power of the men who fought for years to get such plans realized.

The atomic bomb, which destroyed a whole city, was a machine power, but it was dependent on the building of another city, Oak Ridge, Tenn., to develop such a bomb. And the will power that went into developing it was dependent on the schools and faculties which were able to train the minds that developed the bomb.

Schools and faculties are dependent on the unceasing efforts of the more enlightened and conscientious people of the world, and those people act through the spiritual power that supports them. Spiritual power comes from God, and he concluded that, "When God gets hold of a man, that man has the power to do more than any other power known."

At 4 o'clock an organ recital was presented by Miss Faith Woodford, '07, assisted by Elizabeth Newton MacCollin, soprano.

This was followed by a reception by the Faculty Women's Club at the Women's Residence Hall for all senior students, parents, second year normal girls and visiting alumni.

An appreciative audience enjoyed the annual reunion concert which was presented at 8 o'clock in Grace church by the College Choir and former alumni members singing again under the direction of Prof. MacCollin.

Hancher Addresses Grad's

Commencement exercises were held Tuesday, June 4, at 10 a. m., in Grace church for thirty-three seniors and four alumni who received honorary degrees. Eighteen degrees will be presented to the class in the summer session. Virgil M. Hancher, president of the State University of Iowa, delivered the address on "A Civilization Fit to Survive."

Dr. Hancher said in part: "People of today have vistas of destruction before them adequate to assure the death of civilization. Our own country, less devastated by the war than any of the great belligerent powers, is weakened by dissension and disaffection," asserted Dr. Hancher. "Surely, what is needed is a civilization fit to survive."

"Any such civilization must provide for the material needs of the people and must possess an adequate supply of goods and services so that its people may live in decency and comfort. It also must embrace an intelligent way of life, and must possess knowledge and a capacity to put knowledge into effective use.

"Any civilization fit to survive must substitute the ways of reason and persuasion and justice for those of violence and hatred and force. It must possess a faith, and perhaps a creed. It must have goals in which men can believe with such conviction that they will be willing to put their energies unreservedly to the task of achieving them."

"We entered the war to save our own skins, but now we fancy ourselves as the disinterested liberator of the oppressed peoples of Europe and Asia, a kind of international Sir Galahad—a role which has no foundation in fact."

ZETA SIGMA

John Briggs, '13, came back on June 3 this year to give the Zeta Sigma address and to receive a Doctor's degree from his Alma Mater the next day, and a very fine address it was on the Individual in a Collectivist Civilization.

The three young women receiving Zeta Sigma honors, Beverly Rehnblom, Doris Peterson and Delores Ebert were delighted with John's address and with his cordiality and friendliness which they discovered in conversation after his formal talk to them.

A splendid group of alumni and friends came to the "Barn" to hear and to see John and his wife, the former Nellie Upham, '14

Reunion Luncheon and Dinner Feature Alumni Day

Guests at a ten o'clock breakfast in the lovely garden of Dr. ('18) and Mrs. R. H. McBride (Minnie Fry, '17) were Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Lindsey, Prof. and Mrs. John Briggs, Lee Hornney and Rev. and Mrs. Bob Dolliver. Among the faculty who enjoyed this delightful opportunity to visit with these former Morningsiders were Dr. and Mrs. Roadman, Miss Dimmitt and Prof. and Mrs. Coss.

The annual class reunion luncheon was held at noon at the Martin Hotel with Robert P. Munger, '31, presiding. Among the sixty-five guests attending were members of the classes of '06, '11, '16, '21, '26, '31, '36, and '41. Special guests were Rev. and Mrs. Robert Dolliver, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Lindsey, Prof. and Mrs. John Briggs, and Lee C. Hornney.

Members of all of the reunion classes were introduced. Those of the class of '06 attending their fortieth reunion were: Judge and Mrs. J. W. Kindig (Gertrude Crossan); E. M. Everhart, Rock Valley, Iowa; Ruby Flinn Vennink; O. Merrill Foote, Des Moines, Iowa, and Bertha McCarthy. Greetings were received from John Wunn of Eugene, Ore. Also present with this group were Mr. ('05) and Mrs. Cyrus L. Gilbert (Bessie Carr, '02) of Seattle, Wash. Mrs. Gilbert's father, Dr. Carr, was the first president of Morningside College.

Dr. Stephens introduced Dr. Arthur Ward Lindsey, '16, head of the biological sciences of Denison University, Granville, Ohio, who spoke conversationally on "The Place of the Small College in the World Today." His listeners regreted that all the faculty and students of Morningside were not there to hear such a worthwhile discussion.

Mrs. J. J. Van Den Brink (Lois Miller, '26) was general chairman. Decorations were arranged by Mrs. Ralph Crary (Margaret Coleman, '26) and Mrs. Don Watson (Page Lohman, '26).

Mrs. Ray O. Larson

Over 250 Morningsiders attended the annual alumni dinner in the Women's Residence Hall at 6:30. Harold Bollman, '35, alumni president, was chairman for the occasion. Distinguished alumni who were here to receive honorary degrees were introduced by Dr. Roadman. Lee C. Hornney,

'20, executive on the New York Post, was presented by David C. Stewart, president of the Board of Trustees, as the speaker of the evening. In his talk on "World Affairs," he drew from his experience as a foreign correspondent to discuss the United Nations. The world organization can and will work, if the American people will get behind the United Nations. He added, however, that there are two weaknesses in that international setup that need to be corrected. A bill of rights to keep smaller nations from being dominated by five big ones is needed, and the power of one nation to veto the action of others should be discarded.

Initiation of 33 members of the graduating class into the Tribe of the Sioux followed to the accompaniment of tom-toms by the audience and dances by Indian maidens on the stage.

Miriam Kamphoefner Larson, '25, was general chairman in charge of arrangements. Assisting on the decorating committee were Mildred Wikert ('41) Wallman, Betty Lou Sauderson ('42) Brown and Roberta Stock, ex '39.

Fred Warner Wins Feller Scholarship

A 21-year-old Onawa navy veteran who came back from 32 air missions in the Pacific to trade his combat medals for a college football letter, has been named the first post-war recipient of the Bob Feller scholarship at Morningside college.

He is Fred Warner, who will return to the college this fall as a sophomore, and who was selected by Feller from a field of three athletes nominated by a college board. Warner is the first student to receive the scholarship since it was discontinued in 1942 because of war conditions. He was selected because of his high scholastic rating and his "outstanding performance on the football team."

Feller, the Iowa farm boy who rose to greatness in baseball's big leagues as a pitching star, set up the scholarship in 1941, making the first award to Bob Held of Hinton. In 1942, the scholarship was presented to Jim Steck of Sibley.

At Onawa high school, Fred earned 12 major letters, four in football, four in basketball, and four in track. He served three years in the navy air corps as an air radio machinist, received four battle stars, the distinguished flying cross with three oak leaf clusters, and the air medal with three oak leaf clusters.

and to do honor to these young women who have excelled in scholarship. It is an interesting fact that two of the three girls come from the same town, Stanhope, Iowa. But as these two have put Stanhope on the Morningside map, Delores Ebert kept Sioux City in its rightful place. Morningside was delighted to hear John Briggs in his scholarly address upon this important occasion of commencement week.

Dr. Roberts to Head Psychology Department

Burmese-born Dr. William H. Roberts—psychologist, writer on far eastern subjects, and former army officer—has been appointed as head of the department of psychology at Morningside college, according to an announcement by College Dean Dr. J. W. Scarborough.

Born in Burma of missionary parents, Dr. Roberts returned in 1912 to teach college mathematics in Rangoon and later in Kandy, Ceylon. After serving as a lieutenant in the field artillery during world war I, he received commercial employment in Calcutta and was married at Moulmein, Burma, in 1921. He has two children.

Included in his teaching experience are 13 years in philosophy and psychology at a California university; several years as professor of psychology at Larsen junior college, New Haven, Conn., and two wartime years in the navy flight preparatory school at Ohio Wesleyan university. In 1944, he was psychologist for army pre-medical students at City college, New York city. Following that position and prior to his recent appointment at Morningside college, he has served as assistant professor of psychology at the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. William H. Roberts

Dr. Roberts is the author of two books on psychology, "The Problem of Choice," published in 1941, and "Psychology You Can Use," in 1943. The latter book was printed for the armed forces in 1945. In addition, Dr. Roberts has written numerous professional papers on philosophical and psychological subjects, and his writings on far eastern subjects have been published by Political Science Quarterly, Review of Reviews, Current History and the National Geographic magazine.

Dr. Roberts received his B. A. degree in 1910 from the University of Rochester, his M. A. degree in 1916 from Teachers college, Columbia university, and his Ph. D. degree in 1931 from Northwestern university. He also studied at the Newton Theological institution and at Yale university, where he received an honorary fellowship.

His teaching at Morningside college will include classes in developmental psychology, general psychology, mental hygiene and business psychology.

CLASS NOTES

Dr. George Scott, ex '33, who spent four and one-half years in service, has opened a clinic in Tishomingo, Oklahoma.

John Skrable, '34, sports editor for the Journal-Tribune the past year, has accepted a fine position with the Chicago Herald American at the Sports Copy Desk. John began his new work in Chicago on June 16.

Mr. (ex '45) and Mrs. William Bottolfson (Bonita Hahn, '45) have departed for California. Bill plans to continue studying radio at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles.

Summer School Enrollment Largest in History

With the largest registration in its history Morningside college summer school opened June 7 with 496 students enrolled for classes. The figure is about double that of any other year. Many of the students are veterans, eager to complete their education as soon as possible.

Courses offered this year are more varied than those of previous years. Included are English, economics, German, Spanish, education, mathematics, psychology, physics, chemistry, drafting, surveying, rural school management and workshop, elementary school methods, geography and review subjects.

Emphasis will be placed on the 12-week schedule for limited elementary rural school teaching, because of continuing shortage of teachers. The course has been adapted to meet the certification law passed by the Iowa legislature in 1945 and replacing the previous normal.

CAMPUS ACTIVITIES

Dr. W. J. Scarborough, college dean, will be the principal speaker at the annual education banquet of the Minnesota conference of the Methodist church at Redwood Falls Thursday. Dr. Scarborough will teach at Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston, Ill., during the summer session beginning June 24.

Dr. E. H. Kleinpell, former Morningside history professor, has resigned from the presidency of Valley City, N. D. S. T. College to accept the presidency of the River Falls, Wis. State Teachers College on July 1, 1946.

Dr. A. M. Harding, president of the University of Arkansas, spoke Thursday evening, June 20, at a public meeting at Morningside college. His speech dealt with astronomy.

Dr. Harding has given almost 2,000 addresses on astronomy in 47 states, and in several Canadian provinces. He is the author of a book on astronomy, and has been the recipient of many educational honors.

The Spring, 1946, edition of Manuscript, published by the students at Morningside, with Joan Johnson, '46, as editor and Miss Mirah Mills as faculty advisor, upheld its previous high literary standard.

Prof. John Magee delivered the Baccalaureate address to the graduating class of Central high school on Sunday afternoon, June 2. Dr. Roadman was chosen by the class as their Commencement speaker on the evening of June 7.

Eight Morningside college students attended the 1946 Geneva student conferences at College camp, Lake Geneva, Wis., early in June.

Dr. E. E. Emme, head of the psychology department at Morningside for nine and one-half years and for the past three years dean of Dakota Wesleyan University at Mitchell, S. D., has resigned to accept an associate professorship in psychology at Bowling Green, O., State university, effective at the close of summer school.

SCHOLARSHIP FUND SET UP BY ARTHUR KILLAM

In honor of his late wife, Arthur S. Killam, 1522 S. Cornelia street, has established a $2,000 permanent endowment scholarship fund to aid physically handicapped students at Morningside college.

Interest from the fund, which will be known as the Jessie E. Killam memorial fund, should be sufficient to aid at least one student a year, Dr. Earl A. Roadman said. Beneficiaries will be selected by a committee including the college president, dean and admission committee members.

Mr. Killam, who died August 11, 1932, had been active most of her life in helping less fortunate persons, Mr. Killam said. She has enrolled in special classes at the college, specializing mainly in writing and literature. Seventy of her book reviews were printed in various publications.

Mr. Killam's father was a member of the first board of trustees of Morningside college 55 years ago.

Sorority Alumnae Reorganized

Reorganization of the Alpha Sigma sorority alumnae of Morningside college, which has been inactive the last eight years, took place at a 1 o'clock luncheon meeting at the Martin hotel, June 1, when officers were elected. Mrs. J. J. VanDenBrink (Lois Miller, '26) was acting chairman.

Student Body Officers Elected

Norman Mathers and Lamar Jones, both of Sioux City, were chosen student body presidents for the coming year in an election last week sponsored by the Student Council. Miss Mary Jane Conrad was elected vice president, and Miss Carolyn Wolle secretary-treasurer. The four officers will make up the cabinet of the Student Council.

Mathers, popular basketball star, and Jones, who is prominent in Tau Delt activities, presented similar platforms in their campaign speeches on Walkout Day, and promised to work together to make the Morningside social program reach and excel pre-war standards, and will serve one term.

Youth Caravan Training At Morningside

College students from all over the United States began to arrive at Morningside's dormitory Sunday, June 16, to take part in the Methodist Youth Caravan program. The program consists of training college students to aid in the work of churches in various parts of the country in groups of four, with adult counselors, for periods of one week each.

The students spend a period of ten days at a training center before beginning their travels, and Morningside has been selected as the center to train students who will work in the midwest this summer. It is expected that around 90 students will be on the campus for the training period, June 18-28.

Leaders who will be here for the training period include: Dr. Edward Staples, administrator of the center; Miss Margaret Orr, secretary, and Miss May Titus, instructor in world friendship and community service, all of the board of education of the Methodist church, Nashville, Tenn.; Mrs. J. W. Hadley, Madison, Kan., in charge of adult counselors; the Rev. John Lewis, Crookston, Minn., recreation; the Rev. Henry Teele, Hamburg, Ia., intermediates, and Miss Mary James of Chicago, publicity.

Honored for Atomic Bomb Services

Robert A. Lavender, ex '11, formerly of Rockwell City, Iowa, recently was presented the legion of merit for "outstanding service" as a patent officer of the atomic bomb project.

Rear Admiral Oswald S. Colclough, who presented the award to Robert, credited him with directing the processing, in record time, of thousands of patents for inventions and discoveries in development of the atomic bomb.

Robert's home now is in Washington, D. C.

DR. CLARENCE CRAIG IN SIOUX CITY

Dr. Clarence Tucker Craig, '15, prominent American theologian and professor at Oberlin graduate school of Theology in Oberlin, Ohio, spent Thursday, June 6, in Sioux City. He is the son of the late Dr. Alfred E. Craig, former president of Morningside College.

Dr. Craig delivered addresses on the newly revised standard version of the new testament before a luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club and an evening meeting in the First Presbyterian church arranged by the Sioux City Council of churches and sponsored by the International Council of Religious Education and Morningside College.

Dr. Craig is one of nine eminent Bible scholars who has worked on the translation of the New Revised-Standard Version of the New Testament. He was appointed to the committee in 1938 and has had large responsibility for the final editing of this newest of New Testament versions.

DR. CLARENCE TUCKER CRAIG

On March 1st he began a tour of the United States and Canada as educational representative, Revised Standard Version New Testament, for the International Council of Religious Education. This tour, which will last six months, is taking him across the country to ministers' meetings, meetings before students and faculties, conferences, assemblies, and public meetings, where he is introducing the new version in modernized language which is necessary for better understanding.

Dr. Craig said that modern translators of the Bible are seeking to make the testaments more understandable in terms of everyday language, not to change their meaning. Some persons read the Bible to awaken emotional reactions and holy associations of the cadences with a religious ritual are more important to them than intellectual understanding. He added that a modernized version of the old testament is being undertaken and probably will be completed in five years.

There are more persons, however, who believe that the word of God also is addressed to the minds of men, he asserted.

Dr. Craig who has been head of the Bible department of the Oberlin, O., institution 18 years was recently elected head of the new testament department of the divinity school of Yale university.

After graduating from Morningside in 1915, Clarence took Theology, and graduate study followed at Boston and Harvard in this country, and at Basel, Switzerland, and Berlin abroad. He served pastorates in Cincinnati, Ohio, and Brooklyn, New York. In 1928 he was called to the New Testament chair at the Oberlin Graduate School of Theology, made famous by the teaching of E. I. Baesworth.

In the field of the New Testament, he has published many scholarly articles and two new text books which the widely used, "The Beginning of Christianity" opened new paths as in an introduction in this field, and "The Study of the New Testament" provided lay teachers with a modern approach.

Lester Benz, '25 Progressive Editor

Open House was held at the new home of the Mitchell County Press and Osage News at Osage, Iowa, on May 31 and June 1. The editor and publisher is Lester G. Benz, '25, who came to Osage in October, 1944, and acquired sole ownership of the Press-News in July, 1945. The new home is one of the finest weekly newspaper plants to be found anywhere. It was designed with a view of providing ideal working conditions for both the office force and the mechanical staff. The arrangement of machinery and equipment was planned while the building was still in the blueprint stage, and latest developments of lighting, heating and ventilation were incorporated in construction of the building. Mr. and Mrs. Benz (Marguerite Held, '25) are to be congratulated on the fine project they have completed for the community of Osage.

The President Vacations

Dr. and Mrs. Roadman spent a ten-day vacation in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

The Roadmans visited their daughter, Mrs. Warren Youle, and family in Wellington, Kan., and their son, Dr. Charles Roadman and family in Greenville, Tex. They returned to Sioux City June 22.

Signs as Coach at Newell High

Former Morningside college star athlete, Francis Jones, '42, of Hinton, Iowa, has been named coach at the Newell, Ia., high school, it was announced by school officials.

Francis is well remembered by Hinton and Morningside basketball fans for his stellar playing at Morningside, where he earned three major letters and was chosen all-North Central guard in his senior year.

After three and one-half years of service he was discharged last December and returned to Morningside for postgraduate work. He also served as assistant at East high school, coaching the second string basketball team to an undefeated season.

At Newell, Francis will coach the basketball and baseball teams and also teach classes in history and physical education.

To Dedicate Hall in Memory of Dr. Mossman

North Hall, once magnificent landmark on the campus of Southwestern college at Winfield, Kansas, is to be completely remodeled at a cost of $100,000, and will be dedicated to the memory of the late Dr. Frank E. Mossman, for many years president of the college and will be known as Mossman Memorial Hall. Alumni and former students of the college are sponsoring the campaign for the Memorial Hall fund. Dr. Mossman, graduate of the class of '03, was president of Morningside from 1918-1931.

Mrs. Mossman spent Commencement week here as guest of Dean and Mrs. Graber. Miss Mereb Mossman, '26, member of the faculty of the Women's College of the University of North Carolina also made a short visit in the home of Dean and Mrs. Graber enroute to Spokane, Washington, where she will spend the summer with her sister, Mrs. Fredrick Shields (Benita Mossman, '29). Mrs. Mossman, too, plans to visit Benita this summer.

Thirty-Second Spectrometer

This article was taken from the June 17 issue of Newsweek and describes the machine invented by Dr. J. L. Saunderson, '35, son of former Coach and Mrs. J. M. Saunderson.

At the peak of military demand for magnesium alloys for aircraft parts, inspectors rejected one-sixth of the Dow Chemical Co's ingots because of composition errors of a few thousandths of one per cent. Even with the spectrograph, the quickest method of quantitative analysis, the liquid alloys changed composition so rapidly that within 30 minutes—the time required for the analysis—the findings were no longer accurate.

What Dr. J. L. Saunderson, chief of Dow's spectroscopy laboratory, needed was a device to control the composition of the molten metal so that it could be poured at precisely the right moment. He hit upon it last year with his "direct-reading spectrometer," an apparatus which assures accurate analysis of an alloy within 30 seconds.

Now in use at Dow, the new spectrometer, a modification of the slow and steady prism spectroscopy and spectrograph which depend on a spectrum with characteristic colored lines to show the elements present in a sample, reveals on a set of dials the percentage of the various elements in the metal studied. Light from a spark between two electrodes falls on a grating which acts as a prism. The identifying line from each element passes through a slit to an electron-multiplying phototube. Amplified 200,000 times, the current produces by each line charges a condenser to a voltage proportional to the amount of the element.

After twenty-five seconds, the machine stops the spark and the condensers discharge through amplifiers, thus operating small motors connected to calibrated dials. When the dial comes to rest, approximately five seconds later, the operator can read off the figures as easily as those on a cash register.

Dow officials claim that the new spectrometer is easier and cheaper to handle than the old machine. Instead of requiring a trained spectrographer with at least a year's experience, it can be operated by a high school graduate "trained in one day."

Kirkpatrick Swamped With Pleas for Teachers

Dr. Kirkpatrick paces the floor of the Teacher Placement bureau with a new problem these days. By April 15 the bureau had received requests for teachers to fill 1,056 vacancies in schools over the United States, and requests are still pouring in. Morningside's bureau has only 30 seniors to place.

When Dr. Kirkpatrick took over the bureau at Morningside college in 1936 he had 60 teachers to place and 300 vacancies reported.

Further evidence of the scarcity of teachers in 1946 is found in the fact that Dr. Kirkpatrick has received 400 more vacancies than he had in April of last year.

Commencement Visitors

Alumni from far and near who returned for commencement activities, seemed to enjoy every minute spent on the campus.

Whether it was the relaxed tension of a peaceful commencement after the war-time years or whether it was the happiness friends and faculty experienced in welcoming back four such distinguished alumni as those chosen to receive degrees, that former Morningsiders who returned found usually enjoyable the friendly atmosphere on the campus.

Among these visitors from out-of-town were:

Barrett Dolliver, '12, farming at Kimball S. D.

Rep. James I. Dolliver, '15, and son James, Jr., Washington, D. C.

Marie Wood Green, '13, Seward, Alaska.

Mildred Pecaut, '18, Yakima, Wash.

Mr. ('14) and Mrs. C. Lee Barks (Leone Lange, '19), Orange City, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Te Paske (Forest Mosier, '26), Orange City, Iowa.

E. M. Everhart, '06, Rock Valley, Iowa.

Mr. ('05) and Mrs. Cyrus Gilbert (Bessie Carr, '02), Seattle, Wash.

Frances Kolp Gingles, '18, Onawa, Iowa.

Rev. ('16) and Mrs. F. Earl Burgess (Mabel Irwin, '15), Algona, Iowa.

Mrs. C. C. Jones (Elsie Johnson, '15), Des Moines, Iowa.

Rev. and Mrs. John Madison (Anna Beard, '16), Sioux Falls, S. D.

Mrs. Frank E. Mossman, Winfield, Kan.

Pearl Woodford Buchner, '03, Chicago, Ill.

Mr. ('29) and Mrs. Philip Thornton (Ruth Miller, '31), Storm Lake, Iowa.

Anna Jensen Jordon, '31, Sutherland, Iowa.

Jocelyn Carter, '13, and Ada Carter, '20, Whiting, Iowa.

Mr. (ex '45) and Mrs. Floyd Wilson (Earlene Schenck, ex '47), Farnhamville, Iowa.

Clark I. Scott, '24, Freeport, New York.

Gladys Horn Hill, '16, and two daughters, from Malaga, Washington.

Later visitors this month have been Ted Whicher, ex '46, from Iowa City; Mabel Hartley Zwald, '26, Goldfield, Iowa; Dorcas Knapp, ex '46, Westfield, Iowa; Vera Wang, '44, from Ann Arbor, Mich., on her way to San Francisco for the summer; Clarice Lane, ex '45, from Hornick, Iris Knight ex '21, from Rochester, Minn.

Alpha Tau Delta

Because of the large enrollment the Tau Deltas are remaining active throughout the summer months. Plans are in formation for several picnics, parties, and a camping expedition to Lake Okoboji shortly following the termination of school activities.

Social chairman in charge of summer festivities is Tom Breen. He is aided by Vice-President Douglas Hempstead, Secretary Dick Bean, and Past President Don Leopold.

The fraternity will begin its pledging activities as soon as the fall term commences.

Awarded Alumni Scholarships

The three June graduates of Sioux City high schools to receive alumni scholarships are (left to right): Mildred Hoar of East, Eugene Bradstreet of Leeds, and Susan Fosnaugh of Central. These scholarships are sponsored by the Alumni Association in recognition of outstanding seniors in Sioux City high schools.

The selection of the graduate to receive the award was made by the faculty of each school on the basis of citizenship and probable success as well as scholarship, and was presented at the high school commencement program. The scholarships, funds for which are provided by Living Endowment and other alumni contributions, pay $100 tuition a year for a four-year period.

Deaths

Funeral services were held in the Methodist church at Manson, Iowa, on Tuesday April 23, for Mrs. Mary Van Horne, mother of Prof. Van Horne. Although 93 years of age, Mrs. Van Horne was in good health until she suffered a fractured hip on March 23 and passed away on April 19 at Cando,
N. D., where her daughter, Sara A. Harding, ex '05, resides.

Many friends of Prof. and Mrs. Van Horne had become acquainted with his mother during her extended visits here in the Van Horne home and enjoyed hearing her tell interesting tales of her early experiences after her family came from Pennsylvania to Illinois in 1855 and later to Iowa, where they settled near Manson.

Besides Prof. Van Horne and Mrs. Harding, there are two sons surviving: Clarence
E. Van Horne, '00, of Washington, D. C., and Don Van Horne, '18, of Tucson, Arizona.

Morningsiders in Print

"Cities Are Abnormal," a new book which is receiving high praise from critics, has as the author of one of its chapters Henry L.
Kamphoefner, ex '28, former Sioux Cityan who is professor of architecture at the University of Oklahoma. Prof. Kamphoefner was the architect for the bandshell at Grandview park.

The book, a symposium embracing the work of twelve writers, makes an appraisal of the highly centralized cities of today from the aspects of the sociologist, biologist, business economist, humanitarian, spiritual leader, medical authority, architect, and others.

In this volume Mr. Kamphoefner appears among such prominent persons as Louis
Bromfield, author and playwright; Ladd
Hayden of Fortune magazine; Dr. Jonathan Forman, editor of the Ohio State Medical Journal; S. C. McConahey, student of rural-urban relationships; Paul B. Sears, one of the nation's outstanding botanists; Warren S. Thompson, director of the Scripps
Foundation for Research in Population Problems, and Paul L. Vogt, senior social scientist of the United States department of agriculture.

CLASS NOTES

Melva Tiemens, '45, writes that she is now employed by the Board of Missions of the Methodist church in Utica, New York. Her work is in an Italian settlement in the slum district. She has an abundance of fine material to work with and finds the Italian people most interesting. This fall she will supervise classes in cooking, sewing, crafts, music and dramatics when the fall program begins. Melva attended a recreation conference at Ocean City, New Jersey, in preparation for her work.

Anna Zenkovich, '41, who was a parachute rigger in the Waves during the war, is employed as a Senior Claims Deputy in the office of the Employment Security Commission of Arizona, where thousands of claims for unemployment compensation and veteran's readjustment allowances are handled. Ann lives at 1309 E. Weldon in Phoenix.

Vivian E. Peden, ex '44, is still in the Waves and stationed at San Diego, Cal. She will be discharged from service in July.

Ensign Gordon Fromknecht, ex '46, is on the U. S. S. Gordius (ARL-36), F. P. O., Norfolk, Va.

Dr. George Scott, ex '33, who spent four and one-half years in service, has opened a clinic in Tishomingo, Oklahoma.

F. Jean Fowler Dennery, '40, is planning to enter Southern Methodist University this fall for special work in accounting and auditing. Jean spent 14 months in service and she and her small daughter have been living in Fort Dodge since her discharge.

The Des Moines Register for Sunday, June 9, carried a picture of Mrs. Warren LeRoy (Hallene Miller, ex '47) and her daughter, Louise, taken in the A. R. C. lounge, Bremerhaven, Germany, as they were awaiting their reunion with Lt. Comm. LeRoy, who had sent for his family.

Mr. (ex '45) and Mrs. R. Dale Jackson (Ellen Westergaard, '45) are in Iowa City this summer, where Dale has enrolled in the commerce department.

Mrs. William Van Schreeven (Opal Van Dyke, '31) and daughter, Nancy, of Richmond, Va., have been making an extended visit in Sioux City with Opal's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Van Dyke, and also with Mr. Van Schreeven's parents.

Mrs. George Vernon Green (Marie Wood, '13) of Seward, Alaska, who spent Commencement week in Morningside, has the distinction of being the alumna from the greatest distance attending commencement activities. Marie was en route to Philadelphia, where she will attend national Red Cross convention as the only representative from Alaska. Mr. Green is superintendent of the Jesse Lee home for native Alaskan children in Seward. Three of the Green children are living in Sioux City: Bob, '43, who is assistant in the physics lab since his discharge from service; George Vernon, Jr., ex '42, and Mrs. Walter Spade (La Vancha, ex '37).

John Woodson, ex '46, a student at West Point military academy, spent his vacation with his parents in Sioux City.

Mrs. Martin Fischer, wife of Martin Fischer, '37, and a graduate of the Juilliard School of Music, was soprano soloist at the second concert by Monahan Post band in the Grandview Park bandshell on Sunday evening, June 9. Martin, a former member of the Sioux City Symphony orchestra, and his wife are visiting in the home of his parents.

An interesting article concerning the work of W. H. Upton, '28, of McPherson, Kansas, was sent in to the Alumni office by former Prof. Mendal Miller, now president of Central Junior College in McPherson. "Following their return from the General Council at Grinnell, Iowa, in mid-June, Mr. and Mrs. Upton and Robert Wesley will depart for Denver, Colorado, for the summer. During the past summers the church has graciously extended the vacation period that Mr. Upton could continue his graduate studies at the University of Denver and the Iliff School of Theology. Since coming to McPherson, he has been pursuing research work in the field of philosophy of religion. He has met the language requirements in French and German and the residence requirements in his chosen field. He is now completing his doctoral thesis, of approximately 25,000 words. He has just received word that he has been admitted to candidacy and pending the oral examination to be held on July 26, he will be graduated on August 7 with the degree of Doctor of Theology."

Gus Lease, '45, received a master of music degree from the University of Colorado in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Heilman (Flo Clark) both '08, of Anoka, Minn., visited relatives and friends in Morningside recently.

The Sioux City Sunday Journal for May 19 carried a picture of Herrold Asmussen, '35, Central high school biology teacher, holding a 3 ft. 4 in. rattler which he killed in Stone Park while on a trip through the park with his class.

Mr. ('29) and Mrs. Merwin Zwald (Mabel Hartley '26) have moved to Goldfield, Iowa, where Merwin will be superintendent of schools the coming year.

Lt. William E. Bush, ex '46, was recently promoted to first lieutenant. He is assistant public relations officer at McCord field, Wash.

Miss Evelyn Madsen, '45, was awarded a fellowship at Radcliffe college, Cambridge, Mass., at recent commencement exercises. The fellowship was awarded for a special 10 month course in management training and she will begin her graduate course in July. While in college and during the past year Evelyn has been acting as secretary for Dr. Roadman.

Ted Hoffman, '31, is secretary of the Detroit Red Cross. The Hoffmans reside at 8440 Herman Gardens Mall, in Detroit

College Takes Over Barracks

Remodeling and reconditioning of eight barracks buildings at the Sioux City army air base into homes for veterans attending Morningside college will begin soon. Mr. R. J. Sweet, business manager, as representative of the college has signed documents which will inaugurate the processing of the college's request to the federal housing administration.

The plan, financed by the government under the Lanham act, will provide living quarters for 64 families of student veterans. The buildings are 30 feet by 90 feet and each will house eight families. The remodeling and reconditioning will be done under uniform plans adopted by the housing administration in use in other sections of the country.

The rental set by the housing administration will be determined by the amount of government money the student is receiving and the number of dependents in the family. In no case, however, will the rental exceed 25 per cent of total allowance from the government for educational purposes.

More than 11,000 student veterans have been furnished housing throughout the nation by conversion of army buildings, it was stated.
